DIVINE HEALER MAKES BIG HIT AMONG NATIVES

Rheumatism Appears to be the Most Popular Malady--Miracle Stories Outrival Fish Stories.

MANY NEWCOMERS

CREDITON, Ont., May 20.—(Special.)—Rheumatism seemed to be the predominating malady among those who were waiting around in the rain yesterday for the purpose of receiving treatment at the hands of the divine healer, who seems now to be outrivalling airplanes as the modern wonder for topical conversation, whose bungalow has overshadowed the seats outside the only hotel here as an evening gathering place, and who has turned the hitherto tranquil village of Crediton into a modely of people and miracle stories.

The weather has not dampened the ardor or a goodly number of people, some newcomers, others returning for the completion or continuance of their course of treatment.

Now that the newspapers have got hold of the seemingly increditable stories of his healings, the people in the surrounding countryside are even more anxious to give him a trial and alleviating them of some of their troubles, presumably for the recognized fee of one dollar for treatment.

Most of the sceptics, who were wont a few weeks ago to stand around the front porch in the evenings with a sarcastic smile lurking at the corners of their mouth, shaking their head the meanwhile, have remembered in the interim some little complaint that worried them at times and going in to see the healer in a shamefacedly way, are now in their turn looking upon the unbelievers with derision, and shrugging their shoulders in a kind of "he cured me" manner.

A GOOD CONCERT AT ST. GEORGE'S

Rev. W. R. Courage Occupied the Chair—The Program.

The concert held last night in the basement of St. George's Church, South Peterborough, was a decided success. Quite a number attended, despite the cheerless drizzle which prevailed outside.

Rev. W. R. Courage proved a capable chairman. After the chairman's remarks, the opening number was a pianoforte solo by Mr. Alex. Seager, which was highly appreciated, judging by the enthusiastic manner in which he was encored.

Master Gatfield proved a capable violinist, and responded to the call for an encore with another lively number.

A comic song was rendered by Mr. W. H. Thomas, in which he started out by asking for applause, and finished up by leading the audience through the chorus of his song, "Every Cloud has a Silver Lining."

Mr. C. Coleman sang "Hold Your Hand Out, You Naughty Boy," in his usual inimitable manner.

Mrs. Scholey's clear, high soprano was heard to good advantage in a dainty number, and she responded to an encore with that pathetic melody, "Just a-Wearyin' For You," which was well received.

Quite a feature of the evening was a dialogue, enacted by four of the choir girls, entitled "The Society For the Purpose of Doing Good."

The aim of this society was to sew for the poor, but being composed of old maids and widows, it was quite natural that they should keep their eyes open for a beau at the same time. Miss Huxley — as "Jemima Jenkins" — had written some "poetry" which she was anxious to read to the society members, but, as she said, she felt rather delicate about doing so if anyone objected. After she had read it, she declared that she was quite a "poetater."

Those taking part were: "Miss Marigold," old maid, Ida Parks; "Jemima Jenkins," old maid, Miss M. Huxley; "Mrs. Raymond," widow, Ivy Williams; "Susana Riddle," widow, Margaret Andrews.

Others who helped to make the evening a success were: Master Ashton Fife, recitation; instrumental duet, Messrs. Breadman and Gibson; Elsie Breadman, piano solo; recitation, Percy Luther; song, Nellie Yarrington; piano solo, Linda Blowers; song, Mabel Scott; recitation, Gladys Jay; song, Mr. Gatfield. Mr. Alex. Seager, Miss Gatfield, and Miss G. Jay acted as accompanists.

AGREEMENT REACHED BETWEEN FACTIONS

DUBLIN, May 20. — (Canadian Press.)— Strong rumors were current here this afternoon that an agreement had been reached between Michael Collins, head of the Provisional government and Etton De Valer's Republican leader. The rumors began circulating when at 3:55 o'clock this afternoon the Dail Eireann had not yet resumed its sessions.

10 Years Kingston Penitentiary For Dr. Milburn Kemp

TORONTO, May 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Dr. Milburn Kemp, found guilty of performing an illegal operation, was sentenced to ten years in penitentiary to-day by Mr. Justice Riddell. John Armstrong, charged with conspiracy by procuring the commission of crime received ten years in penitentiary, and Gordon Kemp, also charged with conspiracy, was given five years.

INDIANS APPEAL FOR FRANCHISE

Urge the Removal of Disabilities and Restrictions Now Imposed in That British Dominion.

EMPIRE'S FRIENDS.

DELHI, India, May 20.—(Associated Press.)—Members of the Indian legislature and delegates from South Africa have apealed to Lord Reading, the Viceroy, to induce the government of the Union of South Africa to remove the disabilities and restrictions that are imposed upon Indians in that British dominion.

The deputation was led by Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy and included delegates from South Africa as well as members of the Indian legislature. It represented to Lord Reading the present situation of Indians in South Africa, and urged him to make strong representation to the Union Government of South Africa in order to secure for Indians equal rights of citizenship.

In reply to the address presented to him by the delegation, the Viceroy announced that the government of India was in communication with the Union government and had firmly and vigorously championed the Indian cause.

He stated also that the government was determined to do everything within its power to forward the reasonable claims of Indians domiciled in self-governing dominions, but added that they must respect the principle of non-interference in the domestic affairs of these dominions, and that any interference with this principle would not be conducive to the good of the Indian community.

The deputation, in its address, stated that it had no complaint to make reagrding the treatment of Indians in the Cape Province, where they have the political franchise, and the right to own immovable property, as well as to acquire land and to reside where they choose in the province.

But in Natal, the address pointed out, there is no political franchise for the Indians. It is claimed that here Europeans have continually attempted to impose racial restrictions on them which the Indians have been helpless to prevent. This discrimination has been especially resented in the matter of trading licenses and municipal by-laws.

In the Transvaal, the deputation stated, Indians are confronted with still greater disabilities. They have neither political nor municipal franchise nor the right to hold landed property. The address concluded:

"It is hoped that the government will do its utmost to urge on the Union government that it should satisfactorily settle once and for all the Indan question in South Africa. It has been a vastly disturbing factor in South Africa and also in the domestic politics of India itself. A correct solution of this problem will make Indians in South Africa and the millions of their fellow countrymen in India the best friends of the empire."

SAY FRANCE MUST HAVE REPARATIONS

PARIS, May 20. — (Canadian Press).—France, declared Premier Poincaire to-day, will endeavor to come to an understanding with the Allies regarding action to be taken against Germany if she defaults in the payment of her reparations. But if France is unable to secure an agreement she will insist on her right to act separately. The Premier said such action would be taken under those clauses of the Treaty of Versailles which give the Allies, in case of default by Germany, power to take measures such as economic and financial prohibitions and reprisals, "and in general such other measures," the treaty adds, as respective Governments made determine to be necessary in the circumstances.

THE OLD LAW OF SUPPLY AND DEMAND IN REGARD TO TEA.

The supply of tea in the world today is very much less than the constantly increasing demand. The recent reduction of four pence per pound of the duty on tea entering England, which is by far the largest tea consuming country in the world, has had a decidedly stimulating effect on consumption. It is expected that this further demand will force the price of tea still higher.

COUNTY ANTRIM IN CONTROL OF THE SINN FEIN

WORLD NEWS

DUBLIN, May 20. — (Canadian Press.)—Despatches froh Northern Ireland are to the effect that Sinn Fein forces have captured the police barracks at Glenarm, Martinsdown, Carntough and Cussindall, all in County Antrim.

NUMBER OF DEATHS.

BELFAST, May 20.— (Canadian Press.) — Reports of a number of deaths in yesterday's shootings throughout the city vary from five to eight, while more than a dozen persons were wounded. Three men who were shot upon avowing themselves Protestants died during the night.

Murder gangs were astir early this morning. Two armed men entered the saw mills in York street and shot dead John Connelly, a Catholic, apparently in reprisal for the shooting of a Protestant yesterday.

Shanes Castle, County Antrim, the home of Lord O'Neill, whose son is Speaker of the Ulster House of Commons, was burned this morning. Lord O'Neill, who is eighty-three years old, and Lady O'Neill, were rescued by neighbors.

NOTEWORTHY RECEPTION.

LONDON, May 20.— (Canadian Press.)— There is every prospect that the public welcome organized for Premier Lloyd George on his arriving from Genoa to-night will be noteworthy. It will, however, apparently be partisan and not a national welcome. To-day's editorials on the break-up of the conference are significant as bearing upon the Premier's position. On one hand he is criticized for his conduct at Genoa and on the other he is eulogized for his courage and resourcefulness in the face of immense difficulties.

PASSED THROUGH PARIS.

DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE ILL.

LONDON, May 20.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—The Duchess of Devonshire, wife of a former Governor-General of Canada, is suffering from a severe attack of measles.

RESTORE TO GERMANY WAR SEIZED PROPERTY.

LONDON, May 20.— (Canadian Press.)—Italy has agreed to restore to Germany for 800,000,000 lire, all German property in Italy seized during the war, except some which already has been converted for public utility, says a despatch to the Times from Rome. Germany is to pay the money in instalments. The agreement will be signed in a day or two.

BUFFALO, May 20.— (Canadian Press.)—Twelve par-mutual operators on their way from the Maryland tracks to the Woodbine, Toronto, were turned back at the border today by Canadian immigration officials. The officers told them many men were out of work in the Dominion, and that they must be cared for first.

REV. WALLACE FOR EDITOR.

MONTREAL, May 20.— (Canadian Press.)—Rev. Dr. O. C. S. Wallace, formerly Chancellor of McMaster University, Toronto, may be the new Editor of the Canadian Baptist in succession to the late Rev. Dr. W. K. Mackay. A year ago Mr. Wallace resigned his Westmount pastorate to accept a call to the Entah Place Baptist church, Baltimore. A meeting of Baptist leaders in Toronto a few days ago decided to approach Dr. Wallace, and if possible secure him as editor of the denominational paper.

City Quiet After The Lynching Bee

TEXARKANA, Texas, May 20.—(Canadian Press.)—This city is quiet to-day following the lynching last night of Huff Owens, a negro, by a mob, who took him from the county jail of Arkansas side. Owens, who was arrested on a charge of theft, killed a policeman yesterday when attempting to escape. The mob dragged him to the heart of the city, wher he was riddled with bullets.

TORONTO LOSES ONE HER OLDEST CITIZENS

TORONTO, May 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Toronto lost one of her oldest citizens this morning, when Dr. Charles Wm. Buchanan passed away. He was born in Brockville eighty-three years ago in the home of his distinguished uncle, Ogle R. Cowan, founder of the Orange Order in Canada.

Lady Astor Talked to Audience Of "Tom" of Peterboro She Nursed

In Convocation Hall, Toronto, Lady Astor told of a boy named Tom of Peterborough, whose letters she used to write.

Tom was so badly wounded in the late war that the doctors had to get down beneath his bed to operate upon his back.

But the tone of all his letters was: "Dear Mother—I am doing well and feeling fine. Your loving son, Tom."

But one day, when another nurse offered to write home for Tom, he indignantly replied: "Lady Astor is my secretary."

It was then that I learned what greatness there is in men, said Lady Astor. If we women could live as those men died, and carry on where they left off, there would be no more wars.

WORKLESS SOLDIERS MARCH ON OTTAWA

Peterborough Men Not to Join the Ranks of the Veterans—Leader Marches at Head of the Column.

MEN DETERMINED

WEST HILL, May 20.—(Special). — The unemployed soldiers are marching. A contingent of veterans, six hundred strong, are on their way to Ottawa to demand work, or $1 per day a service bonus, and a more adequate system of re-establishment for ex-service men.

They arrived here last night, the glare of determination in their eyes, and camped for the night in the Nichol House. About 9.30 this morning they broke camp and renewed their march for the capital.

Like Coxey's army, the battalion of workless men increases every ten miles. Men are joining the ranks all along the road, and the leader predicts that 15,000 men will eventually invade Ottawa. Wires have been received all along the line from various points, Peterborough, Kingston, Oshawa and Belleville, and men from these cities will swell the ranks of the little army as the march progresses.

Brantford is sending a belated detachment across country.

At 2.30 yesterday afternoon the men were mobilized and moved off from Queen's Park, and last night they reached West Hill at 8 o'clock, a tramp of about 14 miles. At first the number at Queen's Park was between 1,700 and 2,000, but when the men were lined up in marching order in column of route the disinterested ones stepped aside. Then it was found that the marching army consisted of about 600 men. Whatever their other failings, they certainly lacked nothing in courage in their attempt at the 256-mile trek.

The march was conducted along military lines, with the same rigid discipline that marks army movements. There were five companies, each with its captain and quota of sergeants and corporals. These were responsible for the behaviour of their subordinates. Ernest C. Macdonald, the organizer of the narade, and the originator of the idea of taking Ottawa by storm, is the commander-in-chief, and marches at the head of the army.

A squad of mounted policemen were detailed by Chief of Police Dickson, Toronto, to escort the men to the outskirts of the city, and they carried on to the last yard of city territory, and were given a rousing cheer by the workless when they parted company at the city limits.

Local officers of the G.W.V.A. are not interested in the march of the workless army to Ottawa. They doubt the Toronto report that Peterborough will be represented in the contingent. "I don't think you will see any of our fellows there," was the way one member of the local branch put it.

THIRD READING OF RAILWAY BILL.

OTTAWA, May 20. — Canadian Press. — The bill extending the time in which the Canadian Pacific Railway Company may commence the construction of certain branch lines in Saskatchewan and Alberta, by two years, with permission to complete the lines within five years, was given its third reading in the Commons last evening. The act to incorporate the Sisters of Saint Mary of Namur was also given its third reading.

EIGHTEEN SENTENCED.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 20. — Imprisonment in the Penitentiary was to-day ordered by Mr. Justice Murphy for 18 prisoners convicted at the spring assizes here, while in the case of three others sentence was suspended. The heaviest sentence was seven years handed out to Hoy Ching for having $15,000 worth of cocaine in his possession. Two prisoners convicted of robbery with violence were sentenced to five years and 20 lashes each, and a third to two years and five lashes for a similar offence.

BOATS WANTED FOR TRENT ROUTE

Numerous Enquiries Here From Many Prospective Summer Visitors.

Numerous enquiries regarding the Trent waterway continue to find a harbor at the headquarters of the Trent Waterway Development Association in the Chamber of Commerce here.

As there are many requests for the securing of boats here for parties who are coming this summer, the work of the secretary would be much faciliated if persons having craft they are desirous of renting would notify him, with full particulars of their size, etc.

An American at Kent, Ohio, is anxious to rent for three weeks a 28-foot motor boat, to be in readiness for cruising out of this city.

Lieut.-Commander C. McCauley, of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland, has written an interesting letter asking for information, and full particulars will be sent him regarding the cruising possibilities in the Trent Waterway.

J. H. Grant, of Ottawa, has requested charts and information.

During the next few weeks a busy time is anticipated answering the enquiries that will pour in as the season for motor boating draws near.

YARD RAKINGS ARE THROWN IN LANES

Sanitary Inspector Issues Warning That This Thoughtless Practice Must Cease

The spring clean up in some residential district from which garbage is collected in lanes has developed a practice which Sanitary Inspector Stapleton declares must cease. Some residents after cleaning up their back yard plots conveniently throw the collected refuse over the fence into the lane, apparently under the impression that some person will come along and clean up the lanes. They're making a big mistake right there, says the Inspector. The garbage collectors won't clean up the lanes. It isn't their duty to begin with. Yard rakings should be set out in the lanes in the regular way to be taken up by the garbage men, and where lanes have been made untidy, residents are requested to clean up the section at the rear of their lots. Mr. Stapleton said that thoughtlessness on the part of some citizens was the explanation of this practice, and that a reminder would be sufficent to correct the condition which has been complained of.

CIGARS TAXED TO EXTINCTION SAYS A MURTY

Local Manufacturer Once Employed Six Men to Roll Cigars—Quality is Getting Worse.

IN THE OLD DAYS.

Taxation and prohibition have ruined the cigar business. This sweeping statement was made to the Examiner by Anthony Murty, cigar manufacturer, who once employed six men rolling Havanas and stogies at his establishment, 172 1-2 Hunter street. The business has fallen upon evil days, according to the veteran manufacturer, and now he turns out his well known make in the factory whence all but he has departed.

The tax on cigars in the palmy days before the war used only to be $7.00 or $8.00 a thousand, including duty and excise. Since the European foment the duty and taxes have been steadily shoved up, until to-day the total is from $16 to $20, depending on the size. The average, Mr. Murty said, would be about $18 on a thousand, which amounts to nearly two cents on each smoke. For all purposes the makers figure a tax of two cents, he said. "The high cost of cigars and tobacco is due to the taxation," said Mr. Murty.

Mr. Murty said the government should investigate the business and see what the manufacturers were up against. "If they'd study the figures they'd see they are no farther ahead for all the taxes, for there isn't the turnover. In the old days the taxes were lighter, but there were so many more sold that the revenue was greater. This business is being taxed and excised to death," he declared as he rolled and trimmed up a pile of stout cigars.

Quality Worse.

The quality of the smokes is deteriorating as a result of makers substituting Canadian leaf for imported to keep down costs, he said. The product is a low-grade smoke that would make the smoker of a year ago think he was the butt on a practical joke.

Where 5 cigars were smoked before the war and before the O.T.A., there are not two go up in smoke now. Anti-smoking leagues would raise a cheer if they heard what Mr. Murty said about the way the cigar has fallen into disuse. The cigarette and pipe is the popular way to dish up Madame Nicotine. Mr. Murty was not allowed to escape from his early staement that prohibition had a lot to do with the blight on the cigar business, and he explained it like this: "In the open bars they used to do a lot of treating, sociability prevailed and so on, and instead of taking drinks a good many took cigars. That accounts for the falling off. There wasn't half as much drinking went on as is made out." So, after all, it is the cigar maker who is feeling the pinch of dry laws.

No One Wanted Ancient Hack

Erstwhile Symbol of Elegance Went Begging for Buyers on Auction Block.

A pathetic remmant of departed glory was offered for sale at auction on the market this morning by Fred Bullied when he called for bids on a hack from the livery of Richard Alfred of Lakefield. Some of the bystanders estimated its original cost at perhaps $1,000 possibly $1,200, but the first from the auctioneer's audience was a miserable ten dollars, afterwards raised to fifteen but beyond that figure only silence from the crowd. No one wanted the ancient hack, a vehicular anachronism in these days of luxurious limousines. It simply went begging for a buyer. Mr. Bullied saving it from the indignity of passing into otner hands for a mere fifteen dollars. Some of the younger folk weren't sure what the big cab actually was. They had dim recollections of having seen glorified wagons of that kind in wild west movies, or in an almost forgotten political parade, but they had to look it over several times to be certain of its identity. Any one of the wheels was worth more than fifteen dollars, rubber tired and lacquered and varnished. At least they were worth more than that when hackcabs were the vogue in transport fashions. But as the slangy comic strip says "them day is gone forever"; so have cabs and their leisurely ostentation and perhaps gentility gone with them. This morning there was none so poor to do it justice, and it was rolled off the auction block while Mr. Bullied turned to real estate and a strange assortment of odds and ends that looked like the debris of some housekeeper's spring rampage from cellar to garret.

Resolution Asks For Higher Wage

LONDON, May 20.— (Special.) A resolution calling upon the Farmer-Labor Government of Ontario to be consistent in the minimum wage rating and protesting against the low wages paid on the Provincial highways was passed at a meeting of the London Labor party held in the Labor Temple last evening.

"The road construction gangs working east of London are not making a living wage," said Delegate Tite. "The minimum wage for telephone girls is $12 a week. Most of them are single. The Government is only paying married men who have families to support 40c. an hour."

BUILDING HERE IS INCREASING

Permits For May So Far Represent Expenditure of $38,680.

When the Western Clock Company take out the building permit for their factory in East City, that will send the total estimate building costs for May far above the April figures, which were just under $100,000. MICHIGAN NAVY TO BE ENLARGED

DETROIT, May 20.—(Canadian Press.) — Michigan's "prohibition navy," recently put into operation on the Detroit river, consists of two speed boats capable of 38 miles an hour. They are manned by State police armed with rifles, machine guns and tea gas. Plans call for a fleet of eight speed boats by mid-summer. The State of Michigan is co-operating with Federal and local police in the campaign against liquor running from Canada.

COLLECT AT WOODBINE TODAY TAX ON WAGERS

TORONTO, May 20.—(Canadian Press.)—New Provincial tax of five per cent. on race track wager bill to be collected at the Woodbine here to-day, and the money paid into court to be held until a final decision is given on the issue of the legality of the Taxation Act, which came into force Thursday.

This is the net effect of the judgment of Justice Middleton to-day on application of the Jockey Club to restrain collection of the tax.

VALUABLE PICTURES SOLD

London, aMy 20. Canadian Press. —The pictures owned by the late Lord Mountstephen, who was one of the builders of the C. P.R. and long a resident of Canada, were auctioned yesterday at Christie's. The sale totalled 7683 guineas. A small picture by Carot fetched 3000 guineas; Josef Israel's "Pancake Day," 950 guineas, a work by Munckacy, 300 guineas, one by Stark, 390, an Adolf Schreyer 260, and Frith's "Claude Duval," 395 guineas. None of the lots was of Canadian domestic interest.

LUSH RHUBARB PROMINENT ON MARKET TODAY

EGGS SOLD AT 26c.

The farmers' market was well patronized this morning, and there were quantities of butter and eggs available on every side of the basket section. Butter ranged from 35 to 42 cents per pound, one lady having an attractive basket arranged with pieces of ice around the golden prints, and eggs were going anywhere from 26 to 30 cents per dozen

On the open market, there were plenty of potatoes, by the measure and by the bag, the latter from $1.40 to $1.50. Rubarb seemed to be the favorite in garden produce, stacks of neatly-tied bunches piling up several carts. Tomato and cauliflower plants were selling for 20 cents apiece, there were peas at 20 cents a quart, sids of pork at 20 cents a pound, with veal at 12 cents, and the fish-man was doing a flourishing trade in the meaty-loking cat fish, with kippered herrngs and fillets on the side. Several loads of hay were visible, at the prevailing price of $30.

MRS. A. W. CRESSMAN LADY BOUNTIFUL

Gives First Donation to Help Buy Lacrosse Sticks For Public School Boys

A letter from Mrs. A. W. Cressman closing a five dollar bill was the first response to Walter Smaill's appeal for a small fund with which to buy several dozen lacrosse sticks for public school boys who wish to play in the league, that is being established but whose fathers cannot afford to give them money for the sticks they want. This contribution is an encouragement that the fund will be quickly raised. On mentioning this receipt to Mr. R. H. Turner, Mr. Smaill was given a two dollar bill. In the proposed purchase of sticks the price arranged through Mr. L. Lebarr is actual cost. No one is making a cent of profit on these sales.

It is understood that Mr. Walter Oke is interesting the lawn bowlers and some others in the public school lacrosse league which should soon be an accomplished fact. Mr. Smaill is particularly anxious that some of the younger boys who have been spectators only because they hadn't the money to buy sticks should get chance to learn the game.

A lot of them were out this morning, but on account of the drizzle it was decided not to play.

WORE DECORATIONS.

TORONTO, May. 19 (Canadian Press). — Behind two British flags and the banner, "After Justice, After Capital," fifteen hundred veterans—including a number of Hamilton men who arrived in the city on Thursday night by motor truck—started from Queen's Park yesterday afternoon with the avowed intention of marching the 256 miles to Ottawa in order to ask relief from Premier King and his Cabinet for themselves and other returned men who are out of employment.

The battalion of the unemployed veterans gathered at the main bandstand behind the Parliament Buildings shortely after 1.30 yesterday afternoon and had a motor transport of three trucks to look after the commissariat and carry some eighteen amputation and lame men who decided to accompany their comrades despite the handicap of amputations and injuries.

Military precision was displayed in the way in which the men formed up under the command of John McDonald, elected company commanders, and sergeants.

Wore Decorations.

Equipped as well as their means would permit for the long trek, the men, though in civilian clothing, showed that marching was not a new thing for them as they swung in column and proceeded through the park to College Street.

Many of the men wore decorations and the great majority had the little bronze badge denoting service overseas.

The route of march through the city was varied from the programme, the men proceding to Yonge Street, down Yonge to Queen Streets, and thence easterly past the Woodbine and north-easterly on the Kingston Road.

As the veterans proceeded through the city their ranks were augmented by men who resided in the east-end and who with their families waited for the parade to reach them. Touching farewells, almost as though the march were to another war, were witnessed as stalwarts kissed their wives and little ones good-bye before grabbing their blanket rolls and swinging into the increasing column.

FORMER MAYOR OF COBOURG DIES.

Charles Arthur Munson Was Also Member of Parliament For West Northumberland.

OTTAWA, May 20.—(Canadian Press).—Charles Arthur Munson, formerly Conservative member of Parliament for West Northumberland, died yesterday at his home at Cobourg. From 1911 till the present Government came into power the late Mr. Munson represented West Northumberland in the Federal Parliament. He first contested the seat in 1908 but was defeated. The next time he entered the Federal Contest in 1911 he was successful and was re-elected in the general election of 1917. From 1907 to 1908 he was Mayor of Cobourg.

The late Mr. Munson was born at Cobourg on January 14, 1857 and lived here his whole life. The funeral service will be held at three o'clock Sunday afternoon. Interment wil be made at Cobourg.

LADY ASTOR WAS GUEST OF WOMEN.

Women's Organizations of Montreal Tender Reception to Lord and Lady Astor.

MONTREAL, May 20.—(Canadian Press).—Leading women's organizations in this city greeted Lady Astor when she arrived here last night. She made a brief speech at a gathering arranged in her honor at the Windsor, before leaving for New York. Lady Astor was accompanied by Lord Astor. Proceedings opened with a short address of welcome of Mrs. Walter E. Lyman as President of the Provincial Suffrage Committee. Mrs. Pierre Casgrain moved a vote of thanks to Lady Astor and voiced the feeling of the French speaking women of Montreal.

HE MARRIED THE GIRL ON FOUR DAYS' ACQUAINTANCE

TORONTO, May 20.—(Canadian Press.) — George Miller, assistant stage manager of the "And Very Nice Too" Company, playing here, was arrested last night on a vagrancy charge following a complaint of Arthur Budd, proprietor of the Arlington Hotel, that his sixteen year old daughter, Thelma, was missing. According to the police, Mrs. Budd learned from the bell-boy that Miller had married Thelma last Thursday, although he had met the girl for the first time Monday last. Miller is being held pending inquiries, and the girl is with her parents.

DYKES BROKEN.

HUNTINGDON, B.C., May 20.—(Canadian Press.) — Flood waters from the Fraser which broke through the dykes at Sumas early Thursday, still remain unchecked to-day and continued to run over land recently reclaimed. No estimate has yet been made of the damage.

SIX CHILDREN IN PITIABLE STATE WERE DESERTED

Starving and Almost Naked Were Living Under a Straw Stack. Will Arrest Mother.

FOUR GIRLS.

REGINA, May 20. Canadian Press. — On the verge of starvation and practically nude, six children, ranging in age from 9 years to 15 months, four of them girls, were found living in a hole burrowed under a straw stack, covered over with brushwood, near Cupar, Sask., last Monday, by Inspector J. C. Robinson of the Department of Dependent and Neglected Children. It had been their abode for a week. The children have been placed in the welfare home here. They were the family of Mrs. Mary Jablowsky against whom the officials of the department state that they will take criminal proceedings by charging her with neglect.

A man with whom the mother had been living, it is alleged, and who is only known to the department as "John," will also be charged with neglect.

BRITAIN RETAINS HER STEEL TRADE.

Outbids Germany, Japan and United States.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 20.—When the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia sailed for the Orient she carried as a passenger one of her designers, W. B. Robinson, for many years with the Fair Fields of Glasgow, builders of the Empress, but now in the steel business for himself at Sheffield.

Japan, Germany and the United States have all made a bid for the steel business, said Mr. Robinson, but in spite of after-war difficulties, Great Britain has retained the bulk of this trade. This is especially true in high-speed tool steels, he declared.

Business Steadying.

Business is steadying in England, in the opinion of Major B. H. Winder of London, Far Eastern manager of the firm of Vickers, who sailed from this port on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia.

The engineering lockout, he says, has had the effect of the temporary upsetting the steel business, but will eventually prove to be the turning point in Great Britain's return to prosperity. Reduced wages, Major Winder declares, has to come before Britain could compete with other countries in the world's markets.

PENT-UP FEELINGS ON THE CATTLE EMBARGO QUESTION LET LOOSE IN THE HOUSE

Question of W. F. Nickle Starts a Lively Debate on the English Embargo of Canadian Cattle. Crawford Says Doherty Accomplished Nothing While in England.

TORONTO, May 20. — W. F. Nickle, Conservative member for Kingston, started something in the Legislature Friday afternoon which in itself established a precedent as Fridays are usually quiet. Before the orders of the day were called Mr. Nickle asked if the Provincial Government through the Minister of Agriculture intended to correct the false impression in England that Canadian cattle were diseased. This impression, according to the member for Kingston, was increasing owing to propaganda in the British Isles, which was finding its way into the Canadian press. He quoted from a cable despatch published yesterday morning in which Sir A. Gritffih-Boscawen stated that the foot and mouth disease in English cattle had cost the Empire vast sums of money. The question by Mr. Nickle was the signal for the release of long pent up oratory on this subject and regardless of the fact the house was not adjourned to place the subject in order all of the otustanding members of the Government, with the exception of the Liberal wing, added to the debate.

Doherty's Accomplishments.

Hon. Thomas Crawford, in following Mr. Nickel's question recalled the difficulties he had encountered when in the cattle shipping business. He was of the opinion that Hon. Manning Doherty had in his recent trip to England accomplished nothing in connection with the removal of the embargo other than that he had been politely told to mind his own business. He was not opposed to the lifting of the embargo by any means, but the thought that Canadian farmers, more especially the Ontario farmer, was better, or as well off, without its removal. Mr. Crawford argued that three carcasses could be shipped and landed in England as cheaply as one live steer. In addition to this the offal of the animal slaughtered in Canada brought a good price as a by-product which furthered the value of the animal. He was at loss to know how the British authorities could lift the embargo from Canadian cattle when it was also imposed on other nations. He pointed out that the United States being on friendly terms with England, would not be able to understand the discrimination.

"None of the old Governments ever undertook to tell the British Government that there would be trouble unless the embargo was lifted," stated Mr. Crawford. "That hint has been thrown out by this government."

Farmer Hard Hit.

"It is too bad to give the impression to the English public that we do not want the embargo lifted," stated Premier Drury in opening his remarks on the subject. "Especially now when it is before the House of Commons at the present time." The Premier pointed out that the cattle market to the south of Canada was cut off and that the Canadian farmer had to have a market for his cattle. He stated that agriruIture in Canada had been hit harder than any industry in Canada during the war and that the farmer was obliged to take his losses.

Mr. Crawfor: "At least we can mind our own business and let the Britishers mind theirs."

"We do not intend to interfere with British markets," returned the Premier. "If the Canadian steer is kept out to protect the British farmer alright, but we would have no objection. Canadian cattle, however, are being kept out because the people believe they are diseased."

Free From Disease.

Hon. Howard Ferguson: "Did not Lord Lee in 1917 state that Canadian cattle were free from disease?"

Premier Drury: "Yes, but the people of England do not know that."

Hon. Howard Ferguson intimated that there was more than the mere removal of the embargo to enter into the question. There was also the mater of international etiquette. The Conservative leader thought it was a strange thing that Lord Beaverbrook had assisted the Provincial Government as much as possible in trying to get the embargo lifted at exactly the same time the Province decided to stay out of the cement business. Mr. Ferguson described Lord Beaverbrook as the "Cement King" and hinted that it was his assistance on the embargo proposition that influenced the Government in their decision to keep out of the cement business after bringing down a vote in the house for that purpose.

Premier Drury — "Sherlock Holmes"

Mr. Ferguson—"You don't need any Sherlock Holmes to follow your footsteps." Mr. Ferguson stated that the government had the evidence when Premier Drury suggested that he lay the evidence of his charge before the house. Mr. Ferguson thought it strange that the Minister of Public Works had never answered the question in that regard placed on the order paper.

"The two issues had nothing whatever to do with each other," stated the Premier. "Well I say it looks like it," returned Mr. Ferguson.

Resuming his argument Mr. Ferguson stated that the Minister of Agriculture tried to interfere with British policy. "Now he is trying to get clear of it with as little loss of dignity as possible," he added.

Controversy Dropped.

As further speakers evinced signs of wanting to speak to the subject, Mr. Nickle rose and pointed out that the house had not been adjourned. The controversy therefore dropped.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson (London) introduced an amendment to the Ontario Motor Vehicles Act which, if passed, will permit a speed of 30 miles an hour in the open country. He also wants the use of parking lights on the rear left fender of motors made legal and the restriction of enforcing the slow down to 12 miles an hour at intersections taken out of the peanlty clause. The London member is also advocating the closing of parks by municipalities during the afternoon to motors in order that the children may play in safety. The bill was given its first reading.

Hon. Walter Rollo, Minister of Labor, introduced a bill to increase the payment of $10 to $15 under the Mother's Allowance Act to persons taking care of the children of deceased widows who were receiving the $10 allowance for each child up until the time of her death. The bill was given first reading.

A bill introduced by Dr. Stevenson to permit boys confined in Industrial schools to take a training course on Merchant ships was lost on a close decision when it came up for second reading.

FINE RESULTS ARE NOTICED FROM NEW HOSPITAL SYSTEM

Dr. M. T. MacEachern Tells Nurses of the Beneficial Results of Hospital Standardization.

FEWER DEATHS.

HALIFAX, May 20.— (Canadian Press.)—That splendid results had already been achieved in the way of fewer operations, fewer post-operation complications, more speedy convalescences and a decreased death rate, as a direct result of the standardization of hospitals throughout Canada, was the contention of Dr. M. T. MacEachern, Superintendent of the Vancouver General Hospital, and Director General of the Victorian Order of Nurses, addressing the Maritime Section of the American College of Surgeons at the opening session of their convention here yesterday. Dr. MacEachern cited the figures given out by what he termed "One imperial hospital," showing that by standardization operations had been reduced from 44.4 per cent. to 30.5 per cent.; complications from 7.7 per cent. to 6.8 per cent. and deaths from 77 per thousand to 68 per thousand.

The morning was taken up with clinics at the various hospitals conducted by prominent Halifax surgeons and physicians. The sessions are being presided over by Dr. H. K. MacDonald, of Halifax, President of the Maritime Branch of the organization.

OBITUARY

MRS. SARAH J. THORNTON.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Sarah J. Thornton of Winnipeg, took place at Omemee Saturday afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. F. G. Sandy. For the last nine years, Mrs. Thornton has been living with her son, Rev. P. Bruce Thornton, of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Winnipeg. After a brief illness caused by heart trouble her death took place last Monday at the manse, 688 McDermot Ave.

On Wednesday evening, Professor Dr. A. D. Baird, of Manitoba College, assisted by Dr. David Christie, of Westminster church, and Dr. W. A. McLean, of St. Giles' conducted the funeral service in St. Paul's church. Floral contributions from ten organizations in the church, as well as from a great number of individuals, testified to the high esteem in which the late Mrs. Thornton was held by both young and old.

Following this service the body was sent east for interment. On Saturday afternoon a large and sympathetic company of relatives and friends gathered in Omemee to pay their last respects to a much beloved and respected former member of this community. Rev. R. S. Scott had charge of the service and was assisetd by Rev. R. F. Stillman, of the Methodist church.

The pallbearers consisted of three brothers, Mr. Joseph Best, of Mount Pleasant, Messrs. Samuel and William Best of Omemee, and Messrs. Samuel Wilson and Isiah Fehr of Omemee and Mr. A. E. Donaghy, of Colborne, Ont., a representative of the congregation, with which Mrs. Thornton had been associated in her son's former pastorate. The late Mrs. Thornton was predeceased by her husband, Mr. Isiah Thornton, eighteen years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss, Mrs. F. G. Sandy of Omemee and Rev. P. Bruce Thornton of Winnipeg, and one adopted son, Rev. A. E. Evans, of Portland, Oregon.

FLOOD THREATENS TOWN OF FERNIE.

FERNIE, B.C., May 20.— (Canadian Press):—The warm weather during the past few days has caused the Elk River to rise with alarming rapidity until yesterday morning it is just being confined within ts artificial banks where it passes under the West Fernie Bridge, and the low-lying sections of West Fernie are in danger of experiencing another flood such as the one of June, 1915, unless the weather moderates quickly. Between Fernie and Hosmar, the river has broken out of its banks in several places and has formed several miniature lakes along its course. At these points, however, the land inundated is not cultivated and no damage can be done.

UNEMPLOYED VETERANS ON HIKE TO OTTAWA

TORONTO, May 20.—(Canadian Press.) — Under the command of General Macdonald, four hundred war veterans left on a hike yesterday for Ottawa, where they hope to impress the Federal Government that their grievances are reasonable and worthy of consideration as they are all unemployed.

THE HUMBLE PEDESTRIAN.

Mr. Justice Bruneau thinks that drunkenness in the driver of an automobile is a capital crime—that such a one should never be permitted to drive again, says The Montreal Star. The learned judge goes further. He declares that the law ought to be amended so as to acknowledge that a pedestrian has precedence at a regular street crossing! Talk like that from the Bench makes us rub our eyes; it seems like the dawn of another golden age. Every pedestrian should rise up and call Judge Bruneau blessed, for there are not, in high places, too many champions of the lowly individual who still uses his legs as his means of locomotion.

His Lordship's declaration should not be lost sight of, as it is too apt to be. The outrageous lack of consideration for others than themselves, characteristic of too many motorists, should receive a rude shock. They should be taught the rights of pedestrians in regard to the once simple but now extremely hazardous act of crossing the street. But many of them can be taught only by the Big Stick.

THE HAGUE CONFERENCE.

Although the Genoa Conference has failed to achieve its main objects, the reconstruction of Russia and the economic re-building of Europe, and the termination of the proceedings without accomplishing his programme, must be a bitter disappointment to Lloyd George. There is, nevertheless, reason to believe that the effort has not been without value. It is impossible that the representatives of thirty-two nations could be brought into contact without, in some measure at least, creating a spirit of conciliation that will eventually bring about a better condition of affairs in Europe. While it is not well to be too optimistic about the second economic conference, which is to be held at The Hague, it seems reasonably certain that the delegates of the various nations will have a better understanding of the problems of Europe when they again gather around the council board, and because of that understanding steps may be possible that will lead to a gradual reconstruction of Europe. It is hoped that the United States will eventually see the wisdom of participation in The Hague Conference. Her business men know, if the statesmen will not admit it, that industrial and trade conditions in the United States will not reach their normal position until tranquility is restored in Europe, and until the European countries are in a position to resume their trade with America. If, for no other reason than that, the United States should be represented at The Hague.

THE MEDICAL BOARD.

The announcement that a travelling medical board is to sit at the G.W.V.A. Hall for the purpose of examining pensioners or other returned soldiers who consider that their case requires further investigation, should be welcome to ex-service men in Peterborough, and it is to be hoped that full advantage will be taken of the opportunity offered by the visit of the board. It should be understood, however, that notice must be sent to Toronto seven days before the arrival of the board, and all returned men who wish to be examined again are advised to get into touch with Secretary Whatley of the G.W.V.A. and furnish him with the particulars that are required. As usual with military matters of this kind, there is a certain amount of red tape to be unravelled, and it would be well for the veterans to realize that unless sufficient notice is sent in, as stated, their cases cannot be investigated by the board. There are in Peterborough, as everywhere, returned men who consider that they have not been fairly treated in the matter of pensions, and they should not allow the visit of the Travelling Medical Board go by without availing themselves of the chance for another hearing. It is difficult to say when the next opportunity will be, as it was two years ago since a similar board met in this city. The Examiner calls attention to this matter editorially in the hope of being of service to the returned men who might not otherwise hear of it in time to take advantage of the chance.

FAITH THAT SAVES.

The experiences through which humanity has been passing in these last years have mightily tested the faith of men. In the early years of the century we had assumed an attitude of easy optimism as to the future, taking it for granted that in the very nature of things steady progress and improvement were inevitable. Then the war burst on us with its reversion to barbarism, and following the war came unrest and disappointments that still further baffled and perplexed men of faith. The Peace Treaty, in place of securing peace, seemed to stir up strife; the League of Nations failed to grip the imagination of mankind; the Washington Conference, while gaining much, yet revealed deep-rooted animosities not easily to be overcome; and now the Genoa Conference, which was to give us a rebuilt economic world, seems about to break up in failure. In the face of facts such as these, can men still find ground for believing in the future?

The answer is a triumphant "Yes," and the ground of this saving faith is not far to seek. Robert Louis Stevenson tells of a wild night at sea. Through a hurricane a ship was laboring on, struggling for very life amid mountainous seas. Below decks the frightened passengers were huddled, speaking in fearful whispers or kneeling to offer frenzied prayers for safety. At last one of them fought his way against the storm to the deck, and returning was plied with anxious questions by those who had stayed below. His answer was brief, but convincing: 'I have seen the face of the Captain, and all is well." Something of the same sort is what the world today needs to quiet its fears. There are plenty who are so conscious and fearful of the storms that they forget all else, but the real strength of the world's living lies in the brave souls who look on past the storm clouds to the eternal home and come back to face it all with steady cheer, crying: "I have seen the face of the Captain, and all is well."

A CHILDISH ATTITUDE.

Once more in their attitude towards Premier Drury the members of the Executive Committee of the Ontario Electric Association have displayed a hostility that does not help to bring about a better understanding. It will be remembered that the Premier proposed that if the municipalities interested in the Hydro enterprise would submit a list of five or six names from which he could select a representative of the municipalities to serve on the Royal Commission investigating the Chippawa development scheme, he would see that the appointment was made. Instead of complying with this request the Municipal Electric Association selected their own representative, Mr. A. C. Kingstone, of St. Catharines, and submitted his name to Premier Drury, who promptly refused to consider it because the original arrangement was not carried out. Now the executive of the association have held another meeting and have, in spite of the Premier's refusal, again named Mr. Kingstone as their representative. Their action is childish. They know that Hon. Mr. Drury has refused to consider the recommendation, and they know that that refusal will be repeated when his name is again sent in, but instead of deciding as sensible men upon five or six possible representatives, any one of whom would be suitable for the appointment, they aggravate the situation by persisting in trying to force the Government into an appointment it has already firmly refused to make. Hydro problems are not helped by conduct of this kind on the part of men who should be anxious to see that an entente between the Government and the municipalities is reached.

"THE FAT OF THE LAND."

A member of Parliament has just made the statement that civil servants "are living on the fat of the land." He is a new member, and may be excused for speaking after a brief examination of the facts of the case and a necessarily superficial knowledge of the situation as a whole. Such testimony is, however, strikingly at variance with the declaration of the late Mr. J. M. Courtney that "Government is a niggardly paymaster." The different between the two judgments is that the former was based on an observation covering a few days and the latter on nearly forty years of experience as Deputy Minister of Finance.

It is high time that loose and irresponsible statements about the fortunate lot of Government employes should come to an end. Even a cursory investigation will disclose the fact that, while there are a limited number of civil servants who are in receipt of fair remuneration, the overwhelming majority of them are paid very modest salaries. Those who receive the higher pay are in positions of responsibility, in many cases calling for technical qualifications; and the proof that they are not overpaid is demonstrated by the steady overflow of the best men into commercial occupations. It could easily be proven that scores of men in receipt of so-called high salaries are much underpaid in contrast with the rewards given to corresponding skill outside the public service.

As for the rank and file, men and women doing clerical work the average salary is well under $1,300; and they make up 70 per cent. of the entire service. For a considerable proportion of them there is no hope of advancement, in return for a lifetime of service, beyond $1,600 a year. It is in the nature of senseless irony to speak of such public employes as "living on the fat of the land." It may be that young men and women of this class are remunerated as well as are young men and women in corresponding positions in the world of business; but the latter have the unreckonable advantage of being in line for advancement on their merits. They are clerks today and in business for themselves tomorrow. Their compensation might be regarded as wholly secondary to the value of their training. Civil servants cannot start a Government of their own, nor can they pass from the service of one Government to the service of another. In a very peculiar and depressing sense they are cut off from the world of business and opportunity around them; and the longer they remain in the public employ the more absolute becomes their isolation and anchorage.

No man who knows the truth would talk about civil servants as a class being either well-paid or overpaid. They are neither. The really astonishing thing is that Government is able to recruit its service. That it does do so is probably explained by the fact that 80 per cent. of the entrants are young girls just out of the schools. The disadvantage to the Government in that case arises from the uncertainty to tenure of these juniors. They do not in large numbers take up the Civil Service as a career, and it is perhaps just as well they do not; for there is nothing in the nature of a future before them. For most of them there is little else than a life of routine work, not particularly interesting, and affording no room for initiative or special skill. Under present conditions, they cannot even look ahead to a pension when they are worn out and unable to work.

If this "fat of the land" to which allusion has been made were in actual evidence, the Civil Service would be able to attract a larger number of young men of the better class from our high schools and colleges. But the Government employ does not appeal to men of education and ambition. Progress is too slow and the rewards are inadequate. There is too much rigidity on the inside. Some of this is perhaps unavoidable, and it must be admitted that an enlightened Civil Service Commission is bravely trying to break down the ancient traditions; yet there is still much room for improvement. The one great hindrance to better standards is the absence of the very thing to which reference was made at the outset, namely, liberal pay. Really capable men cannot be drawn into the service, giving up all chances for fortune on the outside, by the inducements at present being offered.—Ottawa Journal.

A COAT OF PAINT WILL IMPROVE THE CAR'S APPEARANCE

With the warm days and good roads just ahead, all motorists are anticipating the pleasant trips to be ahd this summer. In getting ready for these trips, there are, perhaps many things to be done to make the car mechanically reliable and also to 'doll up" its appearance.

If the paint is not worn off but is merely somewhat checked and dulled, it may be preserved by applying a coat of good varnish, making sure that the car is first thoroughly washed, dried and then smoothed off with fine sandpaper. If the paint has worn entirely through in spots and the metal parts are beginning to rust, the only way to preserve these parts and keep them from becoming spoiled entirely is to have the car thoroughly cleaned and painted.

If the owner is not particular about an exceptionally high class job of painting he can clean the car thoroughly and paint it himself at much less expense than he can hire it done.

Two of the essential things necessary in making a smooth looking paint job are the following:

First —All parts to be painted must be thoroughly washed and then smoothed off by sandpaper or steel wool and all of the dust brushed or rubbed off.

Second—The car must be placed in a room where there is no dust, as a little dust on the paint before it is dry will spoil the looks of any paint job.

Improve Looks of Car.

In case the paint on the car is fairly good, but rusty spots show in various places then by touching these up with new paint of the same color, you will find the looks of the car greatly improved and further rusting prevented at the expense of very little time and money.

The top and side curtains should also be taken care of at this time. First clean the top thoroughly. Soap and water is probably as good as anything. Then, after the top is thoroughly dry, give it a coat of good top dressing, which can be bought at most any accessory store, and this will not only preserve the top and will to keep it from leaking but will greatly improve its general appearance. If the top is sagging the best way to remedy this is to first loosen the front part of the top from the windshield and then tighten the straps at the back slightly. Then, when the front part is pulled back into place again, most of the sagging will be removed in case the right adjustment on the rear straps has been made.

If the celluloid windows are broken probably the best proposition will be to get new ones, but if there is just a small break in a window this can usually be mended by means of some sheet celluloid and celluloid cement.

JOHN REDMOND.

Canada lost a good citizen on May 2nd, when John Redmond, of Kepler, passed away, at the home of his son, A. J. Redmond, of Holleford. Deceased was ninety-six years of age, and was born at Holleford, Wexford coutny, Ireland. He was a son of the late William Redmond and is survived by his aged widow, five sons and one daughter, William, James and John, of Kingston; George of Sydenham; Alfred, of Holleford, and one daughter, Mrs. F. Palmer, of Fulton, N.Y.

Deceased was a Methodist in religion, and a Conservative in politics. He was the oldest voter in the last dominion election, at Hartington.

It is interesting to note that when Mr. Redmond came out to this country, he was travelling eight weeks to cross the ocean, in the year 1851. Accompanied by his aunt and sister, they were met in Montreal by his father, who had come to Canada two years before. His wife was formerly Anna Donnell, Storrington, his marriage to her taking place in 1859. They resided for half a century at Holleford, then they moved to Kepler, where they lived for eleven years. Though Mr. Redmond had reached a ripe old age, he was quite active, till about four months before his death.

Much sympathy is extended to the aged and feeble widow in her bereavement.

The funeral took place on May 4th, from his son's home, in Holleford, the remains being placed in the vault. Rev. R. Babcock officiated. The pallbearers were five sons, William, George, James, John and Alfred, and a brother, Thomas.

DUNLOP CORD TIRES FABRIC

Making "Mile-ionaires"

These are great days for the motor car user—in a tire sense. Your dollar never before bought as much. Your speedometer never before registered as much. Your repair kit never was as idle. All because Dunlop Cord Tires came and ushered in a new era. Five years ago you paid half as much again for the same size tire; ten years ago you paid twice as much. Prices have been tumbling. Quality has been mounting. One time we thought 3,500 was mileage to boast of; to-day we may run into half a dozen "25,000 Milers" in a forenoon. "Dunlop did it," says one enthusiast. The "'Two Hands' are making us Mile-ionaires," says another, and so on.

FARMERS WILL PROCEED WITH NEW VENTURES

Peterboro County Farmers Were Represented at a Meeting Held in Toronto —To Sell Dairy Products

AIMS AND OBJECTS.

Peterborough county farmers will be interested in learning that at a meeting held at Queen's Park, Friday afternoon it was definitely decded to proceed with the organization of the Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products Limited, incorporation for which has passed its second reading in the house. Two representatives were present from each county at the request of Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture who is interested in the new company, this county being represented by Wallace Anderson of Warsaw and W. A. Anderson of Otonabee township, Alex. Hume of Omemee was present.

Will Save a Million

There was little oppositon to the new company which will represent one of the largest ventures of the Province into cooperative business to date. The opinion of the farmers and dairy men assembled was strongly enthusiastic and Hon. Manning Doherty estimated that $1,000,000 a year would be saved the milk producers by cooperative dealing.

Take Over Company

A committee was appointed consisting of some of the prominent directors to meet the United Dairymen Ltd., of which H. B. Cowan of Farm and Dairy is secretary and which the new company hopes to take over. The two parties will likely meet in Toronto to negotiate. By securing the interests of the United Dairymen which is said to be firmly established in the cheese business the Ontario Co-operative hope to get away to a good start.

Stonehouse Heads List

F. H. Stonehouse, President of the Milk Producers Association of Ontario and of the Ontario Dairy Council is one of the leading dairy men directors of the company. Others whose names are listed in the preamble of the bill are as follows: J. A. McFeeters, creamery man, Toronto; James H. Clarke farmer, township of Mountain, William Newman, creamery man, Lonueville, James R. Anderson, farmer, Mountain View, W. W. Ballantyne farmer, Stratford David Z. Gibson; farmer Caledonia.

Objects and Purposes

The head office of the company will be at Toronto. As set forth in the bill the objects and purposes of the company are as follows:

To produce grade, buy, sell, manufacture, own and control and deal in milk (and its products and all other products of the farm), to act as manufacturers, wholesale or retail merchants, shippers, brokers, importers, exporters, distributors, commission agents, dealers and traders, for the shareholders and others, in milk and its products and all other farm products; to buy, sell, manufacture, own and control and deal in packages feeds, fertilizers, machinery and all other dairy and factory supplies and all other farm supplies; to erect, buy, sell, lease, own and control buildings, machinery real estate and all other materials has needed in the business; and to do all things incidental or conducive to the attainment of the aforesaid objects or any of them.

Capitalized at Million

The capital stock of the company shall be one million dollars divided into shares of one hundred dollars each. Dividends payable on the capital stock shall not exceed seven per cent. per annum the bill incorporating the company states.

To Operate Next Year

W. A. Anderson said he had little doubt but that the bill would receive its third reading. It is hoped to complete the organization of the company this year and next spring begin business. Meetings will be held throughout the Province next month in which Hon. Manning Doherty and experts on cooperative business will endeavour to interest the farmers in the proposition and meetings will be held in this county at Peterboro and Norwood, Mr. Anderson said.

Five Year Contracts

To ensure the success of the company in its handling of dairy produce it is proposed to have five year contracts with the farmers to supply milk on a certain basis. Through the cooperative method a better price is expected and as viewed by the organizers there is practically no limit to the expansion of the business. It is hoped to emulate the experience of California in regard to marketing of fruit on the cooperative basis. Under present conditions according to Mr. Anderson the milk producers are competing with each other.

GIRLS! LEMONS

BLEACH SKIN WHITE

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whitness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion ,also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

BAILIEBORO CLUB HEARD ADDRESSES ON SHIPPING PLAN

BAILIEBORO, May 20.—The W. F.O. business meeting was well attended with about 50 members present.

A committee of four boys was appointed to purchase the necessary equipment for the ball team which was recently organized.

A committee was also appointed to set the time for the picnic, which will be held some time in June, and also to secure speakers and arrange for a programme.

After the business of the meeting was concluded, Vivian Milburn, district superintendent of the Co-operative Shippers' organization, and Mr. S. Armstrong, field manager, addressed the members of the U. F.O., explaining co-operative shipping.

It was not decided whether the Cavan and South Monaghan clubs would join the organization, as there is difficulty found in securing cars to ship the stock when they are needed.

Representatives were present from Ida, Cavan and Millbrook clubs.

The meeting came to a close at 10.30 o'clock.

Epworth League.

On Tuesday evening, under the direction of the 3rd Vice-President of social and literary department, a social evening was held.

After the singing of the first hymn, followed by prayer, Mr. Harold Dawson read the Scripture reading. The young people then indulged in contests and games, and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed. The meeting closed with the usual benediction.

New Briefs.

The committee who were appointed to look after a programme for the farmers' picnic meet shortly at the home of Mr. J. Campbell to discuss the different problems in connection with the picnic.

The U.F.O. baseball team held their first practice on Wednesday evening.

WINNIPEG, May 20. Canadian Press. — Hon. C. D. McPherson, Provincial Minister of Public Works is not necessarily quitting public life because he declined the Liberal nomination for his old constituency of Lakeside on Thursday, in the belief that a 3-cornered fight would result in the election of a Conservative.

It is reported that Mr. McPherson may contest Portage la Prairie against Major G. F. Taylor, the Provincial Conservative leader, and the suggestion is also heard that he may be a candidate in Winnipeg.

Omemee Residents Have to Contend With Dust Nuisance on the Street

OMEMEE, May 20. — The rain of yesterday and to-day brought many a smile not only to farmers but also to the residents and business men on King Street, having once more settled the dust, which has been flying in clouds for several weeks. On Saturday evening it became so thick that two automobiles came together, but fortunately no serious damage resulted.

A Big Celebration.

The O. A. A. are planning a big celebration in town on the 24th of May, commencing at 12.30 sharp. A big list of sports will be run off on the grounds after the parade. A league game of baseball between Omemee and Mount Pleasant should attract a large crowd, and is billed to commence at 3 o'clock, after which Omemee will play Lakehurst in a game of football. The famous Indian Band will be in attendance, and will provide lots of music. The members of the O. A. A. are making a special effort to make the celebration bigger and better than in previous years. A play entitled "Just Plain Folk" will be given by Peterborough talent in Coronation Hall in the evening.

Every Dollar Canada Can Spare Is Urgently Needed.

IF YOU have a dollar or five or ten that you can possibly spare, in the name of Mercy, send the money to the Save The Children Fund.

To say that help is no longer needed, or that the famine in Russia is over, is absolutely false, and is both cruel and unjust to those who are giving their time and money to save the starving children in the famine area of Saratov.

Sir Benjamin Robertson — formerly Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces of India and himself the greatest living authority on famine conditions —was sent to Russia to report on the famine situation.

He reported that in the areas where the British organizations are working, there are over ONE MILLION ADULTS, in addition to all the children, who are in dire need of food; and that relief must be forthcoming UNTIL THE END OF AUGUST or everything that has been done thus far will be lost.

Surely this should be regarded as sufficient proof of the need of more funds, by any Canadian who desires to lend a hand in fighting the most appalling famine that the world has ever known.

And we ask your assistance in the name of these starving, helpless children.

Cheques and money orders may be sent to the local committee or your bank, or mailed direct to Sir George Burn, Treasurer, Save The Children Fund, Elgin Building, Ottawa.

Keep Milk Clean, Cold and Covered

Common Sense Precautions

1. Milk should not be allowed to stand out-of-doors, but should be taken in as soon as delivered.
2. In the home, milk should be kept COLD, CLEAN and COVERED. If part of the milk in a bottle is used, do not replace the paper stopper, but invert a clean tumbler over the neck of the bottle and at once replace in the ice-chest. Never let the milk bottle stand around. Have a special place in the coldest part of the ice-chest for the milk bottles. The best way is to have the milk bottle touching the ice.
3. Milk is readily tainted and absorbs odors and flavors just as charcoal does. It will soon taste of tobacco, onions, fish or fruit if exposed to these things in an open pitcher or bottle. Turnips, onions and other strong-tasting substances fed to the cow will also give a flavor to the milk. Milk should have no odor at all, or, at most, only a slight characteristic odor. Milk bottles should not be taken into the sick-room. They should never be used for any other purpose than to hold milk. They should always be rinsed in cold water and then thoroughly washed and scalded before they are returned to the milkman.
4. We need care to keep milk clean, and pasteurization to make milk safe. It is certain that a milk supply that is both carefully supervised and pasteurized is the only satisfactory solution of the milk problem.

Reading Machine to Banish Books?

A "BEST SELLER" reduced to five small strips of paper costing only four cents! This is the revolutionary effect the invention by Admiral Bradley A. Fiske of a device called a reading machine will have on the industry of making books and their reading. Dr. Eliot's famous five-foot shelf of books, as a result of Admiral Fiske's invention, can now be contained within a space no wider than an inch.

"The instrument," says Admiral Fiske in describing his invention, "consists of a simple arrangement by means of which ordinary typewritten matter which has been photographically reduced to a space one-one hundredth of that originally occupied is ready by the aid of a lens as easily as full-sized type is now read with the unaided eye.

"In the actual instrument the small characters are carried on a narrow strip of paper that is moved as desired in front of the lens at a fixed distance from it. These small characters are printed from a copper block on which they have been photo-engraved on a reduced scale from ordinary typewritten matter.

The Reading Machine Invented by Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, Which May Revolutionize the Method of Making Books. The Tiny Lens of This Instrument Enlarges Type That Has Been Photographically Reduced to One-Hundredth of Its Size. The Drawing at the Right Shows How the Reading Machine Is Used.

"No type or typesetting is, therefore, required; but, nevertheless, the system makes it possible to photo-engrave books already printed and to publish reduced copies at slight expense for use in the reading machine.

"The actual machine consists of a light frame of aluminum; a strip of paper carrying the photographed characters that lies in a longitudinal groove in the frame; a lens through which the characters are read; and a roller adapted to move the strip of paper along the groove, in front of the lens, with the forefinger of the hand that holds the frame.

"The affort of reading the microscopic characters on the strips with the reading machine is the same as in reading ordinary characters with the unaided eye; for the reason that the characters appear as of full size, because the lens magnifies them just as much as the photographic process has reduced them; and the construction of the instrument compels the characters to remain at the correct distance from the eye.

"The instrument is six and a quarter inches long, one and seven-eighths inches wide, one-quarter of an inch thick and weighs five and a half ounces. It can easily be carried in the pocket.

"The reader holds the instrument and lens conveniently in front of either eye and propels the paper in such a way that he can read the characters just as he reads a book or a newspaper. A blinder is so fitted to the instrument that it can be moved in front of the unused eye."

Admiral Fiske has produced this machine in the idea that the strips containing reading matter will be photo-engraved in greatly reduced size from typewritten manuscript. As the machine is made each of the strips, little longer than the instrument itself and narrower than its less than two inches of width, carries about 10,000 words and, if printed on both sides, five of the strips will give reading matter equal to that contained in the average novel. The Bible, if printed on these strips, could be conveniently carried in the pocket of a man's coat without making an unsightly bulge.

Some advanced ideas as to the changes this reading machine may make in the preparation and distribution of reading matter are held by Admiral Fiske. He has obtained estimates which lead him to believe that 10,000 copies of a book containing 100,000 words could be produced for four cents each. An ordinary book, magazine or weekly periodical, printed by this process, could be sent through the mail for one cent. Admiral Fiske claims that the cost of manufacturing periodicals and newspapers would be so lessened that they could be given away if advertisers continue to pay present rates. Books and periodicals will be so small if printed for the Fiske machine that they can be distributed in large quantities by airplane. The amount of paper used, according to Admiral Fiske's estimate, will be so greatly reduced that the cost of printing will be about one-sixteenth of the present cost.

As a result of Admiral Fiske's invention, it will be possible in the near future to buy comprehensive books of reference like encyclopedias and dictionaries as well as the Bible and the works of Shakespeare at prices much lower than at present.

Is MEMORY of ELECTRICAL Origin?

Assuming that the organism is an electro-chemical mechanism by means of which potential energy is transformed into kinetic energy in the form of heat, muscular action, and electricity, through the co-ordination of certain organs, then, Dr. Crile asks, how do stimuli which vary so greatly in their nature and in their intensity reach the brain through the vast numbers of delicate receptors of varying kinds, find their way through the intricate paths of the brain mechanism, and produce each its specific response? That is, how is it that light waves always activate the rods and cones of the retina; the coarser waves of sound, the organs of Corti; the infinitely attenuated particles in the air, the receptors in the nose? How is it that the activation of these receptor mechanisms, so delicately attuned to such infinitely small waves of motion and of chemical action, can cause responses as powerful as those produced by the gross injury of tissue?

In answering his question in The Journal of Comparative Psychology, Dr. Crile finds that the brain mechanism is operated by electricity. As Mathews suggests, he supposes that all cells are electric batteries. Hence, the large cells in the fundus of the eye, connected with the rods and cones, may be regarded as batteries, attuned to be discharged by the electric energy created by the action of the ray of light on the rods and cones. Nernst first proposed, and many physical chemists have accepted the theory, that stimulation is not due to a continuous flow of electricity, but that interposing membranes must first be polarized by the accumulations of ions, stimulation taking place when a sufficient accumulation has occurred. If this theory be true, then a quantitative element is admitted so that one may suppose that the semipermeable membranes, in the case of the feeble electric current set up by a light wave, offer a correspondingly feeble resistance to be overcome before stimulation is achieved. Once the first cell in the path of the electric current is stimulated, and its electric charge is added, then the charges of the other cells lying along the base of the retina will be "fired" with great rapidity.

In this connection, it is at least interesting to note, Dr. Crile says, that the cells which are connected with the rods and cones are both large and numerous, whereas the nerve endings which act as receptors for physical injury, such as the sensory nerve endings in the skin, have almost no accumulators in the form of nerve cells to reinforce and augment their stimulus. The inference is that the infinitesimal receptor of the eye, which receives a beam of light of infinitesimal power, has made up for the want of initial physical force by adding a group of accelerating batteries. Were there a set of accumulators in the skin as powerful as those in the eye, endless explosions of energy would result. It is as important that the nerve receptors in the skin should have scant accelerating batteries to minimize the strength of the force in their specific stimuli as it is that the eye should have powerful accelerators to augment the infinitesimal physical force of its specific stimulus. It is of interest in this connection to note that Nissl found that the cells at the base of the retina became exhausted when the eye was long exposed to sunlight.

As the passage of electricity through the eye causes the sensation of light, so the passage of electricity through the ear causes the sensation of sound.

Dr. Crile then develops the theory that the white matter functions as a phonograph matrix upon which each incoming stimulus has made its electrical record. When the brain-cells are again roused to action by a repetition of any one of the stimuli which has traced its original record, the outgoing electric impulses released by the stimulus traverse the facilitated path and reproduce the original action. Just as a phonograph record will give back the same words or tune in after years, so Dr. Crile conceives varieties of magnetic phenomena to be written on the white matter, the recording tissue, which is the matrix upon which the action patterns are written.

Solving the MYSTERY of SIGHT

ONE of the problems of the human body which have long puzzled scientists is the exact means whereby "sights" are carried through the eyeball and the nerve to the sight-centre in the brain. In other words, how do we see?

The eye is a most remarkable camera. It is a roundish ball made of dense and strong fibrous tissue, opaque for five-sixths of its surface, but transparent in the one-sixth which bulges out.

There is a delicate curtain which hangs over the transparent "window," or pupil, in front, and forms the variously colored iris—the circle which surrounds the pupil. This curtain is a wonderful arrangement for adapting the eye to the intensity of light which falls on it, and it can almost close the opening in a strong light, or open it wide when the light is fainter. The "iris diaphragm" with which the photographer regulates the entrance of light into his camera is merely a poor imitation of it.

Moreover, it contains pigment cells, which may be crowded when the light is strong or fewer in number when the eye wants as much light as possible. So we get the black eyes (eyes rich in pigment, to mitigate the light) of the southerner, the blue eyes (with little pigment) of the dweller in the darker northern lands, and intermediate shades.

Behind the circular window—the pupil—is the crystalline lens, which can be altered by fine muscles so as to focus itself for any distance. Other muscles and tendons are attached to the outside of the eyeball, and they automatically turn it in the direction we want.

But the most wonderful part of the eye is the "sensitive plate" at the back of the eyeball. A semi-transparent membrane, which is called the retina, lines three-fourths of the interior of the eyeball (which is filled with fluid), and it is particularly developed at one spot, the real seat of distinct vision. On this "yellow spot" in each eye the rays of light form an inverted image of the object at which we are looking.

Why You SLEEP BEST at NIGHT

SCIENCE holds several theories as to what sleep is and what actually causes it. In a discussion of them which appears in The Medical Record Dr. J. Victor Haberman reaches these conclusions:

"Sleep is a sequence of psycho-physical phenomena, originally more or less consciously associated, now running off automatically, like something down a groove. It is not a simple 'least resistance' groove, but rather a complex series of links or relays of conscious and reflex acts, associations and psycho-reflexes, now running off automatically, a psycho-physical series commensurate to an automatized association of acts and ideas.

"Thus, at (approximately) the wonted time—night—we go to the wonted room—or a room set apart for sleep, a bedroom—(and, though we may or may not at all be tired) start undressing, let up on mental effort (directed thinking), go to bed, lie down with muscles relaxed, the room having been darkened—and all being quiet—close our eyes. The scene is actively begun but passively continued. Little by little most of the stimuli form the peripheri, 'from the environment,' as Schleich would say, have been turned off and our mental associations, for a brief spell still passively wandering, slow up and presently come to a standstill—and we're asleep.

"One link naturally dovetails into the other. Darkness closes our eyes—it is, in fact, difficult to keep the eyes open in the dark, and closed eyes slow up our thinking—it is difficult to think on with closed eyes—and waking is not possible (normally) without thought.

On the other hand, the cortex, i. e., the ganglion cells, may start the sleep process—and here too begins the chapter of abnormal sleep—by receiving an inhibiting potion, if we may conceive it so, either through the accumulation of its own fag products or fatigue products accruing in the body and brought thither by the circulation. These so-called fatigue products need not play any part in the sleep process (as we have seen above), or they may be co-active and help in the cutting down of energy; or, again, they may at times prove sufficiently insistent to play a very cogent part, and so throw sand not only into the eyes (the 'sandman'), but actually prove a kind of sand—or inhibiting substance—within the cortical cells, slowing up the molecular speed (or drawing in of dendrites, if you will). In this way it comes about that energy is not handed on, the nerve charge not being propulsive enough, not going through. Hence, the associations show breaks—and, finally, no longer connect.

"We can feel it coming on—and in a measure strive to ward it off. Indeed, the fatigue products, whatever their nature, or rather their activity, may be combated. Thus, however fatigue-products burdened we may be, if a book is interesting enough we tirelessly read on. The need of completing a task may keep us at it long past the usual sleeping hour. Desire for enjoyment (the dance, the card game) may make us quite immune to 'products'! They are also neutralized by morphine (in fact remarkably so), by caffeine and nicotine in the form of coffee and cigarettes, and stimulants like a splash of cold water or cold tub, or by keeping in motion—and finally are put to actual rout by worry, care, fear, eroticism and pain."

How SHORTHAND Was INVENTED by Ancient ROMANS

SHORTHAND is so widely used today that it is difficult to imagine the affairs of the modern world conducted without it. But who knows that shorthand had its place in the ancient world, and played an important part in the preservation of thought? John Robert Gregg, originator of the Gregg system of shorthand, is authority for the statement that shorthand was widely used in the time of the Caesars. References to shorthand may be found in the works of Cicero, Horace, Livy, Martial, Pliny, Tacitus and Suetonius. Julius Caesar was a writer of shorthand, and the poet Ovid, in speaking of this, makes the comment: "By these marks secrets were borne over land and sea." There is evidence to show that the Sermon on the Mount was reported in shorthand by Luke. There is little doubt that St. Paul dictated to stenographers his epistles to the Colossians. "Doubtless," Mr. Gregg says, "some method of abbreviating words was used by the Hebrews, and also by the Persians, several hundred years before Christ, though there is no evidence that shorthand characters or other special symbls were employed."

The first mention of an abbreviated system is in connection with the Roman poet, Quintus Ennius, 200 B. C., who used a scheme of 1100 signs that he devised for the purpose of writing more swiftly than was possible by the ordinary alphabet. The first definite and indisputable evidence of the use of shorthand is recorded by Plutarch, who states that Cicero's famous oration on the Catilinian conspiracy in the Roman Senate in 63 B. C. was reported in shorthand.

The system of shorthand used was invented by Tiro, a freedman of Cicero. It is said that in reporting the Roman Senate Tiro stationed about 40 shorthand writers in different parts of the Curia. "When one remembers," Mr. Gregg declares, writing in the Century, "that the shorthand writers of those days were without paper, pen, pencil or ink, and possessed only a crude method of shorthand writing, it is almost incredible that they could report anything. The writing was done on tablets that were covered with a layer of wax. The edges of the wax tablets were raised in order to allow their being closed without injury to the writing. These tablets were fashioned together at the corners by wire, thus forming a kind of book. As many as 20 tablets could be so fastened. When the book consisted of two tablets only it was called a diploma, and the official appointments conferring public office were in that form; hence our word 'diploma.' The instrument used for writing was a stylus, which was about the size of an ordinary pencil, the point being of ivory or steel, with the other end flattened for the purpose of smoothing the wax after a record had been made, in order that the tablet could be used again. It was with such instruments that Caesar was stabbed to death."

The modern world is indebted to Tiro and his followers for records of some of the finest writing and some of the best orations of Roman civilization. His method was studied by emperors, statesmen, orators, poets and philosophers, and was extended by Seneca to include several thousand abbreviations. Titus Vespasian, the 11th of the 12 Caesars, was so proud of his skill as a shorthand writer that he took part in contests for wagers and personally taught the art to his step-son. Augustus Octavianus, the first of the Roman emperors, was an expert writer of shorthand. By decree the Senate named the month of August after him. It will thus be seen, Mr. Gregg points out, that two of the calendar months were named after men who wrote shorthand, the other being July, after Julius Caesar.

With the rise of Christianity and the demand for a record of the exact words of religious leaders, the teaching and practice of shorthand received a new impetus. Bishop Cyprian, of Carthage, used the method invented by Tiro and enlarged by Seneca, added some thousands of abbreviations for scriptural terms.

The most famous diary ever published—that of Samuel Pepys—was written in what was known as "Shelton's Tachygraphical Alphabet." Pepys, we learn, was a master of "lyghtnynge cypher," and enters in his diary the fact that, in 1680, he attended King Charles II., by command, at Newmarket, and there "took down in shorthand from his own mouth the narrative of his escape from the battle of Worcester." Nearly a hundred years later, Thomas Jefferson proposed to his friend Page that they master Shelton's system. Benjamin Franklin learned shorthand from his uncle.

Preparing the PRUNE for the MARKET

SIXTY-FIVE years ago Louis Pellier, a Frenchman, brought two prune trees to California and planted them near San Jose, in Santa Clara county. These grew; other plantings were made and slowly an industry had its beginning. Today California produces 90 per cent. of all the dried prunes and apricots consumed in the United States and Canada, with an output of 200,000,000 pounds per annum.

More than half the prunes grown in the whole United States are produced in the Valley of the Santa Clara.

In the last days of March or early April the Santa Clara Valley looks like a vast snowfield glistening in the sun—a hundred and twenty-five square miles of vineyards and trees in snow white blossom. By late August or early September these blossoms have turned into the ripened fruit; earth and sun and air have completed their wonderful work. Not even does man disturb the completion of this work, for the prune is permitted to ripen and fall from the tree. G. Orb, in a contribution to The Scientific American, describes as follows the preparation of prunes for the market:

From the orchard the prunes are hauled to the dipper and drying ground. First they go to the dipper, an iron tank containing about five pounds of lye to 100 gallons of water, which is kept boiling hot. The prunes are dipped into this tank for about 30 seconds by means of a wire basket or revolving drum. Following removal they are passed under a wire screen with strong jets of clean cold water flowing on them, and washing off all sediment and lye water. They are then spread on trays measuring 8x8 feet, ready for the drying ground. The hot lye bath, by the way, has slightly broken the skin of the prune, so that the moisture may the more easily escape in the drying process.

Again the rays of the sun are called upon, for prunes are dried solely by the sun, taking from five to ten days for the completion of this phase.

Bins in the grower's fruit house serve to store the sun-cured fruit until it can be sacked and delivered to the packing house. Here the prunes are weighed and tested and then emptied from the sacks on to the carrier which takes them to the grader. By the time the stream has reached the end of the grader, all prunes have dropped through and have been graded according to size. From these bins wheelbarrows deliver the prunes to the processor. The grading determines the size and hence the price paid to the grower.

The "processor" prepares the graded fruit for packing. It is boiled or steamed for about three minutes, then run over a screen to drain, and while still warm is emptied into the box or carton, weighed and the lid clamped on by a high-pressure nailing machine. The boxes of fruit are carried to the freight car waiting on the siding.

A FLEXIBLE KEY to Foil BURGLARS

A FLEXIBLE key, one that will go into and work in a tortuous hole, has been developed in Germany. The many robberies that are constantly reported everywhere have created a demand for such a key. According to a British writer's description, the wards and the bow are not connected by a stiff stem, but by four superimposed strands of ribbon steel which prevent any sideways movement when the key comes into play. Thus there need not be a straight-way between the escutcheon or the front of the door and the actual keyhole in the lock-case, which can be fixed at an entirely different level, and the point of introduction for the key is independent of the locking point.

Between the outside and inside fittings there is a tubular channel with a slit in the bottom to allow the passage of the wards. This channel in German is called "Schlusselzfuhrungsschiene," or literally "key-conveying rail," according to The Scientific American, a word long enough to insure a prevention of burglary. The housebreaker is unable to determine the position of the locking mechanism, nor can he open it with a false key, a wire brush, or a strip of lead. To blast it open is out of the question, as the explosive would fall out through the slit in the keyway made for the passage of the ward. The flexible key is not unwieldy as it can easily be rolled up into a spiral and put into a neat case to fit the pocket of its legitimate proprietor.

There was no word of response. The Duchess opened her lips as if to speak. But she remained silent. The Duke made an attempt at smiling, but failed Clarissa took a step forward, toward the embarrassed Charles. But she restrained herself. The eyes of all flung upon Disraeli's lips. Surely, he would add to his blunt statement.

The Prime Minister seemed to enjoy the sensation he had produced. He looked ftom one to the other.

"Charles," he said, with quiet emphasis, "has decided to become my private secretary."

"I congratulate you, Charles," she said. She meant to be sincere. But there was a slight note of irony in her voice, nevertheless.

"Congratulate England," said Disraeli. "We are in need of young blood, of active men. The Viscount Deeford will be able to render signal services to his country."

"He will, under such a master." The Duke had at last found his tongue and babbled over with enthusiasm as he grasped Charles' hand. Disraeli continued.

"He will, not because of his master, but because opportunity, nay, necessity, will be his mistress. He will not be required to serve me. He will be required to serve his queen."

The assemblage bowed.

During this solemn conversation, Clarissa had stood as in a trance, her hands clasped over her bosom, her eyes wide, her lips slightly parted. Disraeli's glance rested upon her.

Clarissa colored. Then she stepped up to Charles and took his hand. For a moment the young Viscount seemed to lose his poise. He cast a look of puzzled gratitude upon Disraeli. "Thank you," he said to Clarissa, "Thank you. I know you wish me well."

"I wish you well," murmured the girl. The flush on her cheeks grew deeper. She cast down her eyes. But presently she looked up again, smiling radiantly, and, releasing Deeford, she extended her hand to Disraeli.

Mrs. Travers had stood quietly aside, and, releasing Deeford, she extended her a congratulatory remark in the direction of Charles when the Prime Minister's announcement had first rung through the room. Many thoughts seemed to be passing through her mind, thoughts too weighty to make it possible for her to assume her usual bandying tone without a real effort at regaining her composure. Soon, however, she was her cool self again.

"They tell me," addressing Disraeli, "that you are an unusually hard taskmaster. Charles will have much to learn."

There was a vicious smile on the lips of the Prime Minister.

"Some people," he said, "learn quickly. Charles has already begun In a very few moments I managed to teach him what it took me many years to discover."

Mrs. Travers knew that she must prepare herself for a sharp thrust. And, realizing that she could not save herself from it, she boldly asked:

"And what is that?"

"Dear lady, that a ditch dug in the sand gives the best soil for celery."

He bowed, and extending his arm to Lady Beaconsfield, left the room with her.

In the Russian Embassy, His Excellency, the Russian Ambassador addressed Samuel Lewin:

"I have a conclusive report from one of my confidential agents that Sir Michael Probert will have absolutely nothing to do with the Prime Minister's attempt to buy the canal. This is encouraging. But my agent also asserts that Disraeli has gotten into touch with Hugh Meyers—you know Meyers—with a view to getting money from private sources. My agent brushed against a servant at The Towers, on Saturday last, and the servant let fall a telegram written by the Prime Minister. All that my agent desired was to note the person addressed by the Prime Minister. The name was undoubtedly 'Hugh Meyers,' I also learned that the telegram asked for an appointment. How does Meyers stand—financially?"

Lewin spoke very slow, and cautiously.

"He has an excellent reputation throughout Europe. He also has powerful friends. I believe he is the logical man for Disraeli, if Probert has stepped out. Frankly, I believe that Meyers can raise the amount—"

"Have you any suggestions?" asked Lewin, begging the question.

"Can the man's bank be attacked, say, by innuendo—whispers in important places? Can we force a run on his institution?"

"A fine idea. Get your agents busy on that angle, and I will let a hint fall here and there where I think it will do some good."

"Try to block Meyers in Europe, Lewin. If he seeks to raise money on the Continent, get your accredited agents busy. He must be blocked in every move he makes. Do you understand?"

"Perfectly."

"Let me hear from you to-morrow."

XVI.

Charles sat near Disraeli on a marble bench in the gardens at Glastonbury Towers, making notes, with pad and pencil, as Disraeli spoke.

"The diplomatic service is riddled with spies," the Prime Minister said. "Trust no one."

Scarcely had the words been uttered, when the boisterous laughter of the Duke of Glastonbury floated across the sunken gardens, and the Duke and Mr. Lumley Foljambe approached.

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Disraeli," began the Duke, "but this is Mr. Foljambe, of whom I spoke. You have taken Charles as your secretary. Can't you find an opening for Mr. Foljambe"

Disraeli was most affable in his greeting of the effusive Foljambe. Following the introductions all around, Disraeli said:

"I require a man for a place of trust. I am sure your friend will fill the position."

"He's the very man, Mr. Disraeli," said the Duke.

Mrs. Travers joined the little group, and stood very near the Duke.

"Slightly," said Mrs. Travers.

"Excellent," said Disraeli. "Then you will take up your position, Mr. Foljambe, in my private office. To-morrow."

Foljambe and the Duke thanked Disraeli, and Mrs. Travers took the Duke's arm as he walked away with Lumley Foljambe.

When Charles and Disraeli were alone again, the young man's face was a study.

"You just told me to trust no one," said Charles. "And you accept this man——"

"What I meant," said Disraeli, "is Trust no one—but me."

XVII.

Lord Beaconsfield was back at his official desk in Downing Street at the usual hour the following morning. He held it to be important that he should conform to all of his usual habits, such as punctuality in reaching his private office, (but not arriving a moment earlier than usual), for it was traditional that No. 10 Downing Street must not begin to function before 9 o'clock any morning—so far as the clerks were concerned. Otherwise the gossips would take the morsel of information far and wide. That Disraeli had been awake at daybreak, and at work at his "den" at 7 o'clock, was not known to the many underlings when they arrived.

Charles, Viscount Deeford, the future Duke of Dunelm, reached Downing Street punctually at 9 o'clock, in accordance with a promise he had made to Disraeli. As he had run in to his town house the previous night, and found a sufficient number of servants on hand to attend to his needs, Charles was in excellent humor when he left the ancestral family home that morning, having breakfasted on Irish bacon, with several of the Viscount's favorite dishes, the cook had made up in honor of the Prime Minister's private secretary. Charles drove past Trafalgar Square and got a glimpse of the Abbey before discovering that Downing Street was quite close to Westminster Bridge.

"By Jove! Funny thing! I never knew where the deuced place was before this morning! Downing Street—and Mr. Distaeli. To-day—I begin a new life!"

Charles was in excellent spirits. The youthful elasticity of his mind had not made it too difficult for him to perform a complete somersault from bitter resentment against Disraeli to boundless admiration. Of course, it was not so much the political aspect of the changed situation that filled him with enthusiasm and with appreciation of the man for whose aspirations and manners he had had nothing but sneers a few hours ago. It was the conviction that, far from standing in his way with Clarissa, Disraeli had pointed out to him the door to her heart. This very morning had brought him a fragrant envelope containing a few hastily scribbled lines of cheer and bearing her dear name in a signature preceded by the significant words, "Your devoted friend."

So it was with a feeling of complete satisfaction with life that Charles entered the Premier's residence. He found that Mr. Lumley Foljambe had arrived before him, and there was a wait of but a few moments before the Prime Minister appeared. Disraeli and Charles had a brief chat, and the former greeted Foljambe charmingly, in an effort to make the man feel "at home among friends." But the thing Foljambe did not see was the steady, clear gaze of the Prime Minister as the new clerk entered the private office assigned to him. If he could have seen Disraeli's glance, conveying a world of meaning to Charles, it is more than likely that Foljambe would have been prepared to submit an immediate report to the Russian Ambassador, asking to be relieved "for the good of the cause."

Disraeli proceeded to his desk, a large old-fashioned piece of furniture, elaborately carved—the same ancient desk at which Canning had sat, and the Duke of Wellington and Lord Goderich, Earl Grey, Sir Robert Peel, the great Palmerston, Lord Melbourne—in the center of the Prime Minister's "public office." Despite its great age, the desk presented the appearance of being the work of the best carvers of the mid-Victorian period. At the left, a large window opened on a grass-covered balcony full of evergreens and flowers. At the back, to the left, was the door leading to Disraeli's "den," his private office—perhaps the one nook in London where the great statesman could work in solitude. It must be a matter of very urgent business that would encourage a clerk even to knock at that door if he knew the Prime Minister were within.

To the right, in the big public office, was another desk. Here sat Charles. There was a great fireplace, and above this a portrait of the Queen. A rare collection of wall roller maps, and heavily framed portraits of many of England's former Prime Ministers adorned the walls.

Early in the morning, a few days later, Disraeli summoned Charles into a conference in the "den." The young man bore a grave expression. He had learned much during the past week—much that amazed him, much that sobered him, much that impressed him fully with the great responsibility that had been thrust upon his shoulders. For Disraeli certain now that his judgment had been correct and that he had found so patriotic and devoted an aide that he could open his heart at last, had entrusted him with secrets of state that, up to this time, had reposed only in his own mind.

To-day's conference had progressed to a point where, even in the seclusion of the "den" the two men lowered their voices to hardly audible whispers. Suddenly, there was a knock at the door. Disraeli frowned. The occasion for the disturbance could be only one of two possibilities—a matter of the gravest moment or an impertinence on the part of a clerk.

"Come in," said the Prime Minister.

Foljambe stood framed in the door.

Instantly the black look passed from the Prime Minister's eyes. He smiled pleasantly. "Ah, my dear Foljambe. Can I assist you in anything?" Then, to Charles: "See if the messengers have brought more despatches, if you please."

As soon as Charles had left, Foljambe stepped nearer to the Premier's desk.

"Yes?"

"I feel," said Foljambe, "that I can be of little use to you under present circumstances. My room is upstairs, a long way off."

"I don't understand," responded the Prime Minister.

"If I may say so, you seem to keep me at arm's length!"

"I am not in the close touch with you I had hoped for. No important matters have been entrusted to me."

"Patience—patience! You will remember I told you I must observe you a little while. I have been doing so. The result is just what I expected."

"I am very grateful, sir. May I hope—"

"Yes. Henceforth I will keep you busy. Matters of great consequence are coming up today."

"Yes, sir," said Foljambe, eagerly.

"Yes, Mr. Foljambe. I may say one matter of national importance."

"Of—er—imperial importance, sir."

"Yes, even of imperial importance."

"Indeed, sir!"

"For, unless the heart be sound, the whole body must suffer."

"The subject you allude to, sir, is—"

"I allude to drainage."

"Drainage?" There was disappointment in Foljambe's tone. But he continued, insinuatingly: "Ah, the drainage of waste places. A colonial matter?"

"No, no, Mr. Foljambe, the drainage of London. A great scheme. Enormous expense. I am trying to arrange a loan."

As he spoke, Disraeli handed Foljambe a packet of papers from the desk. Continuing, the Prime Minister said:

"Here are the papers. You might look them over."

"Is there nothing else?" asked the clerk.

"Yes, yes. This." Disraeli said, taking some blue papers from the desk, "—this contains the report of the Secretary of State for India on the coaling stations and fortifications of the Gulf of Aden. Dry stuff, I fear. Let me see, where is the Gulf of Aden?"

Walking across the room, the Prime Minister unrolled a map of Africa and turning to Foljambe asked:

"Where is the Gulf of Aden?"

Foljambe promptly pointed out the Gulf, and Disraeli hastily added:

"Very unhealthy climate, I believe."

"Oh, the Suez Canal," said Disraeli, with great contempt. "Silting up, sir; siting up!"

He seated himself at his desk again. As he did so, Charles re-entered, carrying several large blue envelopes sealed.

The latter laid the despatches on his desk. Then he rose, walked over to a small table at the back of the room, and took up a card. Charles joined him.

"The engagement list is heavy sir."

Disraeli began to read:

"Im.—lunch with the Goldsmith Company at one. I have to respond to the toast on Literature while my hosts will be thinking about carats."

Foljambe had stepped nearer to Disraeli's desk. The Prime Minister continued. "In the afternoon Lady Salisbury has a garden party at Hatfield." Charles noticed that Disraeli no longer looked at the card but that his eyes were focussed upon a further corner of the room. He trained his own gaze in the same direction. The sharp glint of a mirror caught his attention.

FLOOD DAMAGE IN NICOLA, B.C.

Estimated That the Total Loss Will Be About $20,000. Three Houses Carried Away.

NICOLS, B.C., May 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Although all details of Thursday's flood damage have not yet been gathered it was estimated that the total loss will approximate $20,000. This includes the dam on Major Goldman's Ranch which will have to be reconstructed, three houses in the town which were carried out and the loss to farmers in the valley.

One farmer lost a team of horses and three or four milk cows, while others lost one or two cows. Four miles of the Government road have also been out in addition to the bridge.

BRANDS ONT. GOVERNMENT CLASS CONSCIOUS BODY

HAMILTON, May 20. — (Canadian Press.)—Branding the Ontario Government and the Progressive wing at Ottawa as extremely class conscious bodies, First Vice-President Shaw, of the Canadan Manufacturers' Association, last night told the annual meeting of the local branch that these were attempting to tax manufacturers out of existence. The trouble with Canada, he said, was that it did not have its taxation laws well organized. There was too much overlapping and too much duplication.

ELECTRIFIED FARM NEAR STOCKHOLM.

Swedish Govt. Asked to Establish One.

STOCKHOLM, May 20.—(Associated Press).—The Swedish government has been requested to establish a model electrified farm to be located, if possible, near Stockholm.

In view of the fact that more than one-third of agricultural Sweden is now electrified, it is proposed that the model farm be as nearly 100 per cent. electrically operated as possible so that Swedish farmers, who are now in a position to change hours for electric power, may be enabled to view demonstrations of how "white coal" can be utilized in the country.

The request for the electrified model farm comes from the National Association for Electrification of Rural Sweden. It is communication to the government has body points out the necessity for training Swedish farmers in making use of electrical power. It proposes that farm electrification be made a special subject of study at the agricultural schools and colleges of the country.

It is proposed that the model farm be fully equipped with all the latest electric agricultural devices, so that the farmers may see electrically operated plows, harrows, seeders, harvesters and threshing machines. Motors of different sizes will drive the milk separators and the churn. The new electric device which passes an electric current through an ensilage of cattle fodder to increase its nutritive value is to be shown.

There is very little heavy labor on Swedish farms, heretofore performed by man or beast, which machines operated by electric current cannot do, and more than a third of the Swedish farmers can operate their farms by electricity if they understand the elementary principles of electrical science. Naturally, the agricultural population needs considerable training before full advantage can be taken of the wonderfully cheap power furhished by the many waterfalls and rapids which have of late been harnessed.

LOCAL EMPLOYEES OF GRAFTON & CO. ARE ENTERTAINED

Enjoy Happy Evening of Lecture, Music, Refreshments and Dancing.

A decidedly interesting, enjoyable and unique event was held in the Greene Music Company's store, where the employees of the local branch of the Grafton Clothing Company, some of the former employees, and a number of friends, were the guests of the company. Col. J. J. Grafton, of Dundas, president of the company, and Mr. W. A. Davidson of Dundas, secretary-treasurer, were present and played a large part in making the evening a success. This entertainment is one of a series which is being held in the various centres where there are branches of the company, and showed in a remarkable way the keen interest which the executive heads of the firm take in the welfare of their employees.

Mr. W. E. Conway, manager of the local branch, proved a most genial chairman, welcoming the guests and introducing the visitors in a brief speech.

Unique Programme

The first and unique part of the programme took the form of an illustrated lecture by W. A. Davidson, on the beginning and history of the Grafton Company. Nearly two hundred pictures, depicting the various branches of the company at different stages in its history, and also showing some of the men who have built it up, were thrown on the screen. Mr. Davidson explaining each in a crisp, entertaining way. Slides of the various branches all over Western Ontario were shown, including many of the Peterborough branch, in its early days and at the present time. Scenes of the fire at the Hamilton branch, and of the splendid building which took the place of the one destroyed, were of great interest.

Mr. Davidson also gave some interesting particulars and showed pictures of the Grafton family, starting with the first James Grafton, who came to the United States in the latter part of the eighteenth century. The whole six generations of the family since that time were shown, and these pictures brought hearty applause from the company present.

Another interesting series showed Col. Grafton in the various type of military uniforms worn by him in his long association with the Canadian Militia, and also the six medals awarded to Col. Grafton and his son, J. Stewart Grafton, who served with distinction in France. The lectures concluded with an interesting recital of the special events which celebrated the fiftieth and sixtieth anniversaries of the founding of the company, held in 1903 and 1913 respectively. These were followed with a few pointed mottoes for the employees, regarding the essentials for success in salesmanship.

Mr. Davidson made a sympathetic reference to the death of Miss Kathleen Collins, a former employee of the local store.

Musical Numbers

Following the lecture, a very enjoyable programme of music was rendered, in a manner that called forth enthusiastic applause, the visitors remarking later that Peterboro was exceptionally fortunate in its display of musical talent. Mrs. R. J. Devey sang in splendid voice, "Choir Vina" Mr. F. C. Roberts, "Good Company," Mr. F. Johnson, "Fine Old English Gentleman," while a quartette composed of Messrs. R. J. Devey, F. C. Roberts, D. J. Eldred and F. Johnson rendered "The Story of A Hack," in fine style. One of the visitors, Mrs. Davidson, sang very sweetly "Love's Roses," and a reading, "Old Mother Hubbard," was given by Mr. H. J. Devey. Messrs. R. J. Devey and W. H. Barry, acted as accompanists for the occasion.

On behalf of the employees, Mr. C. Hughes moved a hearty vote of thanks to Col. and Mrs. Grafton and to Mr. and Mrs. Davidson and seconded by Mr. Gower, for their presence and splendid entertainment, which was supported by Col. E. B. Clegg, and carried with cheers. Col. Grafton made a brief response. He expressed his great pleasure in being able to go around from branch to branch, meeting the employees of the firm, and said his aim at all times was to have efficient, satisfied employees, working under good conditions. He delighted the company with his skill in humorous anecdote. Mr. W. A. Davidson also responded, and in a few words expressed his enjoyment of the company of the employees and their friends.

Refreshments and Dance

Dainty refreshments were then served, and dancing indulged in for a pleasant hour, the company dispersing shortly before midnight, after singing "God Save the King," and "Auld Lang Syne."

BATIK BLOUSES.

Batik blouses once belonged to art circles and to Greenwich Village. Now they are as common as bobbed hair. Many manufacturers of silk are now making up silks in batik patterns which cost considerably less than the hand-dyed product.

"Our First Year"

(BY A BRIDE)

CHAPTER XLII

A FLAPPER CENSOR

"Hello, folkses! Give me a cigaret, Jack! An' a light! Thanks!" Thus Bonny greeted us.

"May I inquire who your interesting new friends may be?" Jack indicated two young girls in bobs, breeches, coats and stocks, who had been helping Bonny address envelopes.

"Don't you know them? They're the famous Kondar twins—they dance—they're sort of—sort of semi-professionals extras we need for a specialty."

"Oh, Bonny! You're cold?" Jack was off and back in a minute, and had wrapped Miss Flapper in her evening cloak before she knew it; and 50 pairs of eyes were released from bondage.

I tell this story only to show what a regular dear is my husband, how comprehending and chivalrous, how quick to do the right thing at the proper moment. Only about me, about what I want, about how I feel is Jack a trifle dense.

Of Bonny he has always said that she can reason right, that she only peefers the freakish, the bizarre because they are exciting. Her fear of being bored is her supreme affectation.

But Jeanne and I know that Bonny is uncannily sophisticated. For instance, observing the Konrad twins, looking like pretty boys as they stepped upon the stage, Bonny commented:

"Breeches! But not for Bonny. Some girls are going to wear them all summer, they say, white duck togs. But—not me!" She blew a circle of cigaret smoke into the air.

"Why not you?" Jeanne queried.

To which Mr. Jack, never having formed an opinion, contributed his characteristic bewildered, "Why no! Why—yes!"

"Men do not like pantaloon effects on girls," Bonny insisted. "Breeches for horses, knickers for hikes—all right But men like frilly feminine lacey leanin girls. So I'm going to be all ruffly this summer. Pretty colors, too. I hope all the other girls will wear breeches. Then I'll have all the beaus."

We laughed in chorus, all except Jeanne, who had on her critical mood. Said she:

"You super-sophisticated baby! Why the infant has said all there is to be said against breeches for girls! She's told us why Dr. Mary Walker never could make them popular! Why, they're doomed today!"

I managed to mill a group so that the two young things were left outside our circle. And, oh, they made a beautiful pair. Why couldn't Bart have sense and fall in love with that girl?

To me, she was obviously in love with him. Her bravado vanished when he came. She held her cloak close about her shoulders, laid a soft little hand on mine. It was a trembling little hand. I felt sure that if a girl of her age can possibly fall in love, Bonny had met with the experience. If I could see, why couldn't Bart?

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS

The ailments of childhood—constipation, indigestion, colic, colds, etc.—can be quickly banished through the use of Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative which instantly regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach. They are guaranteed to contain no harmful drugs and can be given to the youngest baby with perfect safety. Concerning them Mrs. Alcide Lepage, Ste. Beatrix, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets were of great help to my baby. They regulated her bowels and stomach and made her plump and well." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RADIO NEWS

Amateurs in England are raising their voices for rights equal to those of their American brothers.

At the recent annual conference of the Affiliated Wireless Societies of Great Britain, a resolution was passed requesting the Witeless Society of London to open negotiations with the Post-office authorities regarding regulations of amateur wireless transmission. As a result, a committee of the Wireless Society of London has submitted the following requests to the postmaster general:

Less Restrictions

1. That no restrictions be placed on amateur transmitting stations communicating with other amateur stations. At present, an amateur is limited to communicate with only five other allotted stations.

2. That amateurs be permitted to transmit for an aggregate miximum of two hours in each 24, limiting each transmission to 10 minutes. This would invalidate the regulation requiring an amateur to transmit only during the two hours specified in his license.

3. That wave lengths for amateurs be reduced from the present 1000 meters, to about 400 meters and an experimental length of about 180 meters.

The last suggestion is due to complaints of the air ministry that aircraft traffic has been sreiously interfered with by amateurs who have been allotted the general wave length of 1000 meters. If this is permitted to continue, says the committee, interference will become worse when night flying becomes more general. Most amateurs use their transmitting sets in the evening.

Benefits

Adoption of these three suggestions, according to the committee report, would produce two important results:

"The first is that the air service will have no further occasion to complain of amateur interference. The second, that the amateur will be satisfied with the power permitted him and will not have the temptation to ignore the terms of his license as regards excessive power, unauthorized wave lengths, times of working and stations communicated with."

Why 99 per cent Of People Are Constipated

Causes More Sickness In Spring Than Any Other Time Of Year.

You no doubt have taken all sorts of medicine with always the same results, only temporary relief. The reason you do not get any results is because none of the medicines you have taken acts upon the Liver. There is only one medicine known that acts upon the Liver, and that is Tanated Calomel. Doctors recommend that you take one of these tablets before meals or two at bedtime. This medicine acts upon the Liver, causing it to excrete ile into the intestines, giving a natural, easy movement of the bowels. A few hours after taking you will get almost instant relief from Headaches, Indigestion, Rheumatism, Constipation, Impure Blood, Kidney Pains, etc.

Tanated Calomel is harmless and easy to take. No salts or seidlitz are necessary after taking. It will be worth millions to people who have been sickly for years. It is also the best medicine for spring, when so many people are troubled with that tired, heavy, listless feeling. Get a few of these tablets from your druggist, F. C. Webber, Charlotte street, and you will be surprised how much better you will feel.

FORM NATION'S LEAGUE SOCIETY THIS DOMINION

Appeal to Canadian People Endorsed By Distinguished Signatories, Including Prime Minister King.

FUNDS REQUIRED.

TORONTO, Ont., May 20.—(Canadian Press).—An appeal to the Canadian public on behalf of the League of Nations Society in Canada is being made in the appended manifesto, signatories appended including the Prime Minister Hon. W. L. Mackenzie-King, ex-Premiers Sir Robert Borden and Rt Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Hon. Henri S. Beland, Sir George E. Foster, Hon. N. W. Rowel, and Hon. Chas. J. Doherty. The society proposes entering on a Dominion wide campaign, for the collection of funds for the carrying on of its objects, and for this purpose arrangements have been completed in Toronto, Montreal and Halifax, and organization work is proceeding elsewhere. Head office is in Toronto, the Secretary being H. D. Robertson, 106 McKinnon Building. Text of the manifesto is as follows:—

"The League of Nations in Canada has been orgainzed (1) To promote international peace; (2) To furnish information about the League of Nations, its principles, organizations and work, (3) To study international problems and Canada's relation thereto, as a member of the British Commonwealth and of the League of Nations; (4) To foster mutual understanding, good-will, and the habits of co-operation between the people of Canada and of other countries, in accordance with the spirit of the League of Nations.

"We have associated ourselves with this Society because we believe in the purpose and aims of the League of Nations. It is our belief that the world's peace will not be assured until the conscience of humanity shall constrain governments and nations, under pain of outlawry, to bring their differences to the Council Board, instead of to the battle field. Under present conditions the League of Nations is the most effective and, indeed, the only available instrument for that purpose. It can only be made thoroughly effective if it is supported by an informed and intelligent public opinion in every nation that is a member of the League.

"Not only upon the Society, but upon every person of good will in Canada there rests an especial responsibility to promote the purpose for which the League of Nations has been established. It is essential that his purpose, and the means by which it can be fulfilled shall be brought home to the general public in our country; and to this end, extensive publicity is absolutely necessary.

"The funds required to enable the Society to carry on this work of publicity must be raised by voluntary contributions. We are confident that the Canadian public which responded so generously to every patriotic appeal throughout the War, will be equally responsive to an appeal for the support of this Society organized to aid in the preservation of Peace.

(Signed) R. L. Borden
W. L. Mackenzie King
T. A. Crerar

MILLBROOK NEWS

Teams Practising.

The senior baseball team are practising diligently every evening in preparation for their initial game of the season, in connection with the Cavan-Manvers-Emily League, at Bethany on the 24th. The following members are expected to compose the team playing that day: Messrs. A. McCorry, C. Nattrass Ross Edmunds, E. C. Richards, C. Larmer, Harold Nattress, G. W. Sayles, H. Lancashire, and Russell Smith. A number from Millbrook intend motoring over to witness the game, and all are hoping that the weather will prove favourable.

Last Dance.

The last dance of the season, under the auspices of the G.W.V.A., will be held in the Armouries on Monday, 22nd May, beginning at 9 p.m. Linton's Orchestra of Toronto will furnish the music for the first time in Millbrook. As there is every reason to except an unusually large attendance, and space for spectators is somewhat limited, the committee has decided to make a small charge of 35 cents for the lattef. All the receipts, exclusive of expenses, are for the benefit of the war veterans, as they have need of funds in thir various undertakings.

RUNAWAY PAIR FROM PETERBOROUGH

Spent the Week End in Port Hope—Husband and Chief on the War Path.

(Port Hope Guide.)

A Peterborough man fell in love with another man's wife in the northern city and on Saturday they decided on a trip over the week end. Yesterday they had not returned and the husband called on Chief Colwill to help in the search. The Chief learned that the pair registered as man and wife at the Ontario House on Saturday and remained there until Monday.

The husband is greatly worried over the affair and told the chief that he was obliged to remain at home now to look after his family of five small children. Chief Colwill made numerous enquiries but was unable to learn anything of their whereabouts since they left the Ontario House.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, May 20.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday. Demand 4.4878; Cables 4.4903.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, May 20.— (Canadian Press)— There was no further changes in the condition of the local cash grain market. Business in mill feed was quiet and trade in rolled oats slow. A steady trade continues in baled hay. There was no change in the condition of the local egg market. Potatoes are in steady demand. Butter prices scored a further decline of 1 1-2c per lb. Cheese is in fair demand.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA May. 20.—(Canadian Press).—This week's trading has been less active than for some time past due to the falling off in offers received by Ontario country shippers. Dealers feel that the prices asked are too high. The market however, is very firm and jobbing prices remain practically unchanged

Montreal firm and active, jobbing specials 35 to 36, first 33; second 30 consumptive demand good, receipts lighter.

Winnipeg firm and unchanged.

Pease PIPELESS FURNACE

Many people have the idea that the Pease Pipeless Furnace is not adaptable for city homes, but the large number of testimonials on file prove otherwise. Read this letter from a resident of Helendale Avenue, in North Toronto:

"The Pease Pipeless Furnace installed here is more than satisfactory. It is a most perfect heater, especially of the upstair rooms, and is very easy on the coal."

Sounds convincing, doesn't it? And the folder "The Question of the Pipeless Furnace," will give you further information. Come in for your copy.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Innovation For Northumberland and Durham Counties—Baseball News

MILLBROOK, May 20. — An innovation is being planned by the Public School Teachers Institute of the Inspectorate of Northumberland and Durham, the unusual feature being the holding of its annual convention at Rochester, the dates decided upon being as near the 21st and 22nd of September as possible. The executive met at the Consolidated School, Cobourg, on Thursday of this week, and after discussion, agreed to accept the very cordial invitation extended to them by the Rochester Board of Education, and the Teachers' Association, which number 1,700 members, to hold their coming convention in that city.

Successful Year.

The Bridge Street Methodist Church, Belleville, recently closed a most successful year, the financial reports showing an expenditure of $17,000, besides givings to the Lord's Day Alliance, Dominion Alliance, Bible Society, and Sailors' and Shantymen's Funds. Rev. George Brown, who spent four years on the Millbrook circuit, and has a host of warm personal friends here, is the assistant pastor of Bridge Street.

Cadets Disappointed.

A recent announcement in the House by the Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Militia and Defence, is to the effect that there will be no Cadet camps this year, the reason given being the need of a drastic conomy in the Militia estimates. For Cadet service these have been cut down from $450,000 to $100,000. This will be rather disappointing news to the Cadets here, as Colonel Gillespie, on his recent visit of inspection, raised the expectation that the boys would go to Barriefield this summer. There are nearly 30,000 Cadets in the Province of Ontario, and over 103,000 in Canada altogether.

Community Club.

The Scott's Corners Community Club intend holding their annual picnic on Victoria Day, 24th May, at the Athletic Grounds, one-quarter of a mile west from the Corners. A splendid programme of sports has been arranged for the afternoon, including basketball for the girls, baseball beginning at 2 p.m., races, and a tug-of-war between the rival townships of Monaghan and Cavan. The public are invited to bring their baskets and picnic on the grounds, where hot water will be provided for those wishing to make tea. A number from Millbrook expect to motor over for the afternoon and enjoy the sports, as there is no public celebration of the day here, our big sports day coming on the 8th of June.

Go to Bailieboro.

A baseball club, representative of the three C.S.E.T. organisations, Anglican, Methodist, and Presbyterian, is being chosen to go to Bailieboro for the 24th, to participate in the sports being held there under the auspices of the Tuxis Boys' Square. Some of the leaders will also be present, and a good days's programme has been arranged for. Supper will also be served in the evening by the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church.

First Accident.

The first accident of the ball season occurred on Tuesday evening, when Lawrence Ingram, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Ingram, Anne Street, had the misfortune to have his nose broken from being struck with the ball. The injury is a painful one, and all are hoping that Lawrence, who is a good sport, will recover as rapidly as possible from its effects.

New Boathouse.

Mr. W. E. Ball has been busy recently fitting up a boathouse at Wallace's Point, on the Otonabee, for the accommodation of his handsome new yacht, Thelma. On Thursday afternoon of this week Messrs. G. Hetherington, J. Steele, W. H. Bingham, G. E. Burnham, and W. E. Ball motored to the river for the launching of the Thelma, which was successfully accomplished. The men enjoyed a brief trip down the river, the speed of the yacht proving all that could be desired. The wives of those taking the initial trip were to have joined the party, but unfortunately the wet afternoon prevented their being present as had been previously planned for. The Thelma will doubtless furnish a splendid opportunity for Mr. Ball and his friends to pursue their favourite pastime of fishing during the season.

Illustrated Lecture.

The illustrated lecture on "Child Life in Mission Lands," given by Rev. G. S. Gervan in Grace Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening, was fairly well attended, and proved both instructive and interesting. Five of the junior girls, Ruth Thorndyke, Margaret Armstrong, Banita Ingram, and Jean and Edna Gervan, whose vocal numbers are always much enjoyed, sang a chorus, 'We are Little Sowers," and Mrs. Gervan read a missionary story, which was listened to with much pleasure by all present. The lecture was under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary, and through the kindness of Rev. C. R. Spencer, the lantern belonging to St. Thomas Church was used for the slides.

Funeral on Friday.

The funeral of the late Harry Turner, second son of Mrs. J. Turner, took place on Friday afternoon from the residence of his uncle Mr. William Bruce, George Street, to Gardiner's Cemetery. Deceased was called away quite early in life, being only in his 19th year at the time of his death, which occurred on Wednesday last, after a brief illness, from flu-pneumonia, and from the first there seemed little hope of recovery. Rev. S. T. Tucker had charge of the funeral services, and the following acted as pall-bearers: Messrs. Lloyd Byam, Frank Alcorn, Melville McCorry, Albert Dunn, Harry Broadbent, and D. Robinson. Besides the bereaved mother, to whom the entire community extends sincere sympathy, the surviving members of the family are three brothers, Fred, Stanley, and Manly, the latter being the only one now at home.

The Apple Crop.

Department of Agriculture has recently issued several bulletins warning the farmers of the older part of Ontario that while they have been dilatory in action, the fruit growers of the Okanagan Valley, B.C., have already formed a syndicate, and successfully invaded the Ontario market, securing a steady demand for their apples. As there are some excellent apple orchards in the counties of Durham and Northumberland, the district representatives of these and other counties have been strongly urging the farmers here to recognise the necessity of immediate and concerted action, if they are to hold their own against their Western competitors. This will doubtless be of interest to farmers in the vicinity of Millbrook, as several of them have excellent orchards, and ship their apples every fall.

EIGHTEEN YEARS CONTINUOUSLY AS CHAIRMAN OF THE CHARITY BOARD

Valuable Service to the City By Mr. Harry Rush in Social Work of Which the Public Rarely Hears Any Details—Member of the Board Twenty-One Years.

TOLD IN OLD MINUTES

Twenty-one years a member of the Central Charity Board, Mr. Harry Rush has been eighteen years its Chairman.

This long, faithful and silent service to the public was casually brought to the attention of an Examiner reporter while perusing an old minute book of the board's first meetings. Only the members know the intimate details of the affairs that are indicated in this fading record by sufficient but insignificant entries disposing of appeals for help from men and women, old and young.

In all that time the work of the Charity Board seldom reached the front page, not, however, because of any lack of the elements of newspaper interest at its meetings. Expurgated reports tucked away on an inside page have been usually the only information to remind the public that the board was regularly functioning, and these reports were generally pruned to the list of accounts that were ordered to be paid. Charity drew its veil over the names of those who had shuffled down to the beggars' row.

For twenty-one years this has been the voluntary public work which Harry Rush has performed—as one of the most active members of the board—and during the last eighteen years he has come into personal contact with most of the woeful applicants for aid. At so many of the meetings has the resolution appeared, 'that this matter be left to the Chairman and the Relief Officer (F. W. Miller)," that the Secretary, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, might have secured a rubber stamp for this recurrent item, leaving blanks only where names were needed.

An Unwanted Baby.

One of those resolutions was passed at the meeting on September 24, 1906, when Police Magistrate Dumble requested the board to pay for the care of an infant that had been left by a woman who couldn't be found with another woman who couldn't afford to keep it.

Relief Officer Miller can't recall that incident, but somebody may know what became of that baby now advanced to at least sixteen years, whether it was placed in an orphanage or was reclaimed by its mather or taken by wealthy foster parents. Unmarried mothers, old folks deserted by their children, the sick and infirm, widows (until lately)—in short, all the ranks of sorrow and failure and weakness and distress were claimants for public assistance through the Charity Board.

As the personification of Peterborough's charity and the guide of that public virtue, Harry Rush has seemed specially endowed and ordained for that position. He was an ideal choice for the peculiarly responsible duties of Chairman of the board. His native generosity and kindness of heart has been nicely balanced by marked mental qualities of good judgment and understanding, combined with broadmindedness and a deep sense of business. And, as a result, his efforts and advice have won for him the absolute confidence of his colleagues, the gratitude of those persons whose appeals were found genuine and worthy and the respect of the general public. The people of Peterborough should congratulate themselves that the dispensing of their charity the year round falls under the supervision of a gentleman of Mr. Rush's fine character.

A Bit of History.

According to the worn old minute book the community's charity was at the disposal of a committee of the Council, the members of which in 1893 were: H. C. Winch (Chairman), J. D. Collins, Geo. Stevenson, H. A. Mulbern, Mayor Kendry and Relief Officer Pope.

At the meeting on January 19, 1894, Councillors Hughes and Dawson moved that this committee recommend that any man who is offered work by the Street Inspector and does not accept it, and does not support his family, be charged in Police Court with non-support.

It was also decided then that the names of persons getting relief be published with the amounts given.

The Central Charity Board was founded in 1897, and at the inaugural meeting the first constituent members were:

A. L. Davis, Chairman of the Charity Committee of the Council; Ven. Archdeacon Casey, St. Peter's Cathedral; P. Campbell, St. John's Church; Robert Innis, St. Paul's; J. J. McBain, Children's Aid Society; Adjt. J. R. Wiseman, Salvation Army; Wm. Aldridge, Murray Street Baptist Church; A. L. Grover, Park Street Baptist; Wm. Fowler, St. Andrew's; T. H. Best, Bethany Mission; Jos. Batten, Charlotte Street Methodist; F. W. Miller, Relief Officer; W. B. Bamford, St. John's Mission (All Saints').

Later Changes.

On February 1st Wm. Yelland, from George Street Methodist Church, and A. P. Poussette, representing the Hall Poor Trust, joined the board. In 1898 Robert Innis was elected Chairman. On May 21, 1901, a letter from Rev. J. C. Davidson was read, announcing that Harry Rush had been appointed to represent St. John's and Wm. Buller All Saints' Church. On February 8, 1904, Mr. Rush was made Chairman. The accounts of those days show that tamarac wood was bought for $2.75, and undertakers provided decent burial at a charge of $7.

The members of the board in 1906 were: H. Rush, Geo. Cochrane, W. Fowler, W. Scott, R. C. Braund, J. D. Collins, Rev. Father McColl, W. Buller, W. Yelland, W. Kemp, Jos. Batten and F. W. Miller.

The board today is composed of: H. Rush (Chairman), St. John's; J. D. Collins, St. Paul's; Dr. D. W. Scott, Murray Street Baptist; H. G. Stabler, George Street Methodist; F. H. Adams, St. Luke's; D. Hennessy, Immaculate Conception; Jas. Garside, Park Street Baptist; C. Rutherford, Knox; Switzer, Trinity; J. R. Corkery, St. Peter's; A. Johnston, Bethany Tabernacle; R. C. Braund, Salvation Army; George Powell, Children's Aid Society; John Reid, St. Andrew's; F. Rorke, St. James'; F. W. Miller, Relief Officer.

MY COMFORTER.

The world had all gone wrong that day,
And tired and in despair,
Discouraged with the ways of life,
I sank into a chair.

A soft caress fell on my cheek,
My hands were thrust apart,
And two big sympathetic eyes
Gazed down into my heart.

I had a friend, what cared I now
For fifty worlds; I knew
One heart was anxious when I grieved—
My dog's heart, loyal, true.

"Good bless him," breathed I soft and low,
And hugged him close and tight;
One lingering lick upon my ear
And we were happy—quite.

CONSERVATORY CLOSING CONCERT

(By Jeannette).

The Conservatory closing concert held at the Grand Opera House last evening was greeted with a capacity audience, and proved to be an interesting and entertaining exhibition of proficiency attained by the youth of Peterboro in the realm of music. The performers, all quite young, acquitted themselves in a manner distinctly creditable to themselves and to their teachers. Owing to the length of the programme, encores were forbidden to the applause which greeted every number.

Orchestral, vocal, instrumental and dramatic offerings were given in a well-balanced programme by pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, the Misses Palmer, Urquhart, Scott, Elcome, Johnston and Messrs. Carlos Buhler, Harry Wagner, and R. Gliddon, with accompaniments played by Mrs. G. G. Evans, the Misses Florence Scott, Olga Fowler, Margaret Widdiss and Agnes Logan.

Orchestras Good.

The orchestral numbers were particularly good. The adult Conservatory Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Gliddon, excels in its tonal qualities. Technical mastery, accuracy, and intelligent interpretation of an ambitious number were shown in their first offering, the difficult overture, "Nabucadonosor," by Verdi, in which the singing strings formed a soft overtone for the swelling background of flute, and oboe, and French horn. Ensemble work of high quality was also shown in the final offerings; the melodious sextette from "Lucia," and a pleasing descriptive fantasie, "In a Clock Store," with daintily-picked strings, cymbals and bass viols simulating the various timepieces, from the chiming beat of the little French mantel clock to the sonorous tone of the grandfather clock in the hall, and the jaunty call of the little cuckoo.

A noticeable feature of the offerings by the orchestra was the directing by Mr. Gliddon in every instance without score, a feature which is not always evident in the best of visiting conductors.

The children's orchestra, directed by Miss Edwina Palmer, was greeted with well-merited approbation. This clever aggregation of youthful players, assisted by two or three of the adult members of the Conservatory staff, show exceptional ability in their marked attention to their young conductor, the precision with which they attack their offerings, and the care taken with every detail to make harmonious, excellently-played music. Barnschein's "Sun-down" and the pleasing "Festival March" were their contributions to the programme.

Instrumental Numbers.

The selections rendered on the piano by several pupils of the Conservatory were particularly appreciated. Miss Jean Anderson played Godard's "Valse Chromatique" with excellent technical ability and soft tone; Miss Mary Harstone showed firm, clear touch and splendid style in her two numbers, a soft and dreamy "Nocturne" by Chopin, played with expressive feeling, and a heavier selection, with massive chords, in the descriptive measures of "Reproach."

Miss Agnes Logan scored a triumph with her dual number. The ability of this young musician is outstanding, and last night's exhibition was only another example of her technical mastery, the ease and skill with which she plays difficult music, the softness of her light, velvety touch. Chopin's "Barcarolle" was played with sympathetic tone, followed by a charming, light "Waltz," with sweet, rippling chords.

An instrumental number receiving much applause was Liszt's "Cantique d'Amour," played by Miss Faith Jones, who made adequate response to the difficulties of her selection, in her brilliant execution of its awkward intervals, her firm, sure touch and artistic interpretation making it particularly pleasing.

Vocal Offerings.

In the vocal offerings, Miss Ina Allen had two songs, her pure, clear tones, sweet and powerful in the higher register, with appealing notes in the lower range, receiving enthusiastic encores in the charming "Hindoo Song," followed by a dainty, whimsical number, "The Man in the Moon," ending on a faint, high note.

Miss Edna Borbridge sang very sweetly, "When You Come Home"; Miss Helene Heffernan's light, delicate tones were heard to good advantage in "Until" and "Where My Caravan Has Rested," with violin obligato; and Miss Hazel Davidson rendered, with dramatic effect and articulation that brought every word clear and distinct, the pretty "Beauty Sleep" number.

Violin Selections.

Two violin numbers by the junior pupils of Miss Palmer were much appreciated, Winifred Evans receiving repeated encores with her skilful rendition of Herbert's "Serenade," and Arnold Spencer going through the "Polish Dance" with an earnest facility that made little of the difficulties experienced on the way, including incidental pizzicati, harmonics and prolonged bars of double-stopping.

A duo on two pianos by four young girls was well done, the "Mid-Summer Night's Dream," with its bright, rippling measures and rapid tempo swelling out in perfect time and harmony under the flying, nimble fingers of the skilful performers, the Misses Mildred and Helen Morphet, Helen Lamb and Grace Wilson.

The Hawaiian Guitar Club made an attractive picture, the white, seated figures adorned with the scarlet leis, the floral neck-chains of the sunny Isles, playing the haunting music that always charms, in a programme that included the popular "Aloha" and "Till We Meet Again."

Mr. Wm. Cormack handled his difficult instrument with ability in his cornet solo, "Dream of Paradise," and one of the most enthusiastically - applauded numbers was Miss Jennie Lewis' hornpipe dance, the light, graceful footwork of the lithe young dancer proving very popular with the audience.

The "Minuett" to the lovely strains of Beethoven's composition was very attractive. The Misses Daisy Davidson, Dorothy McClelland, Doris Clegg and Helen Lamb were quaint figures in the pannier'd skirts, the lace fichus and the powdered heads of another age, when dances were graceful and dignified, moving with stately ease through the low curtseys and the softly-stepped measures of the pretty dance.

An attractively staged one-act comedy was the offering of the dramatic section in "Her Nephew-in-Law Elect," in which three young ladies presented a whimsical little affair; Miss Muried Harvey stunning as "Elizabeth," and Miss Helen Morrison excellent in the part of "Elsie," both supposed to be engaged to the same man. Miss Alma Stinchcombe made an attractive little Irish maid, "Norah," in trim black and white.

What Is Digestion?

Stomach: Fermentation of food which fails to be digested, acids and gases given off causing pain about the heart and belching of wind, pain, weight and distension.

Bowels: Irritated by acid state of food, griping pain and colic. Every bodily organ is affected, headache, dizziness, rheumatic pains, depression of spirits and sometimes jaundice.

Indigestion usually results from over-eating and the failure of the liver and kidneys to clear the system of poisonous waste matter. Relief is promptly afforded by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which rid the system of poisons and ensure healthy action of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Mrs. S. Hetherington, R.R. No. 1, Orangeville, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with indigestion for a number of years, but on taking Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I secured great relief with the first box, and after a few more boxes were taken I found I could do without them, and the trouble has not returned."

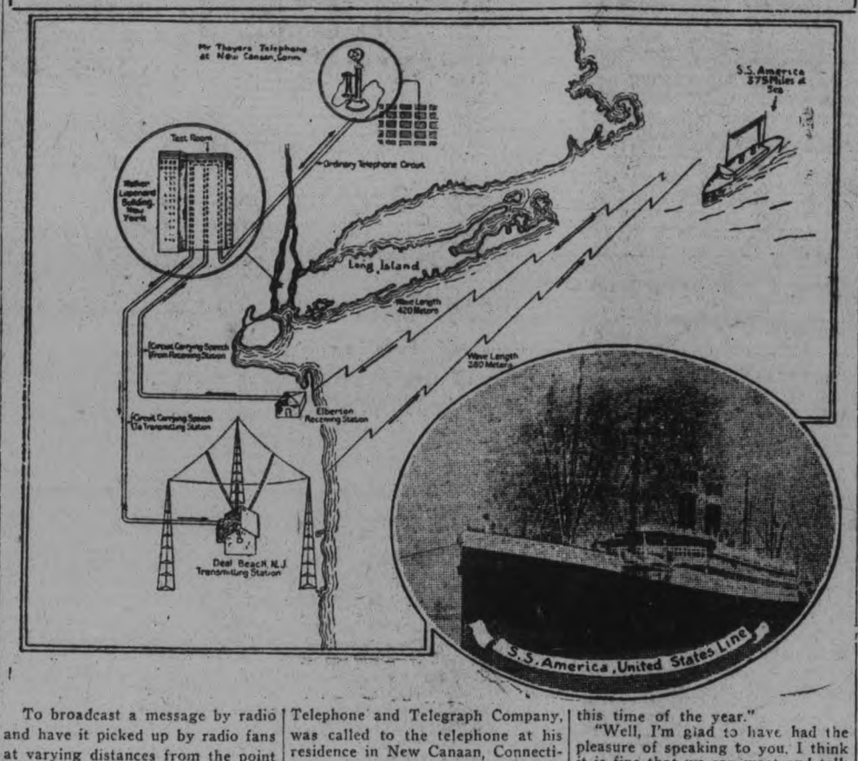
RADIO'S HIGH WATER MARK



To broadcast a message by radio and have it picked up by radio fans at varying distances from the point of origin seems no longer to present any difficulty. It being done every day when weather conditions are right.

But to step to the telephone in your home and speak to a ship captain four hundred miles at sea and have him answer you and continue to answer you and you converse with him in ordinary tones—that is the high water mark of achievement in communication so far.

On the evening of Sunday, March 5th at about 7.30 o'clock H. B. Thayer, President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, was called to the telephone at his residence in New Canaan, Connecticut, to answer a call from Captain Rand, who was on his ship, the "American" of the United States Line, as it approached New York.

"Hello, this is Captain Rind."

"Captain, this is Mr. Thayer of the telephone company. I'm up in New Canaan. I understand you are three or four hundred miles at sea."

"Yes we are 370 miles from Ambrose Light at 7.30. We expect to dock to-morrow evening at seven or eight."

"What kind of a trip are you having?"

"Well, I'm glad to have had the pleasure of speaking to you. I think it is fine that we can meet and talk this way."

That with the usual parting greetings was the conversation that may, in a sense, be described as epoch-making. As the Bell engineers explained to those who listened in from a vantage point in New York, it means that the time is undoubtedly coming when there will be nothing strange in any telephone subscriber from Toronto to Havana lifting his received and talking to a friend on one of the large trans-oceanic ships of the Atlantic or Pacific fleet.

THE HOME CIRCLE

DISCONTENT

Upon the moon are treasures
We often have sought in vain,
For life is a round of pleasures,
And none are assailed by pain.

Each house has a golden steeple
And windows of silver light.
The rollicking, happy people
May caper from dawn till night.
But once they heard the story
Of our earth that shone on high.
And in envy of its glory
They began to weep and sigh.

"On that planet," they lamented,
Things are truly gay and fair.
We shall never be contented
Till we're blessed by living there!"
—Stanton A. Coblentz.

DECORATION DAY

This year when Decoration Day dawns all of the boys who gave their services and their lives "over there" will have found their last resting place—either here in America or "somewhere in France." It was a matter of personal opinion where each one should rest, some mothers wanting all that was mortal of their boy back on their native soil. But wherever they rest each grave will undoubtedly be decorated on this Decoration Day.

Each year as we have watched Decoration Day parade forming and listened to the services it has set us that only to the old soldiers who fought in the Civil War did the ceremony mean anything? To them it was a solemn thing, but to the young people and especially to the children who take part in decorating the graves it is meant nothing more than a "Decoration Day Parade." No one had ever explained to them the aching hearts behind all those graves they were decorating. No one had ever explained to them the horrors of war.

But now the veterans of the world war are young men still. They will not forget and let us hope they will not allow others to forget, the horrors through which they have passed to save the principle of freedom and democracy. Let us hope that the little children will imbibe some of their spirit and that they will grow up, not with the old-fashioned idea that war is a glorious thing and that to be a soldier is to be a glorious personage. Let us hope that they will grow up with a horror of war and of what it brings and that they will never submit to it. Therein lies the hope for the future. Therein lies the promise that future Decoration Days will not find fresh graves added to the already too long list to be decorated.

Let us consider these things on the coming Decoration Days. Let us "ponder them in our hearts" and resolve that if education can avoid this bloody god of war, we will not stint the education.

In this article in the Woman's Home Companion, Arthur Hopkins discourages the stage struck girl in his article, "Why You Want to Be An Actress?" He says there is no profession that is so crowded and no profession where the chance of attaining real distinction is so small.

The average income of the mediocre actress, and that class makes up about ninety per cent of the acting population, is about fifteen hundred dollars a year. When you consider the late hours, the poor travelling accommodations and absence from home and friends, the triumph to secure mere mediocrity is not worth the sacrifice.

When you were a child weren't there a whole lot of people about whom you had doubts if they were ever young? Didn't you think that they had doubts of it themselves? If you had asked them they would probably have said, "Well, let me see. Yes I suppose I was. It sounds reasonable, doesn't it?"

That is just exactly what a lot of children are thinking today. And with good grounds. Older people manifest so little understanding of the habits and desires of children. Of course they are inquisitive. Everything new to them. Why shouldn't they. They wouldn't be normal children if they didn't want to know the "why" of everything.

Just try and remember your own childhood and you will have a better understanding of the natures of the children today.

If Your Kidneys Are The Trouble

ASK YOUR NEIGHBORS ABOUT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLE.

North Ingonish, Cape Breton, May 19.—(Special.)—Right to the point is the statement Mr. Lawrence Brown, a well-known resident here, makes with regard to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Here it is in Mr. Brown's own words:

"I suffered from backache and kidney trouble. After taking a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I was relieved."

It is statements like the above that have made Dodd's Kidney Pills a household remedy all over Canada. For more than a quarter of a century people have been telling each other of the benefits received from Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are purely and simply a kidney remedy. But—

If your kidneys trouble you ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the remedy you need.

CLUBWOMEN--HERE ARE SEVEN RULES FOR YOU

MRS. ROBERT BURDETTE

And now comes Mrs. Robert Burdette, leading clubworker and a national figure in suffrage and social work, who lays down seven points in conduct for clubwomen at the convention of the California State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Here they are:

Don't pass so many resolutions before finding out what you are doing and what the issue is all about.

There is too much of the pouring process in the minds of children. Teach them to think.

Too many women have closed minds. They are not tolerant of the religion, politics and opinions of others.

No woman has the right to be a club president or a club leader unless she has enriched her own life by constant study and participation in civic affairs.

As a woman thinketh, so is she, and her whole family also.

And now, Mr. Husband, you who used to be so sure that clubs would make you wife neglect her home, be properly rebuked.

For five of the seven rules apply to the home.

And their message seems to be that you cant' be a good clubwoman and neglect your home. So there.

RHEUMATISM vs. T.R.C.'s
Lumbago, Neuritis, Sciatica

Rheumatism and similar troubles invariably yield to this T.R.C.'s (Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules) treatment. Many doctors and many hundreds of druggists from coast to coast will confirm this truth. The hundreds of testimonial letters in our files show that T.R.C.'s have successfully treated Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis, Sciatica and acute Neuralgia of all kinds. THE CALL FROM RUSSIA.

The community of nations is being splendidly demonstrated in the case of Russia's starving millions. Down at bottom we must see that the response to Russia's appeal rests on something deeper than mere policy. It is the human side of international relationships that has called forth an expression of innate brotherhood.

The strongest appeal has come from the spectacle of thousands of starving Russian children. The thought of little boys and girls, and of babies in their mothers' arms, dying slowly and painfully through lack of food touches human hearts as nothing else could. They are the helpless ones. They can do nothing but wait, while hunger reduces their little bodies to mere skeletons and ends their lives.

We have never had a famine in Canada, thank God! We have always had plenty and to spare. Crop failures have been spared the spectacle of acute want among the masses of our people. Still we can imgine something of the terrors of a situation that would result were some of or productive provinces stricken by drought. This is what happened in Russia.

The campaign conducted by the Save the Children Fund has already brought in enough money to save 75,000 children. But there are thousands more to be saved. Send your contribution to Sir George Burn, treasurer of the Save the Children Fund, Ottawa, or forward it through your local organization or bank.

A compilation of the last census figures show that 50.3 per cent of the entire population, 10 years of age or over, were engaged in some gainful occupation.

The legal fraternity in England have an unwritten law that a man promoted to the rank of king's counsel shall provide his clerk with a new frock suit and an immaculate silk hat.

In France, yellow is the color of jealousy and domestic discord, and on that account many French women will not wear yellow or have yellow flowers in their homes.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

THE RED HAND

(Copyright, 1920, By the Wheeler Syndicate Inc.)

"All aboard! All aboard!"

The guards who had charge of the London local which was due to stop at Hackney, shortly after six o'clock in the evening, were even more insistent than usual in their demands one night in early summer, for the train was already late and trying to make up time. But a cry of consternation from one of the men who was boarding the train, brought the attendants looking around him.

"Look!" he cried, pointing through the glass of the compartment toward the cushions of the far side. "My God, man! Don't you see? They are soaked with blood! And there's a man's walking stick and a black leather bag! There is the occupant of this compartment?"

That was the question which puzzled every member of the London police force, and especially Colonel James Fraser, head of the department.

Where was the man who had very evidently been murdered in the back? Who was he?

The black bag contained no information whatever, and the walking stick was merely an ordinary one, lacking even initials. The guard who had charge of that car said that he "seemed to recall two men getting into that compartment at Fenchurch Street, in London," but he couldn't be sure. The train had been quite crowded and he had been too busy with his own duties to pay any attention to the individual passengers.

When Colonel Fraser examined the car carefully, however, he found the print of a bloody hand—a hand with short, squat fingers—on the wall of the coach, evidently where the murderer had steadied himself after committing the crime. But where was the body?

This angle of the case was soon cleared up by the discovery of the body of a man near the railroad tracks in Victoria Park. The head and the face had been so disfigured that identification would have been almost impossible, had it not been for the card which was found in his vest pocket. By means of this, it was found that the dead man was a certain Thomas Briggs, chief clerk of a London Banking House, who had been on his way to visit his daughter in Peckham. According to his associates, he was in the habit of carrying a considerable sum of money with him, and also wore a very handsome watch and chain. When the body was discovered, however, both the watch and the money were missing, and the murderer had evidently gone through the clothing in an attempt to remove all papers or other means of identification.

Immediately after the body was discovered, Colonel Fraser measured the fingers of the left hand, but found that they were entirely too long and well-shaped to fit the bloody imprint on the wall of the coach.

Pinning their faith to the fact that the murderer would probably try to sell Briggs' watch and chain, the police settled down to watch all the pawnbrokers in and around London, but days passed without any developments from this end of the case—days in which the police were ridiculed and censured for their inability to find a man who committed a crime on a railroad train in broad daylight.

Finally, just as Fraser was nearing the end of his patience, a second-hand dealer in Cheapside reported that a chain, similar to the one worn by the dead man, had been brought into his establishment on the day after the murder. The chain, he said, had been placed in with some others and had slipped his mind until he commenced to go over his stock. The only description he could give of the man who sold it was that he was "foreign-looking," in fact, he felt certain that he was a German.

More in order to quiet the press than because he attached any real impostance to the discovery, Colonel Fraser made public the detail of the dealer's story, and the following morning a man called at police headquarters, bringing with him a card which he said his daughter had found on the floor of the room recently occupied by Franz Muller. The card bore the name of the second-hand dealer who had purchased the chain!

Muller, stated Fraser's informant, was a German who had boarded in his house for some time past, but who had suddenly disappeared, leaving most of his effects behind him.

"Yes, sir he did. Here it is," and the man produced a picture which the second-hand dealer immediately identified as the man who had sold him the chain.

It was a matter of only a few hours to trace the German to a steamship office, and to find that he sailed, forty-eight hours before for America. Wishing his own men to have credit for the capture, Fraser despatched two of them to New York on a fast boat, and when Muller stepped off the gang plank he was arrested for the murder of Thomas Briggs, although he vigorously protested his innocence and stated that he had bought the chain for a man on the street. As further proof of his assertion he produced Briggs' watch which, he said, he had bought at the same time as the chain.

Inasmuch as the guard who had seen the man enter the coach at Fenchurch Street, could not positively identify Huller, the case against him appeared to be very flimsy—until Colonel Fraser compared the man's hand with the bloody outline on the wall of the coach. The two were identical to the thousandth part of an inch!

GIRL SOBS TALE OF LOVE BLIGHT.

"He Waited 10 Years to Find Me," Says Armenian Beauty, Suing Doctor Here.

DETROIT, May 19.—Dr. Harry M. Malejan, 35 years old, physician with offices in the David Whitney Building, remained a bachelor because he demanded for a bride an American girl of Armenian parentage whose hair should be, not the jet black that crowns the heads of most persons of Armenian blood but blonde.

This was the statement made today by pretty Beatrice Faljian, formerly of Troy, N.Y., who is suing the doctor for $50,000 damages, charging breach of promise to marry. Miss Faljian, 23 years old, born in America of Armenian parents, is that rare type for which, she says, Dr. Malejan searched for 10 years.

This is her story:

Dr. Malejan's search ended one day when a mutual friend of the Faljian and Malejan families told the doctor about Beatrice, of her head of blonde hair, of her dark eyes, and of her Armenian blood. Dr. Malejan immediately obtained letters of introduction to the Faljian family, the girl said, and on New Year's day, 1921, arrived in Troy, N.Y. and began a whirlwind courtship which resulted, she says, in her receiving a $900 diamond engagement ring in February.

"I was happy and we were to be married in June," said Miss Faljian. "The doctor said he wanted a fine American home, to which he could bring his American friends, and that we would buy our furniture immediately.

She Blames Family

"Then I was introduced to his family and the trouble started. They did not want their son to marry and leave home, and he said he could not marry while they lived."

"His family told me I was too young for him, and that I was just marrying him for his money. They told him I would divorce him within six months of our marriage, and by July he seemed afraid to see me or to answer my letters. Then, when my mother wrote to him, he professed the best of intentions and I still believed he loved me. I believe he still does, and that if his parents had not interfered we would be happily married."

Miss Faljian and her mother were guests today of friends at 200 La Belle Avenue, Highland Park. The family is living in Ann Arbor with a brother of Dr. Malejan, Garoldi Malejan and, according to the mother, Garoldi Malejan has done everything in his power to make his brother keep his alleged promise to the girl.

Miss Faljian, with pink cheeks, dark brown eyes and golden hair, is striking in appearance. There were tears in her eyes as she showed her engagement ring set in platinum.

Sobs out Her Story

"Three times I went to the doctor and begged him to tell me what had come between us," she continued. "Three times he just laughed and walked out of the room. He told me if I loved him I would not make any trouble for him, and I answered him that if he loved me he would not have made me suffer as I have. In the old country from which my people came, such things do not happen. Men do not trifle with a girl's heart without expecting to be called to account."

The girl dabbed her pretty brown eyes with her handkerchief.

When the breach of promise suit comes to trial, Henry J. Balser, of Ann Arbor, Miss Faljian's attorney, says he will offer in evidence love letters alleged by the plaintiff to have been received from the doctor.

Dr. Malejan at his home at 62 Ford avenue, Highland Park, said today the whole thing was a surprise to him.

"I certainly seem to be getting alot of notoriety about this thing," the doctor said. "I am exceedingly sorry it has happened, but I can not discuss the case. I shall tell my story in a court when the time comes. Miss Faljian is a fine girl, and has been a guest here at my home. I can only say that I regret this thing beyond measure."

But the fellow in the middle had all the fun- He heard the concerts, while the others looked on.

That was obviated, however, when the boys changed seats every few blocks.

HEART WOULD BEAT LIKE A TRIP HAMMER

Heart trouble has of late years become very prevalent. Sometimes a pain catches you in the region of the heart, now and then your heart skips beats, palpitates, throbs, or beats with such rapidity and violence you think it is going to burst.

You have weak and dizzy spells, sinking sensations, are nervous irritable and depressed, and if you attempt to walk up stairs or any distance you get all out of breath.

We know of no remedy that will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy and normal condition as will

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. Chadwick, Delhi, Ont., writes, "I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exercise such as going upstairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip hammer and at times I was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation as if my time were near.

A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills so I procured three boxes and by the time the first one was used I began to improve. In all I took six boxes, and now, although in my 66th year I feel like a young girl; no dizziness or heart-thumping and can walk miles without fatigue. At time of sickness I weighed 120 pounds, now I weigh 150."

Price, 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

STAGE THE MESSAGE OF THE BLUEBIRD.

Original Light Operatic Production Here By Mr. Asa Huycke.

The presentation of Mr. Asa Huycke's original light operatic production, "The Message of the Bluebird," at the Grand Opera House on the last two days of this month will offer local theatre-goers something unique in the way of entertainment, in an opportunity of witnessing a performance that is, from first to last, the creation of a local musician. The result of three years' work will be presented on that occasion, in a charming musical offering filled with life and color. The solos, choruses, orchestration and dialogue are all the work of Mr. Huycke, who has already composed several pieces of popular music.

The plot is unusual and humorous, opening with an engagement and the proposed ringing of "wedding bells," and relating the efforts of a wilful maiden to capture the swain with whose voice she has fallen in love. Originality marks the piece from beginning to end, in the action and the dainty musical effects. There is a chorus of gaily-garbed Swiss maidens, a troup of jolly tars and a fashion show that provides one of the most colorful moments in the production. There is the "Prince of Pots and Pans with His Little Daughter," the "Peppermint Tea Song," the "Blind Man's Buff" number, to mention only three of the catchy selections. Principals and chorus together are working hard and with enthusiasm to make this one of the principal musical events of a season that has abounded in excellent amateur performances.

Mr. J. H. Renwick is drilling the choruses into shape, and Mrs. A. A. Perrin has charge of staging and dancing, with sixteen-piece orchestra under the direction of Mr. W. F. Leader.

Local School Children Compete in Writing Stories on Pioneer Life

Idea Originated With Otonabee Chapter I. O. D. E. Hundred and Fifty in Race For Prizes, Which Will Be Awarded on Empire Day.

The Otonabee Chapter of the I.O.D.E. is responsible for a competition amongst the third and fourth forms in the Public Schools of the city, which has been exciting much interest in junior circles for some time past. Consisting of compositions on "Pioneer Life in Upper Canada," and restricted to two sheets of foolscap, some 125 children competed for the prizes, which go to their own rooms in their own schools, and consist of pictures of Joseph Brant, the renowned Indian chieftain, after whom the town of Brantford was named, and of personal prizes for themselves, of pictures of Ypres, painted by a returned Canadian soldier.

Prizes were awarded to Henry Zacks (first) of the fourth form in the Central School, and to John Wyllie (second) in the junior third class of the same school. A special prize, donated by Mr. F. H. Dobbin, one of the judges, and consisting of a picture of a sailing vessel, was won by Frances Ackerman of the Queen Mary School.

Special mention was made of compositions offered by Greta Welbourne of the Prince of Wales School and Rea Stenson of the Central, both of whom wrote stories of pioneer life on farms owned by their families in Otonabee and Monaghan, and of compositions handed in by Isabel Pogue and Gordon Pogue of the Central School, D. Rippingale of the King Edward and Nettie Hardy of the Queen Mary.

Presentation of prizes to the winners will be made on Empire Day, Tuesday next, May 23rd, at two o'clock, at the Central School, when Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Regent of the Otonabee Chapter, will make the awards, and Mr. F. H. Dobbin will give an address on "The Delivery of Mails in Pioneer Days."

THE CHILDREN HAD A WONDERFUL TIME.

The children of the city who filled the Royal Theatre last Wednesday afternoon had a wonderful time watching the pictures of Labrador, described by Miss Annie M. Warne, Corresponding Secretary for the Labrador Medical Mission. They broke into prolonged applause for the picture of Dr. Grenfell, breathed "ohs" and "ahs" of appreciation for the natural beauties of that barren land, and liked, above everything, the picture of the fuzzy husky puppy shown on the silver sheet.

Dr. Grenfell, who, after his thirty years' residence in the Labrador, is described as not only the "good physician," but the "good friend" of its people, has found that the children of that land suffer mainly from malnutrition. The absence of well-balanced rations develops in them all manner of disease, including rickets, scurvy and tuberculosis. Nutrition departments are an important item in the conduct of the various hospitals scattered through the Labrador.

The colored sails of the fishermen's boats, the wonderful "whirlpool" blue of the icy water the opalescent tints playing about the sides of monstrous icebergs, were reproduced with faithful fidelity for the children's benefit, and they liked the pictures of the little white baby seals and the antlered reindeer, and the reproduction of the wedding of two girls in that land where there are no social distinctions, and where the Mayor's daughter and the servant girl were married and feted side by side.

Two little tales told by Miss Warne appealed strongly to the children—one of the Newfoundland dog that swam ashore in a raging storm from a foundered ship and established a line that brought to safety its 90 passengers, the baby travelling inside a mail bag to save it from drowning; the other story of the accident which befell Dr. Grenfell and his dog team, when the ice parted, and he was carried out to the Atlantic on a small ice-pan. To save him, through the night he was compelled to kill three of his dogs and wrap himself in their skins, the other dogs giving him warmth by crowding around him, with one in particular helping in this way, nicknamed later the doctor's "hot water bottle." A brazen tablet, inscribed with the names of "Ruby, Watch and Spy, who gave their lives for me," was afterwards erected by Dr. Grenfell to commemorate the memory of those three dogs.

Scotland Yard has 200,000 finger-prints, so perfectly classified that any special one can be found in one minute.

They rigged up the aerial between masts lashed to two bicycles. The lead-in came down the middle to a receiving set fitted to a third bicycle between the other two.

Prisoners in English and Welsh prisons numbered about 11,800 in March 1922, as compared with 17,800 in March, 1914.

The largest range finder in the world is more than twice the size of any used during the war.

The same stunt can be tried by any three or more boys on country hikes.

TO DECORATE GRAVES OF LOCAL SOLDIERS.

Ceremony By 57th Chapter I.O.D.E. Will Be Observed

In accordance with a practice of theirs for the last ten years, the 57th Chapter of the I.O.D.E., the senior chapter in this city of the Dominion-wide organization, will decorate the graves of soldiers in local cemeteries on Empire Day, next Tuesday.

This touching custom, which has a significance particularly strong when one remembers how many of Peterborough's boys fell in the Great War, and how few of their earthly remains came back to their birthplace, is faithfully carried out each year by the chapter, who places a small Union Jack on each soldier's grave and breathe with the ceremony a short prayer for fidelity in its citizens to our country and our flag.

Mrs. B. H. Poole has charge of arrangements in Little Lake Cemetery, and Mrs. W. S. Merrill in St. Peter's Cemetery. The ladies hope that all members of the chapter will take part in the ceremony next Tuesday.

RHEUMATIC TREATMENT

In no disease does the blood become thin so rapidly as in rheumatism. Not only does it become thin, but it is loaded with rheumatic poisons. Without proper treatment these poisons increase, the general health is undermined, the inflamed joints swell, and are very painful, and often the sufferer becomes crippled.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and enable it to cast out the rheumatic poisons with the natural secretions of the body, thus driving out the pains and benefitting the general health. Sound proof of these statements is offered by Mrs. George Stanley, Sparta, Ont., who says: "For a number of years I was troubled with rheumatism, which at times was very painful. My general health was also affected and I could scarcely drag myself around. I had been doctoring a good deal but did not get any better until one day my mother brought me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time that they were used I could notice a slight improvement and I continued taking the pills until I had used about a dozen boxes by which time I felt like a new person—and looked like one. I could do any work with ease and have since enjoyed the best of health. I have since recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to several others who received the same benefit as myself."

The best time to begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the moment you feel the least bit out of sorts. The sooner you do so the sooner you will regain your old time energy. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail post paid at 50c a box or 6 boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA
Choking and Gasping for Breath Relieved by "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. PENNINGTON
NEW ROCKLAND, P.Q.

"In 1919, I was taken with Bronchial Asthma and no one knows what I suffered with it during the winter. I began having Choking Spells—gasping for breath and could not speak. I would have one of these bad spells in the evening, one during the night, and one in the morning. The doctor said he could do nothing for me.

"In the spring of 1920, I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and in a few days, the choking spells stopped, and I have had none since May 7th, 1920. I have so wanted to tell other sufferers who have the same trouble about "Fruit-a-tives" for I know how they must suffer.

Some thought the Asthma would come back on me as winter came on but it has not, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives" Mrs. J. M. PENNINGTON.

SLIGHTLY MIXED IN HER BIBLIOGRAPHY.

One of the new little inmates at the Children's Shelter got considerably mixed up in her Bibliography lately. She had become very fond of the kindly superintendent, Mr. Powell, and her Sunday School teacher wondered why she listened with such intent and horrified appreciation to the recital of the erring ways of the Apostle Paul, before he turned from his career of persecuting the Christians, and became one of the brightest lights amongst the followers of the Lord. No one realized how the little thing had confused the names of the ancient Paul with Mr. Powell until she rose gravely at a subsequent examination and proceeded to dilate on the wickedness of the latter, before he realized the evil tenor of his existence.

COMING IN AGAIN.

There is a sudden vogue for moire. Not, to be sure, the stiff black moire of our grandmothers' Sabbath gown that would stand alone but its modern incarnation.

This new moire is soft and lovely. It is satin-backed and has itself the texture of fine satin, draping exquisitely. It is shown in all the brilliant high colors of the season with watered markings of various patterns.

Godey's Ladies' Book would have approved of a moire dress in the style sketched. Its puckered basque loose bell sleeves and rows of pleated frills are reminiscent of the days of chignons and chaises. Not forgeting, besides, that they are decidely fashionable in this season of 1922.

To ensure the same distance between the forward and rear bicycles, so as to keep the antenna from lowering or tightening, the boys lashed their wheels together by means of long poles. That kept them always the same distance apart.

WORK OF ART

Mr. G. N. Curtiss is making valiant efforts to dispose of the tickets for his large peacock cushion, on view in the front window of the Grafton clothing establishment. Already, Mr. Curtiss has disposed of nearly 400 tickets by personal endeavor, and has as his objective the disposal of another 200. The cushion will be drawn for at the Capitol Theatre next Saturday evening.

Funds derived from the sale of these tickets will be donated towards relief work of the G.W.V.A. in the city, and the lucky winner will receive a real work of art, done by Mr. Curtiss himself, a disabled returned war veteran.

Looking For Trouble

He was a blithe, care-free young man, and he handled his car with a debonnair air, as he lolled back in easeful fashion. Evidently he was a firm believer in the curve as a line of beauty, because he swung around the corner in great style, in a wide arc that landed him on the wrong side of the street. The lady who wanted to cross the street heard no warning honk as she stepped off the curb, and was part way across when he flashed in view, and bore down upon her. She hesitated, and then stepped back. "Never stop, go straight ahead!" he called back gaily as he sped up the street, on the wrong side.

THIS DESIGNER MAKES DRESSES THAT NEVER "GO OUT OF STYLE"

BY MARIAN HALE.

To dress beatuifully on a limited income, ulness the sky is the limit, has always been classified in my consciousness under "impossible assignment.

But a conversation with Bertha Holley, artist, interior decorator, lecturer and dress reformer, gave me some clew as to how such a task might be accomplished.

The end is achieved by changing the idea. Instead of trying to express style in your clothes, express art. Art knows no season.

You build up your warbrobe as you do your home. Start with a few good pieces and add others year by year discarding them only when the materials have served their time.

"You don't throw away a mahogany table because someone else is buying a walnut, do you?" Mrs. Holley asked. "Then why do that with garments that are still beautiful and suit you, just because someone declares they are out of style?

"A woman's gown should be a thing of beauty, hence a joy forever The gown I am wearing is eight years old. It was never in style, so it never went out. I mean, it was never extreme. My clothes always follow the lines of the figure."

* * *

Mrs. Holley's studio, where she makes up her art models, is right around the corner from Fifth Avenue, where New York's most fashionable shops are. Yet she is as unconcerned with the latest dictates of Paris as with those of the South Sea Islands.

"Each woman has a different dress problem" Mrs. Holley maintains. "There could be no absolute styles if each woman dressed individually. There are certain colors and designs that bring out the best in her face and figure. She need only find these and adhere to them if she would be well dressed.

"My advice to all women is—first study your color.

"The woman with blonde hair and gray blue eyes will find that grays and blues, with touches of the warm colors used for embellishment, are her natural setting.

"Browns, golds and tans are the true background for the brown-eyed maid. The extreme brunet will be rich dark tones of red and purple, as well as black, suit her best.

* * *

"When I design a wardrobe for a woman I first determine her color scale and build everything within that. Then there is no clashing of colors and no need for a new hat and coat for every costume.

"I start the wardrobe with a slip and an undertunic. The slip is a sleeveless one-piece dress and the undertunic a guimpe. An overtunic of georgette crepe or some thin material may be added to transform the gown into something pretentious for afternoons or dinners.

"Variety is gained by the introduction of harmoniously colored overslips and undertunics, with two or three different foundation tunics. One may have an extensive a wardrobe as one wishes or may limit at will. Materials may be plain or gorgeous. Nothing is superfluous.

"I conceived the idea of a multiple, interchangeable wardrobe when I was an interior decorator in Paris. I began to be more interested in dressing women than rooms.

"Then I worked out the idea and took an exhibition of my creations on a lecture tour. The response they called forth made me realize they filled a definite need, so I opened a shop in New York."

I might add the shop is doing a thriving business.

Return of the Clipper and the Ripper

Why Scientists Fear a Wave of "Moron" Misdeeds in the Wake of Two Simultaneous Outrages, Recalling the Whitechapel Mysteries

"Suddenly she felt a hand at her back. Her head was quickly jerked backward, the cold steel of shears touched her neck for the fraction of a second."

Helen Becker, from a School Photograph Taken a Few Days Before the Clipper Waylaid Her and Snipped Off Her Beautiful Hair. Note the Tress Over Her Right Shoulder.

This Photograph Is Mute Evidence of What the Clipper Did to Little Helen Becker's Pretty Tresses. The Ragged Ends, Like the Stump of a Horse's Tail, Are Exactly as the Clipper Left Them.

TWO the crime wave that has enveloped the country, there is now added another strange and baffling outrage. "Jack the Clipper" and "Jack the Ripper," two criminal types of mental defectives, have been born in on the crest. Police headquarters in every city are taking precautions against this moron type of criminal in the hopes of preventing a country-wide outbreak of their atrocious attacks. The "clipper" and "ripper" epidemics in the past always have followed close upon similar isolated instances of violence.

Eleven-year-old Helen Becker was on her way home from school when suddenly she felt a hand at her back. Her head was quickly jerked backward, the cold steel of shears touched her neck for the fraction of a second, and she turned to see a short, dark man fleeing in the opposite direction, her luxurious braid of blond hair waving from his hand.

The girl had not followed her usual course from the school to the little yellow house on the outskirts of the town where she lives with her mother and step-father. She had taken a lonely path to shorten her daily milk delivery route. One of her chores was to deliver milk in the morning on her way to school, and to collect the empty pails on her return at four o'clock in the afternoon.

The child dropped her pails with a clatter, and began to feel at the back of her sweater for the braid that had been her pride. The cold touch of steel had not been an illusion! That short, dark man actually had clipped off her braid! She screamed and ran.

Ellen Tracey, the forty-year-old housekeeper who lost her life in the "Jack the Ripper" attack within a week after Helen Becker's strange experience, cannot tell her own story. But the mute evidence that revealed the crime when her body, stripped of clothing and marked with knife slashes, was found under the stairway of the tenement house, is sufficient to warrant the autopsy verdict of Dr. Charles Norris that the crime was the work of a "ripper."

Following immediately upon the "clipper" and "ripper" cases in New York, dispatches from Los Angeles reported similar attacks in that section of the country. Women complained to the police that a dark-complexioned, heavy set man has been making a practise of slashing their gowns. In one instance, oddly enough, the assailant was a girl, according to Mrs. George H. Rogers, of Los Angeles, whose dress was slashed with a knife.

"I boarded a car downtown," Mrs. Rogers told Detective Sergeant George E. Smith. "I was standing in the crowded aisle when I felt something sharp cut across my back. The thought came to me that the horrible man who has lately been ripping so many women's dresses was attacking me. I turned around quickly. As I did so I saw a young woman make a vicious lunge at my dress with a large knife that she held in her hand. She cut a gap in my dress about a foot long. Then she began to edge down the aisle."

In Paris, a few years ago, the police did succeed in capturing a man who had long been suspected as a hair despoiler. When they searched his room, they found 65 switches of human hair, ranging from light blond to black and all assorted into color groups as they hung from the walls. He later confessed to the crimes.

Contrary to general belief, the man who goes about clipping braids does not do so for commercial purpose. Many people have naturally concluded that the hair thief gathers his loot to sell to hairdressers. If this were his purpose, he might be readily detected when he attempted to dispose of his stock. Science has shown, however, that in most instances, the hair clipper is a mental defective. The "clipper" is in fact a mild form of the "ripper" type.

Dr. Herbert C. de V. Cornwell, who for many years was Chief Medical Examiner of the clearing house for mental defectives at Randall's Island, New York, and who was assigned to this specialization at Camp Meade during the draft days, has drawn some interesting conclusions on these types.

"The malady is not always confined to the European," says Dr. Cornwell, 'although most of these 'clipper' and 'ripper' morons who come to the attention of the police are found to be foreigners. There is obsession of this sort in our own United States as in Europe. The difference lies in the fact that our mental defectives of this class are so cautiously secretive about it, they are not often detected. The man of Latin blood forms a conspicuous percentage of the cases that come to public attention, not because it is a malady peculiar to his race, but because the code of morals in some parts of Europe is so vastly different to our code that he proceeds more openly and is more often caught.

"In ancient Rome, this obsession so demoralized the Roman army that it was legislated against, not because it was considered immoral, but because it weakened the efficiency of the troops."

Dr. Cornwell was asked if the malady was a curable one.

"There are two distinct types of the 'clipper' and 'ripper.' The cure differs for each. The strange obliquity is found in the man of low intellect or in the man of very superior intellect, such as the genius. Oscar Wilde is an example of the latter. Despite the man's marvelous intellect, he was always getting into trouble because of uncontrollable weaknesses.

"In the person of low intellect, it is sometimes an inherited weakness. Where an ancestry on either side of the parentage shows a taint in the blood, the weakness may show up in the person of inferior intellect.

"The other type of superior intellect is often affected by an early impression that buries itself in the unconscious mind and later shows up as this sort of obsession."

One of the most baffling problems police and medical authorities have to cope with in detecting criminals of this order, is the lack of symptoms while they are in the normal state.

"Well dressed, respectable business men who lead an otherwise normal life," says Dr. Cornwell, "may turn 'clipper' or 'ripper' at any moment, if the strange malady is lying dormant within them."

Just what has caused this recent prevalence of the "clipper" is arousing much discussion in medical circles. Some psychiatrists are of the opinion that the moral code being weakened, individuals of this type place less restraint upon themselves.

"Public faith in moral tradition was lost when war came on," Dr. Cornwell believes. "Now persons are not so secretive about digressions from the moral code.

"Out of 12,000 men I examined while in charge of sorting mental defectives at Camp Meade during draft days, only three men were discovered to have been suffering an affliction of this kind."

Can the malady be cured? Dr. Cornwell says it can. But the treatment is long and tedious. It requires education, not in the ordinary sense of book learning, but the re-education of the viewpoint. The psychiatrist who treats a case of this kind must trace back, using the method of psycho-analysis.

"The great medium-class of people," concludes Dr. Cornwell, "are rarely affected with a malady of this kind. In fact, the medium class of American men and women have the soundest, clearest minds of any nation, even though we are termed the 'nervous Americans.'"

HAVELOCK SPORTS ON KING'S BIRTHDAY.

Big Programme For Celebration on Saturday, June 3rd.

HAVELOCK, May 20. — Walter Knox, coach of the Ontario Athletic Commission, will supervise the track and field sports at the King's Birthday celebration in Havelock on June 3rd. He is also billed for a visit to Norwood during the same week, and afterwards will visit the Leadership Training Camp of the Central Ontario Boys' Work, which will be held at Rice Lake during July. In the evening at Havelock Mr. Knox will show his series of motion pictures illustrating the correct and incorrect athletic methods.

The feature of the annual celebration in the C.P.R. town will be a ten mile track marathon race for which four of the fastest distance men in Canada have already entered. They are Albert Smoke of Peterborough, Art Scholes, Jimmie Dellow and Jimmie Moorecroft of Toronto. The bills also announce a lacrosse match between Hastings and Havelock, and a baseball game beetween Norwood and Havelock teams. A band will be engaged to provide music for the afternoon's events.

STAR PLAYERS ARE FUSSY ABOUT BATS.

Each Player Has His Own Particular Club and Will Use No Other.

Workmen are known by their tools and ball players by their bats. You will never find a good hitter who does not take particular pride and care when it comes to his bats. They must be of a certain weight and a certain "mold" or shape.

The weight all depends upon the man using the bat. Some of the giants in baseball use light bats, Harry Heilmann, champion batsman of the American League, for instance, and some of the small men use heavy bats.

During a batting slump a batsman is liable to change to a heavier or lighter bat, but many of the good hitters refuse to change under any condition.

When Ty Cobb broke into the major leagues he had plenty of trouble in Detroit. His successes irritated the veterans of the Detroit club and they tried in many ways to handicap the flashy Georgian.

One day one of the Detroit veterans broke Cobb's bats into splinters and tossed the remains over the fence. Cobb had brought these two bats from the south to Detroit and had used them in all games. The veterans thought that with the bats broken Cobb's luck would be gone.

Charlie Schmidt, then first-string catcher for the Tigers, saw the act committed. He felt sorry for Cobb and asked him what he intended doing. "I can hit with a fence rail," said Cobb. Schmidt loaned him his bats and that afternoon Cobb made three hits in four times at bat. But in spite of this success he did not continue using the model that Schmidt favored, but had duplicates of the old bats made and used them.

THIS YEAR IS A PITCHER'S YEAR

Great Batters of Last Year Are Giving Place This Season to Great Slab Artists.

By BOB DORMAN.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Nineteen twenty-two, the pitcher's year.

Nineteen twenty-two, the batter's year.

That is the striking difference shown by the games played thus far this year as compared with last season's records.

The first month of play last year was characterized by the large number of pitchers knocked out of the box.

This year a different story is being written into the records.

Two, three and four-hit games have been numerous.

Pitchers have gone the full route more often than they have been removed.

On April 30 Rookie Pitcher Charles Robertson of the Chicago White Sox electrified the baseball world by turning in a no-hit game against the Detroit team. Not a man reached first base.

Just a week later, on May 7, Jess Barnes, veteran twirler of the New York Giants, duplicated Robertson's performance, but issued one base on balls to Williams, the only Philadelphia player to reach first base.

How different from these record-breaking performances was the story of the early play of 1921.

A game in which one of the contesting teams failed to make over 10 hits was something to talk about.

Batters, from Babe Ruth down, were on a rampage such as was never known before in the history of the game.

Reasons innumerable were advanced for the unprecedented hitting, and the lively ball, fading pitchers, all became the subject of heated discussion.

Though the slugging dropped off somewhat toward the end of the season the batters still showed a marked supremacy over the pitchers.

This year, if the past month of play indicates anything, the pitchers will hang up some new records for the future stars to shoot at.

TALES OF A WAYSIDE TEE

By GRANTLAND RICE

(Copyright, 1922, New York Tribune Inc.)

In the last few weeks we have spent no inconsiderable amount of time paging a number of studious professionals and amateurs to get their opinion on the hardest stroke in golf.

This debate is always good for a number of words wherever golfers gather, and the subject is advanced, with varying opinion since each one naturally believes that the stroke which baffles him the most is the hardest of the lot.

One well-known pro. stressed the intricacy of the three-yard putt.

But this type of stroke could hardly be considered in the general round-up, in as much as one might say the four-yard putt was still harder, with the five-yard putt even more difficult to propel into the cup.

So it would be hardly fair to include any shot that is to be holed out, as one might stretch the holing distance back to 200 yards.

The Four Leaders.

After segregating and carefully considering ten or twelve entries in this "Hardest Shot" symposium, as outlined by some of the greatest golfers in the country, we finally narrowed the collection down to four.

1.—Laying a long approach putt on a keen green within two feet of the cup.

2.—A short pitch of from forty to sixty yards over a trap with a following wind to a keen green that is also trapped beyond.

3.—Playing a chip shot out of loose sand over a shallow bunker.

4.—A full iron to the green with a stiff breeze coming in diagonally across the left shoulder.

These are the four selections as backed by such experts as Bill Fownes, Walter J. Travis, Jim Barnes, Walter Hagen and others who ought to know.

In past years they have all cast heavy shadows over many communities and left their blights upon more than a few crushed souls.

Who can forget the nervous tension of trying to lay a putt dead from forty feet away from a keen, sloping green where the touch must be 100 per cent. right.

Just a shade too strong and one is ten feet over—fearing this, one is frequently eight feet short, and the occasion fairly reeks with the eloquence of the sufferer.

Who in turn can forget the mental agony of facing a short pitch over some deep trap to some keen, fast green just beyond where the ball must be held to prevent it trickling over into another abyss on the far side.

This is especially true if there is a following wind. The difficulty in playing this shot is that it must be hit firmly to get a bite on the ball, and yet at short range it is hard to hit firmly and not go too far.

It is on this shot that the head comes up more often than upon any other. And the main error is always pitching short, which so many do.

The Latter Two.

From the lot we rather favor the latter two as the leading entries.

One frequently comes to a trap where the ball is lying in loose sand, sitting up nicely, with a shallow bunker to be carried. As the green is close by there is a mighty temptation always to chip the ball out, rather than go for the sand.

Many multitudes of counting machines would be needed to figure up the number of strokes that have been missed in this way. The slightest variation from perfect play means a bad miss, where the ball usually advances about two feet as the club head cuts in under the loose sand. George Duncan plays this shot as well as any golfer that ever lived, and yet even he confesses to many errors. "The ball and the sand must be taken together to the faint fraction of an inch," he says, "and not many have the skill needed for this pinch at the right place."

"This is a shot no duffer should er try," says Jim Barnes, "for it will rarely come off. Just be sure to get out, even if the trap is a shallow one."

The last entry—the full iron into a cross wind blowing over the left shoulder—is another heart breaker that only the masters can play consistently well. The full iron is none too easy, whatever the conditions, for most golfers, but with the cross wind whipping in from the left where the ball must be struck perfectly to hold its line, the finish is usually deep in trouble.

Of the entire lot we should say the chip shot from soft sand is missed more often than anything else by all varieties of players, stars and duffers alike. No other stroke calls for such sureness and delicacy of touch, nor such firm control of hands and wrists. From hard sand the effort is much simpler, requiring no great finesse, but from the softer variety the finish is usually a requiem of despair, put forward in well known words not to be set down here.

GREAT MORVICH TREATED IN TRULY ROYAL STYLE

NEW YORK, May 20.—(Canadian Press).—If horses were fed with silver spoons, Morvich, the wonder horse of last year and perhaps this, would lick his massaged lips around a silver handle and drink his nectar from a golden urn, but, as it is, the reigning king of the turf must worry along with ten attendants, a pony-in-waiting and a private car.

Morvich was the winner of the forty-eighth annual Kentucky Derby at Louisville, May 13, the richest and the most sought for of the blue grass stakes, whose barrier in recent years has sprung fame on such pieces of horseflesh as Omar Khayam, Exterminator, Sir Barton, Paul Jones and Behave Yourself.

One thing Morvich did for Mr. Block was to win $115,234 last year as a two-year-old, carrying his stable colors first to the tape each time in the eleven starts he made, a record seldom equalled. Morvich is topped only by Man o' War of this horse racing period, who won twenty of twenty-one starts for purses totalling $224,465.

Morvich is trained like other thoroughbreds—as near alike as two trainers train two different horses—but he lives in regal style. He chews no hay except that on which the advertised sun of California has shone and drinks none but filtered water.

Drive as Far as You Like

No "golf fiend" can abide a moment's delay when he gets headed for the Links. A tire that sprang a leak or did such a bolshevik trick as to "blow out" would be consigned to a place hotter than the factory vulcanizer. "Gutta Percha" Tires will bring you promptly to the Club, ready to drive off at the time-keeper's signal. Don't be put "off your game" by the exasperation of tire trouble. A calm nerve, a steady eye and sure hand belong to the unflustered man who drives to his game in peace of mind on "Gutta Percha" Tires.

PRICE: A real golfer doesn't play with a cheap, "dead" ball; he gets the "live" ones and the difference shows in his strokes per hole. A real motorist doesn't have any use for "cheap" tires; he gets the high-grade standard Tires—like "Gutta Percha"—they're really cheapest after all.

NOTICE TO MOTOR CAR OWNERS

I have taken over the East City Garage, installed modern equipment and am in a position to do prompt work on all makes of cars. Others preceding me in this stand have, for some reason or other, marred the business reputation of this garage.

I have invested $1,800.00 in the business, and with your co-operation and efficient work on my own part, I am going to make this a permanent stand.

Give me your next repair job. I will give you the benefit of some years' experience in this line. An examination costs you nothing. I will tell you before I touch your car what it's going to cost. I'm not making my customers pay for a lot of advertising; satisfied customers will do the boosting. You'll find my rates the most reasonable in town and my work—well, you're the judge—give me a trial.

Whenever they are not in use, they should be hung up alongside the set, so as to avoid their being knocked off the table. Any kind of shock might cause injury to the delicate diaphagms of the ear-pieces.

These diaphragms vibrate at several thousand times a minute, when signals are being heard, and for this purpose they must be exact in every particular, to reproduce a voice or message accurately .

If, for any reason, the head set is believed to be damaged in any way, there is an easy way to test them.

Place a one-cent piece on the table and on that place a slightly larger piece of tissue paper that had previously been soaked in vinegar. On the wet paper place a five-cent coin. Then another vinegar-soaked paper, another cent piece and so on for four or six layers.

Place the head set over your ears, and take a tip of the telephone cord in each hand. Touch one tip to the bottom coin, which should be a cent piece, and the other tip to the top coin— a nickel without any paper on it.

By holding the phone cord tip to the bottom coin and tapping the top nickel coin lightly with the other tip, a clicking noise will be heard if the receivers are in good condition. This noise is caused by the closing of an electrical circuit between the coins and the phones. The stack of coins and wet paper form a delicate electric generator.

The efficiency of the phones can be estimated from the amount of coins used in the stack. The lower the stack the better the phones.

SPORT GOSSIP

All clubs in the intermediate and junior series of the City Baseball League are requested to send representatives to a meeting at th Chamber of Commerce next Monday at 7.30 o'clock p.m. Certificates for players who will take part in the opening games on May 24th., at Riverside Park, must be handed to the Secretary, at this meeting.

Otonabee and Lakefield will open the 1922 season of the East Peterborough Baseball League, with a game at Lakefield on the afternoon of May 24th at 3.03 o'clock. At a meeting of the League executive last night, the president, Dr. J. J. Howden was in the chair, and Keene, Lakefield and Otonabee Clubs were represented. The Norwood club, the meeting was informed, had notified the Secretary that their team would play in a league with Hastings, Campbellford and Warkworth, this season.

Player's certificates for the opening game must be in the hands of the Secretary not later than Monday, May 22nd.

When the problem of umpires for the league games was being considered, Alex. Kay, a visitor at the meeting, offered his services and the use of his equipment in an effort to encourage and develop umpires in the towns of the leagu. This offer was accepted by the clubs, and President Howden extended to Mr. Kay the thanks of the League.

Lakefield club reported good progress in their efforts to form a strong team, and to improve the playing grounds. A new diamond has been located in front of the grandstand, 'dugouts" have been provided for the teams, and the northerners are in good shape for the opening of the league games.

The C.O.S. Club, a junior organization in the C.G.I.T. group, staged a pretty little play at the Y.W.C.A. last evening, to a good sized audience. Entitled "The Torch," the symbolic offering pictures the ambitions of a group of camp girls for material advantages, which are changed by a visit from the Dream Fairies to aspirations towards higher things. The Spirit of Canada, in the person of Miss Marjorie Ingall, mourns over the desires of her children, rejoicing later with them as they reach to better things. Miss Leta Brownscombe took the part of the girls' leader and the group of camp fire girls and the dainty fairies were prettily enacted by members of the club. Scenery contrived with green trees and flowers added to the general charming effect. A programme rendered before the production of the miniature drama included opening remarks from the chairman, Miss Leta Brownscombe; a piano duet by Violet and Ena Young; instrumental numbers by Grace oster, Ada MacNamee and Lean Dunsford;, vocal solos by Alice Miller, Berenice McIlwaine, Kathleen Cooney and Violet Young, with a Highland Fling eexcuted by Kathleen Cooney, and a graceful encore.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 20 (Canadian Press). — Rails led to-day's brief but active stock market to higher levels. Coalers, Transcontinentals, Grangers, and Newhaven were 1 to 3 points higher. Oils also were favoured, some of the foreign group as well as Sinclair, Producers and Refiners, Standard Oil of California and Texas Gulf and sulphur rising 1 to 21-2 points. Sugars enhanced recent gains by 1 to 2 points, and automobile issues were prominent with further heavy accumulation of General Motors. Independent Steels were irregular on latest development in connection with merger plans, Midvale falling 2 points. Textiles and metals improved, but tobaccos were reactionary. Closing was strong. Sales approximated 800,000 shares.

Rails, oils, and steels featured the further advance of prices in the stock market at the opening of to-day's brief session, new high records being established by U. S. Steel and Newhaven. The one conspicuous exception to the upward trend was Republic Iron and Steel, which fell 4 3-4 points. Other independent steels were not adversely affected by the withdrawal of Youngstown Sheet and Tube from the proposed six company mergers. Among the rails Delaware, Lackawanna and Western soon added three points to yesterday's advance, and Canadian Pacific gined 1 3-8. Mexican Petroleum rose 2 1-2 points, and leading motors and their accessories, as well as sugars, chemicals, and metals continued to strengthen.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, May 20 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange irregular. Demand rates, Great Britain, 4.4 3-4; Canadian dollar 15-16 per cent. discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, May 20 (Canadian Press). — It was estimated that arrivals here to-day were 225 cars, while the deliveries on May contracts this morning were reported as 430,000 bushels of wheat.

May started 7-8c to 1 1-2c lower at 1.38 1-2 to 1.39, while deferred deliveries varied from unchanged figures to 3-8c up with July 1.24 1-2 to 1.24 3-4. Market underwent slight gains all around, then experienced somewhat of a setback.

Corn and oats were dull, but somewhat firmer, due more to lack of pressure than anything else. Sentiment is generally rather bearish, and markets are regarded as oversold in some quarters. After starting unchanged to 3-4c higher, with July 64 1-4 to 63 3-8, the corn market scored slight gains, then suffered slight reaction. Oats varied from unchanged figures to 1-4c to 3-8c higher at the start with July 39 1-2 to 39 5-8, and then eased off.

MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, May 20 (Canadian Press). — As is usually the case on Saturday morning, trading on the local stock exchange during the first half-hour to-day was brisk and interesting, although no exceptionally spectacular variations of the price quotations wer registered. Most notable advance was made by Toronto Railway, which rose from its closing figure at 63 to 65 1-4. Brazilian was most active issue, and sold fractionally stronger at 49 1-2.

The second preferred stock of the British Empire Steel Corporation advanced a half-point to 29. Other leaders were strong, the gains easily outnumbering the recessions.

ONLY COUNTRY IN WORLD WITHOUT DEBT

There is no poverty in Tonga, the little kingdom of 100 isles in the Pacific Ocean —but there is no wealth. The tribal or communal system, which has prevailed from time immemorial, is altogether opposed to any member of the tribe accumulating property. To those whose ideals of economic life are realized in short hours of labor, abundance of food, and neither poverty nor richesm Tonga should be Utopia.

Adults are subject to a poll tax, and in return the government grants an area of eight and a quarter acres for plantation purposes. Financially, the kingdom is sound, and Tonga is said to be the only country in the world without a national debt.

There is always one cloud on the horizon—annexation. The appearance of a gray gunboat in Tongan waters is a sign for conjecture and the hushed question, "Will the flag go up?" The Tongan believes that by proving his ability to conduct his own affairs he will be left in peace and independent status. Money in the bank is conclusive to him that all is well.

ON TRAIL OF OLD MAN EFFICIENCY.

Uncle Sam's radio experts are hot on the trail of old man "Efficiency." Here's one of the investigators who se experiments are expected to result in a saving of $30,000 a year at the Annapolis high power navy station alone. He's on the ground of the U S. navy research laboratory, conducting low electrical resistance tes ts which will mean greater efficiency in the antenna system.

WAS TROUBLED WITH HER LIVER FOR OVER 4 MONTHS

When the liver becomes slow, sluggish and torpid it is not working properly and does not supply sufficient bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products of the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in and liver troubles follow among which are, sick or Billious headaches, heartburn, water brash, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, pain under the right shoulder, coated tongue, bad breath, yellow eyes, etc.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

quickly remove the secretions, clear away the effete and waste matter by acting directly on the liver, and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Mrs. Alice Mellitt Napanee, Ont. writes:—"I was very badly run down for over four months. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. One day my husband brought me home a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and before I had used half of it I was much better. I only used two vials and I am a different person today.

REMARKABLE CAST IN "BOUGHT AND PAID FOR"

An attraction which ran for two years on Broadway, when long engagements were the exception instead of the rule, has been arranged for the screen and produced by William De Mille. "Bought and Paid For," is a triumph for Paramount and bears the label connected with De Mille attratcions—it is first class in every respect. Nothing has been overlooked and the case is one of the best ever assembled; including as it does some favorites who always appea to audiences wherever their pictures are shown. Agnes Ayres, a Paramount star who played opposite Valentino, in "The Sheik," and won much fame for herself in "Forbidden Fruit," began her career before the camera in the old Essanay studios, in a series of stories based on the O. Henry stories—in fact, she was known to fans as "the O. Henry girl" and had acquired a reputation among discriminating people, long before she reached her stellar role for Paramount in "The Lane That Had No Turning." As Virginia Blane in "Bought and Paid For" she has a splendid opportunity to look beautiful and to do some good acting.

Jack Holt brings a finish and polish to his acting which place him in the front rank of screen stars. He has had a varied career—after attending the Virginia Military College, he went to Alaska, drove dog teams there, punched cattle afterwards in the West, and was a great success on the stage in heavy roles. —his first starring vehicle for Paramount was in "The Call of the North," and he also appeared for De Mille in "Midsummer Madness," "After the Show," and "The Lost Romance." As Robert Stafford, the husband, in "Bought and Paid For," he does some very dramatic work.

Walter Hiers, the loveable fat man, who seems to radiate good nature, plays a very natural sort of husband—whether it be in a role such as James Gilley in this picture, or as another kind of mate in the recent farce hit "Is Matrimony A Failure?" He is a Southerner and always a favorite with people who like good, clean fun and humor. Leah Wyant, Gilley's wife, and sister of the beautiful Virginia Blane, was the original "Beauty" in Morris Gest's production, "Experience." She also played with her cousin, Willie Collier and with Madge Kennedy. It is only about a year and a half since she entered the movies, but her promotion has been very rapid. A Japanese artist of much experience, George Kuwa, plays the Japanese balet, in the picture, and does it very well—in fact, he is an actor of acknowledged ability.

Last, but decidedly not of the least important among the people responsible for this big picture is Mrs. Clara Beranger, who wrote the scenerio from Broadhurst's play. She is also responsible for "Exit the Vamp," "Her Husband's Trademark," and "The Gilded Lily,"—in "Bought and Paid For," she has outdone herself. The picture will be seen at the Capitol Theatre—NEXT Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

THE CAMERA MAN VISITS PETERBORO SATURDAY NEXT

Local Boys and Girls Will Have a Chance to Break Into the Movies.

Boys and girls! You are going to have a chance to get in the movies, going to have a chance to win a good time and some Jack Coogan dolls. Think of that!

When Manager Abbey, of the Capitol Theatre, who has always been glad to see all children in his theatre, secured the rights for Jackie Coogan's latest picture, "My Boy," he got busy to figure out what he could do in connection with the picture to make it a memorable one for all those who would like to be just like Jackie. So here's your chance.

Mr. Abbey will have a moving picture camera man, who is taking motion pictures all the time for the Pathe News, to come to Petrborough next Saturday morning to take pictures of every boy and girl who dresses to look like Jackie Coogan.

The prizes for the best imitations will be dolls, and then you will later see yourself on the screen in the beautiful Capitol Theatre.

To win first prize will not be an easy task. Little Olga Wright, at a contest some months ago, dressed so like Jackie that when her photograph was shown to a number of moving picture officials in Toronto, it was hard to convince them that it was not the real actor. Miss Olga will be in the race again, Mr. Abbey is sure. She will be welcome.

You had better watch the advertisements of the Capitol Theatre for dates and other details. The picture will be there next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

When Jackie was shown in "The Kid," everybody proclaimed him a wonderful find. Chaplin had a great partner. There is no doubt about it. When you see the little actor in "My Boy," you will surely say, "I told you so," and you will have every right to do so. "My Boy" is not like "The Kid." It is not essentially a comedy. There is a gripping story, a story that will please father and mother right down to their toes. Of course, there is plenty of laughter in it. How could it be otherwise? Jackie has brougt out a film that is splendid all-round entertainment for the entire family — and he is still dressed in that old sweater with the great big neck and the torn peak cap, like every out-of doors youngster likes to throw around.

The Producer told me Confidentially that im the star—But every week my Maw KOLECTS my salary 'S A mystery to ME JACKIE COOGAN

At the Capitol Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"THE BRONZE BELL" FAMOUS NOVEL

Written by Louis Joseph Vance It Has Won Big Success

"The Bronze Bell" the latest Paramount-Ince special picture which will be presented at the Regent Theatre beginning Monday, has for more than ten years ranked as one of the most popular of American novels, and is still enjoying an enormous sale by bookdealers throughout the English-speaking world.

A stirring romance of British East India, "The Bronze Bell" was published in novel form by Dodd, Mead & Co., of New York, in 1909 and within a few weks was rated as one of the best sellers of the year. For many months an extraordinary demand was evinced, and several editions of the novel were issued.

When Thomas H. Ince negotiated for the screen rights of a number of Louis Joseph Vance's novels, "The Bronze Bell" received first consideration, both because of its wide popularity and its unusual adaptibility for the screen. The story is dramatic and the heart appeal irresistible. Courtenay Foote and Daris May head a clever cast of players.

The dark period, the long 'night" of the far north, is reserved by the Eskimo for his holiday.

FIRST NATIONAL FEATURE DAY

Monday will be First National Co. feature day at the Royal. Earle Williams in the six-reel fetaured called "Restless Souls," plays a part designed by both playwright and nature to suit his particular abilities and personality. The play is a whimsical comedy of the highest order and is based on Richard Harding Davis' novel called "Playing Dead." A society man's wife loves him, but in a temporary spirit of mischief, gives him to understand she loves a little whipper-snapper who writes on spiritualism and occult sciences, of which the writer knows nothing. The husband going by boat to Boston leaves a note for the Captain saying he has jumped overboard. He returns home disguised, to find an old will he made years before leaves all his money to an old maid aunt who intends to put up a $50,000 sanitorium for English sparrows. However, his pet bull dog seems to know more about ghosts than Sir Conan Doyle, and penetrates his disguise. Reconciliations were then in order. A charming comedy beautifully screened. Then there is the six reel serio-comic First National called "Lady Friends," an irresistibly funny story of a man who has made millions by publishing Bibles and gives his wife a book of checks he has signed, but leaves to be filled in by herself, so that she may have a good time. She had it!!! The Mack Sennett comedy, called "Be Reasonable," is a cracker jack in two reels. Monday's programme is essentially one of comedy, with enough love and romance to balance the laughs.

That Feeling Of Gratitude

which our patients have towards us for the benefits they receive from Chiropractic is indeed refreshing. Only those who have suffered and almost despaired of obtaining relief can appreciate what it means to be restored to Health and Normal Activities. The countless thousands of persons who have been benefited by Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments is ample proof of the merit of this great Science.

THE KEYSTONE

of the entire anatomical structure is the spine. The nerves that emit from the spine through the lateral foramina, control, either directly or indirectly, the function of every organ within the body. If any of these foramina (openings) become partially closed, because of spinal segments getting slightly out of place, there is bound to be pressure upon the nerve trunks which pass through these openings, and the organs supplied by these nerves will suffer in accordance to the degree of pressure.

HEALTH INSURANCE

The best health insurance any person can have is applied Chiropractic. The Chiropractor's business is to keep the spine in normal alignment—your body will then withstand and successfully throw off the liabilities of sickness which constantly menace it. CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENTS put you in a condition to guard against long seiges of sickness and loss of time.

PLUNGED THROUGH GANNON'S BRIDGE

Traveller Had Narrow Escape in Pigeon Creek Yesterday.

George Morris, Toronto, a men's wear traveller, driving a Ford car, on his way from Lakehurst to Peterborough Friday afternoon, plunged into Pigeon Creek off the floating bridge at Ganonn's Narrows which had been opened to permit the passage of a drive of logs. His car sank in twenty feet of water, but Mr. Morris quickly struggled from his seat and rose to the surface, but not without taking in some water in his effort to free himself.

From the piecemeal information gleaned from local taxi drivers, it is staed that several lumbermen were stationed on the bridge and shouted a warning to Mr. Morris, but it was also rumoured that he mistook these guards for bandits and drove past them and into the water before he realized the danger immediately ahead of him. This mischance happened between four and five o'clock yesterday afternoon, it was stated. The car has not been recovered, but a party of men were engaged to haul it out to-day. Mr. Morris telephoned for a taxi to Peterborough, and arrived in the city in the evening, procuring a change of clothes. He returned to Toronto this morning, apparently none the worse for his wetting.

THE MANUFACTURE OF BINDER TWINE

G. N. Gordon Makes Enquiries Regarding Place of Manufacture.

The following questions were asked in the House by G. N. Gordon M.P., for Peterborough.

1.—What was the consumption of binder twine and rope, in the various provinces of Canada, during the year 1921?

2.—How much of this was manufactured in Canada?

The Answers

Answers by Hon. J. A. Robb:—

1.—The Statistics of consumption are not available by Provinces. They are usually arrived at for the country as a whole by adding the production and imports and deducting exports.

2.—The available statistics with regard to binder twine and rope for 1921 are as follows:—

Binder Twine

	Tons	S'l'g Value
Manufacturers, unrevised	18,987	6,297,142
Exports of Canadian produce	3,811	1,194,475
	15,176	5,102,667
Available for consumption in Canada	38,566	$12,485,358

Rope Other than Binder Twine

	lb	S'l'g Value
Ropes and twines manufactured (unrevised)	12,958,337	3,150,979
Exports of Canadian Produce		87,810
		3,063,169
Imports for consumption		2,137,353
Avaliable for consumption in Canada		$ 5,200,522

.... Quantity not given.

NOTICE

The Utilities Commission have decided to make an inspection of all buildings in which City water is used, for two reasons.

1st To prevent waste of filtered water.

The inspector will start on this work, Tuesday May 16th and he will point out all cases where the water is being wasted and where this is the result of defective plumbing such will have to be corrected within 30 days, under penalty of turning off the water.

It is pointed out that the free use of water in the regular way is not discouraged by these arrangements, but simply to stop waste.

BAND OF HOPE SING PRAISES OF NEWCASTLE

Workless Soldiers Had Irish Stew for Today's Dinner—General Incapacitated.

INVALIDED HOME

NEWCASTLE, May 22.—(Special)—"General" McDonald's band of hope are singing the praises of Newcastle this morning as they prepare for the trek to Newtonville. Newcastle welcomed the hikers with open arms last evening, and a battalion fresh from the victorious fields of war could not have been given a finer reception. The village's hospitality extended to entertaining many of the boys in private homes. A number of ladies volunteered to put them up, and two score of the older veterans spent the night in feather beds. The others entertained themselves at a moonlight concer held after supper in front of the Town Hall, where the villagers swelled the audience. The war chest of the veterans benefited to the tune of $60 from the funds of the municipality. Contributions here also included a large quantity of potatoes, carrots and onions, which have been sent on to Newtonville, where the army will dine on Irish stew at noon.

Efforts are being made to resurrect a field kitchen, donated by the local ladies during the war, for the use of the troops on the long hike to Ottawa. The "General" fell ill last night with sciatica, but to-day the medical officer declared him fit for the march.

The Newcastle druggist replenished the medical stores, and the army now has sufficient supplies for a hundred miles. The medical officer reports less foot trouble as the men become hardened to active service conditions.

Ed. O'Donnell, of Toronto, was invalided home.

The column expects to make Port Hope ere the end of the day, and will bivouac there to-night.

It is reported four houses have been secured for the accommodation of the veterans when they reach the Capital.

Bowmanville Cold.

Bowmanville was coldly silent as the tramp, tramp, tramp of the marchers broke the profound Sabbath stillness that brooded over the town in the early afternoon. The kindly greetings that came from half the town in other places was absent here, until one lady shouted out in her Scotch accent, "Go to it, boys."

After the column had halted in front of the lock gates of the Fair Grounds, "General" McDonald reviewed the situation in a brief speech.

"I don't want you men to be downhearted over the reception in this town," he said. "There has not been a soul to welcome you except this one lady. We're going through to Ottawa to get justice, and will get it. Our force will be 15,000 strong when we get there."

Then, turning to where the aforesaid lady was standing in a small group of spectators, he enquired her name.

"Gentlemen, Mrs. Humphrey," shouted the Chief.

Three hearty cheers went skywards.

"My hubby wanted me to hold my tongue," she told The Examiner afterwards, "but, besides him, I had two brothers in the army."

However, the town provided food and drink, if not the reception that keeps up the morale of troops. As the force here in sight, the members of the Town Council's Reception Committee handed over a lunch, consisting of 330 loaves of bread, 168 pounds of tinned beef, 60 lbs. jam and 60 gallons of steaming hot coffee in boilers. One of the Town Councillors told The Examiner that the advance guard had omitted to state that the men had no knives and forks with them or it would have been gladly provided. There had been a hitch, however, over the Fair Grounds. The few members of the Agricultural Society Executive would not commit themselves giving permission without first consulting the rest. At the last minute a key was produced by a member of the Town Sports Committee who use the grounds for athletic purposes, and the troops marched in before the coffee got cold.

Radio Licenses Will Be Issued By Post Office After June 1st

TORONTO, May 22.—(Special.)—After June 1, all radio receiving licenses will be issued through the Post Office Department instead of the Radio Telegraph Branch of the Naval Service as heretofore.

Announcement to this effect was made to the Examiner in a communication from Lieut. Commander C. P. Edwards, General Supt. of the Radio Telegraph Branch of the Naval Service, Ottawa.

The new licenses will be numbered from 5001 up, the first one, No. 5001, having been issued to Basil Lake, radio editor of the Toronto Star. The charge for these licenses will be the same as in the past, one dollar annually.

Immediately the new plan becomes operative, those requiring licenses will simply apply to the nearest post office, pass a solitary "bone" through the cashier wicket and receive a neat little permit.

MEMBER FOR ULSTER KILLED IN BELFAST

NEWS IRISH FRONT

BELFAST, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—Killing this morning of W. J. Twaddell, member of Ulster Parliament who was shot while on his way to business, cause the issuance of a manifesto by Sir James Craig, Premier, announcing a special meeting of Cabinet and legal authorities. Premier declared 'just retribution" was called for. The former head of the constabulary, Ballantyne, of the Irish Constabulary, recently retired, was shot dead at Raphoe, County Donegal, yesterday.

IRISH AGREMENT.

LONDON, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—Surprise and dissatisfaction are predominate notes in comment of morning newspapers on the agreement reached Saturday between leaders of opposing Irish political factions. Most of the editorial writers regard it as the surrender of Michael Collins to De Valera and do not see how it will enable the Irish people to express their will respecting the Anglo-Irish Treaty.

BUSINESS REVIVED.

DUBLIN, May 22. — (Canadian Press.)— Business revival throughout Southern Ireland is possible under agreement reached by leaders of two political factions Saturday, in the opinion of William T. Cosgrove, minister of local government in Dail Cabinet. "The country can now shake off the lethargy and suspense which have so seriously affected business," he said. "It now remains to restore business and every citizen must contribute toward this national essential."

COMING ELECTIONS.

DUBLIN, May 22. — (Canadian Press.) — Commenting on peace agreement, the Irish Independent says peace and order must be maintained. Constitution must be agreed upon and franchise amended or enlarged.

Irish Times declares that if the coming elections are really free, voters must use their freedom boldly in their own and in the country's interests. 'If elections are not free," it adds, "and the reign of terror is to have no end, the Dail will have sold the country's birthright for something less than a mess of pottage."

BELFAST, May 22.— (Canadian Press.) — A manifesto says Mr. Twaddell was murdered for his loyalty to Empire and his devotion to the cause of Ulster and the welfare of the country. His colleagues, it was declared, will carry on and face the future, no matter what the future might hold for them. "Justice and retribution rest with higher authorities," the manifesto reads.

INVITE SIGNATORIES.

LONDON, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—British Government has invited Irish signatories to Anglo-Irish Treaty to come to London and discuss with British signatories the agreement signed Saturday between representatives of the Provisional Government and followers of Eamon De Valera, it was announced today.

Mr. Churchill in making the statement, said the agreement raised serious issues affecting character and validity of action contemplated in Irish free station as well as treaty itself. He hoped conference would be held at end of the present week. Referring to the situation in Ulster he declared that he had confidence in the ability of the Northern Government to restore order. While every endeavor would be made to avoid sensational action, it was the intention of the British Government to support the Northern Government.

Accused Stock Salesman Fraud

Herbert Clute Gibson, a Toronto stock salesman, was charged in police court to-day with fraudulently obtaining board to the extent of $27 at the Grand Hotel and also obtaining in a similar way $11.50 worth of keep at King's Hotel. Accused pleaded not guilty and was remanded until to-morrow. He was arrested yesterday by Detective William Meagher.

The police have been endeavoring to get information in regard to Zelmore Rosenberg, wanted in New York city, but so far their investigations have been fruitless. Any information would be welcomed. The New York police had information that he was in this city, but he has never received any mail uhder the name of Rosenberg.

TAG DAY NETTED A TOTAL OF $544.90

Local Humane Society Can Now "Carry On"

Saturday was a great day for the Peterborough Humane Society. The occasion was what is commonly called tag day, but was, by preference, called humane day, the emphasis being put upon the community effort to cultivate among young and old a greater consideration for the feelings and susceptibilities of dumb animals. The effort secured for the society the splendid sum of $544.90. This amount, in addition to membership fees (only one dollar a year) will enable the society to carry on for some time.

The collectors report an intense interest in the work of the society, one old lady being heard to say, "This is the happiest day in my life."

The officers of the society wish to thank the public for their sympathy and their response, and in a very special way all those who came forward so willingly, and so readily undertook the work of tagging. One young lady remained at her post all day long, reporting the largest single box for the day.

Special mention must be made of the helpful co-operation of The Examiner, whose generous columns have been at the disposal of the society, and whose sympathy has greatly assisted the society, not only in this particular connection, but since its inception as an organization in this city. Much credit is due Mrs. E. S. Martin, under whose capable administration the work of the day was successfully carried through. Grateful acknowledgment is also made to the Children's Aid Society for the use of their boxes. The next public meeting of the Humane Society will be announced shortly.

TO ESTABLISH PUBLIC NURSE IN PETERBORO

RED CROSS EFFORT

At a special meeting of the Board of Health the proposal of the Peterboro branch, Canadian Red Cross, that a Public Health nursing service be established here was endorsed and referred to the Council with the recommendation that their offer to pay the salary of a nurse for the first year be accepted. In a letter the Secretary Miss Laura J. Davidson drew the attention of the Board the their proposal to pay the salary of such a nurse for a year if the Board would furnish a room, telephone, and office equipment and after a year the Board assume the entire financial responsibility. Miss L. Davidson, Miss Morrow, Mrs. R. Denne and Miss Effie Munro supported the proposition.

The Board of Health endorsed the proposal but pointed out that action must come from the Council who will bear the financial responsibility. On motion of Dr. T. W. H. Young and E. F. Mason the matter was referred to the council with a recommendation that the offer be accepted.

The resolution considered was as follows:

Resolved, that following the peace time policy of the Red Cross Society, the local branch offer their assistance to the City Board of Health in establishing a public health nursing service for Peterboro, that the Society pay for the salary of the public health nurse for the term of one year after which the Board of Health realizing the benefit derived from such an organization shall assume the financial responsibility, all this subject to the following conditions, viz:

2—Telephone service during office hours.

The recommendation of the Board of Health will be considered at a special meeting of the Council tonight.

BREAKING GROUND FOR NEW FACTORY

The grading of Armour's Hill on the site of the new Western Clock factory is finished and ground for the new plant will be broken this week. W. Sullivan, of the contracting firm of Sullivan and Fried, was expected to arrive this afternoon to direct operations. A few carpenters were taken on to-day and they were employed erecting an office for the contractors. A couple of teams were putting the finishing touches on the property, clearing away boulders, etc., and a handful of men were raking up. Part of the machinery was expected to arrive today and arrangements have been made to use the siding in East City.

Francis Leleu, resident engineer on the job, to-day announced that Mr. Fried was in the city the latter part of last week, and let two other contracts in connection with the work. The Peterboro Lumber Company secured the contract for the lumber and the Peterboro Hard ware the contract for the cement. Where they are to get their gravel is proving a problem. Mr. Leleu stated that the Canadian Woollens intended to use their pit in connection with building in view, and the likelihood is that the gravel will have to be drawn from the pit on the west side of the river across from the filtration plant. "We don't want to bring gravel in here unless we have to", said Mr. Leleu.

The contracts for roofing and finning the factory buildings have not yet been let and the company is hopeful of being able to give local firms the work.

The Board of Works gang taking the hump off the hill and widening the roadway was not working today on account of the sticky condition the clay is in after the heavy rains. Street Commissioner H. Evans stated. Mr. Evans said they expected to work to-morrow and hoped to finish the job this week.

The Western Clock Company are hoping to get the water service extended 180 feet east of the present limit and will urge this matter up on the Utilities Commission which will meet some time this week

Want Daylight Saving Quashed

TORONTO, May 22.—(Canadian Press).—Motion was made before Justice Latchford here this morning by Arthur R. Goudie, citizen of Kitchener, Ont., to quash the daylight saving by-law passed by the City Council of Kitchener and now in operation in Kitchener. His Lordship reserved judgment on motion.

Counsel for the city, George Bray, stated that the procedure in passing the by-law for daylight saving in Kitchener was similar to that taken by Toronto and other municipalities which adopted summer time. It was passed in accordance with the provisions of Section 250 of the Municipal Act, which provides that "every Council may introduce such by-laws as affect safety, morality, health and welfare, and all other matters excepting those expressly prohibited by the Act."

His Lordship wanted to know how daylight saving would affect the health of the people. Counsel said it caused them to get up an hour earlier in the morning. Justice Latchford asked how it would help morality, but information on this was not forthcoming. In Toronto the Judge said children stopped up as late as their parents, and the hardship was worked on the working men's wives in consequence of daylight saving.

PURSUING THE FUGITIVE EARL

Mrs. Surle Speeds Overland to Catch Kinnoull's Ship at Madeira.

PARIS, May 22.—The Earl of Kinnoull has not escaped. While the youthful peer was steaming away from his bride-that-was-to-be down the English Channel aboard the Edinburgh Castle on his way to South Africa the widow who three days ago missed her chance of becoming a countess is stealing a march on him, and has left Paris for Lisbon and Madeira, and when the Edinburgh Castle steams in she hopes to meet her errant lover at the dock.

"I will marry him there," she declared, "and then perhaps the joke will be with me."

Mrs. Esther Dulcie Trewartha Surle is not so young as the Earl, who did not seem to know his own mind about marrying, and she certainly does know her own mind.

"He wanted to marry me till his mother stepped in and stopped him," she declared, "and when he sees me on the quay at Madeira he will want to marry me again. It's just foolish, his saying that it was all a joke. He knows is wasn't a joke. I've got a ticket for South Africa, too, aboard the Edinburgh Castle, and if he won't leave the ship I shall go aboard and voyage with him.

"It was to have been our honeymoon trip, and perhaps it will still be, for I understand that the captain can marry people on board ship."

While she talked Mrs. Surle kept referring to the accounts of the missed marriage which have appeared in English newspapers in France.

"Yes, it's most of it true," she said. "I nearly decided to go to Southampton and board the ship before it sailed. But then I thought the better plan was to come over to Paris and get a passport fixed to travel by Portugal to Madeira and meet the ship there. We had intended to land there and announce our marriage from there, and the only difference that has been made by the English registrar's decision not to marry us because the Earl is under 21 is that we will be married there instead of England."

The deserted widow has not lost a moment's time. She reached Paris early Saturday morning and as soon as the offices of the Portuguese Consulate were opened she was there demanding a visa for her passport. Meanwhile accommodation had been reserved for her and a friend on board the Lisbon express and telegraphic arrangements made for travelling from Lisbon to Madeira.

The widow and Earl are now engaged in neck and neck race for Madeira. To him aboard the Edinburgh Castle the news has been wirelessed that the widow is on his trail and his only hope of escape is that the ship reaches and leaves Madeira before she does. He has twenty-four hours' start, but barring accidents and unforseen delays Mrs. Surle expects to get there with time to spare, "and then," she says, "well, we will get married."

There is no doubt about that in her mind and before her determination the youthful Earl and his chaperoning cousin had better lock themselves in their cabin.

Despite prohibition, bartenders' unions in many states continue as active organizations.

THE EMPIRE IS TOPIC BEFORE THE ROTARIANS

Leon Frazer Discusses Relationship Between British Empire and Genoa Conference at To-day's Luncheon.

NEXT WEEK'S TALK

The address at to-day's luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club was particularly appropriate in view of the fact that Empire Day is being celebrated this week. "The British Empire and its Relationship to the Genoa Conference," was the subject and it was dealt with in a most interesting manner by Mr. Leon Fraser, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

President John Crane was in the chair and the attendance was large, the gathering including a large showing of guests.

Rotarian John Crane reported having been present at the organization of the Rotary Club in Smiths Falls. Rotarian H. R. H. Kenner dealt with the visit of Peterboro Rotarians to Lindsay and read a letter of thanks from the Lindsay club and Rotarian J. M. McHardy told of the proceedings at Port Hope.

Rotarian Frazer in his address on the British Empire covered the subject thoroughly in the short time at his disposal, dealing first with the growth and development of the Empire and emphasizing the principles upon which it rested, and then taking up the Genoa conference and the attempt of Lloyd George to bring about the economic reconstruction of Europe. The speaker emphasized the duty of every citizen of the Empire to do his or her part towards a return to better conditions of trade.

The thanks of the club were extended to Rotarian Frazer for his splendid address.

There will be no noon meeting next Monday but instead the Rotary Club will meet at 7.30 p.m. when Dr. Bruce Robertson of Toronto will give an illustrated address on "Crippled Children."

SALARIES FOR MAGISTRATES

New Schedule Proposed by Hon. W. E. Raney Will Apply to Peterborough

TORONTO, May 22.—Hon. W. E. Raney outlined some minor changes in his bill to amend the Police Magistrates' Act when that measure came up in Committee of the Whole in the Legislature, and at his suggestion the bill was allowed to stand over to have it reprinted with these amendments. The principal change was that affecting salaries, the following schedule being suggested as minimums: In cities 80,000 or over, $4,500 per annum; 40,000 to 80,000, $3,600; 18,000 to 40,000, $2,400; 8,000 to 18,000, $1,500; 6,000 to 8,000, $1,200, and 5,000 to 6,000, $900.

Hamilton and Ottawa would be included in the first class, London in the second and Sault Ste Marie, Brantford, Windsor, St. Catharines, Peterborough, Fort William and Kitchener in the third. Kingston would be excepted owing to a provision in the old Act by which the magistrate in that city gives only part-time service.

Another change covers the provision of office quarters for magistrates.

Decline in Vital Statistics in Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 22.—(Canadian Press.) — Less births, less marriages and less deaths were recorded in Nova Scotia for the registration year 1921-1922 according to the annual report on vital statistics just issued. The number of births was 12,793, a decrease of 553 compared with the previous year. The birth rate per 1,000 of population was 24.42.

The nuumber of marriages was 3,780, a decline of 702; the marriage rate being 7.03 as compared with 8.6 during the previous year. The number of deaths was 6,573, a decrease of 866; the death rate being 12.55, as against 14.3 in the previous year. The urban death rate was 13.85 and the rural death rate 11.56. Tuberculosis claimed 359 males and 363 females. Nova Scotia's population at the last census was 523,837.

CAN MAN COMMUNE WITH SPIRIT WORLD?

Dr. R. C. Blagrave Replies to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle — Spiritism Forbidden by Bible.

SPIRITUALISM IS AS OLD AS HILLS

While crediting Sir Arthur Conan Doyle with an earnest belief in spiritualism, to which he has been converted in recent years, Dr. R. C. Blagrave, in a sermon on this subject at St. John's church, last night, emphatically denied Sir Arthur's assertion in Toronto that spiritualism is contributing any benefit to religion. He found nothing new in spiritualism, which he stressed as being as old as the hills and practised 2,000 and more years ago. And while the subject has been one of ever-growing interest the last 100 years, during which time some of the world's most eminent men had engaged in psychological research, he could not gather that any tangible evidence had yet been adduced of actual contact between the living and the dead.

The reverend gentleman himself did not know whether it were possible or not to-day in certain circumstances to come in communication with spirits, but he quoted from the scriptures to show that such an attempt was forbidden in Holy Writ. For instance, in Deuteronomy, vs. 10, 11, 12, it is written: "There shall not be found among you any that useth divination, or an enchanter, or a witch; or a consulter with familiar spirits; or a wizard or a necromancer; for all that do these things are an obomiantion unto the Lord."

Dr. Blagrave here resented Sir Arthur's characterizing the clergy as ignorant because they do not fall in line with the views of spiritualists. For the most part, he said, the clergy of all churches are well-informed, and Conan Doyle is rash in condemning their attitude toward spiritualism on the ground of ignorance. Recalling that many clergy of the English church had explored this phenomena, and all clergy are "interested" in a future life, the reverend doctor declared that, in view of Sir Arthur's opinion that spiritism would be a help to religion, their rejection of its practice is a commendation for observance of God's command as given in the verses above cited.

Nothing New.

The speaker here questioned that spiritualism has given us anything that is new and beyond peradventure the truth—it gives no knowledge of a construuctive nature concerning the life to come. The reality of a future life is accepted by the church, as exemplified to the Apostles by Christ in revealin himself to the Apostles after His resurrection. After a long life of comparative indifference to religion, Conan Doyle finds for the first time in spiritualism conviction of a future existence. But every Christian, pointed out Dr. Blagrave, believes in a spiritual life, which is the fundamental principle of his faith, for Christianity would not exist to-day, but for the inherent belief that to die is "life made better." So in that connection one finds no new fact in spiritualism; we churchmen believe in a spirit world, and are teaching about angels and spirits all the time; we also believe in the communion of saints—that is to say our invocation for their intercession in our behalf.

Contact With Spirits.

Turning to the question of contact

Barbeau Raised Sunken Ford Car From 30 ft. Water

After nearly two dayys' strenuous labor, Archie Barbeau, with the assistance of eight men and a diver, succeeded in bringing to dry land Sunday evening, from the bottom of Pigeon Creek, at Gannon's Narrows, the Ford car belonging to George Morris of Toronto. The car was eventually hauled from a depth of 30 feet of water, in good condition, lifting power being obtained by use of a gin pole and block and tackle operated by manual force only.

The salvaged car was brought to town Sunday night and the owner has been notified that it is awaiting his instructions in Archie Barbeau's garage. The job of raising it from the bottom of Pigeon Creek was a costly one.

George Morris was driving from Lakefield to Peterborough in the car in question Friday afternoon, when he plunged into the creek from off the floating bridge at Gannon's Narrows, which bridge had been opened for the passage of a drive of logs. Morris escaped with a ducking.

AMERICAN MINING IN SOVIET RUSSIA.

Machinery For Operations is Now En Route.

MOSCOW, May 22.—(Associated Press.)—Machinery is en route and prepaartions are in full swing to begin mining operations early in May on the property of the first American concession in Soviet Russia in the asbestos fields 40 miles north of Ekaterinburg in the Ural mountains, says an announcement.

At the start, 1,000 workmen are to be employed. With one or two exceptions, all of the personnel will be Russian. The mine has been worked for a number of years. The concession is for a 20-year period during which time 10 per cent. of the output will go to the government and at the expiration of the concession the property reverts to the government.

"A COFFIN NAIL FOR THE LORDS."

NEW YORK, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—Lord and Lady Astor plan to sail for England to-morrow. Lady Astor characterized the exclusion vote on Lady Rhonda's application for a seat in the House of Lords as a "coffin nail for Lords."

FOR BIGGER UNION.

LONDON, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—By a large majority the locomotive engineers' and firemen's union have endorsed a big scheme to link up all grades and sections of the transport and railway workers in a transport workers' federation. If the scheme is approved y the twbo other railway unions the federation would number over a million.

Boastfulness is a wretched habit but the other extreme is just as bad. Because sooner or later people are going to believe you when you say you don't know anything. A psycho analyst would tell you that you have an "inferiority complex" which, in plain English, means that you have a habit of telling everyone what a poor worm you are.

THE HOME CIRCLE

NEW EVERY MORNING

Every day is a fresh beginning.
Every morn is the world made new
You, who are weary of sorrow and sinning,
Here is a beautiful hope for you—
A hope for me and a hope for you.
All the past things are past and over
Tasks are done and tears are shed,
Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover;
Yesterday's wounds which smarted and bled,
And healed with the healing which night has shed.

Yesterday now is part of forever,
Bound up in a sheaf, which God holds tight,
With glad days, and sad days, and bad days, which never Shall visit us more with their bloom and blight,
Their fulness of sunshine or sorrowful night.
Let them go since we cannot relieve them
Cannot undo, and cannot atone;
God in His mercy, receive and forgive them;
Only the new days are our own,
Today is ours and today alone.
Here are the skies all burnished brightly,
Here is the spent earth all reborn,

Here are the tired limbs springing lightly,
To face the sun and to share with the morn,
In the charm of the dew and the cool of the dawn.
Every day is a fresh beginning.
Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain,
And in spite of old sorrow and older sinning,
And puzzles forecasted and possible pain,
Take heart with the day and begin anew.

To most youngsters, mother's incessant habit of picking up seems very useless and they can see no reason why it does any harm for their coats and hats to be draped across the chairs in the living room or for the floors of their bedrooms to be littered with an assortment of shoes. But mother knows if she didn't cultivate this very annoying habit, she would soon be buried under the debris. Of course, to the younger members of the family, there seems to be no danger of such a thing, for they never see more than three coats and six pairs of shoes out of place at one time thanks to mother's vigilant eye. However, some day they should just stop and count the things they have left out of place, and they would surely be surprised. Then they would understand mother's constant demand that they pick up their belongings.

Quite often when we think of the hardships that were endured by our pioneer fathers, we cannot but wonder what the girls of to-day would do under the same circumstances. Did the hard life make those brave enduring wives and would they have been just as spoiled if they had lived in the present day of luxury? That may seem a little hard on our girls, but isn't it true that they do expect a great deal more from life, especially after they are married, than they are willing to put into it? Thank goodness, this is not true of the small town girl as much as it is of the city girl.

Work, love and play make a strong trio. They brace and reinforce each other. Yet they all leave us rudderless and unsatisfied without prayer. They can attain creative power only in worship, which is the source of originality, because it sends us to our origin. The harder we work and play and the more intensely we devote ourselves to whomever and whatever we love, the more pressing is our need for refreshing ourselves in an appeal to God.

Every marriage contracted has its own individual problems. An outsider never knows the real statistics of the case and is consequently, very foolish indeed to interfere. He would indeed, be "rushing in where angels fear to tread."

However, there are a few basic laws about marriage which nearly every one can learn by observation. One of these is that cheerfulness on bothe sids would do much to create harmony. Since we are human beings it is to be expected that there will be times when trouble or worry gets the best of us and we find ourselves floundering about waist-deep in the slough of despondency. At such a time we need a steady, cheerful partner to drag us out, not one who will jump in the mire with us and drag us farther down. That feeling which we call "the blues" is a hard one to fight against. Its influence is insidious and often gets the best of the most cheerful nature, but on the other hand, there is nothing like cheer to chase the blue devils away. They fly from it as from a bitter enemy, which indeed it is.

So when your better half is sunken deep down in the slough of despondency try and give him a helping hand instead of jumping in with him. Don't irritate him with foolish laughter and senseless talk. Just be steady, sympathetic and disappear from the horizon in short order.

Two Vessels Collide In Dense Fog One Goes Down With 100 People

Steamer Egypt Goes Down in Twenty Minutes, Carrying Passengers and Crew, After Collision With the French Freight Steamer Seine. Heroic Rescue Work By Crew of Freighter.

BREST, May 22.— Canadian Press.) — Ninety-eight persons are missing and 242 were saved of those who were on board the British steamer Egypt when it was sunk off the Island of Ushant Saturday night by collision with the French steamer Seine, according to latest official figures. Capt. Iracon was nine miles from the scene and replied to distress signals with the assurance that she was speeding to the spot. According to Egypt's purser she floated only twenty minutes after her plates were crushed in by the Seine. The Egypt, he declares, was not moving at the time of the accident, lying to on account of the dense fog.

Suddenly there came the warnwarning shriek of siren on the Seine and the latter loomed up out of the fog and darkness and struck the Egypt amidship.

LONDON, May 22. — Late last night the Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company announced that only 38 passengers had sailed on the Egypt and gave out a list of the names of 28 of those passengers who were rescued and landed at Brest.

BREST, France, May 22.—(Canadian Press.) — Nearly 100 persons perished Saturday night when the Peninsular and Oriental Line steamer Egypt sank off the Island of Ushant after collision with the French freight steamer Seine.

The Egypt sailed for London from Bombay Friday with forty-four passengers and a crew of 290. A roll call on board the Seine after the disaster showed that at least fifteen of the passenegrs and eighty of the crew of the Egypt were missing.

The collision occurred during a dense fog within 22 miles of the Armen Lighthouse. The dinner gong was about to be sounded on board of the Egypt. Many of the passengers and most of the men were on deck. The shock threw persons into the sea, others jumped, and a number went down with the ship, which sank in twenty minutes. The Egypt was rammed amidships on the port side.

The Seine, badly damaged, reached Brest yesterday with 29 rescued passengers, more than two hundred of the crew and the bodies of twenty dead. The captain of the Egypt is among the saved.

When the collision occurred there was a rolling sea. Some of those rescued charge that the Indian sailors on board took to the lifeboats immediately the vessels crashed so that a large number of the passengers and crew had to shift for themselves. Those who jumped into the sea and who could not swim, scrambled about for bits of wreckage to which they might cling. Many of these were rescued. They floated about in the fog after the Egypt went down, calling for help. The sound of their voices directed members of the crew of the Seine in small boats who were patrolling the sea, picking up both living and dead.

In some instances the rescue crews came upon persons clinging to bits of debris who let go and sank just as aid for them was at hand. The small boats on numerous occasions sought vainly in the fog to locate persons lifting cries of distress through the fog. Among the known missing are the doctor and chief engineer of the Egypt.

The Egypt was a vessel of 8,000 tons. The Seine was bound for Havre when the disaster occurred.

Captain Le Barsio, of the Seine, in describing the disaster, said: "I was at my post on the upper bridge Saturday evening at seven o'clock, fifteen miles from the Armen Light. The sea was calm with a slight swell. The fog was very dense. I was listening for fog horns and proceeding at the slow speed of five knots.

"In less time than it takes to tell, a great steamer emerged from the fog. It struck my ship and tore away the forward works and moved on at a great speed. I immediately ordered our engines reversed

"I saw nothing further, but then I began to hear cries of horror that told me of a catastrophe. I went in search of the striken vessel in the fog and darkness. I found her in twenty minutes.

"She lay on her port side, ready to turn over. Water was pouring into a long, deep tear in her side plates. Cries and wails of despair were to be heard coming from the steamer. Passengers were seen running about on the decks, as the steamer was about to go under. I saw a man throw himself into the sea with two little children in his arms. The ship-wrecked people in the sea clung to floating debris. I had all my lifeboats lowbered. It was particularly perilous work, for we were on the main path of the vessels going from the open sea to the English Channel. I stayed at the scene of the wreck until twenty minutes after 11 o'clock Saturday night."

GREAT TEACHER DIES IN OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—One of the ablest educationists in the Dominion and an outstanding resident of Ottawa, Dr. James F. Waite, for many years Principal of the Ottawa Normal and Model Schools, died at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, at an early hour yesterday morning.

INSURANCE TEST CASE COMES UP IN FREDERICTON

ACT DISCRIMINATES.

FREDERICTON, May 22. — (Canadian Press).—In counsel's argument before Police Magistrate Limerick in the insurance test case in which Stephen E. Barton, an insurance broker of Boston, is charged with soliciting insurance in the Province without a Provincial license, as required under the Provincial Corporations' Tax Act of 1921, the constitutionality of the act has been questioned.

One of the points raised by J. B. MacNair, for the defendant, was that the province had no jurisdiction under the British North America Act to impose such taxation and that the act was such that it discriminated between residents and non-residents of the Province, and as such was ultra vires.

Judgment has been reserved.

GRAIN STEAMER COMPLETE LOSS IN SERIOUS FIRE

OGDENSBURG, N.Y., May 22. —(Canadian Press.)—The steamer Conestoga, loaded with wheat, bound from Port Colborne to Montreal, burned to the water's edge in the Cardinal Canal here yesterday afternoon. The loss is estimated at $250,000.

The blaze broke out when the big freighter was in the lift lock of the canal, but her crew of 22 stood by their posts and succeeded in steaming out of the lock. Several of the crew were badly burned in their efforts. The cause of the fire is unknown.

WIFE SAYS FORMER MAYOR INCAPABLE.

OTTAWA, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—Proceedings to have George Arthur Burgess, a wealthy Carleton Place man and Mayor of that town for 1921, declared incapable of conducting his own affairs were commenced in weekly court here Satlurday before Justice Orde by Mrs. Burgess. She is seeking to have the control of his business taken out of his hands and placed in her charge.

The proceedings Saturday were for the purpose of obtaining leave to have the issue tried at a regular session of the Supreme Court of Ontario. Mr. Justice Orde, after receiving numerous affidavits, and hearing counsel for both sides, reserved decision on this point.

ENGINEERS REACH TRIAL AGREEMENT.

LONDON, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—The negotiating committee representing the employers and 47 engineering unions but excluding the Amalgamated Engineering Union have reached a tentative agreement which will be submitted to the individual unions on Tuesday. The members of the unions are now locked out owing to their refusal to sanction the claim of the employers for greater managerial control, especially in the matter of overtime.

ARRESTED FOR THEFT.

MONTREAL, May 22.—Arrested as he was stepping from the gangway of the Anchor Liner Elysia, Lieut. Robert Donley Ward-James was taken into custody here Friday afternoon and appeared before Judge Monat Saturday, charged with stealing £720, the property of the Royal Air Ministry.

Ward-James pleaded not guilty and agreed to waive proceedings before returning to England where he is wanted by Scotland Yard.

FLOOD WATERS NEAR WINNIPEG NOW RECEDING

City of Winnipeg is Now Declared to Be Out of Danger. Situation Was Alarming.

DROP OF 18 INCHES.

WINNIPEG, May 22. — (Canadian Press.)— Winnipeg is out of danger, the Red River is steadily falling and there has been such a decided drop in the Assiniboine at areas which were inundated that the flood water is flowing back fast into the river.

"Latest figures available show that ther is now no danger of flooding in Winnipeg," said W. P. Brereton, City Engineer, last night.

"The peak of the flood at Emerson was reached several days ago and the volume of water at that city was not sufficient to affect us seriously here. While the situation was alarming last week, with both rivers rising simultaneously and reports indicating that a much higher level would be reached at Emerson I don't think any trouble need be anticipated now. The Assiniboine crest has apparently swept past the city and there will likely be some dissipation in the volume of the Red from that recorded at Emerson before Winnipeg is reached."

Encouraging news was received from Portage la Prairie. It was to the effect that the Assiniboine had dropped about 18 inches since Saturday morning. In the Poplar Point neighborhood a good deal of the flooded land had been remedied and the authorities were getting to patch up sections of the road which had been damaged.

Much of the flood water in the Hutterite territory around Iberville has flowed back into the river, in which there was another drop of six inches yesterday.

STAGED A WELCOME FOR THE PREMIER.

LONDON, May 28. Canadian Press. — Premier Lloyd George's adherents staged for him an enthusiastic welcome on his return to London on Saturday from Genoa. They gathered in numbers by preconcerted plan at Victoria station. The channel boat was delayed by fog and the crowd had to wait longer than was expected. The premier was met with tremendous cheering and he had to stand a rapid fire of cangratulations from peers and commoners. The Duke of Athol, representing the King, welcomed the Premier.

FAVORABLE REPORT OF WESTERN CROP.

EDMONTON, May 22.—(Canadian Press.—According to an official crop report issued by the Department of Agriculture, the third week in May finds practically all of the Alberta wheat crop in the ground the grain beginning to show while seeding of oats and barley is well under way in all districts. The weather has been cool, and showery with few warm days and the growth has been rather slow. Moisture conditions continue to be generally satisfactory especially in the south where there has been heavy precipitation. The seed has taken strong root and there has been no frost nor soil drifting. The fall rye crop presents a satisfactory appearance, in some places having a growth of four inches. Alfalfa growth has been backward and in one or two sections was winterkilled.

LAND SETTLEMENT PLAN FOR CANADA.

TORONTO, May 22. Canadian Press. — Comprehensive national land settlement plan embracing every province in the Dominion, has been evolved by the Western Canada Colonization Association, and contemplates settlement within ten years at an expenditure of thirty millions of dollars of ten million acres of idle land close to railways in three provinces, and of vacant farms in Ontario, Quebec, Maritimes and British Columbia.

UNEMPLOYED ARMY EATING REGULARLY.

BOWMANVILLE, May 22. Canadian Press. — General McDonald's army of unemployed marching to Ottawa to seek aid are being well received along the line of march, and so far they have been able to eat regularly. Whitby's mayor gave them a warm welcome on Saturday and supplied them with supper in the town hall while the storekeepers donated provisions. They met the same kindly treatment at Oshawa and at Bowmanville, which they reached yesterday, they had dinner and a good rest.

CIVIL STRIFE HAS NOW BROKEN OUT IN BALKAN STATE

EXPEL RUSSIANS.

VIENNA, May 22.—(Canadian Press). — Conflicting reports have reached here of a Bulgarian revolution. Despatches from Belgrade say that King Boris has fled to Varna and that Premier Stambouinsky, who represents the peasants and agrarians, has with his followers proclaimed a Republic. A state of civil war, it is further reported, exists, and fifteen of General Wrangel's officers have been expelled.

Agram advices, however declare that a train from Sofia arrived at Belgrade at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and those aboard reported comparative quiet. Genedal Alexandrov having issued a counter-proclamation at Sofia calling upon the populace to remain loyal to the King.

Tchitcherin and Stambouliisky, according to an Agram paper, reached an agreement of Genoa that if the Bulgarian Premier would expel Wrangel's troops from Bulgaria, he would have the support of the entire Bulgarian Communist element. A despatch to the Freiepresse from Sofia, says that an attempt to carry out the expulsion of these troops precipitated trouble.

SNAPPY ADDRESS IN MONTREAL BY AGNES M'PHAIL

"Men Have No Corner in Brains, Nor Have the Women in Virtue. It is Pretty Well Divided Up."

FOR THE FARMER.

MONTREAL, May 22. —(Canadian Press.)— Class consciousness among the farmers was strongly urged by Miss Agnes MacPhail, M. P., in her firt address in Montreal on Saturday night when she spoke here as the guest of the Notre Dame de Grace Women's Club. She declared that the farmers had been forced by combination of other interests to get together to protect their own requirements and she remarked that if any of the Progressives in Parliament wished to say they were not there in the special interests of the farmers, she wondered what they were there for at all. The farmers had been driven to concrete political effort and she hoped the movement would continue.

Miss MacPhail spoke strongly in favor of a general reduction in the tariff, especially as it would assist farmers in buying what they needed. She further criticized what she described as a combination of the transportation and banking interests with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association with a view to securing all the protection and benefits they needed.

Referring to the women's movement Miss MacPhail said: "People say that women should keep their place. So I also say that men should keep their place. If we both keep our place and do our duty the world will be the better for it."

She added that she was a feminist if that meant women are all and men nothing. The men have no corner in brains; or have the women in virtue. It is pretty well divided up."

The flag of the German republic has never been flown in some parts of Germany.

PREMIER TELLS GOOD RESULTS OF CONFERENCE

Lloyd George Tells How the Meeting at Genoa Prevented Bloodshed in Europe.

BITTER FEELINGS.

LONDON, May 22 (Canadian Press). — Premier Lloyd-George, in an interview on his arrival home on Saturday, dwelt mainly on what he characterised as "the most dramatic spectacle I ever witnessed in any conference," when the representatives of more than thirty nations rose and solemnly pledged themselves in the face of the world to non-aggression.

"We must remember" he added, "that only a few weeks ago armies were massing on frontiers extending thousands of miles with the evident intention of marching against each other. By the Genoa Conference their march has been arrested."

The Premier declared himself absolutely convinced that the Russians were sincere in their desire for pacification and dilated on the significant fact that nations which formerly hardly were on speaking terms gathered around the same table, exchanging civilities and courtesies. He believed this better feeling would be permanent, because, as he put it, "it represents a very deep-seated feeling in the hearts of the people of Europe who are tired of fighting and want peace to resume their ordinary vocations."

The Premier also declared that he hadn't the faintest doubt that an overwhelming majority of the French people desired peace, and that what had been done at Genoa would reverberate through Europe and America, because "it has given expression to something deep in the hearts of the people."

Remarking that he had been working, morning, noon, and night, and had not had a meal, which was not a meal, to discuss something with some one or another. He stated that he was going to the country, but would return on Tuesday for a Cabinet meeting.

The Premier confirmed the report that he was not going to The Hague conference, adding that the British Government would choose the best possible man for that job.

A BAD WEEK-END REPORTED BELFAST.

BELFAST, May 22. Canadian Press. — This has been one of the worst weeks in the experience of the city. Shooting, incendrianism, bombing and outrages generally have been numerous. Exact number of deaths is not known but it is believed that they will reach thirteen.

FIRST JEWISH LOAN IN HISTORY OF WORLD

JERUSALEM, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—The first Jewish municipal bond issue in history, amounting to £80,000, has been authorized by the Palestine Government for the Township of Tel-Aviv, the self-contained Jewish municiaplity near Jaffa. The obligations are secured by taxation, the bonds being issued at 6 per cent., repayable in twenty years.

Bernard A. Rosenblatt, of New York, United States' member of the Zionist Executive to Palestine, is leaving for New York on June to arrange for the underwriting of the loan.

Detectives and Police Believe They Have Captured Men Who Held Up the Wyoming, Ont., Branch of the Bank of Toronto and Escaped With $13,000 Last October.

LONDON, Ont., May 22. Canadian Press. — With the arrest of four London men and the seizure of a touring car of the latest model, Provincial police working in conjunction with Pinkerton detectives, believe they have the members of gang of bandits who on the afternoon of October 20 last held up the Wyoming, Ont., branch of the Bank of Toronto, overpowered the staff, and escaped with $13,000 in cash.

The quartette rounded up on Saturday night at various points throughout the city, and lodged immediately in the Middlesex county jail, gave their names to the authorities as Edward A. McMullen, 28 years old, mechanic; "Jack" Yohn, 27, cigar maker; George Anderson, 28, railroad fireman, and William Ayers, 28, painter.

Provincial officer Arthur Palmer who headed the police squad, comprising Leslie Atkins, Sarnia, provincial officer; George Tustin, London, and members of the Pinkerton Detective Agency, reports that in only one instance was any attempt made by the alleged gunmen to resist arrest. McMullen was located late in the evening travelling east on Dundas street, in an Oldsmobile machine. When approaching Adelaide street, the officers overtook their quarry, bringing the speeding car to a halt. As the driver was making his escape over the backseat McMullen is stated to have drawn a revolver but was overpowered before he could shoot. The driver was not captured. One of the prisoners was captured with little difficulty, while proceeding on Dundas street, wihle the others were taken into custody, it is said, with equal ease, one at his home and the other at the home of a girl friend.

All the men with the exception of Yohn, have been lifelong residents of London. Yohn moved to the city more than ten years ago from Jamestown, N.Y. Yesterday afternoon Harry Lambert and Ernest S. Taylor, manager and teller, respectively, of the Wyoming bank, viewed the suspects at the county jail accompanied by the police squad who effected their capture.

Following the visit Officer Palmer stated that they recognized certain of the prisoners, but would not state definitely just which ones have yet to be identified. The prisoners have been remanded for a week for trial during which time it is expected that other members of the bank staff as well as A. McKay, a resident of Wyoming, who was in the bank at the time of the robbery will be brought to the city to identify the prisoners.

The robbery was staged just as the bank was closing at 3 p.m., on Oct. 20., when four armed men entered, leaving the machine a few yards distant in charge of the fifth member of the gang.

Unknown to other members of the staff, one man entered the manager's office and compelled Harry Lambert and A. McKay, a client of the institution, to lie flat on the floor.

In the meantime a second man entered the bank proper and asked the tenant, Ernest Taylor for the change of a $10 bill. The latter turned to get the money, and when he looked up was covered with a revolver and told to lie on the REV. D. C. RAMSAY.

Somebody was heard to remark at the baseball game on Saturday that it did not seem the proper thing for a minister to be umpiring a baseball game. The reference of course was to Rev. D. C. Ramsay, of Belleville, who was one of the officials on Saturday. There are too many narrow gauge people like the person quoted. Why in the name of common-sense should fault be found with a clergyman who is doing what he can to make sport clean and fair and honorable? Is Rev. Mr. Ramsay any less of a minister or any less of a man because he likes to mingle with his fellow-citizens in a game of baseball? As a matter of fact, Mr. Ramsay not only likes baseball—by the way he once upon a time played under "Jake" Solomon's management in New Liskeard—but he is an enthusiastic curler and lawn bowler and President of the Belleville Amateur Athletic Association. It is a safe guess that his connection with clean sport has not only broadened Mr. Ramsay's vision and his knowledge of his fellow-men, but that it has given him a hold upon their respect and liking that he has been able to use to advantage in his mission of life. The minister who puts himself upon a pedestal, on a plane from which he cannot possibly come into contact with the problems of the average man, cannot exert the influence that can be brought to bear by a man like Belleville's preacher-umpire, who believes that manly recreation has an important place in the scheme of things and that it is a duty to see that it is given every chance to develop along clean and sportsmanlike lines. Rev. Mr. Ramsay is a better minister because of his participation in sport and athletics on the other hand are enriched because men of his standing in the community are lending a hand.

THE STEVENSON BILL.

The increasing number of automobile accidents might be expected to cause a demand for more rigid traffic regulations. It is a matter for surprise, therefore, that Dr. H. A. Stevenson, the Labor member for London, should introduce into the Legislature a bill to amend the Motor Vehicles Act to permit a speed of 30 miles an hour in the open country. The amendment should be crushed. It would be a direct invitation to the speed maniacs to turn the highways into speedways, for they always think it necessary to shade the limit. When twenty-five miles an hour is authorized they travel at a speed of thirty or thirty-five miles, and with a thirty-mile limit, they would increase their speed to thirty-five and forty. Under certain conditions, of course, thirty miles an hour is not a particularly dangerous speed, but to make it a legal rate would be flirting with trouble. It has always seemed that the French policy of handling automobile traffic is the most effective. France has no speed limit, but motorists are held rigidly to account for all accidents for which, by reason of fast or reckless driving, they may be responsible, and the penalties are such as to make the most irresponsible motorist stop and think. Here in Ontario we have chosen to attempt to hold the speeders in check by naming a limit which cannot legally be exceeded. It is not the best system, but while we have it we should make the best of it by making the limit low enough to be of some effect. To legalize a speed of thirty miles an hour would be to defeat the purpose of establishing a limit, and for that reason the Stevenson bill should get short shift from the Legislature.

THE OTTAWA HIKERS.

The march of several hundred war veterans from Toronto to Ottawa, which is now in progress, is a rather pitiable exhibition of misguided energy that cannot be expected to accomplish much. It is a long hike from Toronto to the Capital, and although some members of the expedition to whom the adventure of the thing appeals will find a certain amount of enjoyment in the trek across country, it is to be feared that nothing but disappointment awaits those who have in the hope of bettering entered upon the enterprise the condition of themselves and their comrades. Although their method of presenting their case is dramatic, there is nothing they can say to the Government that has not already been said by officers of the several veterans' societies, whose Dominion-wide organizations make them more truly representative of the ex-service men than a few hundred Hamilton and Toronto veterans could possibly be, and there is no reason to expect that they will receive anything more substantial at Ottawa than an assurance of the kind that all Governments give deputations that "their requests shall receive earnest consideration." That is scarcely worth tramping several hundred miles of Mr. Biggs' roads to receive. And it's a long, long way back to Toronto.

At a period when thoughtful statesmen are urging a "Back to the Land" movement to develop this and that Dominions, it is quite encouraging to note the enterprise of one, Carl A. Sutter—and Mrs. Sutter—in planning to live in the Maine woods for six weeks as primitive man and woman, says the Montreal Star. Sans clothes, fire or weapons, the adventurous Carl—and Mrs. Carl—will fare forth into the woodland, and make right merry under the greenwood tree, weather and mosquitoes permitting. There are rare possibilities about the venture.

Carl may learn how to swing from tree-top to tree-top, like his simian ancestors. Mrs. Carl may qualify as a lusty Diana, with bow and arrow. Such trifles as posion ivy, stinging nettles, black flies, weasals, bats, stoats, chipmunks, bogs, beetles, and blindworms will doubtless be faced by Carl—and Mrs. Carl—with the same heroic resolution that has enabled them to come to the conclusion that they need a period of Adam-and-Eve existence this Spring.

It would be wholly unfair to surmise that they seek publicity just because Carl—without Mrs. Carl—has arranged to meet a reporter from a Boston paper daily to report to him the adventures of the day. The reports may easily possess a distinctly practical value. As thus: "Monday—Woke at five. Raining. Got shower bath without trouble. Mrs. Carl feeling chilly. Stung by wasp at 10.45 a.m. Hunted for food till three. Wasp sting very sore. Sat down in poision ivy at 5 3.0 p.m. Mrs. Carl sleeping under protection of furze bushes."

The couple who thus sturdily brave the unknown dangers of the North Maine woods may, incidentally, help the police in solving the bootlegging problem. In any event, their experiences cannot but be of use—it only as a warning to other people to spend their holidays in a sensible way.

ANGLO-FRENCH RELATIONS

Are Great Britain and France at the parting of the ways, and is there a prospect of a new alignment of nations in Europe? These are questions which are springing very readily to the lips and minds of observers at the Genoa Conference, because, in all the leading discussions of the Conference, France and Great Britain have been unable to see eye to eye, and the result is that there appears to be a distince clevage between the two nations. Some of the United States, correspondents, particularly Frank H. Simons, take the view that there is a fundamental difference of opinion between Britain and France on the question of European organization, and that this difference of opinion opens up opssibilities of future conflict which cannot be overlooked. Simons even goes so far as to align France into two parties, with France, Poland, Belgium, Roumania, Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia on the one side, and Britain, Italy and possibly Germany and Russia on the other. To the lay mind, of course, such a division of Rurope seems unthinkable, and the opinion of Simons, is probably a trifle exaggerated, but there are factors in the European situation which might easily align the nation's into groups on that basis.

The next real testing-time for Europe will come on May 31st when Germany will have to meet a huge reparations obligation to France. If Germany does not reverse the policy which has been announced, the obligation will not be met. The anncunced policy is that Germany can not, and will not, pay the reparations due at the end of this month. This, of course, will be a direct breach of the Versailles treaty, and Premier Poincare, of France, in a recent speech at Bar-le-Duc, announced in unmistakable terms the determination of France to see that the treaty was respected, and, failing this, to take the action permitted by the treaty. This action would be an immediate invasion of Germany, for under the terms of the treaty France has the unquestionable right to occupy the Ruhr valley or to go direct to Berlin.

This, of course, is hwere Britain and France are likely to disagree, for without a doubr Germany looks to Britain to save her from the necessity of paying huge indemnities to France, and also from the risks of French invasion and occupation. The whole question is an intricate economic one, with trade and industrial considerations as the dominating features. In this respect the two countries, Britain and France, have opposite view points, because of opposite needs. France needs money, Britain needs trade to build up her industries. British trade depends on a quick recovery of Europe from its economic chaos, including the recovery of Germany, and France depends on the money owing to her in indemnities to enable her to reconstruct her economic and financial fabric. The determination of France to secure this money from Germany does not meet with great favor in high diplomatic circles in Britain, first, because its payment would hopelessly retard the re-organization of Europe, and secondly, because the occupation of the Ruhr district of Germany, in case of default, would put under French control the richest industrial area in Europe, and would put France well on the way to industrial supremacy. That is why Britain seems to be in sympathy with Germany in regard to reparations. Britain has the bread view of the speedy recovery of Europe, France has the narrow view of her own immediate gain.

These matters, however, although they seem to predict a grave situation in Europe at the end of this month, will hardly bring about a direct break between Britain and France. It is beyond reason that Britain should support Germany in refusing the legal rights of her former ally. So long as the Versailles treaty stands, Britain must play her part in enforcing its obligations, and the world knows that Britain's word of honor is not lightly pledged. In spite of the fears of those who predict conflict in Europe, with France and Britain on opposing sides, we cannot believe that there wil be any rupture of relations between these allied countries. There may be a difference of opinion as to how a certain end may best be reached, but nothing more, and when the 31st of May comes along, it will, in all probability, find France and Britain in perfect agreement on the enforcement of the reparations obligations of Germany under the V3rsailles trezty.—Kingston Whig.

STATE WHEAT POOL

Western Mail: The more the State meddles in matters which are properly subjects of private concern, the less effectively can it perform the true functions of governemnt. This, however, is not to say that the State Wheat Pool has not justified itself, or that it should be lightly cast upon the scrap heap. It owes its existence to very special circumstances Although at the outset it did not meet with a kindly reception from a great number of farmers, there are few to-day who will deny that its operations have been of incalculable benefit to the farmers. Without the co-opertaion of the Commonwealth and the States in organizing the wheat marketing for the growers in Australia during the war period, the farming industry today would be in a very much worse position than it is. The war rendered some such expedient as was devised imperatively necessary, and not for the farmers only, but for the economic salvation of the country. That mistakes were made, and that there was for a time, gross mismanagement in some of the States, will not be denied, but on the whole the scheme undoubtedly made for the stability of the industry, and secured to the farmers financial results that could not in the circumstances have been otherwise obtained.

IRELAND'S NEW LIBERTY

Manchester Guardian: When a nation is governed, or kept ungoverned, because somebody in possession of a large number of firearms is sure that this is the right thing, it matters little whether the tyrant be native or foreign. There can in neither case be any national freedom. A nation's freedom can only be built upon one foundation—the voluntary submission of its members to be individually the servants of the nation and not its masters. Of course we have little right to rebuke any Irishman for not knowing what freedom is, still less how to use it. We gave him no practice till last Christmas. But it is worth our while to look at Ireland and learn what is to be learnt, or relearnt, from this tragic spectacle of a nation coming out almost blinded by long subjection into the strong light of liberty.

TRENCHER MEN AND WOMEN

London Observer: It is evidently true that everybody requires a certain minimum of food to maintain life; but how much more than this is required to maintain good health and when and how it should be taken, depend to a much larger degree than is usually realized on the individual—on the character and amount of the work done, on the manner of life lived, on the idosyncrasies of the particular digestion. The business girl no longer subsists mainly on buns eaten in haste; it is no longer the fashion to pretend that a real lady lives on air and a few chocolates. Education and common sense are triumphing slowly even in this field.

If Lloyd George could only have said what he really thought about the Russians his speech on the Genoa Conference would have been still more interesting.

Incidentally the British Premier declared that the life-line is still there. Germany is liable to steal it, however, if it is not guarded closely.

It is still a case of "Thank Heaven we have the British Navy."

Commeting on bonus, Dr. Theodore S. Woolsey, professor of international law at Yale, says: "When a huge gratuity is given to the members of an army for doing their duty, this gratuity being offered by one political party, or by each party bidding against the other, it then becomes not a gift of gratitude, but a corruption fund, debauching both those who give it and those who receive it."

REALLY WONDERFUL.

"We got through our work at Quebec very well. The constitution is not, exactly to my mind in all its details—but, as a whole, it is wonderful, really wonderful. When one thinks of all the fighting we have had for fifteen years and finds the very men who fought us every inch now going far beyond what we asked, I am amazed."—George Brown, October 31st, 1864.

Voice of the People

RECALLED HEARINGS

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—Might I be permitted space in your paper that I may refresh the memory of the members of the Owners' and Tenants' Association who took part in the meeting held in the G.W.V.A. Hall last Saturday night to discuss the unfairness of the City Council in its dismissal of Fire Chief Grange, and to endorse a resolution asking for a reinvestigation, by refeerring to some of the reports appearing in the Examiner concerning the doings of the City Council in their investigation into complaints of mismanagement at the Fire Hall in responding to a fire at St. Andrew's Manse, Jan. 22nd, and of its finding, which might clear away some of the bitterness and misunderstanding that seem to prevail, and that our Aldermen might be looked upon as gentlemen, and not as the Peterborough Prussians, as one member stated, who seemingly without respect for himself or any one else, sunk his manhood, if he had any, that he might give vent to his feelings. The Examiner, Feb. 1st, gave a detailed account of the Fire, Water and Light Committee meeting which investigated the charges made against the Fire department, and contains nearly one and a half columns of what Chief Grange said who was present at the meeting. On motion of Alderman Gainey and Alderman Hamilton, the Committee passed the matter on to the Committee of the whole Council, finding negligence on the part of the department in not promptly locating the place of the fire. On Feb. 9th, the Examiner reports that the City Council in Committee, after over two hours deliberation, on conditions at the Fire Hall and of the Fire, Water and Light Committee's finding of negligence by the brigade at the St. Andrew's fire, passed a resolution on a vote of 6 to 5, that in the Committee's opinion, the Fire Department is not efficient and it is desirable that a change be made in the brigade's management. All members of the Council were present, except Alderman W. Stocker who was sick. Mr. B. B. Morden, speaking at Saturday's meeting, said that Peterborough's fire loss for last year was $12,000, as to the correctness of this, few can say. The fire losses in the last report submitted to the City Council by the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, and appearing in the Examiner of March the 3rd 1922, covers a period of three years, 1918-1919-1920, and shows a total loss during that period of $414,470. Mr. W. Lytle, who also spoke at the meeting seems to get his information from unreliable sources. He accuses the City Councail of injustice done Chief Grange by keeping him till three o'clock in the morning, explaining his action in dismissing a couple of firemen for inefficiency at the Bell Apartments fire. As a matter of fact no firemen were discharged or found fault with at the Bell fire, but Chief Grange appeared before the Fire, Water and Light Committee who were investigating a complaint from the Trades and Labor Council of the brigade's inefficiency through lack of drills. The following is an extract from the Fire, Water and Council at a meeting held Sept. 7th, 1920.

"Drills should take place in the early morning, and if there is not room in the yard for this, upon such highways or in such parks as the Chief may select. The drills should suit the requirements of the men, considering their age and the work they have to do, and should periodically take place in the Fire Hall or on its grounds." Drills don't seem to have suited the requirement sof the men, as it is impossible to trace any record of drill, since that investigation. Of late there were five firemen discharged by Chief Grange without any apparent reason whatever, and if the Owners' and Tenants' Association consider it their duty to defend the interests of City employees they should do it regardless of class or creed.

A PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS TO KEENE RESIDENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. McLachlan Are Honored By Their Friends. Keene News.

KEENE, May 20. — Mr. and Mrs. Harry McLachlan entertained the members of the Sociol Welfare Dramatic Club at their home on High Street on Thursday evening. The evening was pleasantly spent in various games, and a ride on the airplane, which was erected for the occasion and was piloted by Messrs Hugh McFee and Harry McLachlan assisted by Stanley Braden, who looked after the safety of the passengers. Everyone enjoyed their trip except Mr. A. E. Fletcher, who when at a certain height, made a leap for life, fortunately landing without any serious injuries, and caused a great deal of amusement for the guests. At half past eleven a dandy lunch was served and was very much enjoyed. The accompanying address was then read and the presentation of a handsome silk umbrella to Mrs. McLachlan who has trained and directed the young people in their work. The club feel very much indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McFee, who so ably assisted them in the play "The Country Minister."

To Mrs. H. McLachlan——

As members of the Keene Social Welfare Dramatic Club, we take this opportunity of expressing our gratitude to you for the special kindness you have shown and our appreciation of the sincere interest you have manifested in our well being and the sacrificing efforts you have put forth to make our work a success. We would make particular mention of the hospitable opening of your home to frequent meetings of the club and your able assistance in the dramatic work we have undertaken. Your untiring efforts have been our inspiration and as a token of our appreciation we wish you to accept this umbrella, hoping that you may be able to continue long in the work that lies so near to your heart.

Signed on behalf of the Social Welfare Dramatic Club.

Stanley Braden,
Joseph Taylor,
Alfred Fletcher.

The address was read by Miss Stella Ellis, Miss Kate Shearer making the presentation.

Mrs. McLachlan responded in a few appropriate remark of her connection with the young peoples' Club, and appreciation of the gift.

DYE BLOUSE OR BABY'S COAT IN DIAMOND DYES

"Diamond Dyes" add years of wear to worn, faded skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, hangings, draperies, everything. Every package contains directions so simple any woman can put new, rich, fadeless colors into her worn garments or draperies even if she has never dyed before. Just buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then your material will come out right, because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to streak, spot, fade, or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

EX-WARDEN BROWN GIVES UP FARMING.

Will Reside in Norwood—Crop Conditions — Norwood News.

NORWOOD, May 22. — Mr. Maxwell Brown, who has given up farming has moved into the village and is occupying his house on King street.

Minstrel Show

The Minstrel Show given by the Young People of St. John's Church Peterboro, under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. of this village was all that could be desired. Every number was well received and the jokes and local hits were enjoyed by all present.

In spite of the unpleasant weather a very large crowd were present.

After the entertainment the company of about fifty were entertained in the A.Y.P.A. rooms by the ladies of the congregation.

Death

The death occurred on Friday evening at the home of his daughter Mrs. B. Cress in Toronto, of Mr. James Harper, an old and much respected resident of Norwood. The deceased was 84 years of age and until a short time ago seemed to be in his usual good health.

His wife predeceased him about six years ago.

Besides his brother, Mr. John Harper of Toronto, and two sisters, Mrs. Matthew Nicol of Norwod, and Mrs. Maxwell Hall of Wadena, Sask., he leaves a family of seven, four sons and three daughters, namely, Messrs. John and Fred of Toronto; Harry of Norwood; Joseph of Edmonton, Alta.; Mrs. W. C. Harrison, Norwood; Mrs. (Dr.) Cress of Toronto, and Mrs. Fred Squire of Havelock.

The funeral service will be held on Monday afternoon at the home of his son-in-law Mr. W. C. Harrison. Interment will be made in the Norwood cemetery.

The family have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends.

PRICE TOO LOW FOR CHEESE MEN

Campbellford Board Failed to Do Business. Big Celebration on May 24.

CAMPBELLFORD May 22.—The Management Committee of the Victoria Day ,24th May, celebration to be held in Campbellford, is leaving nothing undone to make it one of the most successful and biggest celebrations of its kind ever held in Eastern Ontario.

They have secured the fast Aura Lee lacrosse team of Toronto as one of their head-liners. The Aura Lees will play an exhibition game with strong intermediate lacrosse team of this town. There will also be an all-star lacrosse team from Peterborough, who will cross sticks with the locals.

Record entries have been received for all the different classes of horse races which are carded for the same day. Good races are assured.

All who make Campbellford their headquarters on Wednesday next, 24th May, will be entertained most royally.

Cheese Board.

Brae, 25; Beaver, 25; Kimberley, 35; New Model, 20; Prince of Wales, 25; Rylstone, 25; Stanwood, 25; Trent Valley, 20; West Seymour, 25; Woodlands, 35; making a total of 260 boxes.

The highest bid was 12 1-4c, being made by Mr. J. S. Cook, of Belleville. The salesmen were far from being satisfied, and there were no sales made.

Work on Grand Road.

Roadwork is being done on the Grand Road. The Hyro-Electric Power Commission is furnishing the gravel, and also the teams and waggons to convey it, while the town is paying for having it spread on the road.

The gravel is procured at the Hydro pit, and is being dug and loaded by a clam-shell on a derrick. The road which is being repaired has been used by the Hydro for the past year for drawing gravel to the Power development project at Ranney Falls.

Mr. Alex. Hume attended the conference of dairymen held in Toronto on Friday, 19th May, to discuss the Co-operative Sales Act regarding the sale of cheese in Ontario The Act is receiving much favourable comment in this district.

The window casings and doors of the Queen's Hotel here are being re-painted, and when finished it promises to greatly improve the appearance of the building.

RAILROAD MAN COULD HARDLY TURN A SWITCH

Burns Says He Had Indigestion So Bad He Thought He Had Heart Trouble. Thanks Tanlac For Restoring Him to Perfect Health.

"I have to thank Tanlac for my being on the job to-day," said Walter Burns, switchman, Canadian National R. R., living at 484 Jessie Avenue, Fort Rouge, Winnipeg.

"I was in a terribly run-down condition and hardly had strength enough to work. I had no appetite, and my stomach was so out of order that everything I ate soured and formed gas, causing my heart to palpitate so I thought I had serious heart trouble. My kidneys were also out of order, and my back pained me so much it was agony to throw a switch. I was in such bad shape I began to think I would have to lay off.

"But several of my friends urged me to take Tanlac, and I'm mighty glad I did, for it certainly has made a new man of me. I can honestly say that I never felt better in my life, and I have gained fully ten pounds in weight."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH FOR EIGHT YEARS

The cause of this trouble is the fermentation of food in the stomach which generates a gas that is very frequently belched up. There is also a rumbling of the bowels and a discharge of gas therefrom, here is a constant retching, and the meals are frequently vomited. There is a burning pain in the stomach. the appetite is fickle, the tongue coated, the breath bad, constipation is genically present and the suffere becomes weak, nervous, depressed and exceedingly miserable.

The blame lies with a sluggish liver, as it fails back the bile which is so necessary to promote the movement of the bowels, and when the bile gets into the blood a badly disordered condition of the stomach, liver and bowels will surely follow.

Keep your liver active and you will always enjoy good health.

Mrs. Agnes Gallant, Reserve Mines, N.S., writes:—"I had been a great sufferer for eight years, from catarrh of the stomach. I tried several, so-called, catarrh remedies without relief until a friend advised me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which I did, and four vials completely relieved me. That was six years ago, and I have had no return of my old trouble."

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, May 22. — (Canadian Press.)—The market for cash grain was steady here Saturday. There was a firm feeling for flour. The millfeed market was quiet and there was only a slow demand for rolled oats. Eggs were in active demand. The butter market was strong. The demand for cheese was limited.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, May 22.— (Canadian Press.) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here Saturday: Demand 4.4878; cables 4.4909.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—Evening up for the week-end caused wheat prices here to break sharply during the last hour of the trading Saturday, the May delivery leading the decline, although reports from the South telling of unfavorable conditions on the new crop gave the trading a rather bullish construction in the early dealings. The finish was unsettled, with values showing a net loss of 3-8 to 3-4c, May $1.35 1-4 to $1.36, and July $1.23 5-8 to $1.23 3-4. Corn was up 1-8 to 3-8 and oats ranged from 1-8c. lower to 3-8c. higher. Provisions ranged from five lower to 50c. advance.

52 ARRESTED IN RAID ON A COCKING MAIN.

MONTREAL, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—The first cock fighting raid in many years in this city was staged here Saturday night when 52 persons were arrested and twenty-six live game cocks and one dead one were seized by a squad of police in a raid on a cellar at 3659 Notre Dame street. E. Ritchie, of that address, will appear to-morrow morning in police court on a charge of holding a cocking main and the others will appear charged with being spectators.

The cellar was fitted up like an amphitheatre with benches and boxes, one above the other. In the centre was a wooden platform on which the fights were staged.

TRAIL RANGERS OF BAILIEBORO.

BAILIEBORO, May 22. — On Saturday afternoon in the Methodist Church, Rev. R. M. Patterson addressed the members of the Mission Band and Trail Rangers. The subject of his address was, "The benefit of such organizations to boys and girls." The meeting was well attended and the address was both instructive and interesting, and will no doubt be an inspiration to the children in the future.

The girls of the Mission Band served lunch at the conclusion of the meeting, and a silver collection was taken up in aid of the missionary fund.

Farm Crops

The warm steady rains which fell on Thursday and Friday have done untilyd good to untold good to the farm crops, as well as the fruit crop. There is every prospect for an immense spring crop and the clover and wheat, the latter which did look rather doubtful for the past two weeks have picked up wonderfully since the rain.

The seeding is pretty well through in this district and farmers have commenced to prepare their lands for roots and corn.

Good Fishing

The fishing on the Lake is splendid this season. A great number of fishing parties have been taking in the sport and report that the pickerel and mud-cats are biting good. Already there have been several large catches made. The largest was one hundred and eighty-five cat fish caught in one evening.

Store Improvements

Mr. A. C. Cole, general merchant is erecting a new verandah on the front of his home and also a cement verandah in front of his store.

A Meeting Place

The Tuxis Square and Trail Rangers have secured the basement of the S.O.S. hall owned by Mr. Wm. Bateson to hold their meetings in. The hall has been cleared out and it makes a splendid place for athletic stunts.

Sport News

Owing to the wet weather on Thursday and Saturday evening the base ball practice was called off.

A Beef Ring

The committee who were appointed to arrange for a beef ring, meet at the home of Mr. Hy. Dawson, on Saturday evening to decide where the slaughtering of the cattle should be done, and also when they would commence to kill. Mr. Dawson has been appointed butcher for the ring.

Mr. Lawrence Dawson spent a few days in Toronto during the past week.

The C.G.I.T. of the Presbyterian church Millbrook, are planning to motor to Bewdley on Tuesday evening. The girls will take their supper along and enjoy a picnic on the lake shore.

THREE WEEKS MORE FOR LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, May 22. Canadian Press. — In three weeks according to estimates of members, the Ontario Legislature will "close up shop." The government program heralds three or four more measures, including another Lake of the Woods levels bill, and possibly and important amendment to Rural Hydro Extension legislation passed last year.

CHAPTER XLIV

Learning to depend

I needed Jack's advice if I were to save Bonny from making a tragic mistake. Mr. Tearle had written me to keep Bonny and George apart. I had failed.

I always had been called an independent little thing, able to take care of myself under all circumstances, and I prided myself that I was. But a few short weeks of matrimony had proved to me that I must have Jack's opinion about everything.

And I couldn't ask for it at a rehearsal; in that crowd I couldn't explain the circumstances about Bonny and her father's trust in me. Jack is so exact, he'd want all sides before he put his own ideas into form.

It was up to me to prevent that elopement—but how?

The addition of this worry to my misunderstanding with Jack overwhelmed me. When we had "made up" hastily Jack had whispered:

"Now we're all right, aren't we, dear one?"

And I said that I hoped we were, But in my heart I knew that, try as hard as I might, something was still amiss: Mrs. Herrod's letter was still "all wrong" between us.

Good men are not as petty as women, I suppose. Jack had accepted with a laugh the rustling of Mr. Tearle's letter in my blouse. If I were just I ought to swap fair, and forget Mrs. Herrod's letter!

I couldn't. Could any wife?

I was in a terrible mental tangle when Judge Ballou called for the next scene.

The curtain parted, and disclosed Bart, the Viking, and his bold Norsemen in their bark, returning from a two years' cruise to the southwest.

The company's handsome leading man was attired in his mechanic's uniform because when Bart was not acting at rehearsal he was occupied in stringing wires and experimenting with lighting effects.

To these heroes, on watch for a landfall which should prove they were nearing their home, appeared the Norns, spirits of the past, Present and Future. Mrs. Ballou was the ancient hag: one of the twins in breeches was the Present; Bonny, in her startling dance dress, was the blithe young future.

In such motley dress our plays interested me far more than the perfected costumed drama. As I watched with Jack, I wondered how Bonny could do so well when she knew that she was going to run away, leaving her duty to the company unfulfilled, that she was going to make her father rage with anger.

A flapper's silly trick! No conscience at all

THE FOX PELT TRADE.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., May 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Of the total value of silver fox pelts produced in Canada in 1921, which amounted to $432,130, Prince Edward Island produced $243,694, or nearly sixty per cent. The value of the live foxes exported from Canada in 1921 was $277,182.

There, in the compass of a few inches of silvery glass both perceived the tall figure of Foljambe in miniature. They saw him bend slightly forward as his hand reached out for the Russian despatches. Once, twice, he let them glide through his fingers. Then he changed their position so as to bring them nearer to the edge of the desk

"I hope it won't rain," continued Disraeli. "Lady Salisbury is so easily upset when she fears for the comfort of her guests. And to-night—let me see—tonight Lady Beaconsfield and I are to dine at the French Embassy. Admirable cooking! We have much to learn from the Continent, Charles. And in the evening I shall please myself. I shall go to the Lyceum and see Irving play 'Hamlet.' If he isn't too tired, I shall ask him to sup with me at the Beefsteak Club. A strenuous day, Charles."

Foljambe had placed the packet that Disraeli had given him on top of the Russian despatches

Disraeli laughed lightly.

"The less a Prime Minister works, the fewer mistakes he will make." He turned slowly so as to give Foljambe plenty of opportunity to assume an attitude of complete inactivity "Am I not right, Foljambe?"

He held the whole bundle aloft.

"Shall I begin the study of these at once?"

"Let me see them once more."

Disraeli crossed the room to his subordinate. Then he extended his hand for the papers, and the other, unable to do otherwise, handed him the entire packet.

The Prime Minister looked at one document after the other, scanning each with meticulous care. Then he handed all those on top to Foljambe. When he had reached the Russian despatches he threw them back on his desk.

"I did not know I had picked these up also," said Foljambe, his lips going dry.

"A very natural mistake. I shall probably send them to you shortly, anyway. They can be hardly important. However, Charles had best make notes from them first."

The other bowed.

"Foljambe," Disraeli said genially and with apparent sincerity, "you can hardly imagine how much you pleased me with your request to be nearer to me. I feel that with you and Charles at my side I shall be able to progress rapidly in many ways." The other winced, but the Premier continued in the same jovial tone. "There is a small room right off the reception large hall—immediately back of Charles' desk. Pray, tell the servants to prepare it for you, so that I may have you at my beck and call in future. You shall see important developments shortly—matters that will interest you immensely. In the meantime, be good enough to give your full attention to the drainage plans. They are pressing."

Foljambe bowed. When he had left, Disraeli's features darkened.

"I am not in a mood to continue with you now," he said to Charles.

* * *

It was a few days later.

Looking about she saw her husband and Charles. Nodding pleasantly, she said:

"I am going for a drive. Aren't you coming this morning?"

Charles placed a chair for Lady Beaconsfield.

"I'm afraid you must enjoy the Park without me, Mary," Disraeli said. "I am expecting a very important visitor this morning, Mr. Hugh Meyers, the banker and millionaire."

Lady Beaconsfield, a sudden cloud blotting out her smile, looked at Charles then at her husband.

"Dizzy—why is Mr. Meyers coming to see you?"

"On very urgent business, my dear," said Disraeli, writing at his desk.

"Is it anything personal, Dizzy?" she asked.

The Prime Minister grinned broadly. "Deeford, this saint married me when I was up to my neck in debt. And I do believe she thinks I am going to borrow money of Meyers now."

Charles laughed and returned to his desk.

"I believe whatever you tell me, Dizzy. But this is the first time you have not taken me into your confidence."

"You shall know in half an hour, my dear."

As he spoke, Disraeli crossed to his wife and patted her on the hand.

At that moment, a footman, in his morning livery, entered, bearing a card on a small salver. He walked over to Disraeli, as Lady Beaconsfield rose.

"Well! I shall cut my drive short and I shall not enjoy it a bit," the lady said.

"There! There! Come back in half an hour."

Disraeli looked at the card.

The footman went out to fetch Meyers.

"Now, my dear, you'll see he's not so very terrible."

Lady Beaconsfield smiled at Disraeli.

Opening the door again, the servant announced.

"Mr. Hugh Meyers!"

The man who entered bore every appearance of being an aristocrat. When studied closely there was the faintest trace of the Jew to be discovered. He carried himself with dignity and not a little authority and seemed to be on very excellent terms with the Prime Minister. Hugh Meyers was a king of finance and of the few financially powerful Jews in London, scion of an old English family, and on excellent footing with the nobility. He was the kind of patriot whom all Governments lean on in a crisis—and whom history forgets.

Disraeli met Meyers at the door and the two men shook hands cordially.

"Good morning, Mr. Meyers. Lady Beaconsfield—Lord Deeford!"

Lady Beaconsfield acknowledged the introduction and smiled. She walked to the door.

"I will return in ten minutes, Dizzy," she called out.

"The sooner the better, my dear," and Disraeli bowed to her as she passed out.

"Ah—well," said Disraeli. "Deeford—observe this unassuming gentleman. You would pass him in the street without the faintest idea you had rubbed elbows with one of the world's greatest powers—"

"Oh, You embarrass me," said Meyers, modestly. "Nothing is so easy as making money, when it is the only thing you make. Once you have five pounds what is to prevent your having five millions?"

"Charles can we scape five pounds together between us?" asked Disraeli.

NERVOUS AND RUN DOWN

Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cobourg, Ontario.—"For many years I have had troubles with my nerves and have been in a general run down condition for some time. I could not do my work half the time because of trouble every month. I was told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and advised to try it. It has done me good and I strongly recommend it. Since I have taken it I have been able to do all my own work and I also know friends who have found it good. You can use these facts as a testimonial." —Mrs. Ellen Flatters, Box 761, Cobourg, Ontario.

Any woman in this condition should take the Vegetable Compound, for it has helped other women and so it should help you.

For nearly fifty years this good old-fashioned root and herb medicine, which contains no narcotics nor harmful drugs, has been the standard medicine for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, etc.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Semi-ready Tailored Clothes

Prices are away down on Men's Clothes—and Semi-ready Suits this Spring cost half what they did at the peak prices.

We have the finest Navy Blue Serges in Botany wool weaves at $40 and $45—suits that went as high as $100 at one time.

The Semi-ready Company weave their own Serges and plain greys in England — that is why we can always outpoint the better quality of fine Serges.

The Craven

A new double-breasted sac.

—reveals the modern tendency to restraint in the styling of young men's garments. The broad, dashing full-peaked lapels are superseded by a narrower, half-peaked shape which reduces the bulky appearance and adds to the charm of the distinctive garment. Two buttons only are made to button.

PARK STREET BAPTIST CHURCH OBSERVED 14TH ANNIVERSARY

Professor J. L. Gilmour Gave Two Splendid Addresses During the Day —Special Music.

Park street Baptist church yesterday ceebrated the fourteenth anniversary of the building of the church with appropriate services. Large congregations morning and evening testified to the steady progress made by the church since its inception and showed that its future is well established. The church was prettily decorated with lilacs, appleblossoms and plants. The choir under the direction of Mr. B. G. Robinson rendered special music

The Minister of the day was Professor J. L. Gilmour, B.A.D.D. of McMaster University, a former Peterboro boy. The family name of Gilmour is closely associated with pioneer Baptist work in this city, Gilmour Memorial Church being named after them. In the morning, Prof. Gilmour discussed physical and spiritual health pointing out that good health depended upon having food, exercise, rest and joy. Spiritual well-being was similarly based in a spiritual sense. He emphasized the importance of joy and happiness to reach the pinnacle of usefulness to mankind.

In the evening Professor Gilmour discussed the marks of a successful church taking as his text Thessalonians 1:3: "Remembering without ceasing your work of faith and labour of love and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God and Our Father". The marks of a successful church he said were found in the work of faith carried on, the labour of love, the patience of hope and the presence of God.

GREATER DEMAND FORCES PRICES UP.

The increased consumption of tea in 1921, (during which year, by agreement, the tea growers of Ceylon and India had curtailed production) forced the price of tea steadily upwards to the present abnormally high level. The lowering of the duty in England will mean still greater demand, and authorities on tea tell us that still higher prices may be expected.

FIFTH PAN AMERICAN CONGRESS AT SANTIAGO

SANTIAGO, May 22.—(Associated Press.)— The Foreign Minister, Ernesto Barros Jarpa, says Chile hopes to call the fifth Pan American congress to meet in Santiago the latter part of this year or, at the latest, in April, 1923. The foreign ministry has been exchanging views with other Pan-American nations for some time with the object of fixing a date for the congress that would be agreeable to the interested countries.

Memorial For Women Martyrs

ELSIE DAVENPORT

Erection of a national memorial for women who lost their lives in service for the World War is the objective of a body of women, headed by Elsie Davenport, who are organizing the American Women's War Memorial Association.

The idea for such a memorial was suggested by Miss Davenport, a New Yorker, to President Harding, who referred the matter to Adjt. Gen. Harris of the War Department. The result was governmental approval of the plan and the formation of a committee to take in hand the organizing of women interested in the project.

In order to make the memorial a really national affair the units of the association in various parts of the country, as they are organized, will have to interest their congressmen, who will present the plan in Washington. The unveiling of the memorial then will become a ceremony somewhat similar to the burial of the unknown soldier on Armistice Day, 1921.

American artists and sculptors have been asked to submit suggestions for the memorial, the base of which is to be commemorative of the war work of all women and the surmounting figure or group a tribute to those who lost their lives.

Designs for tablets, which local organizations can have placed in their respective cities, also will be considered.

Miss Davenport has already been promised the co-operation of the American Legion, American War Mothers, Gold Star Mothers, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Defense Society and other organzations.

FREIGHT RATE CUT.

OTTAWA, May 22. — (Canadian Press).—C. A. Hayes, vice-president of the Canadian National lines, this morning informed a special House committee on railway transportation costs that the Canadian Northern proposed a cut of 16 or 17 per cent. in freight rates on lumber. President Beatty, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, giving evidence on Friday, suggested a cut of 11.70 per cent.

CHARGE DISMISSED

MONTREAL, May 22.— (Canadian Press.(— Judge Cusson this morning dismissed the charge against D. C. Macarow, manager of the defunct Merchants Bank, in connection with returns made to Finance Department for October, 1921.

It is likely that an appeal will be entered by the Dominion Government.

D. C. Macarow was summoned to police court along with Sir. H. Montagu Allen ,president of bank, who was accused of negligently signing government return for October 1921. Case of Crown was that Mr. Macarow should have known and reported to Finance Department that bank's reserve had been lost in disastrous loans which afterwards compelled it to sell out to Bank of Montreal. Defence in main pleaded that Mr. Macarow relied on return prepared by accountant of bank from statements of branch managers that it was impossible in the short time at disposal of the bank officials before sending in return. Twenty days following period reported on to check figures and that actual amount of loss was question of opinion in October 1921.

PROCEED WITH CASE.

MONTREAL, May 22.—(Canadian Press).—It is understood that the case against Sir H. Montagu Allen, president of the Merchants' Bank, charged with signing a return, will be proceeded with, pending an appeal.

PARK STREET BAPTIST CHURCH OBSERVED 14TH ANNIVERSARY

Park street Baptist church yesterday ceebrated the fourteenth anniversary of the building of the church with appropriate services. Large congregations morning and evening testified to the steady progress made by the church since its inception and showed that its future is well estabished. The church was prettily decorated with lilacs, appleblossoms and plants. The choir under the direction of Mr. B. G. Robinson rendered special music
The Minister of the day was Professor J. L. Gilmour, B.A.D.D. of McMaster University, a former Peterboro boy. The family name of Gilmour is closely associated with pioneer Baptist work in this city, Gilmour Memorial Church being named after them. In the morning, Prof. Gilmour discussed physical and spiritual health pointing out that good health depended upon having food, exercise, rest and joy. Spiritual well-being was similarly based in a spiritual sense. He emphasized the importance of joy and happiness to reach the pinnacle of usefulness to mankind.
In the evening Professor Gilmour discussed the marks of a successful church taking as his text Thessalonians 1:3: "Remembering without ceasing your work of faith and labour of love and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God and Our Father". The marks of a successful church he said were found in the work of faith carried on, the labour of love, the patience of hope and the presence of God.

GREATER DEMAND FORCES PRICES UP.

The increased consumption of tea in 1921, (during which year, by agreement, the tea growers of Ceylon and India had curtailed production) forced the price of tea steadily upwards to the present abnormally high level. The lowering of the duty in England will mean still greater demand, and authorities on tea tell us that still higher prices may be expected.

FIFTH PAN AMERICAN CONGRESS AT SANTIAGO

SANTIAGO, May 22.—(Associated Press.)— The Foreign Minister, Ernesto Barros Jarpa, says Chile hopes to call the fifth Pan American congress to meet in Santiago the latter part of this year or, at the latest, in April, 1923. The foreign ministry has been exchanging views with other Pan-American nations for some time with the object of fixing a date for the congress that would be agreeable to the interested countries.

Memorial For Women Martyrs

ELSIE DAVENPORT

Erection of a national memorial for women who lost their lives in service for the World War is the objective of a body of women, headed by Elsie Davenport, who are organizing the American Women's War Memorial Association.
The idea for such a memorial was suggested by Miss Davenport, a New Yorker, to President Harding, who referred the matter to Adjt. Gen. Harris of the War Department. The result was governmental approval of the plan and the formation of a committee to take in hand the organizing of women interested in the project.
In order to make the memorial a really national affair the units of the association in various parts of the country, as they are organized, will have to interest their congressmen, who will present the plan in Washington. The unveiling of the memorial then will become a ceremony somewhat similar to the burial of the unknown soldier on Armistice Day, 1921.
American artists and sculptors have been asked to submit suggestions for the memorial, the base of which is to be commemorative of the war work of all women and the surmounting figure or group a tribute to those who lost their lives.
Designs for tablets, which local organizations can have placed in their respective cities, also will be considered.
Miss Davenport has already been promised the co-operation of the American Legion, American War Mothers, Gold Star Mothers, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Defense Society and other organzations.

FREIGHT RATE CUT.

OTTAWA, May 22. — (Canadian Press).—C. A. Hayes, vice-president of the Canadian National lines, this morning informed a special House committee on railway transportation costs that the Canadian Northern proposed a cut of 16 or 17 per cent. in freight rates on lumber. President Beatty, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, giving evidence on Friday, suggested a cut of 11.70 per cent.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

MILLBROOK, May 22— Messrs. Avin Richards, T. W. A. Gray, and Stewart Deyell are home from Toronto, where they have just completed their third year as medical students. Though S. Deyell is now residing in Peterboro, yet being a former Millbrook boy, friends here are still much interested in his success.

Mr. Ried Ball is convalescing frim his recent illness at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Reg. Armstrong, Bailieboro.
Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Given spent a few days in Toronto and Hamilton last week.
Messrs. S. T. Medd and Chas. Ackerman, of Peterboro, were in town last week.

CHARGE DISMISSED

MONTREAL, May 22.— (Canadian Press.(— Judge Cusson this morning dismissed the charge against D. C. Macarow, manager of the defunct Merchants Bank, in connection with returns made to Finance Department for October, 1921.
It is likely that an appeal will be entered by the Dominion Government.
D. C. Macarow was summoned to police court along with Sir. H. Montagu Allen ,president of bank, who was accused of negligently signing government return for October 1921. Case of Crown was that Mr. Macarow should have known and reported to Finance Department that bank's reserve had been lost in disastrous loans which afterwards compelled it to sell out to Bank of Montreal. Defence in reply pleaded that Mr. Macarow relied on return prepared by accountant of bank from statements of branch managers that it was impossible in the short time at disposal of the bank officials before sending in return. Twenty days following period reported on to check figures and that actual amount of loss was question of opinion in October 1921.

PROCEED WITH CASE.

MONTREAL, May 22.—(Canadian Press).—It is understood that the case against Sir H. Montagu Allen, president of the Merchants' Bank, charged with signing a return, will be proceeded with, pending an appeal.

RED SOVIETS HAVE SUPPRESSED UNREST.

Situation in the Annexed Provinces Well in Hand.

BATUM, ARMENIA, May 22.—(Associated Press).—The unrest which followed the annexation of Georgia, Azerbaijan and Armenia to Russia has subsided, and the Red army of Soviet Russia has the situation well at hand. The principal event of importance in Batum, at the moment, is the mobilization of all the male population between the ages of 16 and 21 without distinction of race or religion.

The Cheka (Chereswechaika) has not been suppressed at Batum. On the contrary, its activities have increased. There is a vast espoinage organization in the town.

Especially notorious are all the women members, nearly all of whom are of good family speaking French and English. They are all demi-mondaneis and their methods are to dress well and spend money with both hands. The espoinage institutions pay them extremely well and they have orders to scrape acquaintance with all kinds of persons whose sympathy with Bolshevism is doubted, to whom they pose as innocent victims of the Bolshevik regime. The conversations turn on politics, the victim expresses his dislike to the Soviets and their methods, arrest follows the next day and, if the unfortunate individual is a Russian or Georgian, he is promptly shot—if a foreigner he is sent to Moscow for trial.

The army in the Caucasus area is almost entirely composed of Russians. The armies of the Caucasus democracies have all been disbanded and their officers exiled to Russia for a training in the Soviet military schools. Fetes parades are organized frequently in order to keep up the morale of the army and the population. Ranks are suppressed. Officers are known as regimental or company commanders.

Commerce is free, but there is a lack of foreign currencies, and therefore trade is almost at a standstill. Exports are limited to carpets, furs, kerosens and manganese. Imports consist solely of flour and sugar. The export of manganese from Pots is in the hands of an institution called the "Chemo" Which is managed by a Dutch company from the Hague. There are stocks of manganese which existed before the war but when these are exhausted export will cease.

The production of oil is in the hands of a committee called the "Neftecom" the president of which is Gamaroff. The export of kerosine is in the hands of the "Vineshtorg'œ which sells oil against goods.

Although travelling is free, it is extremely difficult for the public to obtain seats as two-thirds of the available accommodation on the trains is taken up by government officials. Besides, trains are exposed to attacks of brigands who rob the passengers of all they possess.

This Radio Set Never a Bother

One radio set which gives no trouble to its owner is that belonging to President Harding. If anything goes wrong with it, Uncle Sam's radio experts fix it up. Here, for instance, is shown the set from the presidential yacht Mayflower, being tested at the U.S. wireless station at Arlington.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—Domestic and foreign advices over the week end evidently were of a character to make traders cautious at opening of to-day's stock market although the trend of prices was higher.

Within the first fifteen minutes gains of one to three points were scored by several of the Independent Steels. Rails also moved upward under lead of Atchison, Chicago and Northwestern. Tobaccos were the strongest of Specialties, United Cigar Stores rising 4 points. Domestic Oils were better by fractions to one point Mail order shares were higher on favorable trade reports.

Transactions during the morning were on very large scale, foreshadowing one of the most active days of the year. Rumors of new deal, involving Midvale and Republic, accompanied by early rise of those stocks. Other Steels moved unevenly. The list showed temporary irregularity of offerings of Mexican Petroleum and several of Domestic Oils and selling of Rails, notably New Haven and Coalers. Before noon however, prices rose again under lead of Junior Rails, Motors and Equipments. Call money opened at 3 1-2 per cent.

Little attention was paid to stiffening of call money rate, which touched four per cent. in early afternoon. Buying was large in stocks which ordinarily do not sway general course of the market. American International, Atlantic Gulf, Famous Players, Allied Chemical, Computing Tabulating Recording, Brooklyn Union Gas, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and Delaware and Hudson were marked up one to 3 1-2 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 22.— (Canadian Press.) — Opening wheat prices, which varied from 3-8c. decline to 5-8c. advance, with May 136 and July 123 1-8 to 123 5-8, was followed by moderate general gains and then something of a reaction Corn and Oats reflected the action of Wheat. After opening 1-4 off to 1-8 advance, July 64 1-8 to 64 1-4, Corn market hardened a little all around. Oats started 1-8 to 3-8 lower, July 39 to 39 1-8 and later rallied a trifle.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, May 22.— (Canadian Press.) — Foreign exchange heavy. Demand rates Great Britain 4.44 5-8. Can. Dollars 15/16 p.c. discount.

MONTREAL STOCK MARKETS.

MONTREAL, May 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Trading on local stock exchange during this morning was only moderately brisk and no important variation in price quotations were recorded. Brazilian was strong and touched 49 5-8. Atlantic Sugar was also strong and advanced from its last quotation at 22 1-2 to 23 1-4. Canadian General Electric registered a decline of a point to 90. Other changes were fractional.

TORONTO STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—Traction stocks accounted for most of the business of a dull session on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. Brazilian was the heaviest dealt with close 1-4 higher at 49 1-2. Toronto Rails advanced one point to 66, with Winnipeg unchanged at 41. Steamship Pfd. lost 5-8 to 53, General Elec. lost 3-4 at 90. Steel of Canada at 75 3-4 on close gained 1 1-8 points.

TORONTO CATTLE MARKET.

TORONTO, May 22.—(Canadian Press.)— Cattle market receipts 2,435, trade draggy. Heavy beef steers $8.25 to $8.90. Butcher cows, medium $5 to $6. Butchers' steers, choice, $8 to $8.50. Calves, $7 to $9. Lambs, $4 to $10. Hogs, selects, $13.50.

CAUGHT

"Mamma," said the little girl, her eyes wide with excitement, "I do believe the minister told a story!"

"Why, the idea!" said her mother. "You don't know what you are saying."

"But I do, mamma. I heard papa ask him how long he had worn chin whiskers, and he said he had worn them all his life."

URGE CO-OPERATION.

NEW YORK, May 22.—(Canadian Press).—Declarling that the United States and Canada constitute the greatest geographical union of English-speaking people in the world, the Executive Council of the American Bankers' Association, in a declaration of the principles on business and legislative conditions made yesterday, urged closer community of interest between these two countries.

A GUESS AT TRUTH
Hamilton Herald

One is tempted to suspect that to the Northcliffe press the pacification of Europe is a trivial and unimportantr matter in comparison with the downfall and humiliation of Lloyd George.

HUNTING GEORGE'S SCALP
Woodstock Sentinel-Review

Lord Northcliffe denounces the embargo on Canadian cattle as a "great slur on Canada," but there may be some room for doubt as to whether he is actuated by friendship for Canada or hatred of Lloyd George and his government. Unfortunately it cannot always be said that his motives are above question, and this is especially true when the present British government is concerned.

CAN MAN COMMUNE

with spirits, the reverend gentleman would not say that it were impossible but he stressed that warning found in chapter 6, vs. 11, 12, St. Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians: "Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not aaginst flesh and blood, but against principalities, aaginst powers, against the rulers of darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." Coupling with this text that incident in St. Paul's life when, coming in contact with the girl soothsayer, "he cast out the evil spirit and she lost her power," Dr. Blagrave asserted that the Bible is full of teaching of, and warning against, evil spirits and demons, and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle might be misled by such beings and their evil activities—who can tell?

Spiritsm Condemned.

Dr. Blagrave here opined there has been a possibility of contact between the living and the dead, but that act has always been condemned by God, And 'tis true, he said, that when Saul visited the witch of Endor, Samuel appeared unto him. But was it not God's own way of conveying his mesage to Saul, rather than the result of any power exercised by the witch herself. For she evidently did not expect to see the spirit of Samuel, at whose apparition, we read, she, the medium, was paralyzed with fear and cried with a loud voice. By this incident the speaker conveyed the impression that the witch expected to raise some evil spirit and not the prophet Samuel.

A Disquieting.

Turning his attention to Sir Arthur's teaching that those in the spirit world are anxious to communicate with the living on earth, Dr. Blagrave doubted the logic of such a statement, which was not borne out by Samuel's plaint to Saul, "Why hast thou disquieted me to bring me up,', And he (the speaker) doubted much that the dead in their new lives on the other side of the grave, with different environments, revolutionized memory and advanced knowledge, had any desire to return to earth in any circumstances.

After condemning the teachings of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and others in the same category as demoralizing and dangerous in character as demoralizing and dagnerous ter, Dr. Blagrave declared Sir Arthur, in Toronto, just corroborated the teachings of Christianity that we are not men of dust to return to an end in dust, but are spiritaul in our inception, and in the spirit shall live again. He tells us, the reverend gentleman concluded, that we are full of mystery and have a spiritual life, and that corresponds to Christian thought. Then, it is possible that some people, like Conan Doyle, who have never experienced religion, may have been aroused to a consciousness of spiritual reality; but there is only one medium between us and the spritual world authorized in the Bible—Jesus Christ, who said: "I am the way, the truth and the life."

Canada Paint Your Home

It means a better looking and a longer lasting job

Durability and good appearance characterize CANADA PAINT.

"Elephant Brand" Pure White Lead is the pigment basis of this "Paint of Merit." The other ingredients are pure linseed oil, a small quantity of pure zinc, the necessary coloring material and drier—all ground together by powerful machinery, producing a paint of wonderful durability and beautiful coloring—CANADA PAINT, "Canada's Favorite."

COVERING CAPACITY

One gallon of Canada paint will furnish two coats on 425 sq. ft. of smooth surface. By measuring distance around base of building and multiplying by the average height, you will get the number of square feet of surface. Divide this by 425 and you get the amount of Canada Paint required for this entire job.

Our shelves are well stocked with Canada Paints in a full range of colors. Descriptive literature, advice, and color cards are here to solve every customer's paint tinting problem.

TO FORM UNION OF ANTI-BOLSHEVIKS OUTSIDE RUSSIA

Great Influence Exerted By General Wrangel Will Draw Members Together.

TWO GROUPS.

PRAGUE, May 22.—(Associated Press).—Progress toward a union of the Russian anti-Bolshevik forces abroad, around the personality of General Wrangel, formerly commander of the White Russian armies in the Crimea, is reported here as a result of conferences held in Belgrade in March.

The difficultied in the way are said to be great, but Vladimir Shulgin, a Russian editor formerly of Kiev, says that Wrangel's influence has gradually drawn together the Russians in Constantinople and Sofia, has gained ground in Belgrade and now is about to win the support of those Russians in Paris whose spokesman is the philosopher, M. Kartasheff, president of the Russian National Council in Paris.

That would leave the Russians divided into two main groups—the Wrangel forces and the Social Revolutionists with whom Professor Paul Milukoff is co-operating.

About 15,000 Russian soldiers, mostly officers, have continued to remain loyal to Wrangel since they were driven out of the Crimea and some thousands of them are performing frontier guard or gendarmerie service in Jugoslavia where their discipline has continued. In Bulgaria these Russians are subject to their own authority and the sentences of their court-martials are carried out without reference to the laws of Bulgaria.

The Wrangel forces actually are better armed than the Bulgarians and recently have received arms and rations from Allied sources abroad. Bulgarians have too small a force under the colors now to be able to watch their frontiers effectively.

RUSSIAN TRADE WITH THE WORLD.

Has Exported Little Since Beginning of 1920.

MOSCOW, May 22.—(Associated Press).—Detailed reports of development of trade between Russia and the outside world since the beginning of 1920, have been published in the Soviet press, covering the period since Russia's first peace treaty was concluded with Esthonia, when the blockade against Russia was brought to an end. Chiefly due to lack of system and the chaotic conditions which existed during 1920, Russia exported but little in that time, the imports, however, being valued at 50,000 gold rubles.

But as soon as trade agencies and representations had gained a firm footing in London, Berlin, Stockholm and other industrial centres, an actual system became apparent in the foreign trade of Soviet Russia, all business being carried on under supervision of the People's Commissar for Forgein Trade, L. B. Krassin

In 1921, Russia imported goods valued at 248,000,000 gold rubles, equivalent to $124,000,000, chiefly coal, chemical and metal goods, foodstuffs and textiles. In the same year, Russia exported goods valued at 20,000,000 gold rubles, chiefly flax, and other raw materials.

England took the lead in supplying Russia with its needs last year, with Germany second. The deliveries consisted chiefly of agricultural requisites. America took third place, having supplied 16 per cent. of the imported goods, exclusive of relief supplies.

The Soviet press concludes that, owing to the exhausted condition of the country, it is scarcely considered possible to increase the export business during the next few years, although, says one paper, an improvement in the quality of the goods may well be expected.

Formal Bridal Gown Has Informal Air

Much white satin ribbon in different widths enters into this saratorial composition, which is submitted as the very latest thing in bridal costumes.

There is a certain softness of line and a general air of informality about it that is lacking in so many wedding gowns.

The arrangement of the veil is interesting, too—and very becoming.

NO NEW POLITICAL PARTIES POSSIBLE IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Communist Party Has a Monopoly of Legality According to G. E. Zinovieff.

ATTENTION TO PRESS.

MOSCOW, May 22.—(Associated Press).—No new political parties can be legalized in Russia for a number of years and the Communist Party must continue to keep its ranks closed except to those strictly sympathetic with the dictatorship of the proletariat, G. E. Zinovieff told the last session of the All-Russian Communist Party Congress.

Zinovieff is head of the Third Internationale, president of the Petrograd Provincial Soviet, one of Premier Lenines closest friends and the author of Lenine's biography. He is a fiery, revolutionary crusader and in the Soviet regime virtually has been dictator of Petrograd.

"Our party has the monopoly of legality," he said. "The danger of this monopoly is that a number of people are getting into the party who would go into the petty bourgeoisie parties if such existed.

"They are not coming into the party with bad intentions, and are honest enough but bring in bourgeoisie views. They are an active part of the population who like to participate in the economic and political life of the country. We shall surely be the monopolists of the legality of any party in this country for a number of years to come."

M. Zinovieff said it would be difficult to clear out this element of the party but, as the labor class must "do in" the bourgeoisie, the party's difficulties, no matter how great, in restoring Russia, should not permit any unripe measures that would lead to the restoration of the Mensheviki or other bourgeoisie.

More serious attention must also be paid to the press, M. Zinovieff declared, as the bourgeoisie writers are trying to get an independent press and, even journalists registered as employees of the newspapers now permitted to operate (all government controlled), are mostly of the old intelligentsia class.

PORT OF BOSTON LEANS ON CANADA.

Good Will of Canadian Railways Big Factor.

BOSTON, May 22.—(Canadian Press) The dependance of the Port of Boston upon the good-will of Canadian railroads is emphasized in a statement by Charles S. Mellon, formerly a prominent New England railroad official, which has just been made public. Replying to a query as to the desirability of independent management for the Boston and Maine railroad as against possible trunk line control, Mr. Mellon said:

"It is my belief that the prosperity of the Boston and Maine Railroad is very largely dependent upon the preservation of amicable relations with the Canadian lines, which if controlled by the American trunk lines would be surely endangered.

"The Port of Boston has more to expect in the way of business from Canadian lines than from all the American lines put together and looking at the interest of the port, I cannot conceive of how any well-posted merchant of Boston can look with favor upon a project that would surely cut the Port off from contributions the Canadian lines are now giving it in the way of business. And what they are now giving is but a small portion of what that contribution will amount to in the near future if the road is maintained under an independent management.

"To my mind, the true solution of the New Emgland railroads and the Port of Boston is that the railroads shall be combined in one united system serving all lines, the Canadian and American trunk lines, without fear or favor, treating them impartially and encouraging them all."

JESUS HEARS AND HELPS.

When you feel your strength so small,
That 'neath your burden you must fall,
O, faint not, but on Jesus call,
Who slumbers ne'er.
None ever sought His help in vain,
His grace will succor and sustain,
And gladly all your care and pain,
Will help you bear.

Are you by Heaven-sent sorrows worn,
Lonely, discouraged, or forlorn?
Does life seem of all pleasure shorn,
Yield not to fear;
Jesus is pitiful and kind,
And those who trust Him ever find
Sweet balm for sorrow, peace of mind,
Help, comfort, cheer.

Ye, who by sin are sore oppressed,
By guilty fears, cast down, distressed,
If ye would pardon find, and rest,
Repent, confess;
And though your sins as crimson glow,
Jesus will wash them white as snow;
His spotless robe on you bestow,
Of righteousness.

He knows the frailtp of ocr frame,
And Satan's wiles, who felt the same,
And blessed be His holy name,
He will not chide;
The prodigal, who from his way,
Returns, e'en at the close of day,
Nor turn a single soul away,
For whom He died.

Radio News

WASHINGTON.—Uncle Sam is busy perfecting a radio receiving set that can be used with ease by every enthusiast in the country.

Wireless engineers are working in the Bureau of Standards' Radio Research Laboratory toward that end. They have already made improvements on old wireless apparatus which have been put into almost universal use.

Only recently came the announcement of the development of a radio receiving set which eliminates use of the storage battery. This set can be connected with the ordinary lighting wires in the house. Plans for the arrangement have not yet been published.

DR. J. M. MILLER AND HIS "UNIVERSAL AMPLIFIER."

Another advancement, through the research of Government experts, is expected in the vacuum tubes for detection and amplification. Announcement has been made of the perfection of these tubes by experts of the radio research laboratories. Further work with these tubes is going on, before they can be placed at the disposal of the public.

Dr. J. M. Miller, of the Naval Research Laboratory, has perfected an apparatus for amplifying radio signals. He calls it the "universal amplifier" because of its uniform capacity to magnify incoming radio signals over a wide range of wave lengths.

This amplifier, says Dr. Miller, is made so that signals can be heard several feet from the telephone receivers. Use of a loud speaker, he adds, is unnecessary for ordinary home concerts.

MOHAMMEDAN LEGEND OF COLOSSAL STATUE

There is a legend that while Mohammed was still alive there was a schism among his followers, and the smaller party moved away from Arabia, and eventually crossed Africa. They took away with them, in their exile, a valuable relic of their old faith in the shape of a large piece of black stone of Mecca. The stone was a meteroic one, and in its fall upon the earth it broke into two pieces. One of the pieces is supposed to still be at Mecca. The larger piece was carried away to Barbary, where a skilful worker molded in into a statue of colossal size. Some of the tribe wandered to the south hundreds of years ago, and one of them, wishing to have good luck for the enterprise, got into the sacred temple at night and carried off one of the statue's ears.

It is believed that the man who carried it away was caught by some slaver off the Barbary coast, but that the ear will come back some day, that the sacred statue will be restored whole in its original form, and that these wandering descendants of the original seceders from Mohammed will forever after be protected from their enemies.

TRADE IN HONG-KONG

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(Canadian Press).—A report on trade conditions in Hong-Kong which has just been received from the United States Trade Commissioner at that port shows that in 1920, the last year for which statistics are available, Hongkong imported goods to the value of 604,022 pounds sterling from Canada, as against 419,950 pounds in the preceding year. In 1920 Hlongkong exported goods to the value of 1,055,855 to Canada as compared with 481,986 in the preceding year.

AMERICAN SHIP SUBSIDY MEASURE.

May Force Bill Through Congress This Session.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(Canadian Press)—Developments of the past week have made it clear that the most intense efforts will be made by the Harding administration to force the ship subsidy measure through Congress at the present session. At the very latest, if the administration has its way, the bill will be forced through Congress at the short session next winter.

The advocates of ship subsidy legislation have become convinced that their only real hope of getting the bill passed is in the present Congress. They are apprehensive of waiting until the new Congress comes into power March 4, 1925, for it is quite clear the new Congress will have more opponents of subsidies than the present one and that it will be a Congress less amenable to administration pressure.

Moreover, the organization of the movement for ship subsidy legislation at this time, is the most far-reaching and powerful ever effected in the United States. If the subsidy bill cannot be driven through with the aid of this organization there is little need of attempting it under other circumstances.

The fact that President J. R. Howard of the American Farm Bureau Federation, including over a million farmers, has come out for the subsidy bill, despite the fact that the farmers of the United States have persistently fought the policy of subsidies, is noteworthy. It is indicative of the far-reaching ramifications of the subsidy movement which has been most carefully promoted by the shipping interests and allied interests which are anxious to get the benefits of the payment of aids from the Treasury.

It is plain the subsidy bill can be forced through Congress, both House and Senate, when it can be brought to a vote. It can be brought to a vote soon under the House rules but it is entirely uncertain when it can be brought to a vote in the Senate. The opposition still has hope of blocking a vote in the Senate this session and possibly next session. Long delay in passing tariff and bonus bills is helpful to the plans of the opposition to subsidy.

Notice has been served that the administration purposes to make support of the subsidy bill a party matter. In other words, attempts will be made to bind the republicans in both houses by caucus action to support the bill. This is already causing protest and may cause an outbreak of political insurgency whose consequences will not be easily measured. In spite of the efforts to make it appear the farmers are for subsidy, there is down at the bottom tremendous agricultural opposition, though it is but little organized.

OUTFLOW OF LIQUOR FROM CANADA IS DECREASING

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(Canadian Press).—According to Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and other dry enforcement officials, the inflow of liquor from Canada is rapidly decreasing. Prohibition directors in border states and in the states some distance south of the border, into which rum runners have carried large amounts of liquor in swift automobiles, report to Washington a steady falling off in illicit operations.

A trip around the world in 408 hours, at a cost of $3,400, will soon be possible by connecting up different aerial routes.

FARMS IN SWEDEN FOR UNEMPLOYED.

A Plan to Eliminate Enforced Idleness.

STOCKHOLM, May 22.—(Associated Press).—Before long the Swedish unemployed may have a chance to become independent farmers. When they recently expressed the desire to obtain small farms of their own where they might work till old age without being subjected to enforced idleness, their request sounded at first like wishing for the moon.

But not so to the Minister of Agriculture, who immediately ordered an investigation into the possibilities of forming a farm colony in the province of Soedermanland. If the plan is found feasible the government may purchase land to be parcelled among its unemployed. The project would, of course, involve more than acquiring the land. The government will have to build cottages on the farms, and supply its indigent citizens with live stock, farm implements and living expenses for the first year.

The farm project is one of the most important and interesting of many attempts for relieving the unemployment troubles of the country. Last winetr, several thousand jobless were given instruction in almost any branch of learning in which they were interested. Large appropriations were set aside fre dolesa nd for public works at whichtho othewise unemployed would be able tp earn a living wage, and it was hope hat conditions would soon become better. Nevertheless, unemployment is still the most serious problem of Sweden despite a slight decrease in the number of idle.

The jobless still number more than 150,000, of whom about 65,000 receive aid. This number is higher than was expected and in order to keep within the budget, the Unemployment Commission and the government have had to cancel during the summer unemployment aid to unmarried men and women, all farmworkers and fishermen. It is believed that these classes can shift for themselves during the summer and pick up enough work to keep them going. Married men with families still draw btipends, while relief work of all kinds is se ing planned.

The Unemployment Commission is laying plans for extensive forest work in co-operation with the Forestry Board and the State Domains Department. Furthermore, about $200,000 has been diverted from the unemployment fund for buying paving stones to be placed at the disposal, free of cost, of certain towns and highway boards for the improvement of streets and roads, thus affording employment to considerable numbers.

Discounting the Count

A COUNT used to be a man in charge of a count of 500 persons to whom he was a sort of overlord. This is not true today because of altered political conditions. We still have Counts, but the Count business has changed somewhat.

Business, of all kinds, has undergone something of a revolution. It was not so many years ago that pack peddlers were the sole distributors and transporters of many of the household articles of the day. Their legs set the limits for most distribution problems in those days.

Modern transportation, progressive sales methods ---and advertising---have broken the shackles of time. They make a speedy job of what used to take years. Through advertising many an article has been introduced simultaneously in stores all over the country.

Advertising today is the method used by business to tell you why you should have certain goods and how to identify those goods. The advertisements you find here are a truthful catalog of needed merchandise.

Articles of all kinds and for all purposes are presented in a pleasant way through the medium of type and picture. The outstanding requirements of every member of the family are met by offers of good merchandise of proved value.

LEASIDE TAKES OPENING GAME FROM OSHAWA

PITCHING DUEL.

TORONTO, May 22.—(Canadian Press).—The first Central League game of the season at Leaside on Saturday afternoon resulted in a victory for the home team over Oshawa, 2 to 1. The game developed into a great pitching duel between McGuire and Patten, and was called at the end of the seventh inning on account of rain. "Micky" Murray of Peterborough fame sent in the winning run when he banged out a three-bagger in the seventh. The score:

Oshawa	0100000—1	5	1
Leaside	0010001—2	9	1

Patten and Belding; McGuire and Shaw.

COMRADES TRIM QUAKER OATS

The winners were for the second time disappointed by players and had to start the game one man short, J. Haw filling the gap. The play was very even in the first half, no goals being scored.

In the second half the Comrades forced the pace, and finding the Quakers' leg weary pressed their advantage, outscoring them four to one. J. Shaw scored two, while McDougall and Millinson had one apiece. J. Willshaw scored Quakers' solitary counter from a penalty kick for hands given against Hill. The players:

Comrades — Fenner, Anderson, Hill, Ward, Sayers, Williams, Dingwall, Haw, McDougall, Shaw and Mallinson.

Referee—A. McKinley.

Heckman Baffles the Birds And the Petes Win Handily

Not a Lindsay Player Reaches Third, While Jake Solomon's Crew Gather in Four Runs Off Allen and Oulette.

OFF TO GOOD START.

WITH Al. Heckman standing the Grey Birds on their heads with a fast ball that "hopped" viciously, varied with sharp breaking curve that they missed by a foot, Jake Solomon's 1922 Petes declared themselves in the Central Ontario League race at Riverside Park on Saturday by beating Lindsay 4 to 0 in the first game of the long Central schedule.

Heckman, with abundance of smoke and perfect control, was absolute master of the situation, and the Birds were helpless on the attack. The Petes' ace retired thirteen of the enemy via the strike-out route, fanning the side in three different innings, and Lindsay were only able to nick his delivery for two singles—a sharply hit ball by Oulette, which took a crazy hop over "Shiner" Johnston's shoulder, in the sixth, and a pop fly to short right field by Cummings, Lindsay's new catcher, in the seventh. Heckman did not issue a single complimentary, and altogether only five of the Birds reached first, only one got as far as second and none of Tony Bakogeorge's crew found their way around as far as Frankie Collins' corner. It was a remarkable demonstration of effective pitching, made more noteworthy because of the fact that Heckman was handling a wet, slippery ball.

The rest of the Petes were in there fighting all the way, and although Manager Solomon has been forced to practically rebuild this whole team the fans are not worrying any after Saturday. Max Swanston handled Heckman's offerings in flawless fashion, made a fine catch of a high foul against the grandstand screen and threw out by yards the only base runner who tried to steal second. "Shiner" Johnston broke into Central League ball with two hits and a sacrifice, scored the first run of the season and figured as the pivot in a neat double play in the ninth. Holyman performed nicely at short-stop and pulled off a brainy piece of baseball in the fourth when, after fumbling Cummings' grounder with Coombs on first, he faked a throw to Kirn and trapped Coombs between second and third. Collins at third and Kirn at first fielded without a skip, and Kirn came through with a timely single with the bases full that drove in two runs. Oulette had purposely passed Swanston to get "Kirnie," but the latter crossed him up. The outfield had little fielding to do. Shaughnessy, back in the game after a year's absence, had a double and single in three official appearances at the plate.

There were four new faces on the Lindsay line-up. Allen, a left-handed pitcher, who used to twirl for Brighton; Brounscombe, a fast fielding short-stop, from Uxbridge, and the Cummings brothers, catch and third sacker, respectively, formed the reinforcements since last season. The short-stop looked like the best of the recruit quartette.

Tried a South-paw.

Allen was assigned the task of beating the Petes, the visitors regarding the Solomon gang as easy picking, and Jack Oulette was to be saved for the game with Leaside on Wednesday. The dope was bad, for the Petes got to Allen for two runs in the third, and Oulette was sent in to pull the game out of the fire, whereupon the home crew promptly nicked two runs off the right-hander in the fourth. Allen was shy of control, but he looked pretty fair at that, showing a nice curve that got him out of a bad hole in the second. Oulette also was wild at the go—in hitting Lowe and passing Holyman and Swanston in his first innings on the rubber—but he held the Petes to three hits after that session.

Despite the threatening weather the season's opening was a success, nine hundred fans braving the risk of being caught in a deluge. They were all glad they took a chance. In spite of the three days' rain, the diamond was in remarkably good shape, although the wet grass made the ball greasy and hard to handle. The fielding of both teams was exceptionally good under the circumstances.

The opening ceremonies were brief. Mayor Taylor pitched the first ball and had too much stuff on it for Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., the Deputy Speaker of the House failing to hit the Mayor's offering. D. McPherson, President of the P.A.A.A., was catcher.

Chief Umpire C. Boundy of Cobourg and Base Umpire Rev. D. C. Ramsay of Belleville were in charge of the game and gave general satisfaction.

How the Runs Were Scored.

Although the Petes filled the bases with one out in the second, on passes to Heckman and Shaughnessy and Holyman's single to left centre, Soden and Lowe whipped and a great chance was lost.

They had more luck in the third when they scored two runs and drove Mr. Allen off the rubber. Johnston opened the innings by singling sharply to right and going to second on a passed ball. Swanston's infield out sent "Shiner" to third, and Heckman set the stands going with enthusiasm when he cracked a long double over McMahon's head in right, Johnston jogging home with the first run of the game. Collins rolled one at H. Cummings, which the third baseman fumbled, giving the batter a life, while Heckman reached third. When Ashton mussed up Shaughnessy's roller Heckman registered, but Collins was caught between the plate and third trying to score on the play.

Oulette was doing the gunning for Lindsay when the Petes went to bat in the fourth. The Grey Birds' right-hander started badly by walking Holyman, who stole second, going to third on Dugan's roller, on which the hitter was retired. Lowe was hit and stole second, Johnston cracked a liner into Coombs' hands, and then Swanston was passed intentionally. Kirn came through with the needed punch by cracking a burning grounder past second, which was too hot for Brounscombe to handle, although he knocked the drive down. Holyman and Lowe registered on this tap. Heckman fanned for the third out.

Lindsay did not get a man to first until two were out in the fourth. Then Shaughnessy dropped Coombs' fly to left and B. Cummings rolled one to Holyman, who fumbled long enough to give the batter a life, and then bluffing a throw to first, caught Coombs cold between second and third, and the Lindsay first sacker was run down and tagged out.

Oulette singled with one out in the sixth, the first hit off Heckman, but Swanston's perfect throw nipped him a mile in an attempt to steal, and the next man was easy.

There were two out in the seventh before the Birds saw first again, B. Cummings getting their second hit on a Texas Leaguer to right. Carew popped to Collins for the third out.

In the ninth, with one down, Brounscombe got a life when Holyman's throw pulled Kirn off first, but the Lindsay short-stop was doubled up a moment later on McMahon's tap to Heckman, Johnston acting as the pivot in the double killing.

GAMES POSTPONED

Other games in the Central Ontario League scheduled for Saturday were postponed on account of rain.

SOME TWIRLER!

Al. Heckman was right there with the goods on Saturday, and in addition to the good support given by the other members of the team, he had a man of his own calibre behind the bat to receive his offerings. Jake has a real good battery and a real good team.

PACKERS BEATEN BY THE WOOLLENS

C.P.C. met the Canadian Woollens in a league game at King Edward Park Saturday afternoon, but after starting off well were finally defeated 5 to 2, the Woollens' forwards scoring four goals in the last half.

C.P.C. had the benefit of the wind in the first period and took full advantage of it. The backs kept the ball well up, and it was no surprise when Follis opened the scoring for C.P.C.

After narrowly escaping several other tallies against them, the Woollens finally evened the score. Hotston getting the ball well up and squaring for Gaskell and Shuttle to walk the ball into goal between them, C.P.C. making only a half-hearted attempt to stop them, claiming that Hotston was off-side.

C.P.C. forwards playing well but getting but little support from the half-back line, kept in the Woollens territory, and Follis again put his team in the lead with a shot that gave Williams no chance.

The second half saw Woollens more in the limelight, and their forward line playing nice combination, had the Packers half-line at sea. Downes in particular playing grand game, with Gaskell and Shuttle doing the scoring. Each of these forwards scored twice and twice had the ball in goal only to be drawn up for off-side. The teams were:

C.P.C.—Lasenby, Oxlay, Mann, W. Downer, J. Shaw, Batley, Strickland, Clarke, Follis, M. Shaw and J. Downer.

Woollens—Williams, Read, Chambers, G. Monkman, Hillman, J. Monkman, Hotston, Shuttle, Downes, Roberts and Downes.

Referee—J. Clarke.

BOWMANVILLE PLAYERS.

Ralph Blaber, who will do the twirling for the Bowmanville aggregation this year, comes from Goodyear Athletics, Toronto. J. Stark and E. R. Bates, with the Grey Birds last year, and B. E. Moise, who was with Port Hope, are on G. O. Patterson's Bowmanville line-up this year.—Cobourg World.

COBOURG ARE NEXT ON LIST FOR THE PETES

Solomon Crew Visit Lakeshore Town on Wednesday and Oshawa Gang Play at Riverside on Saturday.

WILL BE BATTLE.

The Petes travel to Cobourg on Wednesday to do battle with "Ty" Tyson's lakeshore crew, reinforced by "Punch" Derry of the Kingston Ponies and other recruits. A large number of Peterborough fans intend to spend Victoria Day in Cobourg, and the Solomon crew will have a flock of supporters with them when they tackle the re-built Cobourg gang. Cobourg incidentally are playing their games this year at Horse Show Park, which has accommodation for 4,000 fans.

On Saturday last year's champions, the Oshawa team, which this season includes about half of the Kingston Ponies, will be here, and the game is already the talk of the town. With nice weather, it is safe to say that a new record is likely to be set up at Riverside Park, for the chance to see a pitching duel between Gallagher, the left-handed star who won such fame with the Ponies last year, and Al. Heckman, Peterborough's crack right-hander, has got the fans excited. Oshawa ran into an unexpected snag on Saturday at Leaside, but they have a rattling good ball club in spite of that 2-1 loss, and they will be in fighting mood when they tackle Peterborough here on Saturday.

Her Short Cut to Fame

Rosa Ponselle, one of the world's famous opera singers, in writing of how she found a short cut to success without following the traditional path, says:

Until I was 16 I never had a vocal lesson. Those I have had since, I have had in America, under American teachers. Because of my lack of foreign training I broke a precedent when I became a member of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company four years ago.

But I have been singing since I was old enough to talk—singing is the most natural expression for me. I have often been at a loss for words, but never for notes.

I was born and spent my girlhood in Meriden, Conn. My parents had come there from Italy, bringing with them their native love for music.

Our home was a very humble one and afforded no maid. Consequently my sister Carmela and I at at early ages became acquainted with housework.

* * *

We learned that the period devoted to the dishwashing which must follow each meal could be made much more bearable if we sang as we splashed the soapy water. The same principle held good in sweeping and dusting.

So the more housework we did, the more we sang, and the more vigorous the work, the more volume we put into our voices. If we did not develop into good housekeepers by this method at least we did learn the comforts and solace of music and the joy of expression.

My piano lessons, which began when I was 6, were also accompanied with much vocal effort as I mastered my scales and technique.

When I was 10 my sister, Carmela, took me to choir practice, and then and there I became a member of the church choir of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church. For the next five years I never missed a Sunday.

When I was 16 the course of my life was greatly influenced by the family mortgage. Oh yes, we had one. And the banker, true to form, was threatening to foreclose.

So when a motion picture exhibitor offered me $12 a week to sing for his patrons I lost no time in accepting, though I did wonder if I could possibly be worth so much money.

Shortly afterward came another similar offer from a rival exhibitor, with a more generous remuneration. Then came a proposition from a leading hotel in New Haven—$50 a week. Think of it. That was too good to believe. We soon disposed of the mortgage.

By this time I was 19. Carmela and I went into vaudeville, doing what they call "big time." Then we made a big sacrifice. We were both making plenty of money, but we decided to quit and devote all our time to study.

When I was taking lessons, occasionally my teacher would mention the Metropolitan, but I always thought he was joking. Of course it was my goal, but I was prepared to wait. I, too, believed Europe must come first.

* * *

One day a wonderful thing happened. Caruso heard me sing. Then, later in the spring, he arranged for me to sing before Gatti-Sasazza at the Metropolitan.

The next high spot in my life came when I made my Metropolitan debut in "Forza del Destino,' with Caruso in the cast.

I joined the Metropolitan without an operatic role in my repertory. In a very short time I had to learn a number, and in the months following my engagement there I worked harder than I ever worked in my life. I've slaved ever since.

My story of "how I did it," you see, is just the record of a poor girl who was forced by circumstances to reach her goal by a different path than the accepted one.

At the Capitol Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

When she returned from her sister's room a few moments later, she reached for the necklace, only to discover that it had vanished!

Positive that she had had it in her hands less than ten minutes before, she searched the room and then summoned her husband, whom she told of the mysterious loss."

"There is only one thing to do," declared his Lordship, after certifying his wife's statement that the jewels were missing, "and that is to notify the police. Yes, I know that it means notoriety and unpleasant publicity. But even that is better than the loss of the diamonds—particularly at this time" (for it was common knowledge that the Devon finances were not as prosperous as formerly.)"

Inspector Sweeny reached the Devon house shortly after midnight, while the ball was still in progress, and secured the meagre details of the case directly from her ladyship.

"Did you notice anyone in the hall as you passed through on the way to your sister's room?" Sweeny asked.

"No one at all."

"How long has your maid been with you?"

"Less than two months—but came well recommended.""

Sweeny's face was imperturbable, but his thoughts were concerned with the fact that letters of reference were seldom verified and often forged.

Finally, in spite of protests, the operative from Scotland Yard gave orders that no one was to leave the grounds of the Devon estate without his permission and, as the ball formed part of a week's festivities, it was possible to arrange this without mentioning the reason for the request to the guests. Armed with a list of those present, with their servants, Sweeny then repaired to Lady Devon's boudoir, for active investigations."

His knowledge of London society was sufficient to inform him that at least three of the guests, despite their titles, might easily have been guilty of lifting the necklace if the opportunity had presented itself. But then, as Sweeny recalled, even Lord Devon could not be considered above suspicion, because his recent losses on the stock market had been heavy, while Lady Alberta had been just as unfortunate at Bridge.

"The question is," mused Sweeny, "who could have known that Lady Devon would have been out of the room for just those few moments. She wasn't summoned by any message, and it would therefore appear that someone was hiding in this hope that an opportunity would present itself. That would seem to eliminate the guests—but not the servants."

Working along this line, Sweeny made a careful examination of the toilet articles on the dressing talbe where the diamonds had been placed. After a thorough scrutiny of the perfume bottles pieces of silver and other articles which were highly polished, the detective made his way downstairs and sent word to Lady Devon that he would like to speak to her for a moment.

"Your Ladyship," he said, "will you kindly press the tips of your fingers lightly on this," and he held out one of the hand mirrors from the boudoir. "No," he added, "I'm not suspecting you of making away with your own diamonds—I merely wish to discover which finger-prints are yours!"

Then, a moment later: "Thank you, I thought as much."

"Now," he continued, "I want you to instruct your butler—whom I understand has been with you for a number of years—to secure the prints of all the servants under your roof. Tell him to make any excuse for it that he wants to, but I must secure a complete collection. Kindly have them sent to my room the first thing in the morning. Meanwhile don't worry. If my instructions are rigidly carried out your necklace should be recovered before 9 o'clock."

But Sweeny underestimated by some two hours. It was 11 o'clock on the following morning before he received a complete set of prints and ten minutes later a set of handcuffs was dangling from the wrists of William Sinclair, valet of one of the titled guests and, as it afterwards developed, a man with a lengthy prison record. The necklace was discovered stowed away in the false bottom of Sinclair's trunk.

As Sweeny started back toward London with his prisoner he cautioned him to be more careful in the future not to attempt a theft unless he wore gloves.

"At least," suggested the detective, "don't rest your fingers, even for a moment, on the glass of a hand mirror, while you reach with your other hand for your loot. It's details of that kind that make detective work absurdly easy!""

"BOUGHT AND PAID FOR" AT THE CAPITOL

'If a wife marries her husband not loving him, and solely because his wealth will rescue her family from poverty, is she bound for life to his will?" Such is the striking problem presented in William De Mille's Paramount production of 'Bought and Paid For", at the Capitol Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday... The title of George Broadhurst's great drama, is one that arrests immediate attention —in a few words it suggests a problem in life which is only too well known in its disagreeable phases to many beautiful women and wives. The question as to whether women marry for money, or not is one that is too often answered in the affirmative, without looking any further than the fact that, girls are so attracted by the lure of wealth, that they lose sight of the real meaning of marriage, and live to regret their selfishness and love of an easy life. Such was not the case with lovely Virginia Blaine—she was a hard working girl who shrunk from the attentions of the millionaire railroad owner, and only accepted his attentons when properly chaperoned by her sister and the latter's sweetheart. Intuitively, she disliked the idea of marrying a man she did not love, but, urged on by the great advantages to be gained for all her family, she consents and lives to love the man she accepted only after so much persuasion. But, Stafford the husband, while satisfied with his bargain, falls into careless ways, which finally degenerate into habitual drunkness, and then, comes the terrible problem. Is his beautiful wife so entirely his, that she is his unwilling slave as well— has she absolutely no will of her own? The question is put in such a way by Mr. Broadhurst, and arranged so skilfully by Mrs. Beranger, in the screen version of the play, that a tremendous climax is achieved without offending the sensibilities and prejudices of the audience. Agnes Ayres, has never been seen to better advantage —she is charming as the telephone operator, she is wonderfully beautiful as Mrs. Stafford— and Jack Holt makes an ideal, husband of the type which worships beauty, and feels that it can be "bought and paid" for like any other commodity Any picture with Walter Hiers in the cast cannot be altogether serious—he is a comedian who can be funny without making himself ridiculous and his partner in matrimony or crime, is an actress of much experience and ability—Miss Leah Wyant.

AT THE ROYAL.

If you are recovering from an operation and forbidden by your doctor to laugh do not visit the Royal to-night. The First National feature with Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven, as stars, called "My Lady Friends' is six reels of fast and furious fun. Carter de Haven takes the part of Jimmy Smith, the millionaire publisher of Bibles, who gives his wife a book of cheques to her order that he has signed for her to fill in. He goes out to spread a little sunshine and harvests a storm when his purely platonic lady friends get together at Atlantic City and his wife comes rolling in on a breaker. Fun? You bet! Fun for everybody but Jimmy! ! ! A high class comedy of artistic merit and full of human interest. The Vitagraph six reel feature "Restless Souls" presents the celebrated actor Earle Williams in a serio-comic romance full of pep and laughter. The story is irresistibly funny and shows that whilst Sir Conan Doyle may get snap shots of his grandmother's ghost it takes a pet dog to unmask a live man who is supposed to be dead. The story opens with a man and his wife at the golf links. An effeminate little highbrow lecturer on spiritualism and neo-symbolism, (whatever that is), tries hard to impress the lady with both his personal and literary charm. Husband and wife have a little "spat", which he takes seriously. He takes a Sound boat from New York to Boston alone. Aboard ship are a number of Hindoos. He sheds his clothes at night and makes up as a Hindoo; leaving a note for the Captain that he has suicided by jumping overboard. Drawn by love of his wife he goes home disguised and finds his people think him dead. He learns that an old will made as a joke years before leaves his fortune to an old maid and who is going to end a fifty thousand dollar home for the care and propagation of English sparrows. His wife has been left penniless. Fido, his pet dog recognizing his old master in disguise, soon brings matters to a happy culmination. Then there is a two reel Mack Sennett comedy that is a cracker-jack. A splendid program of fun, romance and fiction.

"THE BRONZE BELL"

Many Scenes of Pomp and Beauty Shown in New Paramount Photoplay

Oriental pomp and ceremony, in all its garish, bizarre splendor, has never been more spectacular portrayed than in the impressive royal palace scenes which are one of the many features of "The Bronze Bell" the big Thomas H. Ince-Louis Joseph Vance special production for Paramount which comes to the Regent Theatre to-day.

An extravagantly jewelled throne platform, rich ivory ornaments, elegant silken tapestries, and rare Oriental carpets are evident in the beautiful throne room scenes in which Har Dyal Rutton, a powerful prince of India, renounces his right to rule because of his reluctance to lead a rebellion against English rule

The mellaue of native princes, soldiery and veiled dancing girls are attired in gorgeous silks and satins, with jewels and precious gold ornaments comparable only to the furnishings of the spacious hall. The proper dress for this ceremonial was ascertained only after extensive research in the most authoritative works on Indian costumes, and all the robes and other garments were especially made by the Ince wardrobe department.

Doris May and Courtenay Foote assume the leading roles, the additional members of the cast including Claire DuBrey, John Davidson, Otto Hoffman, Noble Johnson, Gerald Pring and others.

Jack Dempsey Will Not Fight Till Labor Day

Says July 1 is Too Soon to Fight After a Visit to "Gay Paree." Is Going West.

PROPOSED BOUTS.

NEW YORK, May 22.— (Canadian Press.)—With plans for the future indefinite, but asserting positively that he will not fight until Labor Day, at least, World Champion Jack Dempsey, king of the heavyweights, returned on the Aquitania Friday, radiating happiness to be home. Dempsey will remain here one or two days and then hustle to Los Angeles to visit his mother.

Before the ship docked, both the champion and his manager, Jack Kearns, spiked the suggested bout with Harry Wills, negro challenger, proposed by Tex Rickard and Frank Flourney for July 1, at Montreal. Dempsey is not really out of condition, both he and his manager protested, but, said Jack, "not so soon after a trip to Europe. Have you ever been in Paris?"

If Dempsey is matched late in the summer, bout may be staged in Europe, said Kearns, who is enthusiastic over the purses English promoters have proposed. He confirmed the report that Dempsey is again to meet Carpentier some time before next May somewhere in Eurone. Should promoters offer a satisfactory purse for a bout Labor Day with Wills, Willard, or anyone else, it will be accepted, but if a match doesn't materialize at home, the champion will return to the other side, Kearns explained.

GUN CLUB TO HOLD A SHOOT.

The Peterborough Gun Club will hold a shoot on Victoria Day morning, starting at 10 o'clock, at which three events will be shot off, two fifteen-bird events and a twenty-bird contest. There will be two prizes in each event, and also a special prize for the high gun for the morning. All shooters are invited to participate. The shoot will be over in ample time to allow the contestants to go to Cobourg for the ball game in the afternoon.

Daimond Dust

Well, 4 to 0 is not bad to start off the season with. The boys were working in pretty good shape Saturday.

* * *

Between the players and the kids Saturday, Jake was just a little bit busier than a one-eyed cat in a bird store.

* * *

Al. Heckman seems to be in pretty solid with the local fans. Good work will always bring its reward, and Al. put over the kind of ball that the fans like.

* * *

We might mention here that Al. fanned thirteen of the Grey Birds. Not so worse Al., not so worse.

* * *

Al. struck out five of the first six men to face him.

* * *

That little double play to finish up the game just topped things off nicely in good snappy style.

* * *

Oshawa lost to Leaside, 2 to 1. The Petes will be at home to Oshawa on Saturday.

* * *

The next game is with Cobourg at Cobourg, on Wednesday.

* * *

Bruce Taylor, the Cobourg player who had his finger broken last season, has not been playing so far this season, but is expected to be in the harness for the Peterborough game on Wednesday.

* * *

* * *

Allen, who started the twirling for the visitors on Saturday, got himself into a couple of bad holes in the first two innings, but then he tightened right up and got himself out of them nicely. He was not so successful, however, in the third frame.

* * *

Allen walked three of the first six men to face him, and seven of the first eight he delivered were called balls.

* * *

Johnnie Oulette was not quite so terrible as we thought he was going to be.

* * *

Tommy Holyman made the first hit of the season for the Petes, and "Shiner" Johnston the first run.

* * *

Johnston came in on Heckman's two-base hit in the third inning.

The second Manchurian plague epidemic spread from Manchouli to Vladivostok, a distance of 1,072 miles.

CITY LACROSSE FRIDAY EVENING

First of City League Games For Goodfellow Cup at South-End Grounds.

The City Lacrosse League schedule was drawn up at Saturday night's meeting in Dr. Sutton's office in the Barrie building. The first game will be played next Friday night on the grounds of the Sacred Heart Church between the Crescents and Strathconas. It will not only raise the curtain on the series of twelve games in this group, but will also launch a season which, from the present outlook, should register a marked advancement in the restoration of this game.

The appointment of referees was left with Dr. Sutton, and it was decided that the home team shall make all the necessary grounds arrangements in each game. Mr. Fred. Goodfellow's little daughter will face the ball at the opening game. There is no provision for collecting a gate, but a silver collection will be taken up. This duty devolves upon the Secretaries of the competing teams, who shall deposit the money with the Treasurer of the league.

Johnnie Sutherland was appointed Manager of the Junior O.A.L.A. and Walter Smaill of the Juvenile team, and a request will be made to the P.A.A.A. for the use of Riverside Park, if it is available, for one practice night during the week.

The Senior City League schedule is as follows, with the home team named first:

May 26—Crescents vs. Strathconas.
May 29—Riversides vs. Athletics.
June 2—Athletics vs. Crescents.
June 5—Strathconas vs. Riversides.
June 9—Crescents vs. Riversides.
June 12—Strathconas vs. Athletics.
June 16—Crescents vs. Athletics.
June 19—Riversides vs. Strathconas.
June 23—Athletics vs. Riversides.
June 26—Strathconas vs. Crescents.
June 30—Athletics vs. Strathconas.
July 3—Riversides vs. Crescents.

SPORT GOSSIP

The City Ball League clubs, intermediate and junior, will meet at the Chamber of Commerce at 7.30 o'clock to-night to clear the decks for opening day on May 24th. Playing certificates must be returned to the secretary to-night.

Mickey Murray, playing third base for Leaside, Saturday, beat Oshawa with a three-base hit which scored a runner. On top of this play Jup. Pluv. put an end to the game.

A meeting of the Executive of the P.A.A.A. will be held at the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday, May 23rd at 7.45 o'clock p.m.

Emmett Sheehan has signed a certificate to play with Otonabee, in the East Peterborough League.

Holy Name Society and Sacred Heart juvenile clubs will play a league fixture at Riverside Park next Thursday evening.

ADDITIONAL REGISTRATIONS

Additional registrations were made last week in the C. O. Baseball League as follows:
Cobourg—Thomas Bulger, Raymond McCaffery, Stuart H. Jacobs, F. C. Woods and Ed. Campbell.
Bowmanville—Albert Piper and O. W. Rolph.
Oshawa—Roy Wilson and Daniel Edward Foley.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

THE DEVONSHIRE DIAMONDS

(Copyright 1921 By The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Had Lady Alberta Devon not yielded to temptation at the last moment and stepped out of her boudoir to secure her sister's opinion on the effect of her latest Parisian creation, it is quite possible that Inspector John Sweeny, of Scotland Yard, would not have had the opportunity of proving his detective genius in a peculiarly striking manner.

Lady Alberta was absent from her room for less than ten minutes. But, during that time occured an event which, for several hours, threatened to disrupt several of the highest social circles in England. It was the night of the Devon Ball, held in the big old-fashioned house in the center of the Devon estates. As was only to be expected, the list of guests read like a section from Burke's Peerage—a fact which made Inspector Sweeny's work distinctly more difficult when the loss of the famous necklace of Devonshire diamonds was reported to Scotland Yard.

Earlier in the evening Lady Alberta had dismissed her maid with the statement that she would complete her toilette herself but, just as she was about to put on her necklace—an heirloom which had greatly increased in value because of its historic connections—she thought it would be well to secure an unbiassed opinion as to the effect of her gown which had just arrived from Paris.

PRIZE FOR HOOTCH.

Bacchic Suggestion for Exhibition Board Has a Facetious Sound

Several members of the Peterborough Fair Board have suggested that provision should be made in the prize-list this year for the best samples of dandelion and rhubarb wines.

According to their observation, everybody's making it, or nearly everybody, and a lot of the makers brag about the "kick" and other qualities in their brews. Hence it is believed that a competition in this case would have a wide appeal, and would also carry the additional result of setting up a big supply of wines, which, of course, would be the nucleus of a banquet or some kind of celebration if the exhibit was big enough to supply the Board.

Whether this idea would meet with the approval of all the directors is a matter of conjecture, but the several proposers believed it might be unanimously adopted.

It would have the special feature of novelty, at any rate, but presents this drawback in that a special guard of police would have to be engaged to watch this exhibit, and a committee of directors to watch the police.

BROKEN HOME FOLLY'S WAGE

Detroit Man Had His Fling and Now's He's Sorry When It's Too Late.

HAD GOOD WIFE.

DETROIT, May 22.—Paul F. Mehren, the former grocer over whom his wife and a woman lawyer are engaged in a $25,000 alienation of affections suit, stood behind the counter of his near beer saloon at 1,327 Michigan Avenue, alone and thinking.

Miss Frances Keusch, attorney and clubwoman, is the defendant in the suit of Mrs. Mehren.

Mr. Mehren finally raised one arm over his head. His features moved and quivered, his blue eyes danced from behind his horn-rimmed glasses and his white apron became taut across his waistline. The heavy fist descended. There was a boom and a rattling of glassware as it struck the counter and the cook who was slicing ham behind the lunch counter dropped his knife in amazement.

He's "Through."

Leaning forward in an attitude of complete emphasis, his eyes bulging and fixed on a lurid drink poster on the opposite wall, Mehren declared aloud:

"I'm through! Nothing but trouble, trouble all the time."

"I thought I was just having my fling. Now I find I must pay a great price for my foolishness. I have lost my wife, a woman with whom I was infatuated, my home, some $15,000, and a lot of friends. Do you wonder I say I'm done?" and the man pounded the counter.

Miss Keusch has set forth that Mehren was her servant.

"Did you ever scrub floors for Miss Keusch and act as her chauffeur?" Mr. Mehren was asked. He smiled.

"Well, when I first met Miss Keusch I owned and ran a grocery store at Marcey and Third Streets," he said. "We had a fine business. Besides that, my wife and I owned a first-class rooming house at 2,990 Second Boulevard. It is hardly probable that I would hire out as a servant, is it? I also owned a large touring car, and that started this trouble.

"Now, I don't like to talk about this, but it seems that the ladies in the case have simply ripped the bottom out of things. It all began by my taking Miss Keusch for a ride in my automobile. I admit I asked her to go. That part is my own fault. In those four years I knew her I wore out two automobiles driving her over the state of Michigan and part of Ohio. We went to Toledo, Mt. Clemens, to New Baltimore and Gratiot Beach.

Four Years.

"I don't know what was the matter with me. This woman had a peculiar fascination for me. I was mad about her. I gave her all my money, about $15,000 in those four years. I burned up about 30 gallons of gasoline each week-end. I was a fool—a complete fool.

"Three times we quarrelled, and three times I went back to her because I could not stay away. I couldn't sleep nights when we were quarrelling. I would get up and drive my car until morning. I was then running my store, the rooming house, and working nights at the Ford factory to get money enough to satisfy her demands. I bought her rings and furniture for her apartments. But that is not what matters.

"Her idea of literature was "Three Weeks.' I read it aloud to her. I was educated in Germany and in the Dutch Army. I read a lot. I know good books."

"My friends told me what a fool I was making of myself, but I could not see it. I frequently had dinner with Miss Keusen at her apartment, and we went out to dinner to the Hotel Statler and the Cadillac often Often we would drive to Mt. Clemens for our night meal. Always I did as she wanted me to, always I acted like a fool," and the man shook his head in sorrowful remembrance.

For three years the two went to Toledo for the holiday week from Christmas to New Year's Day, he said.

A Good Wife

"I don't know what made me act like that,' he said. "I liked my wife. I realize now that she was a good wife and a true one—but it is too late for that now. I know her disposition. She would not take me back. I often think how much better it would have been had I been killed two months ago instead of our only child, who was a bride", and tears came to the man's eyes.

"Just as quickly as I can I shall sell this place, and leave town. I have saved money since the first of the year— since I have ceased to throw it away on a woman. I shall leave and begin again", and the man turned to talk to a prospective customer who came into the store.

Mr. Mehren also told of Miss Keusch's alleged violent temper once he said they drove into a ditch with the automobile and she was so angry that she was ill for two days.

"I don't believe she ever loved me," he said. "She liked only what I could and did give her. If she ever expressed a wish I granted it if it meant working night and day for a month. I never have been able to understand women. I do less now. There is only one way that is safe—let them alone'.

SHORT CIRCUIT DESTROYS A CAR

Dr. W. N. Hayes and Mrs. Vernon Hayes Had Narrow Escape.

A closed car owned and driven by Dr. W. N. Hayes, local dentist, was totally destroyed by fire at 12.30 a.m., on Sunday morning, at Fraserville. The loss was partly covered by insurance, Dr. Hayes stated today. The fire was caused by a short circuit and developed without warning. Dr. Hayes and Mr. Dr. Vernon Hayes, his sister-in-law who accompanied him from Toronto, where he had spent Saturday, had a narrow escape. It was 5 a.m., Sunday morning before a taxi rescued Dr. Hayes and Mrs. Dr. Hayes from a sheltering farmhouse.

P.A.A.A. SQUAD AT BOWMANVILLE

The P.A.A.A. athletic section are sending a squad of athletes to Bowmanville on Wednesday for the big field day. Dick Bates is entered in the road race, Jack Thornton and Bob Miller in the sprints and Scotty McLeish in the mile event.

SOMETHING NEW

The P.A.A.A. Minstrels are entirely new and pleasing . "A Cabaret Minstrel Show' where your sorrows and troubles will fly when you hear Fraser Skinner tell you about his sweet Miss when he sings "She's Mine All Mine". Art White "Aint Got Enough to Pass Around" but what he has got is mighty fine in the way of comic song. Ken Anderson is worried over a very serious question "Which Hazel?" Come and find out how he makes his decision. The jokes are all witty and first class and the end men put them across with lots of pep and snap. Mr. Everett's fine voice will be heard to advantage in a ballad. "Don't Leave Me Mammy". Mrs. George King's sweet soprano voice will also delight the hearers to a loud applause. Miss Ann Gallagher will sing "Georgia Rose". Mrs. Clark will be much enjoyed singing "Oh Manny Weep No More". Mr. B. Gadona will give some whistling selections that will be very much appreciated. This is something new to Peterboro and Mr. Gadona has spent a lot of time on this particular line and will no doubt please you.

There are lots of other splendid attractions which we will tell you about to-morrow in this space. The chorus of fifty young voices bring out the music of each chorus. Especially the opening "Ginny Shore."

GIRLS' BASEBALL.

EXPECT BUDGET WILL DISCLOSE TARIFF CHANGES

Also Announcements of Moment on Taxation When Delivered in Canadian Commons

CANADA'S NET DEBT.

OTTAWA, May 23.—(Canadian Press).—The budget speech, which will be delivered by Hon. W. S. Fielding this afternoon, is expected to contain some changes in the tariff, but no general revision. Budget secrets are proverbially well kept, but this much is inferred from past declarations of the Liberal party and from the political situation in the House of Commons, especially from the Parliamentary influence of the Progressive bloc.

The budget is also likely to contain announcements of moment on taxation and on the methods to be adopted to bridge the gap between the revenue in sight and the estimates which have been brought down. It is regarded as probable that these methods will include an internal loan in addition to that which has already been floated in New York.

The year which Mr. Fielding covers in his budget has been one of decline in trade and in the revenues of the country, but there are signs that a turn of the tide has come. The total trade figures of the fiscal year which closed on March 31 last—the year of which the Finance Minister has to give an account—showed a big falling off from those of the year before; but the figures for March were larger than those in any month in the whole fiscal year. The revenue figures for the year were also much below those of the year previous, but again March, the last month of the year, was marked by an increase in income.

Considerable Surplus.

The financial statement for the year closed in March shows a considerable surplus of ordinary revenue over ordinary expenditure. The total revenue as announced is $371,000,000.00, as compared with ordinary expenditures of $324,000,000.00. This gives a surplus on consolidated account of some $47,000,000.00. For the year previous there was an even larger surplus, the revenue being $451,000,000.00, as against expenditures of $357,000,000.00.

The largest item in the revenue of 1921-22 was derived, as usual, from the customs, which showed $104,000,000.00, as compared with $162,000,000.00 in the year before. Second place in the last year was held by the income tax, which replaced sales tax and other special war inland revenue in rank of importance. The revenue from the income tax for 1921-22 was $78,000,000.00, as compared with only $38,000,000.00 the year previous; while the sales and related taxes sank from $76,000,000.00 to $72,000,000.00.

In spite of this favorable showing on consolidated account, however, there was an increase of $73,000,000.00 in the net debt of the Dominion. On March 31 last the net debt of Canada stood at $2,384,996,391.00, as compared with $2,311,294,443.00 for the end of the fiscal year previous. Curiously enough the gross debt of the country did not rise during the year, but on the other hand showed a falling off of approximately eighty-seven millions. The explanation of this condition is that there was a large decrease in the assets of the Dominion, especially in the advances to banks, at the same time that there was an increase in the list of assets which are regarded as "non-active." Among these latter are the loans which have been made to the railways in recent years.

Encouraging Feature.

An encouraging development which the Finance Minister has to report is the rise in the gold basis of Dominion notes in circulation during the year past. At the end of March, 1921, the percentage of gold to the Dominion note circulation was only 28.6; but, at the end of March last it had risen to 33.4. The gold reserves on March 31, 1921, were 43.9 of the circulation, while on the corresponding date this year they had risen to 47.2 per cent.

Canada's external trade during the year recently closed fell off very heavily. For the year 1920-21 the total trade was $2,450,586,000.00; while for 1921-22 it sank to $1,501,731,000.00. The decline affected im-

PETERBORO TRAFFIC RULES ENFORCED SATISFACTORILY

Police Chief Newhall Reports That Adoption of Either the System in Force at Buffalo or Detroit is Not Necessary Here.

Chief S. Newhall stated to-day that he did not think the system of enforcing street traffic ordinances adopted in Detroit was necessary in a city of this size. In the automobile city motorists who break the law in some of its minor points, such as no lights, glaring headlights, etc., are placarded with warning cards by patrolmen and ordered to report the matter at the police station, where, if the deficiency is remedied, he will be allowed to go upon paying a fee. In this way police court is not cluttered up with a multitude of minor cases.

If the driver fails to show up at the police station he is promptly the object of a court complaint by the patrolman, and prosecution is severe. The system works out to the satisfaction of all parties in Detroit, according to reports, but there are not enough automobiles here to make such a measure necessary in the Chief's opinion. He is inclined to commend the system for a large city, and said he could understand why Chief Whatley of Hamilton, has expressed disapproval of the idea.

"We in Peterborough have a good system," he said. "The policemen take the numbers of offending cars and the drivers are hailed before the Magistrate. There are not enough offences or enough cars to make such a measure necessary here. In Detroit ther are thousands of autos and they have to have some way to keep track of them. Here it is no trouble in finding out who owns a certain car, and tourists are easily pulled up. In Buffalo they chalk the tires and when you pay for the offence the chalk is cleaned off at the station. Any system like that, or like the one in Detroit, saves having a large number of small cases in police court. I think Toronto should adopt some such system. They have as many as 60 small cases in an afternoon."

MISSING LIST

BREST, France, May 23.—(Canadian Press).—British Vice-Consul announced here today that 102 of those who were on board the British steamship Egypt, sunk Sunday night, are missing, of whom sixteen were passengers and eighty-six members of the crew. Many of the dead brought in by boats were wearing life-belts. Sailors on the French steamer declare that they observed several struggles between survivors for places of safety on pieces of wreckage.

RED CROSS OFFER PLEASES COUNCIL

Provide Office for First Year of Proposed Nursing Service.

The public nursing service which the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Red Cross has volunteered to establish in this city, assuming the cost of the first year's work with the Council's assistance in supplying the required office accommodation, was outlined to the Council last night by Mr. E. F. Mason, representing the Board of Health.

Ald. Holloway emphasized the feature that the Red Cross expected to demonstrate during the first year such advantages from this nursing service that the Council would bear the whole cost next year. He said that the members should understand that the acceptance of the Red Cross proposal virtually obligated the city to make this work permanent.

The only cost now falling upon the Council is the provision of a suitable office with telephone. The office is available in the city hall and requires only slight alterations and adequate furniture.

Ald. Jones moved, seconded by Ald. Stocker, that this request be granted, and Ald. McIntyre was authorized to fix up the office for occupation.

Ald. Crowe in giving his approval to this nursing scheme, said that it would particularly benefit the poor people.

Mr. Mason warmly endorsed the initiative of the Red Cross, pointing out that while the Health Association's nurse attended to persons who were sick, this new service was planned as a preventive of disease, and should be a great asset to the community. The Board of Health was heartily in favour of it and requested the Council to give it their favorable consideration.

BEDFORD GIRLS FLEE IN RAIN

Captured Seven Hours After Sliding Down Rope at Reformatory.

BEDFORD, May 23. — Fleeing 8 miles through a rainstorm early yesterday Della Kemp and Nellie Berger, who escaped from the State Reformatory for Women in Bedford, were found exhausted and drenched at Croton Falls and captured by a resident there.

The two hungry wet girls, who were without coats or hats, and covered with mud, were turned over to attendants of the reformatory. They were locked up in the cells, after having seven hours freedom, and will each serve two months longer for their brief "outing." During the night they broke the grill-work screening their windows on the second floor of the Cromwell dormitory. Making a rope of bedclothes they slid down this to the ground. Their tell tale blue and white striped uniform betrayed them.

CABINET CONVENES DISCUSS CONFERENCE

LONDON, May 23. Canadian Press. — While the Cabinet was convened to-day primarily to discuss the results of the Genoa conference, it was understood that serious developments in Ireland would occupy equal attention.

TELEGRAM HAS BEEN SENT TO PREMIER KING

The Workless Army Has Reached Cobourg-Camped in Port Hope Last Evening.

GETTING SUPPLIES

PORT HOPE, May 23 (Special to The Examiner). — A stump oratorical contest was staged by the members of the staff of McDonalds Army in the Armouries here last night.

The staff or executive had held a meeting, in which there was a slight difference of opinion as to their future policy. Then they decided to leave it to the men.

Macdonald, after the idea of the twelve apostles, chose an executive of twelve, and he was afraid there was a Judas among them. The fear, however, proved unfounded, and the whole affair was cleared up amicably at the mass meeting.

Trouble arose when the two members of the advance guard, George A. Allen and G. W. Suddess, returned before a telegram for their recall reached them.

Unsatisfactory arrangements for the mens reception along the road were blamed on the two. It turned out, however, that they were the victims of three discouraged malcontents, according to their speeches, who posed as representatives of the column, and preceded these two with a story that made the municipal authorities suspicious.

Macdonald left the question of his leadership to the men, whose loud chorus of approval, when asked if he should remain, was a complete vindication of his leadership. He stated that unless his authority was absolute, he would resign and go home, but the whole party refused to think of another leader.

The two members of the advance guard were reinstated, and left for Cobourg, to make further arrangements for the triumphant advance of the little Army.

Sent a Telegram.

A telegram to Premier King for a deputation appointment was sent from here last night. It reads:

'The executive of the unemployed veterans, en route on foot to Ottawa, request a hearing before you and your Cabinet on our arrival."

Telegrams asking their party to support were sent to Hon. Arthur Meighen and Hon. C. Crerar.

The same liberal donations as on other marches were received along the road into Port Hope. A farmer, named Wallace, met the column and gave every man an apple, an orange and a banana.

The liberal donations of the town included fresh beef for a Mulligatawny stew, prepared with a real army touch by an old army cook in the Armoury field kitchen that stood rusting from disuse.

The citizens also furnished a quantity of canned beef and vegetables, also plates, cups, knives and forks. After supper, the column marched in companies to the nearby park and listened to the band concert.

Half Day's Rest.

PORT HOPE, May 23.—(Special to Examiner.) — McDonald's little army is having a half day's rest before proceeding to Cobourg for the night, where it will be quartered in the market building.

Arrangements have been made to secure a field kitchen at Colborne to trail behind their lone motor truck. Field kitchens are the order of the day now at every point, with Mulligan for lunch and supper instead of sandwiches for every meal as was the case the first two days.

So many passing motors have given footsore and weary trekers rides into the next town that an order has been issued that the men going ahead in this way must wait at the town limits to march in with the army. Over fifty preceded the main body in that way into Port Hope last night, thus making the column look smaller than it really was.

At last night's band concert in the park, which the men attended, a collection on their behalf amounted to $10.40.

There was not a single serious sick case at this point.

POLICE ROUND UP HUNDREDS SINN FEINERS

IRISH SITUATION

BELFAST, May 23.—(Canadian Press)—The greatest raid in the history of Ireland was carried out early today, when swarms of police swept through Ulster and rounded up two hundred Sinn Feiners and the majority of Republican Army officers. This action was an effort to suppress Sinn Fein organizations, and followed swiftly upon raids in Ulster.

ILLEGAL ASSEMBLY.

BELFAST, May 23.—(Canadian Press)—At today's meeting of the Ulster Parliament Premier Sir James Craig anounced that the Irish Republican army had been proclaimed an illegal assembly. Parliament adjourned for a week as mark of respect fo W J. Twaddell, who was killed yesterday.

COALITION GOVERNMENT

DUBLIN, May 23.—(Canadian Press)—The Ard Fheis, a National Sinn Fein organization, today ratified an agreemnt reached last week by factions in the Dail, regarding elections and a Coalition government.

ENCIRCLING MOVEMENT.

BELFAST, May 23.—(Canadian Press)—Big encireling movement embracing all Ulster was commenced at about four o'clock, and the majority of those wanted were taken by surprise, many being aroused from their sleep.

In Fermanagh County almost every Sinn Feiner known to be an officer or to have executive authority in the Republican Army was arrested. While the raids were proceeding tenders were conveying special police and their prisoners from outlying districts.

In Belfast fifty two were arrested but did not include any well known party leaders.

DISCUSS SITUATION

LONDON, May 23.—Canadian Press)—Situation in Ireland was discussed at a meeting of Cabinet this morning, presided over by the Prime Minister Lloyd George.

ARRESTED SUNDAY.

DUBLIN, May 23.—(Canadian Press)—Major General Beauchamp Doran was arrested at Rosslare, Sunday, by dissentient Republican troops when he remonstrated with men who were seizing English Sunday papers and throwing them into the sea. He was conveyed to Wexford and held for several hours before being released. He had just arrived from London where he witnessed the disbandment of his Royal Irish regiment.

MORE INCENDIARISM.

BELFAST, May 23.—(Canadian Press)—Garron Tower, County Antrim, the mansion of Lord Londonderry recntly converted into a hotel, was burned laht night by incendiaries.

BELFAST, May 23. — (Canadian Press).—It was officially stated here to-day that three hundred Sinn Feiners had been taken prisoners by Ulster authorities and that they would be interned.

CHARGED WITH GIVING WORTHLESS CHEQUES TO PAY HIS BOARD BILL

On the charge of fraudulently obtaining board at the Grand and King's Hotel by issuing worthless cheques, Herbert Clute Gibson of Belleville, a stock salesman, was remanded to-day until Thursday at the request of his solicitor, J. W. Stevenson, to alllow him to make restitution. It is probable that he will then be charged with issuing worthless cheques.

David N. King, proprietor of King's Hotel, cashed a cheque for $100 for Gibson in payment of an $11.50 board bill. He gave him the difference in good Canadian money, but has so far not been able to recover it. William Fisher, proprietor of the Grand Hotel, accepted a cheque for $27 for board, but learned Gibson had no funds. On Sunday accused was arrested by Detective William Meagher as he was going into Little Lake cemetery with a young lady.

In September, 1920, he made his last appearance in court here, according to the police chief on a charge of theft of $600 worth of clothes from the company he was employed with at that time. His record is well known. The Belleville police in his home town are acquainted with his activities that have before now centred around worthless cheques, according to Chief Newhall.

TRAGEDY ON FARM IN SASKATCHEWAN

Attempted Double Murder Was Followed by a Suicide.

REGINA, May 23.—(Canadian Press). — Angus McClelland, farmer, 20, is dead and his father and mother are suffering from bullet wounds as a result of attempted double murder and suicide at Bavas, sixteen miles north of Yorkton, Sask., Sunday. After shooting and wounding his father and mother, McClelland turned gun on himself and fired a bullet through his head, dying instantly.

ALL SAINTS' MEN BANQUET LADIES

Good Work Accomplished By the Young People.

The ladies of All Saints A.Y.P.A. were last night tendered a banquet by the men of the organisation. About thirty members were present, and the retiring president, H. A. Sisson, president. Following the banquet the chairman told briefly of the work which had been accomplished by the branch during the past year, and wished the newly elected officers, who assumed their offices at this meeting, every success for the term that is before them. He pointed out to them that this meeting marked the closing of the winter season, and that it was up to the incoming officers to carry the work forward by every means in their power.

Other speakers included J. R. Turner, president; Miss S. Welsh, vice-president; Miss Irene Maconomy, secretary-treasurer; Rev. R. B. Grobb, Rev. Mr. Stout, Miss Olga Johnson, Miss May Stone, Miss Beryl Bates, Mrs. Edgar, and others.

Toast to the Church.

Mr. Grobb, in replying to the toast to the church, told of the great opportunity for church work which was presented to the young people through the A.Y.P.A. organisation, and pointed out how the members should take advantage of these opportunities.

Vocal solos were given by Miss Beryl Bates and Mr. Stanley Willis, with piano accompaniment by Miss Madeline Willis.

Chorus singing by all present was also enjoyed, with piano accompaniment by Miss Olga Johnson.

MOUNT SEWER YEARLY CHARGE FIXED AT $224

Annual Levy Itemized in Proposed Agreement Now Under Consideration.

ON CITY BASIS

In a statement to the Council last night, explaining the proposed agreement between the city and the Sisterhood of Mount St. Joseph for a sewer connection, City Engineer Parsons gave the details of the sum of $224 which, he said, the Mount would have to pay annually for this service. It was based on an assessment of $40,000. The end of the city's sewer is 120 feet from the property of the Mount and this link must be laid at the expense of the Sisters and under the supervision of the City Engineer.

All property pays 2.39 mills on the city's share of local improvement sewer debentures, also .41 mills on outfall sewers. On the disposal plant all property will pay 1.1 mills for its construction. When a local improvement sewer is laid in front of any property a frontage tax of one-half of the cost of the sewer in front of the property is levied.

In the account embodied in the agreement which Mr. Parsons has laid before Monsignor McColl, as representative of the Mount, the charge under the item of the city's share of local improvement and outfall sewers is $112; for local improvement sewer construction charged against the property it fronts there is an additional $68, amounting to $180, and this is further increased by $44 for the use of the sewage disposal plant, making a total charge of $224 for thirty years, or until such time as the Mount property is incorporated in the city.

Mr. Parsons explained that he was submitting to the board a copy of the letter he had sent Father McColl, in order that the members would be familiar with the negotiations.

"It seems quite large," commented Ald. McIntyre.

"I made it out on the basis that the Mount was in the city," said Mr. Parsons. "For a local improvement sewer in front of their property they have to pay for it just the same as if they lived in the city."

"What will happen if they come in the city?" was Ald. Morrison's question.

"They will be assessed as city property," the City Engineer answered. "I didn't know whether the assessment would be more or less than $40,000, but I took that as a basis, and I believe the assessment, if it were in the city, might be more."

Ald. Hamilton moved that if this offer is satisfactory to Monsignor McColl the City Solicitor draw up a bylaw confirming it.

Concerted Raid On the Innocent Dandelion Now

The making of dandelion wine is legal, providing notice is sent to the nearest Collector of Inland Revenue, the Examiner was informed at the Customs House to-day. The officers said that there were hundreds of notices received. Every day they are coming in. They seemed to think the home-brew idea is germinating in the reportorial mind. "Just sent in a notice with your name and address asking permission and it wil lbe all right," the officers said.

There has never been such a concerted attack on the innocent dandelions as this year. Folks in all walks of life are making no bones about why they are stripping the yellow tops, and whole families may be seen in the vacant lots garnering in the flowers. Neighbours exchange the best recipes over back fences, and a common practice which is tending to raise the quality and increase the adherents of the hitherto despised weed, is the exchange and free circulation of samples. The dandelion has at last come into its own.

GAVE NEW POLICE MOTORCYCLE TRY OUT

Police constables Carey, Puffer and Bromley gave the new police motorcycle a try-out yesterday afternoon and Chief S. Newhall said to-day that it stood up to every test. The constables he said had had previous experience with motorcycles and had no difficulty in controlling it. One or two motorsts on the Gravel Road yesterday afternoon, woh were doing better than 40 miles recived a chill when the snotring monster with its uiformed occupants pulled up alongside and slid ahead in a cloud of dust. They were not neting speedsters yesterday however, so the alarm was unnecesary.

The machine will carry two men and attain a speed of 100 miles an hour, it is claimed. At Windsor one of Chief Thompson's men stopped a bootlegger by blowing up his rear tire at 80 miles an hour. The machine will be used on patrol work and will be useful in the enforcement of the Motor Vehicles Act the chief stated today.

COUNCIL ABANDONS PAVING PROGRAMME

Proposal to Let Contract For George Street South Met Unexpected Obstacle in Statute Clause Requiring Two-Thirds Vote of Approval.

CHEQUES RETURNED.

The project of paving George street from the C.P.R. to Romaine street was definitely abandoned for this year at a special meeting of the Council last night, and the marked cheques deposited with the tenders from John Carrol, James Bogue and R. Sheehy & Son will be returned to them.

A bylaw to award the contract to Mr. Carrol failed to secure the required approval of two-thirds of the Council, a condition which most of the members were either unaware of or had forgotten. Ald. McIntyre, who was presiding during the second reading, declared the bylaw lost. During a later discussion as to whether the work would be undertaken at all this season, City Solicitor Widdifield gave his opinion that none of the cost of equipment or plant might be charged against the work if it was done by the city.

"You will have to buy the plant outright," he said, contributing the second surprising bit of information to the Council.

"That ends the city doing it this year," remarked Ald. Phelan.

In the vote on Ald. Crowe's amendment, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the paving be done by the city, Aldermen Hamilton and Stocker supported the mover and seconder. Those against it were: Aldermen Phelan, Holloway, Turner, Morrison and Gainey, making the count 4 to 5.

When Ald. Crowe asked how the vote stood, Mayor Taylor replied five were for it, "and mine would have made six, and one didn't vote. That was Ald. Jones.

"Next year we will probably have to pave Hunter street from Queen street to the Western Clock factory," said Ald. Hamilton, explaining his attitude; "we will have McDonnell street and perhaps some others to do, and I thought that while we were about it we should start in ourselves. We could do it cheaper than any one else and the work may be just as much needed next year as now."

Nothing But Talk.

Ald. Turner said that some of the members seemed to be restrained by the 4.6 mills in the tax rate covering the Hunter Street Bridge charges, but that mistake, he contended, should not be permitted to hinder the proper advancement of the city.

"The question is whether it is in the interest of the city to do any paving," Ald. Turner submitted. "We come here night after night and talk, but do nothing."

"I'm not in favour unless we do it ourselves," declared Ald. Crowe.

"That's where I stand," said Ald. McIntyre.

Discussed in Committee.

The stock arguments for and against the paving of George street and for and against the city's undertaking the work through the City Engineer's Department, were once more aired at the Board of Works meeting preceding the session of the Council.

Ald. Hamilton moved, seconded by Ald. Jones, that no paving be done now, but they failed to draw other support.

Ald. Morrison's motion, seconded by Ald. Holloway, that John Carrol's tender be accepted carried with Aldermen Phelan, Turner, Gainey, Holloway, Morrison and Mayor Taylor voting for it, and Aldermen Hamilton, Stocker, Jones and McIntyre against it. Ald. Crowe was absent.

Ald. Stocker's remark that a competent engineer would be engaged to inspect the work brought Ald. Morrison to his feet with the question whether that was the Council's decision or only Ald. Stocker's personal opinion.

"What's the City Engineer and his assistant for" asked Ald. Mor-

Empire Day Topics in Local Schools

Empire Day was observed in the Public Schools to-day with its patriotic significance emphasised in speech and song.

This morning the teachers outlined the significance of Empire Day to the classes, and eulogised the broad Imperialism of the founder of Empire Day (or Victoria Day, as it is termed in the Motherland), which is now observed practically wherever the Union Jack flies.

At two o'clock this afternoon, the schools joined in patriotic ensembles in the open-air, and heard addresses appropriate to the occasion delivered by prominent citizens.

The excellent training the school children have received in singing patriotic numbers was shown, and the choruses were given with a spirit that indicated in the young hearts the love of country and Empire already well-established.

The schools were dismissed following the musical exercises.

GRANT REQUEST OF R. C. BRAUND

Ditch on Park Street South Will Be Filled. Lafayette Avenue Will Be Oiled.

The improvement which Mr. R. C. Braund has sought from the Council for three or four years, probably more, of filling in the ditch on the west side of Park street, between Chamberlen and Lake streets, was recommended by the Board of Works last night, adopted by the Council at the subsequent special meeting.

Ald. Jones moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that a concrete pipe be laid in the ditch on that side of the street.

Ald. Morrison also called attention to what he termed a bad ditch on the east side of Aylmer street, between Rink and Perry streets.

A request from Frank Wise for the use of a scraper for a few days at the golf links was left to Alderman Stocker with power to act. He remarked that a fee of at least $2 should be paid for the use of this implement.

R. C. Braund also asked the board to lay a sidewalk on Park street in front of the apartments over his store.

City Engineer Parsons said that the cost of moving the mixing equipment would be as much for a small job like that as for a big one. "When Mr. Braund makes application for the grade there I'll give it to him," said Mr. Parsons.

Oil for Lafayette.

The landlords and tenants of Lafayette avenue sent in a petition that their street be oiled this year.

Dr. Holloway moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that this request be granted, and the motion finally included Roger street from Sophia to James street, at the instance of Ald. Gainey, and Rink street from Park street to a point near the Canadian Canoe factory, to be determined by the City Engineer. This was Ald. Turner's suggestion.

Applications for sidewalks on the north side of Murray street from the Monaghan road to Cambridge street and on the north side of Robinson street from Rogers street to the railway, were passed.

CAMERA MAN WILL TAKE LOCAL VIEWS

Ball Teams Will be "Shot" by the Pathe Man

Mr. Abbey, local manager of the Capitol Theatre, has arranged to have the Pathe camera man visit Peterborough on Saturday next.

Besides the "Jackie Coogan" boys which the camera man will shoot in front of the theatre, pictures will be taken of the Peterborough-Oshawa Central League ball teams in action at Riverside Park, the new Kiwanis Camp at Jackson Park, and Peterborough's 5s million-dollar overhead bridge.

Baseball Was Deadly Missive

WINDSOR, May 23. — (Canadian Press).—Struck over the heart by a baseball during a game at Comber last night, Clare Dalgleish, 23 years old, of West Tilbury, was almost instantly killed. Dalgleish was catching behind bat without chest protector and missed ball. He lived only three minutes after being struck. He was a veteran of the great war, and had been severely gassed during his three years' service.

In coal mines where blasting is dangerous, the hydraulic cartridge is a safe and effective substitute.

PRICE THREE CENTS — PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, MAY 23, 1922 — PRICE THREE CENTS

INSTRUCTIONS TO DELEGATES FROM CANADA TO GENOA

TEXT OF LETTER.

OTTAWA, May 23.— (Canadian Press.)— Instructions given to the Canadian delegates at Genoa were tabled in the House of Commons yesterday by the Premier. The vital part of the correspondence consisted of a letter written by the Premier on March 20 to Sir Charles Gordon, and addressed to him at London. The text of this letter is as follows:

"The Government have been considering their view as to the general attitude that you and Prof. Montpetiti should adopt as Canadian delegates at the Genoa Conference. We feel that you should not actively intervene in questions that are of purely European concern, but that you should interest yourselves in such questions as are of economic concern to Canada. It is difficult to give any more precise definition, but this indication will serve as a guide for your action, and you will, I am sure, be able to determine its application as the various questions arise."

The authority under which the Canadan delegates shold act was indicated in the order-in-council as letter patent appointing each as commissioner and plenipotentiary in respect to the Dominion of Canada.

THIRTEEN KILLED IN MOTOR CYCLE RACE.

BARCELONA, May 23. Canadian Press. — Five persons, including two children, were killed and 13 injured, at a motor cycle race yesterday over the Tarragona circuit. The spectators crowed out on to the road when the race was at its height, and one of the competitors, named Lombardo, going at 85 miles an hour, struck a group, killing four. His mechanic also was killed, but he escaped any serious injury.

Returning from the race an automobile containing former Deputy Caterineu, and several friends, crashed into tree. Two men were killed, and two girls injured.

ALBERTA GOVT. TO INVESTIGATE THE BANK ACT

To Examine Details Carefully. Act Will Be Up For Revision in Dominion House Next Year.

EXPERT CHOSEN.

EDMONTON, May 23.—(Canadain Press.)— An investigation of the Bank Act and the workings of the whole Canadian banking system will be carried out under the auspices of the Alberta Government. The matter has been before the Government for some time past and has now been decided in executive council to the point of ordering such a survey to be made as soon as possible. It is understood that a conclusion has been reached as to an expert to do the work in the person of a recognized Alberta economist, but arrangements for the definite appointment have not yet been made.

The purpose of the proposed investigation will be to examine carefully into the details of the Bank Act which will be up for revision in the Dominion House next year.

SPLENDID TYPE OF SETTLERS ARRIVING

Britishers and Italians Recently Landed.

QUEBEC, Que., May 23.—The Canadian Pacific steam Caserta from Genoa and Naples arrived and docked at Quebec with 60 cabin and 665 third-class passengers. The latter are Italians and were landed and conducted to the Louise Docks Immigration Building by civil and medical inspectors. These new settlers are to embark for Montreal and a large number for Toronto, distributing points, and the remainder for the Prairie Provinces, are without exception the finest aggregation of immigrants from Italy who ever landed in Canada. This comprise young married couples and some single men and women of the farmer class, well developed and physically fit in every way and sincerely educative.

Some only had with them the necessary money to meet immigration requirements, but many had plenty, as quite a few spoken to expressed their intention of buying some land to settle permanently in Canada.

Interviewed regarding conditions in Italy, those spoken to said the country was slowly recovering from the effects of the last war, but they were afraid that unless a miracle occurred there would be another European outbreak before the next five years. They also remarked that there was a decided inclination amongst the well-to-do and better class of the Italian farmers to emigrate to Canada, whose possibilities and freedom were becoming well known in Italy.

Owing to the superiority of these new settlers, some of whom had been in Canada previously and had gone back home to bring out their families and who could speak English, while sixty per cent. could speak French.

The Canadian Pacific passenger liner Corsican, Capt. W. Davidson in command, has arrived at Quebec with 178 passengers, 91 cabin and 87 third-class. The latter are Scotch farmers and, as usual, a splendid type of British subjects. After immigration inspection, they left by a C.P.R. special train for their western destinations. When told that the Government immigration restrictions had been removed as regards immigration from the British Isles to Canada, they volunteered the information that this news would be hailed with pleasure in Scotland, where there were many farm laborers as well as small farmers and domestics who were wishing to come out to Canada, but had been held back by Canadian Government restrictions, and it would not be a surprise to them to see a large immigration from Scotland to Canada this midsummer and a regular immigration from that country next year.

RANEY INTRODUCES ACT TO MAKE INJUNCTION VOID

FELL SIX STORIES, DIES OF INJURIES.

EDMONTON, May 23 (Canadian Press). — E. Court May, son of Alexander May, a former postmaster of Edmonton, and a well-known barrister and athlete of this city, was fatally injured late on Saturday night, when he fell six floors down a stairway in the MacDonald Hotel, dying six hours later.

MANY MATTERS HOLD ATTENTION AT QUEEN'S PARK

Bill to Raise $40,000,000 Passes Committee of the Whole House. Figures Given on Liquor Sales.

DUTY-FREE BONDS.

TORONTO, May 23 (Canadian Press.)— Premier Drury yesterday afternoon introduced the Lake of the Woods Control Bill into the Legislature, pointing out as he did so that it was the same Act as was introduced last session, but failed to carry.

Figures of the business done by the liquor vendors of the Province were given in reply to questions by members of the House.

The Bill to enable the Province to raise $40,000,000 passed through the Committe of the Whole House, Provincial Treasurer Smith explaining that the Province was buying up its succession duty-free bonds wherever possible.

Hon. George S. Henry continued the debate on the second reading of the Government's Hydro Radial Bill.

There were 532,611 prescriptions for liquor issued in the Province between 31st October, 1920, and 1921, Attorney-General Raney announced.

Toronto supplied 201,621 of these; Hamilton, 54,361; Ottawa, 32,892; Windsor, 22,303; Kingston, 20,069; Guelph, 2,0037; Kitchener, 861, and Stratford, 689. These were the only cities for which particulars had been asked.

The number of gallons of liquor sold in that year by Government vendors was 183246, and the amount of money received was $3,131,410.57.

ASTRONOMER FINDS A WONDERFUL DOUBLE STAR

VICTORIA, B. C., May 23.—(Canadian Press).—Of special interest to astronomers is the discovery reported from the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Victoria, B. C. Dr. J. S. Plaskett, director of the Observatory, announces that he recently found and is investigating an extraordinary double star, appearing to be about one hundred and forty times as massive as the sun and nearly five times as massive as any hitherto observed. It consists of two very large and very bright stars, revolving around one another in a period of fourteen days, at a separation from each other of about two-thirds the distance of the earth from the sun. The largest and brightest star is 76 and the other 63 times as massive as the sun.

The temperature of the two enormous suns is excessively high, about thirty thousand degress Fahrenheit, and they are probably the brightest as well as heaviest pair of suns in the sky. Although just visible on a good clear night to the unaided eye as a star of the sixth magnitude, they are probably so far away that it takes their light over ten thousand years to travel to the earth.

Declaratory Act Says That An Injunction Cannot Stand Against Crown.

FIRST READING.

TORONTO, May 23.— The Ontario government's reply to the interim injunction granted to the Ontario Jockey Club restraining the government from collecting a five per cent. tax on race track winnings, is a declaratory act placing the legislature on record as declaring that the law is and has been that an injunction cannot stand as against the crown.

Mr. Justice Middleton on Saturday granted an interim injunction which results in the five per cent. tax from Woodbine races being paid into court instead of being turned over to the provincial treasurer until such time as the case can come to trial. The attorney-general introduced the declaratory act shortly after the house opened yesterday afternoon and intimated it would be up for second reading this afternoon.

There is no doubt that this afternoon's session will be lively. Hon. Howard Ferguson said yesterday afternoon that the attitude of the attorney general both by his interview following the granting of the interim injunction and the bill he had just introduced was "brazen and insolent contempt of the judges of the land." H. H. Dewart said he would reserve his remarks for to-day and Mr. Ferguson will no doubt speak then also.

No Injunction Against the Crown.

The attorney general in introducing the bill explained that the bill declared "the law to be what it always has been in the province, that no injunction lies against the crown or against any minister of the crown, in any act done in performance of his duties as minister or against any act of his officers performed under the direction of the minister and that no action shall be maintained against the crown or any minister of the crown except by petition of rights." Mr. Ferguson accused the attorney-general of attacking the powers of the judiciary by this bill and asked how the people of the province could be taught to respect the laws if the attorney-general, the legal head of the government, treated the judiciary with such contempt.

Are the Courts Closed?

"Then the ecurts are to be closed to everybody except by leave of the attorney-general?" Mr. Ferguson asked. 'Is that what the bill means? Is there no opening at all or have we corked up every possibility of anybody bringing action against him or any other ministers."

Mr. Raney said Mr. Ferguson's criticism came with ill grace from a member of this house who has in season and out of season derided two members of the judiciary who acted as a royal commission investigating questions in which Mr. Ferguson was greatly interested.

"There is no question that the function of the judges is to interpret the law," said the Attorney General." My point is that there was here no interpretation of the law. My second point is that there was no power in the courts to enjoin the crown. These two are the very foundations of our constitution and I will stand by them against all odds."

No Authority.

He insisted that there was no authority anywhere to interfere with the collection of revenue by this government or any other government. He expressed confidence that the provincial government would be able to enforce this tax even to the point of stopping the races in event of refusal.

Mr. Raney denied that it was "brazen and insolent contempt of the judiciary," saying that no man in the legislature had a higher respect for the judiciary than he had. "In my view the highest court in the province in this legislature and when its supremacy is assailed I will be doing less than my duty if I do not uphold the supremacy of this court against dictation from any other court." he bill passed its first reading.

CAPTAIN TELLS TALE OF WRECK OF GREAT LINER

Thickest Fog in Many Years Was the Cause of Marine Disaster Which Cost 100 Lives.

SANK QUICKLY.

BREST, May 23. Canadian Press. —The thickest fog in years around the Finistere-Ushant Light alone was responsible for the catastrophe to the British steamship Egypt, accordng to Captain Le Bozic, the commanding officer of the freight steamer Seine, in his report to the Ministry of Merchant Marine.

The Seine rammed the Egypt on Saturday night, and nearly 100 eprsons lost their lives in the disaster.

"The fog was so thick," says the report, "that the captain on the bridge was unable to see the bow of his ship."

"On Saturday, ot 4.20 p.m., the fog became so thick I gave orders to slow down to 50 revolutions a minutes, thus mantaining an average speed of six knots, when at seven o'clock I heard a fog horn quite close, and immediately a huge bulk appeared at right angles crossing our bows. I gave orders to reverse the engines but too late. A terrible crash occurred, my ship striking the other amidship.

"The fog whistle was sounded and I finally succeeded in catching sight of a great liner, which was listing badly to starboard. At 7.40 the ship, which later was identified as the Egypt, went down by the stern.

"I ordered all the boats lowered and scoured the sea for hours picking up several dead and also many in whom life was not extinct. I gave up about 11.50 and returned to Brest."

The disaster occurred a few miles from Green Rocks, where the Drummond Caste was wrecked in June, 1896, with a loss of 247 lives. A heavy fog still hangs over the shores of Finistere, making the work of the searching parties difficult.

When the vessels came together the Egypt did not realize at first the extent of the damage caused by the little freighter Seine. It was some minutes before the liner began to keel over and then the passengers dashed in great alarm from the dining room to the deck. Capt. Colyer ordered them to be calm, and then got out the boats, for which there was a rush. The Lascars, it is asserted, used clubs in an attempt to get possession of the boats, but the officers drew their revolvers and drove them away.

LONDON, May 23. Canadian Press. — "If it had not been for the Lascars and the natives rushing for the boats all the women would have been saved."

This declaration is made in a signed statement given to the correspondent of the Evening News at Brest, by Joseph Duff, a Scotchman, who was a passenger on the Egypt.

The correspondent declares that there is ample confirmation of a panic although both the passengers and the officers of the ship are extremely reticient. He met Captain Collyer walking about yesterday as if in a daze. All he would say of the tragedy was, "I am captain of the Egypt and she is now lying at the bottom of the ocean."

Robert F. Bevan, a United States survivor, explained that the great list the Egypt took immediately after the collision made it diffcult for the passengers to approach the life boats. He admitted there was a certain amount of panic.

A. W. Harwick, the senior wireless operator, was not on duty when the collision occurred, but he rushed to the wireless cabin and took the place of the operator on duty, sticking to his post until the ship sank, and dying with his hand on the key, sending out the signal "S.O.S." Harwick recently was on the Russian icebreaker Lenine, and saved the lives of two Germans when it ran on the rocks.

COMMONS VOTE $1,500,000 FOR NAVY.

One Destroyer and Two Trawlers For Each Coast.

OTTAWA, May 23.— (Canadian Press.) — Without a division the House of Commons last night adopted a contested vote of $1,500,000 for naval service. Thereby the House accepted the Government's naval policy of one destroyer and two trawlers for each coast, with the consequent laying up of the cruiser Aurora and two submarines.

VETERANS RECEIVE KINDLY RECEPTION.

Get Generous Hospitality in Port Hope.

PORT HOPE, May 23. —(Canadian Press.)—The contingent of veterans en route to Ottawa to demand aid from the King Cabinet, arrived here last evening and were received at the armouries, where municipal authorities provided hot soup, beef, beef, bread, jam and coffee.

ASST. MINISTER DIES SUDDENLY.

OTTAWA May 23 (Canadian Press). — Ernest Frederick Jarvis, Assistant Deputy Minister of Militia and Defence from 1908 to 1920, died here suddenly at seven o'clock yesterday morning.

His life had been whole-heartedly devoted to public service, which he first entered in 1880 at the age of 18.

He was born of U. E. Loyalist stock, at St. Eleanor's, P.E.I., on 16th September, 1862. His father was Edward Fitzgerald Jarvis, M.D., and his grandfather, the Hon. Edward Jarvis, Chief Justice of Prince Edward Island.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR THE FARMER

Weekly Crop Report From Provincial Department of Agriculture is Very Optimistic. Rain Was Needed.

TORONTO, Ont., May 23.—(Canadian Press.—The weekly crop report issued by the Department of Agriculture says that the much needed rains, which extended more or less over the last two days of the past week have caused vegetation to leap ahead wonderfully. Newly seeded fields are already showing the benefit, while fall wheat and clover have also picked up well. May has begun its fourth week full of promise for the Ontario farmer.

Especially encouraging are the reports on the condition of alfalfa, particularly in Huron, Waterloo and York counties. Gray and Bruce counties report that more attention than formerly is being given to orchards and that the outlook is good, especially for early apples. Milk prices are downward, with prices under the $1 per cwt. This is less than half the figure prevailing a year ago.

ALLEGED THAT SHE POISONED HUSBAND.

OWEN SOUND, May 23.—(Canadian Press.)— Dan and Mary McMillan were placed on trial yesterday afternoon on the charge of having murdered Mrs. McMillan's first husband, Jamieson Johnson, by poison. Justice Orde is presiding.

ULSTER GOVT. WILL SUPPRESS REVOLTERS

BELFAST, May 23.— (Canadian Press.— The Ulster government is taking immediate stringent steps to suppress in Northern Ireland the Irish Republican Army, Irish Republican Brotherhood , Irish Volunteers, Sinn Fein, Girl Guides and Boy Scouts.

Washington State provided 59,338 men to all branches of service in the World War.

ROUND THE WORLD FLYERS GUESTS AT BANQUET BY PRESS

Major W. T. Blake and Capt. Norman MacMillan Entertained in London By Daily News.

TO START SOON.

LONDON, May 23.— (Canadian Press.)—Major W. T. Blake of the Royal Air Force and Captain Norman MacMillan, who on the death or Sir Ross Smith took over the latter's plan to fly around the world, were entertained at luncheon in London yesterday by the Daily News, Lord Montagu and Beaulieu presiding.

It was announced that a private individual had found the entire money for the expedition.

Lord Montagu, speaking of the serious position of British aviation, said the end of 1922 would find the French with 226 air squadrons compared with Great Britain's 12.

Major Blake acknowledged the help afforded by the air ministry of the Canadian and other governments.

Major Blake plans to start on the round-the-world flight in a couple of weeks and hopes to complete the trip in two months. The route will be through France, Italy, Greece, Egypt, India, China, Jaapn, Alaska, United States and Newfoundland.

ANOTHER REVOLUTION

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 23. —Canadian Press—A revolutionary movement broke out here Sunday against President Diego, a band of rebels seizing Fortress Loma, commanding this city. Upon representations from the United States minister, John E. Ramer, however, the revolutionists later agreed to turn over the fort to the commander of the United States marines at ten o'clock last night, to be given back to the government.

REVOLUTION CALLED OFF

VIENNA, May 23. Canadian Press. — Apparently no revolution has taken place in Bulgaria. Belgrade advices and also the Bulgarian legation minimize the reported troubles. There have been conflicts only between the Communists and the Wrangel soldiers after a resolution was adopted by the communists demanding the expulsion of the soldiers.

ZITA IN SPAIN

MADRID, May 23. — Canadian Press — Former Empress Zita of Austria, accompanied by her children and her mother, the Archduchess Maria Theresa, arrived here today., King Alfonso, the Queen Mother, and the Princes, and the Premier and Foreign Minister met Zita at the station. She had luncheon with the royal family at Pardo Palace.

GENOA RESULTS TOLD THE HOUSE BY CHAMBERLAIN

ATTITUDE OF U. S.

LONDON, May 23 (Canadian Press). — Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader in the House of Commons, yesterday told questioners in the House that a Blue Book on the Genoa Economic Conference was being prepared, and would be available to-day.

Mr. Chamberlain said steps were taken informally, through the United States Ambassador in Rome, to inquire whether an invitation to participate in the coming work at The Hague would be acceptable to the United States Government.

ALLEGED INJUSTICE TO S. S. TRUSTEES.

Question of R. C. Representation on Education Boards in Legislature.

TORONTO, May 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Discussing the school estimates in the Legislature last night, W. F. Nickle, Kingston, brought to the attention of the Minister of Education a pamphlet issued recently by Bishop Fallon regarding alleged injustice of Roman Catholic representation on Boards of Education. He said the Attorney-General was reported as declaring in an interview that it was rank injustice that this practice should be continued. He wanted to know what steps the Government proposed to take to remove the alleged injustice.

Hon. Mr. Grant replied that the Attorney-General had denied that statement. The Government had not yet decided anything on the matter he added.

EMPIRE DAY.

It is well that in the schools of Canada to-day the children are being told something of the history and greatness of the British Empire, and are taking part in special Empire Day celebrations that will serve to impress upon them the fact that they are citizens of a great commonwealth of free nations, all loyal to the one king and linked together in bonds of patriotism. If it were not for the exercises in the schools it is to be feared that Empire Day would be meaningless and without value from a national standpoint, for we do not as a people pay enough attention to the significance of such occasions. July 1st, for instance, is to most people merely a holiday. The importance of Dominion Day, as the anniversary of the birth of Canada, is overlooked, and no attempt is made to emphasize what the holiday represents. In fact, new-comers to Canada would have difficulty in finding out just why July 1st was observed as a holiday. In the United States the national holiday, July 4th, is utilized most effectively to appeal to the patriotism of the people, and everywhere orators remind the citizens of the United States of what the day stands for. We could do with something of that kind on Canada's national day, but, failing that, the observe of Empire Day in the schools serves a very useful purpose, and it is to be hoped that the practice will be maintained each year.

A PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE.

Another step towards making Peterborough a healthy community was taken by the City Council last night when the offer of the Peterboro branch of the Red Cross Society to establish a public health nursing service here and to pay the salary of a public service nurse for the first year was accepted. The Council has agreed to provide the necessary office accommodation at the city buildings and to furnish telephone service, and while the city is not bound to carry on the work after the first year it is a certainty that after twelve months' operation of the system the Council will be only too glad to make the nursing service a permanent feature of civic activity. Judging by the experience of other cities, the benefit derived from the establishment of such an organization here, as shown by a year's trial, will cause a general demand for a continuance of the service. The work will not conflict in any way with the splendid service provided by the Peterboro Health Association, and in a large measure the duties of the public health nurse will be preventative. The generous offer of the Red Cross Society affords Peterboro a chance to try out the system at a minimum expense, and the thanks of the community are due to the Society for affording the opportunity.

BITING OFF TOO MUCH.

Quite a number of municipalities in Alberta and Saskatchewan are in financial straits. They cannot pay their debts. Interest falling due on bonds has not been met. In this situation the Provincial Government has come to their help, both with money and advice. They appear to have needed one about as much as the others; for the cause of their temporary bankruptcy has been declared by a competent authority to be "extraordinary expenditures on account of public utilities and municipal enterprises which experience has shown to be unsuited for public operation."

The utilities and enterprises which were undertaken in this hasty way are not specified; but a glance at the tax rate of some of these western municipalities rather suggests community life on a broad co-operative scale. Of course it has not worked. There are some things that may appropriately be undertaken as a public enterprise; there are other things that may better be left to private enterprise. In either case, success or failure will turn pretty sharply on prudent administration. That is to say, the right men in charge will win out while inefficient men will fail.

When an individual gets into trouble, if the experience does not do him good it may at least serve as a warning to somebody else, says the Ottawa Journal. These western municipalities had gone to the full limit of their taxing power, and the post-war pinch cut off enough of their revenues to make them insolvent. We have not had anything in the nature of repudiation among our eastern and long-established city governments, but we have had a good deal of the extravagance which leads up to that sort of thing. We should now have a sustained spell of prudence. It would help the taxpayer, and it would probably bring about improved administration of municipal business. Both are needed.

MUNICIPAL AMENDMENTS.

The bill introduced in the Ontario Legislature by Dr. McAlpine, M.P.P. for Brockville, with reference to the holding of municipal elections at an earlier date than now prevails, passed the House on Friday. This means that the new conditions are really law. Of course the matter of a change in the date for holding municipal elections is left optional with the municipalities. For years it has been asserted in this town that the holiday season was not a good time for holding the municipal elections. It was contended, and not without reason, that the last Monday in December and the first Monday in January did not attract people to consider the many municipal questions in the light in which such questions should be considered. Dr. McAlpine's bill will avoid such difficulties and have the elections earlier and give ample scope for the discussion of all matters of civic interest. The R. and T. believes that it would be a good thing for Brockville to give the matter a trial. Dr. McAlpine has done well to bring the matter before the Ontario Legislature and have a popular movement crystallized into law.

The section of the amending Act providing for the change in time of holding elections states that the council of any local municipality may by by-law passed not later in the year than November 1st, provide that the meeting of electors for nomination of candidates for mayor, controllers, aldermen, reeves, deputy reeves, councillors, and in urban municipalities for public school board, and board of education, shall be held on the last Monday of November, and the polling shall take place on the first Monday in December, and that the by-law shall remain in force from year to year until repealed.

"The council of every town, village and township in which the nomination meeting is held on the last Monday in November, and polling on the first Monday in December as provided by Section 73b shall hold a meeting on the 15th day of November in each year and shall immediately thereafter publish the detailed statement provided for by Sub-section 9 and a similar statement respecting the last 46 days of the next preceding year and the time for publishing, posting up, printing and transmitting the statements as provided by Sub-sections 11 and 12 shall be the 24th day of November."

"Where, owing to a decline or an advance in the rate of interest between the passing of a money by-law heretofore or hereafter passed, and the sale or other disposal of the debentures, they or any of them cannot be sold or disposed of, except at a heavy premium or at a discount involving a substantial reduction in the amount required to be provided, the council may, with the approval of the municipal board, and without submitting the same for the assent of the electors, pass a by-law to amend the first-mentioned by-law, by providing for a different rate of interest, and for a corresponding change in the amount to be raised annually."

—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

And now they want to abolish the use of fireworks on holidays. Somebody is always taking the joy out of life.

When 26,000 people turn out to see the King's plate run in inclement weather, it is evident, despite some of the solons of Queen's Park, that there is considerable interest in the "sport of kings."

"Hon. Mr. Raney has the next move," says a newspaper heading. There's a lot of Ontario folk who could tell him where to go when he moves.

The Ottawa "hikers" are complaining about their food. They got lots of practice in that kind of stuff when with the C.E.F.

Texas has had another lynching bee, and one more negro has been burned at the stake. No wonder the Orientals are somewhat doubtful of American civilization.

The proposal to increase the speed limit on Ontario highways to thirty miles an hour will not receive the support of the great body of motorists to whom the "speed fiend" is already an ever-present menace, says the Toronto Globe. Besides, the pedestrian has some rights.

WHAT DOES YOUTH KNOW OF SCIENCE

Los Angeles Times: A commission of medical scientists are going to study all the problems of the sex and marriage in connection with medicine. They are going to find out who should marry and why. Meanwhile young folks who simply face that science says they shouldn't. That is always the way. What does a beetle-browed scientist know about love?

WHAT IS THE AGE OF YOUTH?

London Daily Mail: In many respects this age is an age of youth, but it must not be forgotten that in the past exceptional men have risen superior to their tender years and have accepted the highest responsibility at a time of life when most young men are thinking only of enjoyment. William Pitt was but 24 when in 1783 he became Prime Minister, and Nelson but 21 when, in 1779, he was made a Post Captain.

THE MACHINERY IS TOO SMALL

London Daily Chronicle: The House of Commons also would become stronger and by far more efficient if it were free to attend mainly to the great national problems of finance defence and Imperial and foreign policy. It is vainly struggling with an ever-growing mass of business, much of which it relegates to committees whose proceedings are not reported, much of which it gets through without scrutiny. Those who complain of the autocratic ways of Ministers and the increasing feebleness of the House of Commons are only expressing the fact that the Parliamentary machinery is inadequate. Parliament cannot regain its old effective supremacy until it delegates some of its duties to subordinate Assemblies.

Voice of the People

RILEY'S ARMY.

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir—Having heard and read many slurs on the march of the workless soldiers, I thought maybe this letter would find its way and be read by those casting such slurs on the soldiers. One remark I heard was that "Riley's Army" was "waiting for Biggs to prepare the good roads for the boys to march on." Let me state right here that those boys marched on worse roads than those the inventor of that senseless phrase ... about. If some of the people in this city were to see about ... or twenty thousand Germans marching up George street, the likes of 'Riley's Army" would be the first persons to be called upon for help. And it was the likes of "Riley's Army" that prevented this happening a few years ago. When the Canadians were in France they always gained their objective, and these men are marching to Ottawa to gain their last objective.

Lots of people say the majority of these men are "bums" and never would work. Well, outside of "Riley's Army" I know a lot of "bums" (sorry to say, returned men, too) who would not walk across the street to ask about a job or a bonus, or anything else; but I'll wager when the bonus is distributed they will send their names in before you can say "Jack Robinson." I would like to know the name of any returned man who would refuse the bonus if it were handed to him.

It also seems peculiar that while so many returned men, and other men, too, are unemployed in Canada, subscription lists open up for starving Russians. And who is entitled to the help most, the starving Russian who practically betrayed Canada or the Canadian who fought and died that you and I may live? Charity should begin at home, and there is a lot of home work to do right here in Canada. Of course, these slurs on the soldiers come mostly from slackers who hate to hear anything relating to soldiers.

I was just reading an account by Canon Scott (Canada's most beloved padre) about a young soldier being shot for cowardice during the war, and he states that every slacker who hid away from the war should have been placed by the side of that soldier volunteer and shared his fate. It seems strange, too, that the chaplans who did their bit overseas from Peterborough were old enough to be some of the ministers' grandfathers who stayed at home to do their bit.

Well, I am not a member of "Riley's Army," but I sent my contribution along, and I wish them "over the top with the best of luck." I was lucky, thanks to my employer, who kept my job for me, and am doing very well, thank you.

I was surprised to read that the local officers of the G.W.V.A. are not interested in the march, but still I guess all returned men will be interested when the objective is gained.

Well I guess I have written enough this time and hope some of the people will stop and think before casting any more slurs at "Riley's Army."

"If we break faith with us who die
We will not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders Fields."

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Canadian Made

As a health builder, Royal Yeast is gaining in popularity every day. It is a food - not a medicine. It supplies the vitamine which the diet may lack. Royal Yeast is highly beneficial in cases where the system seems "run down". Royal Yeast is the richest known source of vitamines, and when taken into the system acts as a corrective agent. Royal Yeast Cakes are recommended for their purity and wholesomeness. It is the purest, the most convenient and economical yeast on the market.

Two to four Royal Yeast Cakes a day will work wonders. A full day's supply can easily be prepared at one time by using one glass luke warm water and teaspoon sugar to each yeast cake. Allow to stand over night in moderately warm room. In the morning stir well and pour off liquid. Place in refrigerator or other cool place and drink at intervals as desired throughout the day.

SAYS JAPAN DURING WAR SYMPATHIZED WITH GERMANY

Daughter of Former Camp bellford Pastor, Returned From Far East, Talks o f Conditions As She Found Them in Flowery King dom.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 23. —At the morning service yesterday in the Methodist Church Miss Edith Campbell, B.A., of Tokio, Japan, gave a most interesting address on "Japan." Miss Campbell outlined the history of Christianity in Japan, when fifty years ago a small church was started with one missionary. Previous to this, however, about 300 years, the Jesuits had endeavoured to establish Christianity in Japan. Today there are 2,776 Christian workers. The great International Sunday School Convention held in Tokio had greatly advertised Japan, as well as being a great inspiration to the people.

In regard to the political situation, Japan has changed tremendously in the past four years. During the war Japan, while outwardly one of the Allies, was really in sympathy with Germany. This military spirit is changing, due to the permeating influence of the gospel. The young students studying in Christian colleges have been inspired with Christian democracy and have denounced militarism. The speaker declared that men of prominence in Japan, some even non-Christians, are realizing what the gospel of Jesus Christ is doing for Japan, politically, socially and educationally. A great change has come over Japan since the 21 demands were made on China, which is evidenced by her difference in the treatment of the Koreans.

Miss Campbell also dwelt upon what it means to be a missionary, stating that while a missionary is generally believed to be sacrificing all when going to a foreign land, he is in reality gaining all—a broader outlook in life, a greater sympathy and love for humanity and a greater desire to spread the gospel of Christ to those who do not know Him. The speaker declared the opportunity in Japan and China is very great today.

Miss Campbell, who has spent twelve years in Japan, is a daughter of Rev. T. M. Campbell, a former beloved pastor of the Methodist Church here, and in her unassuming, yet forceful, manner she inspires her hearers with her own deep enthusiasm and love for her work.

Dr. Lilian Young and Mrs. A. L. Malcolm rendered a duet, "Love Divine," very sweetly, which added greatly to the service.

APSLEY HAD A GOOD RAINFALL

Will Help the Spring Seeding. A Church Parade. Apsley News.

APSLEY, May 23.— Last week's rainfall totalled 1.32 inches, and came just at the right time, most of the seeding in this district being about finished. The growth in vegetation and foliage the last two days has been phenomenal, and if no frost comes there will be a great crop of wild strawberries and huckleberries and other native fruits.

Grounds Improved.

A decided improvement has been made to the grounds at Lasswade school and the trustees are to be commended for their enterprise. A wire fence has been erected, which was quite an engineering feat, as there is only solid rock to build upon, but by dint of ingenuity and hard work, the difficulties were very creditably overcome.

A Church Parade.

The annual church parade of the Girl Guides took place on Sunday, the 21st, to St. Stephen's church, Chandos, and was attended by the Apsley and Chandos companies, led by Captain Marjorie Spence. The Guides atending were, from Apsley: Phyllis and Cicely Spence, Alma and Stella Jones; from Chandos, Laura, Minnie, Phyllis and Josey Tanner, Gladys Tanner and Hazel Campbell.

A Social Evening.

About 35 members and friends of the A.Y.P.A. spent a very pleasant social evening on Saturday at the parish room, the programme consisting of old fashioned round games, while the more seriously inclined indulged in whist and billiards. Refreshments were provided by Mrs. Spence and Misses M. Windsor and M. Oales.

HALIFAX EXPLOSION WRECKED HER NERVES

The reader will, no doubt, remember when a few years ago there was a collision in the Halifax, N.S., Harbor and one of the munition ships was blown up, causing great loss of life and laying a large portion of the city in ruins, and causing a great deal of suffering and distress among the inhabitants.

Mrs. Winfield Dill, now of Windsor, N.S., was living in Halifax at that time and went through this trying experience and the shock wrecked her nerves. She writes as follows: "I was living in Halifax at the time of the explosion, and it wrecked my nerves so that I could not do my housework. I would take such nervous spells I would be under the doctor's care.

I saw Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills advertised, so I took two boxes and they helped me so much I took six more, and now I am completely relieved. I can recommend them to anyone suffering from heart and nerve trouble."

R. SEENEY WAS KICKED IN FACE

Was Driven to Havelock, Where the Wound Was Dressed. Havelock News

HAVELOCK, May 23.—Mr. Roland Seeney of Round Lake, got his face badly hurt on Monday when he was kicked in the face by a horse, which he was turning out to pasture.

Mr. Seeney was driven to town and had the wound dressed by Dr. Holdcroft.

Funeral on Monday.

The funeral took place on Monday morning at nine o'clock of Thomas Armstrong of Chicago, who died of heart failure on Saturday morning last.

The deceased was in his 55th year and had been in ill health for some time and came to Havelock to recuperate, being the guest of his brother, Mr. Charles Armstrong, proprietor of the Armstrong house here.

The remains were taken to Norwood for burial.

He leaves to mourn his loss two daughters, who live at Seattle and were unable to get here to attend the funeral.

Beware of Tender Gums

Unhealthy soil kills the best of wheat. Unhealthy gums kill the best of teeth. To keep the teeth sound, keep the gums well. Watch for tender and bleeding gums. This is a symptom of Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

Pyorrhea menaces the body as well as the teeth. Not only do the gums recede and cause the teeth to decay, loosen and fall out, but the infecting Pyorrhea germs lower the body's vitality and cause many serious ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection. And use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

TOLD 10,101 LIES, HUGGED 49 WIVES---AND "ALSO RAN"

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—The trials of an unsuccessful candidate for public office were set out in the expense account of Patrick Dugan, who "also ran" for Republican precinct committeeman in the Republican primary, in his statement filed with the county clerk, as follows:

"I lost 139 hours of sleep thinking about the election.

"I lost two front teeth and a lot of hair in a personal encounter with an opponent. I donated four crippled shoats to a kosher butcher. I gave away two pairs of suspenders and one pair of shoestrings; paid $1.50 for advertising; gave away 13 baby rattlers, kissed 126 babies, kindled 14 kitchen fires, put up three stoves, walked 275 miles, shook hands with 4,076 persons, told 10,101 lies and talked enough to print 16 volumes.

"I attended 16 rivival meetings, one wedding and two divorces. I was baptized once by immersion and three times in some other way. I contributed $2 to foreign missions, made love to seven grass widows and three old maids, got stung by a flapper, hugged 49 other men's wives, got dog-bit, got butted by a billy goat and was defeated by an opponent because I was accused of being a high-binder. Total expense, $3.50."

BEADED GOWNS.

There seems to be a natural affinity between beads and georgette. These gowns are beaded in Persian and other eastern patterns.

Bright shades are used in colored and iridescent beads. Cut steel beads are most popular and one dress of dull blue georgette has a New York shop had an all-over pattern of cut steel beads, delicately lovely. Cut crystal beads are fashionable, too.

Georgette dresses for the most part are bright colored—orange, flame, orchid, red-brown or beige and depend upon darker panels or patterns of beading for contrast.

STATES IMPORTS BUT LITTLE FOOD FROM DOMINION.

Senator Refutes Idea That Farmers Lose Market to Canada.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(Canadian Press).—Senator Underwood of Alabama, one of the authors of the Underwood-Simmons tariff law, and one of the highest authorities on tariff on the Democratic side of the Senate, took occasion in recent debate on tariff measures to refute the idea that any large share of people of the United States are getting staple foodstuffs from abroad.

Senator Underwood in this connection pointed out that the imports of flour and other foodstuffs from Canada are extremely small, compared with the consumption in this country. He emphasized the fact that the notion is erroneous that a large population of this country along the seaboard is getting its foodstuffs and clothing from abroad and that other countries are taking away from the United States farmer a big market which the United States farmer ought to have. Senator Underwood was striking at what he deems the absurdity of excessive tariffs on food products. He said, too, that he had examined repeatedly into the question of competition of foodstuffs from other countries with United States foodstuffs.

After referring to the fallacious view that a vast population along the United States seaboard is being fed by imports from abroad, Senator Underwood, replying to Senator Gooding of Idaho, said:

"What do people eat in these cities? What are their principal foods? I am not talking about olives that they may get from Italy, or a few competitive products like lemons, where in New York the California lemons and the Italian lemons compete in the market; but taking the Senator's proposition that the great agricultural interests of the West are entitled to this New York and East Coast market—let us analyze that.

"What do these people eat, to begin with? They eat bread. Bread is made out of wheat or corn. I know of no importations of corn into America that amount to anything; crtainly not from Europe, because Europe is not a corn-producing country, and a tariff would not affect the corn at all.

"The wheat from the West is going every day to the Eastern seaboard, and they cannot eat wheat as such; they eat flour. I would like to have the Senator tell me now any place in Europe from which flour is coming to feed these people on the seaboard. If there are any such importations, I do not know of them.

"A little is coming from Canada, and a little of ours is going over into Canada, but mighty little wheat flour is coming across the Canadian line in proportion to the American consumption. The Senator knows, as I do, that 999 flour bags out of every 1,000 in the grocery stores of the Eastern market today are of American manufacture.

"We are exporters of flour; we are exporters of wheat; we are exporters of corn. Let us take the meats of the West. A little meat is coming to the California coast from Australia, and a little meat is coming from South America into the port of New York, but very, very little. I do not think that it amounts to one-tenth of one per cent. of the consumption of that market.

"You may go down the list of the other products. There may be a small amount of food products coming in from Canada, perhaps some little butter and milk, but not one-tenth of one per cent. of the American consumption.

"The market for that butter and milk is not a tributary country of the Western plainsman or the Western mountain man. It is a local product, grown locally. If you go through New Jersey you will see a chicken farm every quarter of a mile, nearly, the product feeding the Eastern market. That product does not come from the Western country, and outside of wheat and corn and meats I know of no products of the great Western country which go to the Eastern seaboard, because in the East they raise their vegetables and chickens and their meats and their butter nearer home, and it is idle to try and make the farmers of the West believe, by some hocus-pocus that this great population, which the Senator says amounts to 30,000,000 people, should pay tribute to them through a protective tariff. Levy your protective tariff as high as you want to; you can not collect tribute, because it does not lie there. It is not within your province to bring those things to them, and they will find it out some day, though they may not have found it out yet."

DECLARE OPEN SHOP.

ST. CATHARINES, May 23. — (Canadian Press.) — The master plumbers of St. Catharines yesterday declared "open shop" and set a rate of 80 cents per hour which the men refused, holding out for 82 1-2 cents. All the other building trades are back at work.

MARKED FALL IN THE PRICE IRISH PRODUCE

DUBLIN, May 23.(Associated Press)—There is a marked fall in the price of Irish produce and an increase of foreign competition with Irish produce not only in Briitsh markets but in Ireland itself.

The imports of food into Ireland are in many cases heavier than before the war.

AFTER THIRTY YEARS OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

SHE TURNED TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Mrs. M. Carlson tells how after long Suffering She Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Product, Sask., May 22. — (Special.) — Mrs. M. Carlson, a well known resident here, has given for publication the reason why she is recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills to all her neighbors.

"I suffered from kidney diseases for thirty years," Mrs. Carlson states, "Sometimes I could hardly work. I took about five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills which gave me relief."

"I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone who suffers from kidney disease or rheumatism."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are just a kidney remedy. They strengthen the kidneys and enable them to do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood.

If you are run down, out of sorts or suffering from that tired feeling that spring brings, ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills. Your kidneys require attention.

RUSSIA EXPECTS REVIVAL IN TRADE.

Based Upon Presence in Moscow of Foreign Capitalists.

MOSCOW ,May 23.—(Associated Press)—The Bolshevik government anticipates a great revival of foreing trade this summer. Those hopes are based upon the presence in Moscow of a number of German, Swedish and other representatives.

Up to the present time the accomplishments of these captitalists are unknown or incomplete, but there can be no doubt that important negotiations for German participation in the industrial restoration of Russia are under way.

German and Swedish locomotives ordered last year are now arriving in increasing numbers. There are rumors of important conferences with Krupp and other German firms which might lead to reconstruction by the Germans of all Russia's damaged railway rolling stock and repair shops.

Short term credits have been granted by German and Swedish firms for small orders. A number of shipments have been made on the basis of collections at the point of delivery.

"Cash against documents New York" the terms on which American firms have insisted in doing business with the Bolshevik government have been the stumbling blocks to several recent attempts by Americans in Moscow to place orders. The Foreign Trade Commission appears to be taking the stand that foreign firms should at least trust the Russians to the extent of sending them goods to be paid for at the point of arrival, while the American perhaps remembering cancelled orders in the past, want their money before they ship.

Furthermore, so far as these cancelled order and other previous dealings with America are concerned, the Soviet government apparently takes the stand that these are matters to be settled with the American government, when a trade agreement is effected and all past- differences are ironed out.

They seek to start new business with a clean slate even with the firms with which they have cancelled orders in the past and are surprised when such firms refuse them credits or insist on cash down payments. One American recently in Moscow seeking adjustment of an old contract and also new business said their attitude was like that of a private person who considered himself bankrupt, with all old claims wiped off, starting new.

One of the old contracts, involving about $6,000,000 which the Soviets declined to readjusts, was that of the Bobroff company in Milwaukee.

In spite of the fact that they realized the support of the National City Bank of New York might be great value to them, the Soviet authorities have declined to permit the representatives of this bank to come to Russia to recover the books of the bank's Petrograd branch which was confiscated in the early days of the Bolshevik revolution.

Powder-puffs, cigarette-cases, and coin purses are concealed in the handles of the newest parasols.

OUTFITTING OF MAJESTIC WAS A COLOSSAL AFFAIR

SOUTHAMPTON, May 23.—(Associated Press)—The outfitting of the liner Majestic, 56,000 tons, which made her maiden trip to New York this month was a colossal affair and quite on a par with her size, which is the largest in the world. Seventeen tons of blankets, 16 miles of sheets, 10 1-2 miles of bed covers were being utilized for the sleeping apartments.

For the dining rooms there were 19 miles of table cloths and 29,000 pieces of glassware. China and earthenware totalled 80,000 pieces.

The electro-plate and cutlery consists of 50,000 pieces with an extra 5,500 pieces for the French restaurant.

The crew of the ship will wear something like five and one-half miles of aprons during a passage.

FOR NEW STYLES AND PRETTY ARMS

Beauty Notes.

Women are fast learning the value of the use of delatone for removing hair or fuzz from the face, neck or arms. A paste is made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on the hairy surface. In 2 or 3 minutes it is rubbed off, the skin washed and every bit of the hair has disappeared. No failure will result if you are careful to buy genuine delatone and mix fresh as wanted.

THE EARLY WORM.

GENEVA, N. Y., May 23.—(Canadian Press).—Getting worms cost an early bird its life recently on the Geneva Country Club course when a golf ball in a low drive by F. W. Herendeen caught a robin as it rose from a tussle with a stubborn angle worm. Killing of the bird in this manner is especially unique, as similar incidents in golf annals record long high drives.

The robin was struck in the breast, its feathers scattering for a foot around. A big fat angle worm wriggled speedily to safety as the golfers approached.

"MAKE IT KNOWN."

When the cave man started drawing
On his little bits of bone,
He was telling someone something,
He was making something known.
And it's rather more than likely
He was trying to arrange
To dispose of, say, a stone axe
And get something in exchange.

When the next man started writing
On his little bits of clay
He was dishin up the story
In a diff'rent kind of way.
And it's rather more than likely
He was trying to describe
The advantages of dealing
With a member of his tribe.

They were element'ry people
With an element'ry plan,
But they laid a good foundation
For the modern business man;
And it's rather more than likely,
If you try the self-same way,
You'll be selling out tomorrow
What you advertise today.

MUST CARRY LIGHTS ON BICYCLES AFTER DARK

REGINA, Sask., May 23.—(Canadian Press).—The youth who disports a bicycle after dark without a lamp in Saskatchewan will have a new worry to contend with, as he is apt to be brought to an abrupt halt by the police wanting to know "Where is your light?" New Provincial legislation, which became effective May 1, requires all bicycles in the Province, as well as motorcycle, to carry lighted lamps, which must be bright enough to shed a ray at least 200 feet ahead. In addition, a red lamp or some reflecting device must be carried on the rear of all bicycles.

LESS GRAIN EXPORTED.

WASHINGTON, May 23. Canadian Press. — United States grain exports fell off by nearly one half during the ten months ending with April, as compared with the corresponding period last year, according to trade reports issued yesterday by the Commerce Department.

THE FUNERAL OF THE LATE THOS. ARMSTRONG

The funeral of the late Thomas Armstrong of Chicago, who dropped dead in the Armstrong House in Havelock on Saturday last, was held yesterday at 10 o'clock, to the Roman Catholic cemetery at Asphodel. Mr. Armstrong, who was visiting Canada for the first time in seventeen years, on a trip taken under physician's orders to benefit his failing health, is survived by two daughters, Anna and Genevieve, of Tacoma, Washington; two sisters, Mrs. W. J. Barrett and Mrs. O'Donnell, of Chicago, and three brothers, Charles of Havelock, Edward of Lakefield, and William J. of Lake street, Peterborough. Mr. Armstrong, who was in his 54th year, was predeceased by his wife three years ago.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, dgestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Henry VIII. Did Not Start English Church.

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., May 23.—(Canadian Press).—A committee of five Episcopal clergy and laymen, to urge that Public school pupils in New York City be not instructed that Henry VIII. started the Church of England, has been appointed by the convention of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Long Island.

The committee was instructed to put its plea before the superintendent of schools, the Board of Education and the Committee on Revision of History Text Books.

The convention held that there was confusion in the minds of pupils between the start of the Christian church in England, which they said was in the fourth century, and the split between the Church of Rome and the Church of England at the time of Henry VIII.

Rev. Frederic Stevens of St. Mark's in Brooklyn, who introduced the resolution which resulted in the committee, said:

"I recently asked a confirmation class of sixteen, 'Who started the Church of England?' Five of them, all Public school pupils, replied, 'Henry VIII.'

"The Church of England was started, probably about 31 A.D., by disciples who followed the teachings of St. Paul."

FORM A GENERAL FARM PRODUCTS POOL, ALBERTA

PINCHER CREEK, Alta., May 23.—(Canadian Press).—The formation of a general farm products pool is now under way by the local association of the United Farmers of Alberta for the handling of the 1922 crop. The Provincial Board of Directors have been instructed to proceed with arrangements for incorporation under the Provincial Co-operative Association Act. Under the proposed plan each member must bind himself to sell his produce to the pool for a period of five years. Shares in the pool will sell for $5 and one per cent. of the gross sales will be set aside for extension purposes. No decision has been reached yet as to whether or not the membership will be restricted to members of the U.F.A.

All farm produce will be handled under the pool system according to grade. Farmers in this district are said to be very much in favor of the scheme.

ALL CAN. FARMERS SHOULD HAVE ONE.

The Simplex Farm Record Leads to Success.

Farming, like any other business, cannot be made a success these days, in the true meaning of the term success, unless not only is the farm operated scientifically, but the cost of all labor and material, together with quantity and value of products systematically recorded. To get the best results from capital invested, and time expended, the cultivation of the soil, the stock breeder, the dairyman must by some efficient system of accounting know the why and wherefore of his returns from every operation in season, let them be one hundred per cent. satisfying, only fair, decidedly bad or indifferent. It is only by keeping a faithful record of cause and effect, cost and dividends from this, that or the other crop or stock or dairying, that the man who lives by the land can hope to reach the goal of unqualified success. Such a system of bookkeeping, for bookkeeping it is, may seem to the average farmer complex and difficult of accomplishmeit; but in reality, by adopting the Simplex Farm Record plan, devised by W. E. S. Walker, of Manitoba, keeping these detailed records are so simplified that no man with an everyday education and ordinary intelligence can fail to understand the method.

This Simplex Farm Record is an account book constituting the simplest, easiest and most correct system ever devised for keeping account of all farm transactions of whatever nature. For illustration, one page for wheat provides for recording the date a farmer sells it, gross bushels, dockage, net pushels, No. elevator check, price per bushel, grade and to whom sold; another section records cost of seed, labor, time expended, when sown and garnered, in fact every operation and expense in the handling of wheat. Similar provision for the same recording system for stock and dairying; for material purchased, trading deals, and consumption of product or purchased provisions and necessities, and cost of upkeep and depreciation of machinery is also found within the covers of this account book, which surpasses anything of its nature ever yet published.

The Simplex Farm Record for the farmer will simplify the complex pusiness for farm, save disputes, help its owner pile up a bank account, afford comparison of selling prices and costs from one year to another, record weather conditions throughout the years and resulting action on crops; and in general prove a hand guide on the road to success and prosperity. It also instructs its owner how to make out his own income tax, which not a few farmers fail in attempting.

This account book for all who live off the land and its annex lines of business comes highly recommended as super-perfection by leading farm, dairy and stock men, together with heads of agricultural colleges and departments of agriculture in the majority of Canadian provinces; and this in itself is sufficient evidence that the Simplex Farm Record is a system no progrssive farmer can afford to do without. It will quickly repay its cost many times over.

Just bear the foregoing facts in mind, Mr. Farmer or Dairymen, or Stock Breeder, when Garfield Ingram, representative in Northumberland, Peterborough and Victoria counties for this Simplex system calls on you, as he will one of these days shortly.

The first scientific training school for nurses was opened by Fliedner, at Kaserwerth, Germany, in 1836.

END OF WORLD NEAR, DR. HARDING INSISTS

President's Brother Predicts Second Coming of Christ.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—Dr. George T. Harding, Jr., physician of Worthington, O., and brother of President Harding, who is here attending the world conference of Seventh Day Adventists, predicted that the end of the world is close at hand.

"The indications from conditions in the world today all point to the fact that we are living in the time predicted by the prophets," declared Dr. Harding. "This time will immediately precede the second coming of Christ, in which all Adventists firmly believe. 'No one knoweth the day nor the hour when the Son of Man cometh.'

"The end of this phase of our existence is so near at hand that we must work rapidly, for our time is short."

Dr. Harding refused to predict positively that the world would come to an end before President Harding finishes his term of office. He indicated, however, that it is more than possible that such will be the case.

Dr. Harding is 17 years younger than the President, and was taught the Seventh Day Adventist faith by his mother, who became a convert late in life.

Memorial For Women Martyrs

ELSIE DAVENPORT

Erection of a national memorial for women who lost their lives in service for the World War is the objective of a body of women, headed by Elsie Davenport, who are organizing the American Women's War Memorial Association.

The idea for such a memorial was suggested by Miss Davenport, a New Yorker, to President Harding, who referred the matter to Adjt. Gen. Harris of the War Department. The result was governmental approval of the plan and the formation of a committee to take in hand the organizing of women interested in the project.

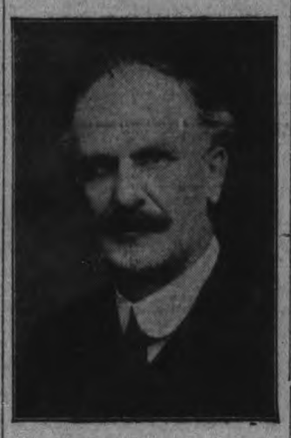
In order to make the memorial a really national affair the units of the association in various parts of the country, as they are organized, will have to interest their congressmen, who will present the plan in Washington. The unveiling of the memorial then will become a ceremony somewhat similar to the burial of the unknown soldier on Armistice Day, 1921.

American artists and sculptors have been asked to submit suggestions for the memorial, the base of which, is to be commemorative of the war work of all women and the surmounting figure or group a tribute to those who lost their lives.

Designs for tablets, which local organizations can have placed in their respective cities, also will be considered.

Miss Davenport has already been promised the co-operation of the American Legion, American War Mothers, Gold Star Mothers, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Defense Society and other organzations.

N. H. Cowan



New President.

The Confectionery and Chocolate Manufacturers of Canada evidently have big things in view for the coming year, for at the recent meeting of this association in Montreal, the members elected Mr. N. H. Cowan as president.

Mr. Cowan is the active head of the largest cocoa and chocolate manufacturers in the Dominion, being president and general manager of the well-known firm of Cowan Company, Limited, Sterling Road, Toronto.

Mr. Cowan, although only 40 years of age, has shown such signal ability in directing the fortunes of his own company, that under his presidency the confectionery and chocolate industries of Canada will undoubtedly show still further development and progress.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 23.—(Canadian Press)—Recoveries from yesterday late reactions in stock market due to flurry in call money were quite general at opening of todays session Independent steels and domestic oils were strongest features with coper transcontinental rails and coalers. Virginia Carolna chemical made up better part of yesterdays loss and Associated Oil was active at gain of 2 3-4 points. United Drug rose 1-3-4.

Opening rate of four percent for call loans seemed to foreshadow further stiffening of money rates with progress of session and prompted occasional realizing sales before noon. Aside from strong tone of independent steel, coppers and speculative oils, accumulation of Erie issues was striking feature. Gains of one to 2 12 ponts were made by common and first and second preferred also was strong and mon preferred shares Reading second rerenstative rails were featured by Union Pacific, Atlantic Coast line and New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

Standard oil shares were depressed later but bullish operations continued in low priced oil motors coppers, public utilities and steels. Republic steel extended its gain to four points. Kelsey wheel jumped five and New York, Chicago and St. Louis four points.

NEW YORK, May 23.—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange firmer; demand rate, Great Britain, 4.44 3-4; Canadian dollars, 13-16 of one per cent. discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 23. — (Canadian Press). — Opening wheat prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ½c higher, with May 1.33 3-4 and July 1.23 3-4 to 1.24 1-8, were followed by a little further upturn for May and then by a set-back all around to below yesterday's finish. Corn and oats were easy with wheat. After starting unchanged to 3-8c lower, July 63 3-4 to 64, the corn market declined a little for all deliveries. Oats started unchanged to 1 8 lower, July 38¼ to 38 5-8, and then suffered a slight general set-back.

MONTREAL STOCK MARKET.

MONTREAL, May 23.—(Canadian Press). — The general tone of the Stock Market at the opening this morning was towards lower prices. Of Paper issues, Abitibi appeared a quarter weaker at 52½, as did also Price Bros. at 43. Atlantic Sugar was another stock to sell a quarter below its yesterday's close at 22 3-4. Brazilian was particularly weak during the first half-hour to-day and sagged three-quarters to 48¼. Bell Telephone was fractionally stronger at 110½. Steel of Canada was quoted a quarter lower at 75½.

TORONTO STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, May 23.—(Canadian Press).—The local Stock Exchange was a very quiet affair during the morning session to-day. Brazilian at 48 3-4, a net loss of ¼; Sugar gained ¼ at 23¼, but Abitibi was off a point at 52½. Cement lost ½ at 65¼; General Electric was off 3-4 at 90, and Steel of Canada lost 1 at 75.

The committee appointed by Napoleon Hill's Magazine has awarded the Napoleon Hill Golden Rule Medal to Dr. B. J. Palmer, head of the Palmer School of Chiropractic, of Davenport, Iowa.

The medal is the first of a series that will be awarded to those who are rendering the greatest service to humanity based upon the Golden Rule. The purpose of the award is to popularize the application of the Golden Rule to business and industry.

The decision to award the medal to Dr. Palmer was based largely on the number of votes he received. He led the other three chief candidates by more than 150,000 votes, many of which came from foreign countries, Japan, Italy, England, Australia, New Zealand and Canada.

Woodrow Wilson ran second to Dr. Palmer and then followed Harriet Luella McCollum, the lecturer on Applied Psychology.

The Gold Medal was designed by the well-known sculptor, Adolph Wolff. On one side were the words: "The Greatest Among Ye Shall Be the Servant of All." On the reverse side, "B. J. of Davenport, for Serving the World Through Chiropractic."

Dr. Palmer's popularity was due to the spread of Chiropractict which was discovered by his father, D. D. Palmer, and developed by himself. Doctors of Chiropractic and their patients from all over America and from many foreign countries literally bombarded the editor of Napoleon Hill's Magazine with telegrams, letters and special petitions, requesting that Dr. Palmer be awarded the first medal, which convinced the Committee that he was the popular choice.

This is the first medal ever offered for service to the world based upon the Golden Rule. A similar medal will be awarded periodically as a means of directing the attention of the world to the possibilities available to all who apply the Golden Rule in their business and professional dealings. The plan was originated by "Golden Rule Hill," who began his career in the coal mines of West Virginia and gives the Golden Rule credit for his rapid rise to an influential position in American journalism.

"I am proud to see Dr. Palmer win the first Golden Rule Medal. It proves that the world is not slow to recognize and reward service that is based on the Golden Rule. My personal preference, perhaps, would have been for Harriet Luella McCollum, who is also delivering the Golden Rule Message to thousands of people, but the Committee felt that it ought to be guided by the wishes of the people, and Dr. Palmer's followers were so far in the lead that they could not be ignored.

"I believe the world war carried us into a new era of human relationships in which we will understand that it is expedient to apply the Golden Rule in all business transactions. Surely the war taught us the futility of combat and strife, and if civilization is to justify itself we are now ready for a spell of decent treatment of each other as we tarry by the wayside of life."

SORES SPREAD ALL OVER FACES AND HANDS

Mrs. Howard Hamelette, Waskatenau, Sask., writes:—"I wish to tell you of the benefit we have received by using your valuable medicine Burdock Blood Bitters.

My children started to break out on their faces in small white pimples which kept getting larger each day. Pus would form under the scabs and they would come off, and each time the sores would be larger; some were as large as a twenty-five cent piece and would spread all over their bodies. I was nearly in despair and sent to the village for a bottle of good blood medicine. The druggist sent me a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, which I commenced giving them at once.

In about ten days I saw an improvement and they grew steadily better each day, and in one month the sores had all disappeared."

All blood and skin diseases are caused by bad blood, and to get it pure and keep it pure you must remove every trace of the impure and morbid matter from the system by a blood cleansing medicine such as BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS a remedy that has been on the market for the past forty-five years, and one without an equal for all diseases and disorders of the blood.

COUNCIL ABANDONS

rison. "Answer that! If the City Engineer would have time to take charge of the work if it was done by the city, why wouldn't he have time to look after it this way?"

Ald. Stocker: "He wouldn't need to look after it in the same way. I intend to give it my personal attention for four months, if necessary until the work is finished."

Ald. Morrison: "Very good. That's going some. When Parsons isn't there, you'll be there."

Ald. McIntyre: "Mr. Parsons' time is too valuable to stay all the time inspecting."

Ald. Holloway: "Mr. Perks is there."

Ald. McIntyre: "Has Mr. Perks the time?"

Mr. Parsons: "No. If we were doing the work ourselves we would have a man who would be working for us and not for a contractor. There'd be no reason to skin us. You would have to have a man watching the contractor all the time."

Ald. Morrison: "Wouldn't you have to be there to give the grades and look after things like that?"

Mr. Parsons: "That's only a small part of the work."

Vote Was a Tie.

Ald. McIntyre's motion, seconded by Ald. Hamilton, that Mr. Parsons be authorized to engage an inspector was blocked by a tie vote. Those in favour of it were: Aldermen Stocker, Hamilton, Jones, Turner and McIntyre. Against: Aldermen Phelan, Holloway, Morrison, Gainey and Mayor Taylor.

With that the board adjourned, and a hurry-up call was sent for Ald. Crowe, who arrived for the Council meeting.

EXPECT BUDGET

ports somewhat more seriously than exports, and the result is that for the year ending with March last there was an excess of exports over imports, which is usually referred to as a favorable balance of trade. For the year 1920-21 the imports were $1,240,158,000.00 and for 1921-22 they were only $747,804,000.00; while for the corresponding periods the exports were $1,210,428,000.00 and $753,927,000.00, respectively.

Distinct Optimism.

There is a note of distinct optimism in another financial alteration which has taken place in the year under review. This is in the exchange rate as between Canada and the United States. At the end of March, 1921, New York funds were at a premium of nearly thirteen cents. Today the premium is ranging about a cent and a half.

Turning to the year that is now current, that is 1922-23, though the exchange and trade situation are showing an improvement, Mr. Fielding has a difficult problem in making ends meet in national finance. The main estimates already down are for $466,000,000.00, while the revenue for the last fiscal year was only $371,000,000.00. This indicates a deficit of about $95,000,000.00; but, in addition, there is likely to be a big decline in income tax and in business profits tax this year as compared with last. The decline in business profits tax is to be expected because that tax expired at the end of 1920; while last year's revenue from income tax, owing to the introduction of the system of payment at the time of making the return, included a large part of the taxes of two years. It is very likely that these two items may add forty or fifty millions to the sum which Mr. Fielding will have to raise.

To Fill a Gap.

Indication has been given already that part of the money to fill this gap will be secured by loans. Already one hundred millions has been raised in this way in New York. In addition, a domestic loan is expected in the afll to meet the Victory Loan of $184,000,000.00 and a school lands loan of $22,000,000.00 more, which are due this year. Mr. Fielding has also a special source of revenue in the payments of $5,000,000.00 monthly which are being made by the British Government in settlement of the balance of $130,000,000.00 due to Canada on the war accounts between the two countries.

Dish Towels and Aprons
Let Them Soak Clean in Rinso.

THEY should be CLEAN, shouldn't they, all those kitchen things—aprons, towels, dusters, wash cloths etc.? But there are so many and you are so tired! Alright, let Rinso wash them. It will—every stain and speck of dirt will rinse away after a good soaking in the cleansing Rinso suds.

Rinso is the new modern method for the family wash—but use it properly—do not pour the Rinso direct from package to tub—make the Rinso solution first as per directions on the package. Then it guarantees wonderful results.

IF YOU USE A WASHING MACHINE

Soak your clothes in the Rinso suds as usual—for one hour, two hours, overnight, or as long as convenient, add more Rinso solution and work the machine. Rinse thoroughly and dry—you will have a clean, sweet, snow-white wash.

Call-Letter System Helps To Shorten Radio Messages

Even though you know the wireless code, you may be puzzled by some of the signals being flashed from one station to another.

These signals, or letter combinations, form a seperate call code and should be learned as thoroughly as the dot and dash system. They help to shorten messages between stations.

Each signal it will be noticed, begins with a Q. That is the the introductory or warning letter for the actual message in the rest of the combination. A question mark after each combination changes its declaratory meaning to the correspond ing question.

The abbreviations, or "calls", that are used most frequently among licenzed amateurs and professional operators follow:

QRA—This is station ....
QRH—My wave length is ....
QRK—I am receiving well.
QRL—I am receiving badly. Please send 20 .....—.. for adjustment
QRM—I am being interfered with.
QRN—Atmospherics are very strong
QRO—Increase power.
QRP—Decrease power.
QRQ—Send faster.
QRS—Send slower.
QRT—Stop sending.
QRU—I have nothing for you.
QRV—I am ready.
QRW—I am busy. Please do not interfere.
QRX—Stand by.
QRY—Your turn will be No. ....
QRZ—Your signals are weak.
QSA—Your signals are strong.
QSB—Tone is bad. Spark is bad.
QSC—Your spacing is bad.
QSD—My time is ....
QSL—My time is
QSL—Please acknowledge.
QSP—Inform .... that I am calling him.
QQS—You are being called by ....
QSR—I will forward the radiogram.
QST—General call to all stations.
QSU—Will call when I have finished
QTA—Repeat.

BENJAMIN DISRAELI

Meyers smiled. "Still," he said, "there are limitations to the power of money?" He was addressing himself to Charles. "You see, my millions do not keep the daisies out of my lawn."

"No, sir," replied the Prime Minister, "but they give you the lawn."

Here Disraeli broke off the merriment, as he walked to the bell-pull.

"I want to introduce you to the excellent Mr. Foljambe," Disraeli said to Meyers, as he rang. "A very promising assistant of mine."

Meyers crossed over to Disraeli and said quietly.

"The money is on its way."

"From?"

"The Argentine."

"When will it arrive?"

"In three weeks. It's a large sum, but I have realized."

"Realized! Explain. I'm bad at business technique."

"Converted into cash, to be placed at my disposal in the Bank of England."

"That's rather humorous—" said Disraeli with a laugh.

Foljambe entered.

"Why?" asked Meyers.

"Nothing. I was thinking of Probert."

Meyers understood. There was a trace of sarcasm in his smile.

"Ah Mr. Foljambe! This is Mr. Hugh Meyers."

And to Meyer's, patting Foljambe's shoulder, Disraeli said:

"Such a worker! What is the precise sum required for the Drainage of London Bill?" Disraeli studied Foljambe's face, while Deeford and Meyers exchanged curious glances.

"I am afraid I cannot say, offhand, sir."

"Kindly look up the figures for me."

"Certainly, sir."

"You have the paper you know; the white one."

As Disraeli spoke, Foljambe bowed and stepped out.

"The Drainage of London Bill?" said Meyers puzzled.

"How unromantic!" exclaimed Charles. "And how disappointing!"

Walking to where Charles stood, Disraeli eyed him with a sharp look.

"Why?" asked the Prime Minister.

"I had hoped that Mr. Meyers had come on a much more important matter."

Charles stopped and looked at Disraeli.

"Oh! What?" asked the latter.

"The Suez Canal," said Charles enthusiastically.

Meyers glanced reproachfully at Disraeli and Charles looked from face to face only to realize that he had blundered.

"Indeed?" queried the Prime Minister. "Mr. Meyers shall we go into the next room?" Disraeli escorted Meyers to his "den" and returned to Charles. After studying the young man's face for a moment, he said:

"You are right, quite right. It is the Suez Canal. As you have hit upon the truth it is better I should tell you, that until I am ready—".

"—Not a syllable must be breathed on this matter. Is that clear?"

"On my honor, sir."

"Thank you, Charles."

And turning back to his den, Disraeli joined Meyers.

XIX.

Dr. Williams entered Lady Beaconsfield's bedroom in the Downing street house, in something of a hurry.

But if the doctor was agitated, he did not let that fact appear in his demeanor. Lady Beaconsfield was sitting in a chair, and the maid stood nearby.

"Bring some water, Alice," Lady Beaconsfield ordered and the maid went out. "Doctor, my heart seems to be fluttering—" Driving, again, Lady Beaconsfield?" asked Dr. Williams.

"Yes."

After a moment the doctor bent over Lady Beaconsfield with a stethoscope. While listening to the heartbeats, the doctor's face closely registered his concern.

"I wish you would be very careful," Dr. Williams said, as he placed his stethoscope in his satchel. "Your condition is little short of serious. I wish you would avoid all excitement and for a little while I shall have to ask you not to go driving. The slightest accident or alarming incident which you may observe may have a very bad effect."

"Very well, doctor. But promise me that you will say nothing to Dizzy about it. His thoughts belong, not to me, but to the Empire."

"I shall say nothing if that is your wish," replied Dr. Williams. "Don't hesitate to send for me if you need me. Good morning!"

As he passed out, Dr. Williams spoke to the maid:

"Be sure that Lady Beaconsfield is absolutely quiet. I would advise against her receiving callers for a few hours."

XX.

Charles returned to his desk. He was thoroughly dissatisfied with himself. Here had been his first opportunity to show his fitness for the diplomatic service and he had blundered like a schoolboy! Perhaps he had made a serious mistake in accepting the Secretaryship; surely, he had not justified Disraeli's expectations as to his special ability. He wondered what the Prime Minister thought of him at this moment—if he considered him worth a thought at all.

Deeford was in the midst of a deep brown study when Foljambe entered.

"Mr. Disraeli?"

"In there," said Charles, pointing.

"With Meyers?"

"With Meyers yes."

"Here are the papers," stepping nearer to Charles.

"Thank you," said Charles without looking up.

"Shall I take them in?" asked Foljambe.

"No. Give them to me."

"Will you take them in, my Lord?" asked Foljambe, as he stepped to the corner of the desk at which Charles was sitting and leaned far over it.

"Presently," replied Charles.

"That satisfies me that there was no special hurry for these particular figures," retorted Foljambe.

"Eh? What?" gasped Charles.

"Meyers wasn't sent for—for a paltry half million," said Foljambe.

"I'm very busy," Charles said, to get rid of the man.

"You are not too busy to be civil, I hope," said Foljambe.

Charles bridled up. He half rose from his chair when Foljambe bowed with a gesture of apology.

"I am sorry," he said, with an attempt at humble simplicity. "But it's rather hard when a chap tries to be of help only to find himself shut out at every step. How is one to keep from making blunders in a new employment under such circumstances?"

Charles remembered his own misstep. The thought softened him towards the other.

"But I can't see," he said, "why you should doubt Disraeli's word."

Foljambe lounged in a chair. Under ordinary circumstances, Deeford would have resented the strain of familiarity which Foljambe had managed to impart to the conversation. But he was sympathetic. And then, he knew that Disraeli mistrusted the man. Well, perhaps he would betray himself. It might be worth while to enter into a chat with him and draw him out.

"You see," said the clerk. "I have worked for other great men. They have a queer knack of trying to mystify people—even those that work with them and who should know all that's going on. Now Disraeli, if I am right, is playing you against me. To-day, he is taking you into his confidence and keeping me out in the cold. To-morrow I will probably be the repository for his secrets and you will do the guessing. This means that you and I won't trust each other—we'll watch each other jealously and you'll spy on me and I'll spy on you."

Charles raised his chin. "Mr. Disraeli needs no spies in his office," he said coldly. "At least, I shall never be one—and I rather think he would take it amiss if you became one without specific instructions."

Foljambe smiled.

"Let us see how it works out," he said. "Here I am, trying to make my way—I am poor, you know, and dependent on my employment. Naturally, I try to please. Naturally, too, I try to prepare myself against eventualities. Likewise, I keep my wits sharpened. I'll surprise you." The smile changed to a sneer. "Disraeli had you in his den a while ago. Would you be amazed if I told you what he talked to you about."

Charles' first impulse was to tell the fellow he did not care to pursue the subject. But then he remembered his resolution to find out what manner of man this Foljambe was and to become clear in his own mind whether Disraeli's suspicions were justified. Presently, too, it occurred to him that he was doing precisely what he had told Foljambe he would never do—spying. He colored to the roots of his hair.

Before he could formulate a rejoinder, the other resumed.

"You see, you are wondering even now how much I know. In other words, you are beginning to spy on me. Well, I'll make it easy for you to come to my way of thinking—that this business of mistrusting each other, just because Disraeli mistrusts both of us, will make things mighty unpleasant." He paused. Then lighting a cigarette, he said in the most casual way: "He talked to you about the Suez Canal."

"Well—"

Charles' hand flew up. He clenched his fist as if to strike. At this moment the footman entered and announced the Lady Clarissa Pevensey and Mrs. Travers. Deeford instantly mastered himself and said, as though dismissing Foljambe, "Thank you Mr. Foljambe."

The clerk walked towards the door of his office as Clarissa, followed by Mrs. Travers, entered and greeted Charles.

"Here's an invasion!"

Clarissa shook hands with Charles and both ladies returned Foljambe's formal bow.

"I am more than delighted," said Charles. "Make yourselves comfortable. Mr. Disraeli will return shortly. He is in his den."

Charles and Clarissa were soon engaged in merry conversation. Mrs. Travers, occasionally interrupting them with a laughing remark, strolled through the room. Presently, she trained her lorgnette upon the paintings of former prime ministers upon the wall. She made droll observations about their expressions, their garments, their stiff attitudes. Occasionally, she cast a covert glance at Foljambe. The latter, after cautiously looking in the direction of Charles, scribbled a few words on a small bit of paper, and crumpling it up, placed it on a pedestal propped against the wall near where he was standing. Having made sure that Mrs. Travers had become aware of what he had done, he bowed silently and entered his office, closing the door behind him.

Clarissa was regaling Charles with small talk.

"Agatha is staying in town with us on our way to Scotland. We came to take Lady Beacons eld out for a drive, but she is gone. Agatha wanted to see Mr. Disraeli's sanctum and, to tell the truth, I was dying to see how you looked in the throes of toil!"

"Oh—the throes of toil haven't undermined my constitution yet," Charles said, with laughter.

"We expected," said Mrs. Travers, placing Foljambe's note in her glove, "to find you with a wet towel round your head!"

"Thus far I have done nothing but look on," said Charles.

"I thought you looked worried when we came in," said Clarissa.

Mrs. Travers sat down in Mr. Disraeli's big chair. Clarissa's remark seemed to call for some explanation and Mrs. Travers intuitively felt that there had been a scene between the two men. But she was too shrewd to share her knowledge with Clarissa or to let Charles know that it might be well to be on guard against her observing eyes. So she said:

"Which is THE pen, Lord Deeford?"

"Eh? I beg your pardon?"

"The pen which is mightier than the sword!—Mr. Benjamin Disraeli's own pen," Mrs. Travers elucidated.

"Oh!" came from Charles. "Behold it!"

Lord Deeford handed her a very shabby quill.

With romantic admiration, Mrs. Travers said:

"Oh happy bird that bore this quill!"

"Yes, but that didn't prevent it being eaten at Michaelmas!" Charles rejoined and Clarissa laughed.

SYMPTOM OF LOVE

Bonny had given away her rouge pot and lip stick in mid-winter. Pallor, she exclaimed, is so much more conspicuous than rouge!

Her vivid blush, upon finding herself alone with Bart, slowly faded.

Bonny pulled her wrap over her bare shoulders, threw away her cigaret, listened to Bart. She became absorbed in what Bart was saying, quite unconscious of herself.

As long as a girl can put her mind upon the effect she is producing upon a man she is not in love. While a man can meditate upon what he can manage to get out of a sentimental situation he is not in love.

Said I to Me:

"Probably self-forgetfulness is the only reliable symptom of true love. Bonny is a child of poses and smart speeches. But at this minute she's wrapped up in Bart's scheme for the lights in this play. That flapper has actually forgotten herself! Bonny is in love!"

Bart was wearing an old khaki one-piece cover-all left over from his aviation days. And a startling contrast he made to the elegant little princess in her marvellous evening costume.

Probably George Bradshaw saw what I did in the little scene, and scented danger. He came up and took possession of Bunny. It seemed to me that he assumed the attitude which makes people comment before an engagement is announced.

Bart surrendered his place, asked Jeanne to go behind the scenes to see what a wonderful Viking ship could be constructed with canvas and a few strokes of heavy paint—if you knew how to manage the lights.

And poor Bonny simply had to conclude that Bart hadn't an atom of sentiment about her. He had made no effort to hold his ground. As soon as he was gone the tender shy Bonny vanished. With G. B. the girl immediatley became the hard, daring, bright-eyed little flapper—her vainest, her worst self!

"What a darling Bonny would be if she married Bart! And what an affected woman she will turn out as George's wife!" said I to Me. "Certainly human beings shape each other for better for worse. I wonder what I've done to Jack? And Jack to me?"

Quite unintentionally, as happens in a crowd, I overheard what George said to Bonny:

"At Main street station, then? At 7 in the morning!"

"Oh, why to-morrow, George!" Bonny expostulated. "Let's wait 10 days. Until after this play is over!"

"Now's the best time, girlie! Lately your father doesn't give me a chance to see you alone. How do you think I can get along without my little sweetheart? Tomorrow—you won't get home from the glee club dance until nearly dawn. Tell your maid to let you sleep until noon, then come to me. It's one big chance for us! And think what a row the papers will make about your elopement."

This idea evidently pleased the poor child. She agreed meekly:

"All right. You always have your own way, George!"

"Don't pass me up, lady-love!" George laughed conceitedly as if he were hinting the impossible.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CANADIAN BAR ASSN.

Will Be Graced By the Presence of Scottish Peer.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 23.—(Canadian Press).—The annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association, to be held in Vancouver and Victoria from August 16 to 18, is to graced by the presence of Lord Shaw of Dumferline, one of the most distinguished of the Lords of Appeal and former Lord Advocate of Scotland.

Much interest attaches to the announcement that the programme will include addresses by leaders of the bar of the United States and that representatives of the bar of France and other countries are also expected to attend.

The Canadian Bar Association was organized in 1914, and incorporated in 1921. The President is Sir James Aikins, K.C., of Winnipeg, and among the Vice-Presidents are included such outstanding figures at the Canadian Bar as Eugene Lafleur, K.C., of Montreal, and Isaac Pitblado, K.C., of Winnipeg. L. G. McPhillips, K.C. of Vancouver, represents British Columbia on the executive.

Your Storage Battery Needs "Food" and "Drink"

The battery in your motor car is a living thing. Like any other living thing, it uses up energy every day which has to be replaced by means of "food" and "drink". The "food" is the electrical energy with which it must be regularly recharged and the "drink" is pure water that should be put in every two weeks!

If you neglect the battery, it will starve to death or die of overwork. Then you will have a bill to pay for repairs or a new battery. There is only one safe way to treat your battery, and that is to have its condition tested faithfully twice every month! Regular attention and proper care will keep it in good health.

Have it Tested Here Twice a Month

The Willard Battery people voluntarily accept the obligation of caring for all makes of batteries impartially. They will help you to prolong the life of your battery. They invite you to drive to any Willard Battery Station twice a month and have your battery's "pulse" taken.

A trained service man will test the strength of your battery, put in water if needed, and advise if anything further needs to be done to safeguard the life of your battery. Remember, the service is for you regardless of the make of battery you have. It is prompt, courteous and well performed. Why not make use of it?

HOLIDAY BILL AT BALL PARK

Double Header Morning and Afternoon By City League Teams.

Victoria Day will be getaway day for ball leagues in the city and surrounding districts. A big programme has been prepared for the local baseball fraternity—the biggest bill put on here for some years. Eight teams will be seen in action at Riverside Park, two games being scheduled for the morning and a second doubleheader for the afternoon. Lock Works and Adanacs of the junior series, will play at 9.30 o'clock, and after seven innings, Raybestos and Classics will go for an Intermediate battle. If the dope runs true, these two games will be hummers.

After dinner, Lakeviews and Holy Name Society cross the willow in another junior contest, and this game will be followed by a league fixture between C.G.E. and Y.M.C.A.

These eight teams have scoured the city for players and have all fared well. A good deal of interest is centered on the Lock Works-Adanacs game, the latter teams having graduated from juvenile ranks of last season as the Bankers when they won local honors ad competed in the finals of the Ontario championship.

Classics come largely from the Mercantile league winners of last sumer, Bergoine, Cobb, Head, Hunter and other well known players are with the team. The Raybestos team are newcomers with a formidable line up that will take a lot of beating.

Lakeviews and Holy Name Society will have strong teams, having had a season in the juvenile division. Y.M.C.A. are back again with a new team, and C.G.E. return to the fold with a lively punch, in the flinging department, behind the bat around the bags and also in the garden.

Alex Kay will start them away with Ed. LeBar and Vern Morphet as assistant for the day. Mr. Russell of the Raybestos Club has presented an offcial league baseball to be used in opening the first ntermediate game. This "apple" will then be taken out of the festivites and presented to the winning team.

MLLE. LENGLEN RETAINS TITLE

French Girl Defeats Miss Ryan of California in International Finals.

AT BRUSSELS.

BRUSSELS, May 23.—(Canadian Press)—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen successfully defended her title Sunday to the international hard court tennis championship by defeating Miss Elizabeth Ryan, of California, in straight sets—6-3, 6-2. The French girl won in rather easy fashion, without having to extend herself.

Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Ryan won the finals in the women's doubles 6-0, 6-4 from Miss McKane and Mrs. Beamish of England.

In the men's doubles, Cochet and Boro, France, were victorious over Mishu, Rumania, and Dupont, France. The scores were 6-8, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3.

M. Cochet, France, won the singles championship for men by defeating Count De Gemar, Spain, 6-0, 2-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

When You Score

If a number of players assist in retiring a base runner in a play between the bases, each player who so assisted should be credited with one assist and no more, regardless of how many times they may have handled the ball in completing the play.

LINDSAY SLANT ON LEACUE GAME

Lindsay Post Warns the Rest of the League to Watch Peterborough.

Lindsay Post: The Central Ontario Baseball Association opened its 1922 season on Saturday under most dampening circumstances. Two of the four games scheduled were played. The other two were cancelled on account of rain. The two games played were carried on under most trying circumstances. Fortunately for the fielders, the pitchers bore the heavy burden in both games.

Lindsay lost to Peterborough because of the work of Heckman, the Petes' new twirler.

Oshawa lost to Leaside in a pitchers' battle between Patten and "Lefty" McGuire.

Lindsay's loss, of course, should not be taken as a criterion of the season. It was but one game of twenty-eight against one team out of eight. Heckman was the lenslouse. The Petes have secured a thrower that doesn't come with soap coupons. Neither has he come through love of Peterborough. But he is there, and the League are hereby warned to spruce up with their batting practice.

The Peterborough team, outside of the pitcher, is just ordinary, and not up to the scratch in places.

The Lindsay team showed up well in holding the opposition down to one earned run. Allin worked well, and Oulette held them scoreless from the fifth innning.

The brand of ball that the Central League is giving this year is certainly superior to past performances.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

When a ball is batted over the fence or into a stand that is the regulation distance, 235 feet from the home plate, for such a hit to be regarded as a home run, the umpire must watch the ball until it passes from his view, and decide it fair or foul according to where it was when the umpire last saw it. not matter how fair it was when it passed out of playing territory, the decision is based on where the ball was whe nthe umpire last saw it.

RUTH IS TEN RUNS BEHIND WILLIAMS.

NEW YORK, May 23.— (Canadian Press.)— This time last year Ruth had 12 home runs of his record string of 59 for the season. On May 25, 1921, he increased it to 13. As Kenneth Williams, his St. Louis rival, who played in the games against him yesterday, has been on a "home run" slump since coming east, Ruth is only ten markers behind the league leader.

LAKEFIELD WILL OPEN SEASON

Otonabee vs. Lakefield on the Lakefield Exhibition Grounds To-Morrow.

LAKEFIELD, May 23.—Tomorrow the Lakefield baseball team will open its season with an official league game with Otonabee. The new uniforms (gray and black and white) will be worn for the first time and it is expected that a large crowd will cheer the home team to victory. The game will be played in the afternoon at the exhibition grounds. The newly rolled diamond is directly in front of the grand stand which will provide ample accomodation for those who wish to sit and watch a ball game. It is almost certain that a local game will be played off also which will mean a double header and make a profitable afternoon for the fans.

Owing to the fact that there was "rain—no game", the laces of the baseball enthusisats have been a bit long but Sunday's sunshine means renewed hope for a good week to come.

A local league to play for the Lummis cup which was donated nine years ago by W. D. Lummis of the Cavendish Lumber Co., would not be a bad move as the baseball season is with us and so much enthusiasm has been shown in the games.

TO RENEW GREAT MARATHON EVENT AT FORT WILLIAM

The Ten-Mile Road Race, Stopped During the War, Will Be Run Again To-Morrow.

MANY ENTRIES.

FORT WILLIAM, May 23.—(Written for the Canadian Press by F. W. Edwards)—The Annual Times Journal ten mile road race, to be run here Victoria Day, May 24, has developed into one of Canada's most popular marathon events. Each year many entries are received from the leading cities of the Dominion Since the inaugurating of the race in 1910 by the DailyTimes- Journal of Fort William, the event gained popularity and was an overwhelming success. During the war the race was abandoned but in 1920 was again taken up with greater enthusiasm than ever before and now it is upon the threshold of being the greatest Marathon in Canada.

The course is one of the best of its kind in the Dominion and leads through the principal thoroughfares of Fort William and Port Arthur. It is a level stretch and is so marked that there is no danger of a runner going astray. Each year three magnificent silver cups are donated by the Daily Times-Journal. These trophies become the permanent property of the winners.

The list of winners since the introducing of this great event, follow: 1910—Time 57 minutes—First, J. E. Edwards, of Port Aruthur; second, Z. S. Chenier, of Port Arthur; third. Eric Smeaton, of Fort Willaim. 1911—Time 54 minutes, 50 seconds, the fastest time ever made over the course—First, Joe Keeper of Winnipeg; second, J. E. Edwards of Port Arthur; third, Z. S. Chenier, of Port Arthur. 1912—Time 58 minutes and 31 seconds—First, Alfred Cole, of Port Arthur; second, Fred Stanworth of Port Arthur; third, Z. S. Chenier, of Port Arthur. 1913—Time 56 minutes and 1 second—Joe Keeper, of Winnipeg; second, George Hepburn, of Winnipeg; third, Fred Stanworth, of Port Arthur. 1914—Time 56 minutes, 52 3-4 seconds—First, Ellard S. White, of Schreiber; second, George Hepburn, of Winnipeg; third, R. Gettins, of Winnipeg. 1920—Time 56 minutes and 49 seconds—First E. A. Lawrence, of Montreal; second, Arthur Wods, of Calgary, third, W. Selder, of Port Arthur. 1921—Time 58 minutes and 40 seconds—First, Frank Moran, of Fort William; second, Arthur Widnall, of Sudbury; third, J. W. Gibson, of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

In all these races there have been between twenty and twenty-five runners a moderately large field for such a run.

Local runners have been training for this year's race for the past month and a large number of outside competitors are expected.

FOOTBALL

The undecided cup tie between the Owls and the Woolens will be played May 30 with J. Clark again in charge.

For tomorrows game with Lindsay the local team will wear the colors of the Owls.

The C.G.E. team will practice on King Edward park on Thursday night. There will also be a meeting of the committee and players in the Chamber of Commerce rooms immediately after the practice.

C. Griffin, the Quaker's goalie is the only net custodian to have a clear sheet in the Peck Cup games.

AT RIVERSIDE PARK

There will be a big time at the Park all day to-morrow, with four games scheduled.

There will be a double-header in the morning, when the Adanacs meet the Lock Works and the Classics and Raybestos will tangle bats.

In the afternoon the C.G.E. and the Y.M.C.A. teams will show their wares, and the Lakeviews and Holy Names will be the other half of the double bill.

BIG DAY AT KEENE ON THE HOLIDAY.

Ball Game, Athletic Sports and Dance.

KEENE May 23.—Tomorrow the holiday will be a busy one in this locality. The business men have put up a silver cup for the winner of the Keene-Adanac Baseball game. A big program of sports will also be run off and in the evening the day will be concluded with a dance at which Cliddon's Orchestra will provide the music.

TO OPEN SEASON.

Warkworth baseball team will open the Intercounty League season at Hastings on 24th May.

Hastings has one of the fastest teams that has worn the uniform for many seasons.

Diamond Dust

Cobourg, your next.

* * *

The local Central Leaguers will leave for Cobourg at 10 o'clock tomorrow and indications point to the fact that there will be a lot of local fans go with them.

* * *

Babe Ruth has started again. He banged out his first homer of the season yesterday.

* * *

There will be lots of baseball for the fans who stay in town tomorrow. There are two double headers scheduled for Riverside Park, one in the morning and one in the afternoon.

* * *

The Giants have lost four straight now. They will have to start minding their P's and Q's or they won't be at the top of the list any more.

* * *

* * *

No one from the birds got around to third so Collins didn't have much of a chance to show his wares on Saturday.

* * *

Derry will probably be the slab artist for Cobourg tomorrow.

* * *

The Adanacs will play in the double header at the park tomorrow morning and will go to Keene in the afternoon where they will compete for a silver cup offered by the merchants of that village.

* * *

* * *

The Toronto International League team has had a pretty good rest now they ought to be able to go right in and climb up to the top of the list again.

* * *

The Knickerbockers of New York were the first baseball organization to come into being. They were organized in 1845. In those days the team who scored 21 runs was the winner regardless of how many innings, or hands at they were then called, had to be played.

MANY FANS TO GO TO COBOURG FOR BALL GAME

A Big Crowd of Local Enthusiasts Will See Petes Battle in Horse Show Town To-Morrow.

THE SAME LINE-UP.

The Petes journey to Cobourg tomorrow for the second game in the Central League series and from present indications every local fan who can beg, borrow or steal a ride to the Lakeshore town will be on hand when Umpire "Lefty" Mc Donald calls "play ball". The motor traffic along the new provincial highway promises to establish a new record for the section, judging by the number of car owners who intend to head their machines in the direction of Cobourg. Down in Art Kimmel's town they are arranging for a big afternoon's sport. The Kilties Band is to play, there is ample seating accomodation for a huge crowd and the Cobourg crew with a few new faces on the line up expect to beat the Petes for the first time since the Central League was organized.

The Peterboro team will leave for Cobourg at 10 o'clock tomorrow, the cars leaving the Water St. Bowling Alleys at that hour. The following players will make the trip Swanston, Ecobichon, Heckman, White, Kirn, Johnston, Holyman, Collins, Lowe, Shaughnessy Dugan, Soden, Hatrick and Manager Solomon.

BASEBALL NOTES.

The following Fire Hall Falcons are requested to report to Hiawatha for an exhibtion game with the Salvation Army Nine:

H. Cheu. J. Lebarr, F. Gray, A. Griffin, J. Smith, R. Levis, A. Feely, W. Northcott, B. Naish, M. McNeely, M. Parrington, S. Cohen, D. Lucas.

C. Warde will coach the game.

LINDSAY SOCCER PLAYERS WILL BE HERE TOMORROW

First of the Home and Home Games Scheduled For Nicholls Oval in the Afternoon.

THE HOME TEAM.

The first of the home and home games with the Lindsay football club will be played at the Oval tomorrow afternoon, and will start at 3 o'clock sharp. The Peterboro line up will be: C. Griffin of the C.G.E. goal; J. Young, of the Quaker Oats, right back; J. Chambers of the Canadian Woolens, left back; H. Burrows of the Owls, right back; S. McMillan of the C.G.E. center half back; W. Hurrle of the C.G.E. left half back; A. Mander of the C.G.E. outside right forward; W. McDougall of the Comrades, inside right forward; F. Dyer of the C.G.E., center forward; R. Hannah of the Owls, inside left forward; J. Sharman of the C.G.E. outside left forward. H. Burrows will act as captain. The reserves will include H. Mann, N. Crowe and J. Willshaw.

William R. Thompson will be the referee and J. Clark will be on the line for Peterboro.

The Knickerbockers won the first game recorded when they defeated New York 23 to 1 in four innings on June 19, 1846.

Hook-up of Single Stage Amplifier

BY R. L. DUNCAN,
Director, Radio Institute of America.

A number of amateurs are using receiving sets with a single vacuum tube detector. With little expense they could add an amplifier to this receiver and greatly increase their reception.

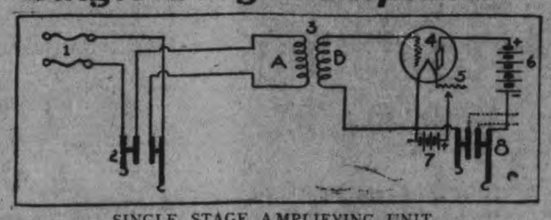
The diagram shows an amplifying unit which can be constructed for such a set.

No. 1 represents two wires leading from the telephone binding posts of the detector set to the input binding posts of the amplifier.

Telephone Jack.

No. 2 is a telephone jack, similar to the one used on a line telephone switch board. It may be purchased at a reasonable price in any supply store. The plug for the jack is attached to the telephone cords. When one wants to listen in on the detector only, he plugs in and cuts out the amplifying circuit automatically.

No. 3 is an audio frequency transformer. "A" represents its primary and "B" is secondary.



SINGLE STAGE AMPLIFYING UNIT.

No. 4—An amplifying vacuum or "hard" tube.
No. 5—Filament rheostat.
No. 6—A 45-volt "B" battery.
No. 7—Six-volt storage battery.
No. 8—Another telephone jack.

The six-volt "A" battery used for the detector tube may be used also for the amplifier.

Few Wires.

This set may be mounted in a cabinet about six or seven inches long and the same height as the detector receiver. Remember to have as few wires as possible. The vacuum tube socket is the same in the amplifier as in the detector.

Including an extra "B" battery necessary and the jacks, plugs, transformer, vacuum tubes and sockets, the cost of the additional parts for the set should not exceed $22.

Another step in amplification may be added in just the same manner, making the connection along the dotted line from the jack (No. 8).

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

No. 27—THE SUPREME COURT LEAK

(Copyright 1921, By The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

It did not need the report from Wall Street on the day that the Supreme Court Decision in the Southern Pacific case was handed down last December to convince William J. Flynn, Chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, that there was a leak in the carefully conducted considerations originated, or by whom it was utilized, was not known, but a chronological report of the operations on Wall Street showed that certain men had advance informations of the way in which big cases were to be decided, and they abused this information as a guide in playing the market.

The Southern Pacific case, however, brought matters to a head. Fully an hour before the Supreme Court made public its decision, a number of Wall Street brokers made investments on the right side of the market, and cleaned up thousands of dollars in the reaction following receipt of the Supreme Court announcement.

Determined to trace the matter to its source, Flynn redoubled his efforts to locate the leak, and finally got into touch with a prominent business man who stated that he had been approached for the loan of capital with which to play the market on the days when the Court decisions were to be handed down. This he had declined to do, and upon consideration of the matter in which the offer had been broached, concluded that it was his duty to put information at the disposal of the Department of Justice.

"That's just what I've been looking for," declared Flynn, as his informant finished his story. "But the question now is: Have you any proof of what you say? Oh, I don't doubt your word in the least," he hastened to state, as the other started to interrupt him, "but as I understand it, you were alone when this conversation took place, and we would have a hard time proving anything in court."

"How about pursuing the subject through a third party?" suggested the capitalist. "I'll have one of my men go to Washington, pose as a person of wealth, get into touch with the people who tried to rope me in on this, and you can do the rest."

Which was the reason that the register of the Hotel Williard bore the signature of one "William A. Neale, of New York," and that Neale spent much of his time in the office of certain brokers.

The plan worked precisely according to schedule—up to a certain point. Neale was approached with the same proposition which had been made to the New York capitalist, but the proposal was made in a place where it was impossible for witnesses to be present. In fact, the conspirators were apparently well aware of the risk they were running, and succeeded in dodging several traps which were laid for them.

Finally, following receipt of definite instructions from Flynn, Neale was suddenly taken ill. All details were carefully arranged, even up to the point of providing a doctor who stated that he suffered from pleurisy and a complication of other ailments, and the men who aimed to profit by the leak were forced to come to the sick man's room in order to confer with him.

It was only after the conversation had commenced and details were being discussed, that Neale noticed that his bed was situated at some distance from the telephone. Fearing that one of the Department of Justice men might call him from the outside and give the whole game away, the sick man requested that his bed be moved across the room to the telephone, so that he might put in a call later in the day.

Two of the men started to obey his instructions when they were suddenly halted by an exclamation from Neale:

"No, leave it alone! I've changed my mind. I'm too sick to move!" and with that he carelessly dropped his bathrobe over the side of the bed so that it would cover the floor-space which had been bared by the moving of the bed,—a space in which a dictograph had been concealed, and which Neale had forgotten in the fear that a telephone call might give him away!

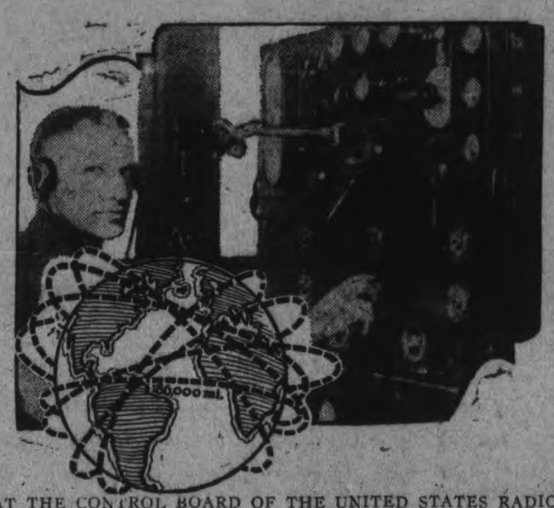
But, as it happened, none of the conspirators noted the move and the situation was saved.

The fact that the prohibition decision was not handed down on December 8th, as was anticipated, forced Neale to make a further play for time—for it was essential that the men be caught red-handed in the act of playing the market on tips which had been previously handed out. Accordingly, in order to prolong his "illness," he secured a bottle of whiskey which he sprinkled liberally over his bed and his clothing and strewed cigar butts about the room thereby providing the atmosphere of a prolonged spree.

"Couldn't have done it a bit better myself," muttered Flynn, as he took in the details of the stage setting. "If we don't nail that bunch to-day it'll be because there's something wrong with the dictograph."

"But the silent witness" did its work in masterly fashion, and in addition, Neale secured a memorandum of forthcoming decisions and the dates on which they would be handed down—evidence which was sufficient to lead Flynn directly to the sources of the leak, and implicate an official of the Department of Justice and one of the minor officers of the Supreme Court itself.

AROUND THE WORLD BY RADIO



AT THE CONTROL BOARD OF THE UNITED STATES RADIO STATION AT THE PRESIDIO, SAN FRANCISCO.

Around the world in a fraction of a second!

That's the amazing possibility offered by Radio—the flashing of a message to the farthest end of the globe almost instantaneously.

Radio waves travel as fast as light waves, sayscientists. That's 186,000 miles a second. Which means that a radio message sent from a point in the United States would encircle the globe nearly seven and one-half times in one second.

That is impossible by telegraph, because there is no direct line around the earth. It takes hours to reach a point where several cables are used in transmission.

It takes only about one-fifteenth of a second for a message to be flashed from the powerful Government station at the Presidio in San Francisco to the opposite side of the globe. This radio station has the equipment to do it, too. There are only a few others like it in the world.

France is building a radio station that, it is believed, will be able to encircle the earth with its messages. Another similar station is in the process of building on Long Island, New York.

Not satisfied with the earth, scientists are said to be experimenting on apparatus that they hope may flash signals to the moon and Mars.

MAGNIFYING VIOLIN

HAROLD STERN AND HIS "MAGNIFYING VIOLIN"

NEW YORK, May 19. —Radio has caused the invention of a special "magnifying violin."

It is the product of Harold Stern director of a New York hotel.

Stern has been broadcasting violin music from the large stations around New York, using his invention as the instrument. He says he made it especially for this purpose.

The "magnifying violin" is similar to other except for the body or sounding box. Instead of the body Stern has attached a cylindrical metal box out of which projects a horn.

When he draws the bow over the string, Stern says he gets a much louder sound out of the instrument. The lower tones are even superior to those produced on the regular violin, he adds.

Another surprising feature about this "magnifying violin" is that it can be used as a recording instrument during the radio concerts. All that need be done is separate the cylindrical sounding box and horn from the rest of the instrument and attach it to the telephone receivers.

BASEBALL

(By Billy Evans)

The infield fly rule was made to protect the base runner from being doubled up by having an infielder trap a fly ball. This is always possible with first and second, or first second and third occupied. Base runners are forced to hold their bases in such cases and a force play is offered at several bases. With only first base occupied a double play is never possible if the batsman runs out his hit, and that is what he is supposed to do. That is why the infield fly rule does not apply with only first base occupied.

When there are runners on first and second or first, second and third and les than two out and the batsman bunts a ball with the intent to advance the runners such an attempt is not regarded as an infield fly if the result is a fair fly ball.

The reason is that on such a play the entire infield is in motion is entirely out of position, and that balls easy to handle under ordinary conditions are impossible to make a play.

On such a play the first baseman dashes in with the pitch to handle a bunt down the first base line, the second baseman comes over to cover first, the shortstop takes care of second, the third baseman moves over to his bag for a possible force play, and the pitcher dashes over to the third base line to handle a bunt in that direction.

Thus the infield is all out of position, and a bunt that results in a fair fly is not regarded as an infield fly ball that retires the batsman because of the added difficulty in handling it, also the doubt that would always exist as to how the umpire might rule on it.

AT THE THEATRES

CAPITOL—'Bought and Paid For,' a William De Mille production, featuring Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt. Also Pathe News, Screen Snapshots, Topics of the Day and Snub Pollard Comedy.

REGENT — Very special, "The Bronze Bell," by Louis Joseph Vance, a Paramount picture. Also a Mack Sennett Comedy, and balance of an attractive programme.

ROYAL—Earle Williams in "Restless Souls," an exceedingly whimsical comedy-drama, together with a special First National serio-comic drama, "My Lady Friends," and other screen features.

Capitol Entertainment

Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt divide honors in the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of the week. As a telephone operator, the lovely star captures the fancy of a New York millionaire, who marries her and her family, the sister and the fat brother-in-law, Walter Heirs, who contributes the comic touch necesary to lighten the intensity of the action, which centers around the efforts of the girl who has been "Bought and Paid For" to maintain her self-respect to the man who has practically purchased her. When he commences drinking, she leaves him, and returns to the old working life. Just how the fat brother-in-law, who misses his two hundred dollar a week job, contrives to patch things up in the confict between two strong wills, makes a satisfactory finale to an interesting picture.

The serial "The White Eagle" provides several thrills for its audiences this week, leaving the heroine in a precarious situation at its close, and "Snub" Pollard in "Blow 'Em Up", is pursued enthusiastically by a group of bombing experts, seeking to blow him to smithereens. His adventures in the camouflaged bomb shop are as exciting as usual.

AT THE ROYAL.

To-day's programme is a carnival of fun and laughter, tempered by a breeze of romance and the love of a man for his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven play the parts respectively of a man and his wife in the first National feature, "My Lady Friends." This play smacks decidedly of the best comedies of French playwrights without being in the least degree "suggestive" in plot or situations. James Smith has made a fortune publishing Bibles, and Mrs. Smith, who has known poverty, declines to waste money on extravagance. James tries everywhere to spread sunshine in the lives of others. At different times he meets pretty ladies in financial distress, and establishes them respectively in studios of their own as artists and sculptress. This is done through purely platonic regard for the ladies. You often read of such men or see their kind on the stage. Each of his three lady proteges finds that Smith has purchased a villa at Atlantic City and, by coincidence each of the three writes Smith that she is going to visit him, their self invitations coming on the same date. Smith pays his lawyer a huge fee to intercept and stop his self invited guests. Mrs. Smith has heard of these ladies and, unknown to her husband, has employed a private detective who writes in Smith's name renewing, or rather sending each of the three an invitation to the villa, making the dates simultaneous. Mrs. Smith, unknown to her husband as she is supposed to be visiting friends, arrives the same day the three guests come. The three guests each demand a heavy sum to smooth their injured feelings when they find Smith is married and that Mrs. Smith is in the villa. Mrs. Smith finds that her husband's reagrd for the three ladies is purely platonic, settles with them in full, and a reconciliation is quickly effected between the couple. Then Earle Williams, one of the most noted artists of the screen today, appears in a whimsical and beautifully screened sparkling comedy feature called "Restless Souls." There is also a Mack Sennett comedy entitled "Be Reasonable" that is two reels of hilarity.

AT THE REGENT.

MERCANTILE FIVE-PIN LEAGUE.

Post Office Take Three Straight from Hamilton's.

The post boys sure did knock the old pins cuckoo last night, hitting over the 900 mark in each game. By the exhibition of play, they were strong enough for any team in the country. The Hamilton's lads were nearly shell-shocked, and sat in wonder to see how easy it was for their opponents to knock them over. Ballard hit 717, being high man by quite a majority, Devey next with 639, Fallon a close third with 630. Following are the scores:

HANDICAP TOURNAMENT.

Ten-Pins.

Bowlers are requested to wind up tournament this coming week, if possible. In the double event Robinson and French, Thomas and Routley, Shaughnessy and Gilliam, A. Miller and Byers, Roberts and Hayes, McDonald and Morden are left to play off. In the singles there are left to play off Byers, Garrow, McGee, Thomas, McDonald, and Routley.

ANSWERS TO APPEAL.

An appeal made during the latter part of the last week calling for assistance to purchase lacrosse sticks for the many youngsters in the city who cannot afford the necessary money to buy for themselves, has met with a generous response. Walter Smaill, who has volunteered to look after the sticks after they are purchased, had received $16 yesterday of the $36 necessary to equip two teams. The donors to date are: Mrs. C. Cressman, $5; Reg. Turner, $2; A. L. Killaly, $2; W. J. Thompson, $2; W. Comstock, $2; Dr. Edward Wood, $1; J. F. Linton, $1; J. H. Verner, $1.

P. J. Kelly, convenor of the Trent group of the O.A.L.A., has sent out a notice for a meeting in Campbellford on Wednesday, Victoria Day, to re-arrange the junior schedule for the admittance of Marmora, who will enter a team.

The Mennonites Move

(From the Minneapolis Journal.)

Half a dozen peanuts in an empty tobacco tin fell on the floor of a Soo Line colonist coach, which still bore marks of troop service during the war. A red-cheeked baby, with big, round eyes watched a little girl slide off a seat and pick it up. The little girl did not speak. The baby did not stretch forth its fat little hands for its improvised rattle.

Up and down the length of the coach other litle boys and girls sat primly beside their elders. None fidgeted. None played. They sat still as the train jolted on.

Their fathers and mothers were quiet. The men conversed in low tones in an odd German-Russian dialect, acquired in centuries of travel around the world. The women knitted, dozed or stared out the car windows.

It was a silent caravan that passed through Minneapolis late yesterday. On a new quest for a promised land devoid of war, but in coaches still bearing marks of war, 115 "Old Colony" Mennonites from Canada today are on their way south to what they hope will be a new Utopia in Mexico. With a party representing other Mennonite sects which passed through the twin cities in December en route from Saskatchewan to Alabama, they are blazing the way in the fifth great trek of th strange people who for 700 restless years have searched for a home where they may worship in peace.

Grim men, clad in homespun, unsmiling women with queer black headdress, they rode a special train of three colorist coaches and twenty-three freight cars loaded with live stock, poultry, household pets, farm implements, machinery, furniture, and foodstuffs.

Uprooted from colonies founded in the Dominion fifty years ago, they are leaving prosperous farms and spick and span homes in search for a land where they may be undisturbed by threat of war. This time their hopes are centred on a contract with the Mexican Government which says they will not be required to perform military service and that they may have their own schools.

Although the journey which carried them through Minneapolis yesterday will be the one great adventure in most of their lives, naught that savoured of the festive was permitted. The stern tenets of their faith were reflected in the iron discipline imposed.

Before breakfast at 6 a.m., the caravan conducts a prayer service and sings hymns. At nightfall, before retiring, a similar service takes place. * * *

Brother Herman Hildebrand, head of family of twelve, a man worth $200,000, who never has used a telephone or ridden in an automobile, is in charge of the train. He was one of two men in the group who speak English.

"We are the first to go to Mexico," he said. "Others are coming. We have sold our lands and homes, and bought new farms."

He refused to comment when asked to verify the report that 100,000 acres had been purchased from Mexico at a cost of $500,000, pretending that he did not understand, and walked away from his questioner. * * *

There were no newspapers or magazines on the train when it passed through Minneapolis nor was there any book except the Bible.

The only colour to break the black monotony of the clothes of the elders was furnished by the tiny embroidered flowers on the kerchiefs quaintly worn as bonnets by the little girls.

And there were no toys or playthings for the youngsters to while away the tiresome hours naught save one the empty tobacco tin containing half a dozen peanuts — a baby's rattle.

On 24th April a despatch to the Regina Morning Leader from Boston said that the Mennonites would be forced to abandon their Mexican venture, because of the intense southern climate, and return to their old homes in Canada, the start on the return journey to be made this week.

Germany has started a big "propaganda" to attract tourists to her pleasure resorts again.

What This Buffalo Physician Has Done For Humanity

The picture which appears here of Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., was taken in 1910. As a young man Dr. Pierce practised medicine in Pennsylvania and was known far and wide for his great success in alleviating disease. He early moved to Buffalo and put up in ready-to-use form, his Golden Medical Discovery, the well-known tonic for the blood. This strength-builder is made from a formula which Dr. Pierce found most effective in diseases of the blood. It contains no alcohol and is an extract of native roots with the ingredients plainly stated on the wrapper. Good red blood, vim, vigor and vitality are sure to follow if you take this Alterative Extract. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery clears away pimples and annoying eruptions and tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. This Discovery corrects the disordered conditions in a sick stomach, aids digestion, acts as a tonic and purifies the blood. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., and receive confidential medical advice without charge. All druggists sell Discovery, tablets or liquid.

Why 99 per cent Of People Are Constipated

Causes More Sickness In Spring Than Any Other Time Of Year.

You no doubt have taken all sorts of medicine with always the same results, only temporary relief. The reason you do not get any results is because none of the medicines you have taken acts upon the Liver. There is only one medicine known that acts upon the Liver, and that is Tanated Calomel. Doctors recommend that you take one of these tablets before meals or two at bedtime. This medicine acts upon the Liver, causing it to excrete ile into the intestines, giving a natural, easy movement of the bowels. A few hours after taking you will get almost instant relief from Headaches, Indigestion, Rheumatism, Constipation, Impure Blood, Kidney Pains, etc.

Tanated Calomel is harmless and easy to take. No salts or seidlitz are necessary after taking. It will be worth millions to people who have been sickly for years. It is also the best medicine for spring, when so many people are troubled with that tired, heavy, listless feeling. Get a few of these tablets from your druggist, F. C. Webber, Charlotte street, and you will be surprised how much better you will feel.

WORLD SHORTAGE IN TEA RESULTS IN HIGHER PRICES.

During 1919 and 1920 the greatly increased production and unlimited shipping facilities resulted in enormous quantities of tea reaching every market of the world. A consequent drop in price was the result. To stabilise the situation, the tea growers of Ceylon and India agreed to curtail production 20 per cent. in 1921. Since that time the demand has been constantly increasing and the price rising. The recent reduction of duty on tea entering England has further increased the demand, and the price is expected to rise accordingly.

THE HUSTON CASE BEING HEARD TO-DAY.

TORONTO, May 23 (Canadian Press).— When Commissioner MacIntosh resumed the investigation at Osgoode Hall to-day into the circumstances surrounding the death of Captain Orville Huston counsel for the Evening Telegram and the Canadian Pacific Telegraph Company asked for a stated case with regard to the production of the telegrams which had passed between the Telegram and its representative.

The Commissioner rejected the application, and counsel declared that they would carry their application to the Second Divisional Appellate Court next Monday.

The Commission adjourned until Thursday morning.

JUSTICE ROBT. FRANKLIN SUTHERLAND DIED TO-DAY.

RILEY'S ARMY AT PORT HOPE TODA

PORT HOPE, Ont., May 23.—(Special to The Examiner.)— Recurits are still flocking to the unemployed veterans' standard, twelve joining here. It is expected that one hundred will sign on at Belleville to join in the trudge to Ottawa, which means a far harder daily grind than holding down a job. The next stops over night are scheduled for Cobourg, Trenton, Belleville and Napanee.

A telegram was sent to Miss Agnes McPhail at Ottawa this morning, in addition to the three sent to party leaders last night. Miss McPhail's help as the official representative of the women of Canada was requested. The staff have planned a fitting celebration of 24th of May to-morrow in the form of field sports at their halt at noon at Grafton, an inspection of the force by the Chief and a silent prayer for the Great War dead.

THE LENNOX CHARGES CONTINUED TO-DAY.

TORONTO, May 23 (Canadian Press). — The investigation of the charges made by T. H. Lennox, M.L.A., was continued before the Public Accounts Committee to-day, and the North Essex member refused to give evidence until he had examined all his witnesses.

Attorney-General Raney referred to the serious charges made against Mr. Lennox by Frank Budway, and suggested that if they were not denied, action should be taken by the Law Society.

Asked by Wellington Hay, if it would not be advisable for Mr. Lennox and Mr. Raney to withdraw their statement, Attorney-General Raney said that in view of the attacks hurled at him by a "lying press," he wanted to give evidence. He gave categorical denials to the charges that he had employed "thugs and criminals," offered to release liquor at Fort Francis, or that Sutton raid was a "frame-up" to get Mr. Lennox.

PREMIER DRURY TIRED OF BEING SHOUTED AT.

TORONTO, May 23 (Canadian Press). — That he was tired of being shouted at and scolded at by Sir Adam Beck, was the declaration of Premier Drury this morning during the conference of the Provincial, Toronto and Hydro-Electric Commission authorities regarding the "clean-up" of the Mackenzie-Mann interests, in and about Toronto.

There were several times when a clash between the Premier and the chairman of the Hydro Commission seemed imminent, but the situation was always smoothed over.

Constipation

It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned, Indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.

OBITUARY

MRS. JULIA SCHOOLEY.

The death occurred at one o'clock this morning, at the residence of her son, Mr. Chas. Schooley, 450 Driscoll Terrace, of Julia Kelly, widow of William Schooley, in her 84th year. The deceased, who had been injured two weeks ago by a fall downstairs, was a native of Ireland. Coming to this country at the age of two years, she resided for the major portion of her life in Norfolk County, removing to Peterborough about a year ago with her son, Charles, with whom she has resided since the death of her husband, twenty-five years ago.

Mrs. Schooley is survived by four daughters and six sons: Mrs. Raymond of Aylmer, Mrs. Smythe of Tillsonburg, Mrs. G. A. Wodehouse of Hamilton, and Mrs. Wimmer, of Peterborough. The sons are: James of Louisville, Kentucky, John, Daniel, Joseph and Frank of La Salette, Ontario, and Charles of this city.

The remains will be taken on the 3.50 C.P.R. train this afternoon to La Salette, Ontario, for interment in the Roman Catholic Cemetery there.

DYE FADED WRAP SKIRT, DRESS IN DIAMOND DYES

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint her old worn, faded things new. Even if she has never dyed before, she can put a rich, fadeless color into shabby skirts, dresses, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, draperies, hangings, everything. But Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is guaranteed. Just tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wood or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods. Diamond Dyes never streak, spot, fade, or run.

Social Calendar

C. A. R. Armstrong, youngest son of City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, has passed his first year examination in the arts course at McGill University, Montreal, with second-class honors.

Mr. H. J. Neil of 697 George street will leave here tomorrow for his gold claims in the Arctic, after having had a very enjoyable nine months' vacation, part of which he spent in touring Southern Mexico and Cuba. Mr. Neil will leave Vancouver, B. C., on the 31st of this month for Skagway, Alaska, aboard the C.P.S.S. Princess Mary, and, with good luck all along the way, he expects to arrive at his destination (Mayo Lake, Y. T.) about the 15th of July.

Miss Pearl Eakins and Miss Lily Booth left today as delegates to the B.Y.P.U. convention in London.

Mrs. G. A. Wodehouse of Hamilton is in the city today, called here by the death of her mother, Mrs. Wm. Schooley.

The appointment has been made of Dr. J. H. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sullivan, of East City, as president of the staff of physicians at St. Joseph's Hospital, Hamilton. The Hamilton publication, which comments on this appointment, says: "From the very commencement of his practice in Hamilton, Dr. Sullivan has been one of the most active surgeons at St. Joseph's, with the welfare of the institution always at heart, and in numerous ways has been a tower of strength to it. He has co-operated with the governing body in very practical ways, giving the hospital the full advantage of experience gained in post-graduate courses taken from time to time in Chicago, New York, as well as the famous Mayo Brothers' clinics and hospital at Rochester, Minn."

Mrs. Wm. Armstrong and small son, of Toronto, are visiting Mrs. Armstrong's mother, Mrs. Adam Dawson, Donegal Street.

Mr. Jos. Clancy, 186 Dublin Street, went to Toronto on Saturday, where he has accepted a position.

Miss Charlotte Layton left on Sunday evening for Montreal, en route to her home in Truro, N.S.

Miss Daisy Davidson will have charge of the dance to be at Chemong Park to-morrow evening, under the auspices of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Melton announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Lilian, to Mr. J. H. Cridland, only son of Mrs. and the late Mr. F. Cridland, of 862 George Street. Marriage to take place at St. John's Church June 7th.

Miss Elizabeth Telford is spending a few days with friends in Toronto.

LLOYD GEORGE GREETED WHEN ROSE TO SPEAK

Opened Debate on Genoa Conference This Afternoon — The Foreign Policies.

THE ALTERNATIVES

LONDON, May 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Loud cheers greeted Premier Lloyd George when he entered House of Commons at 3.45 this afternoon for debate on foreign policies of government. Genoa formed text for debate and he declared that he would confine his discussion to that subject. Although peace had been declared in Europe, war atmosphere to certain extent remained. As for Russia it was hopeless for her, whatever her Government, to expect to extricate herself from the pit of squalid misery without assistance of other thirty nations. There were three alternatives in dealing with Russia. First was force which had failed. Second was to leave Russia to her fate. "But now", he asked, "could we insure Europe against risks that would involve Russo-German agreement shows sort of peril I mean".

Germany, said Premier could not re-equip Russia economically, not having the capital, but that was not the case with armaments as there was every natural resource in one country and complete technical skill in other. British delegation realized that it was necessary for peace of the world that assistance be given Russia.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 25.— (Canadian Press.)—Narrow price changes characterized dull and irregular opening of to-day's stock market. Independent Steels and Secondary Equipments reflected pressure, however, Midvale and Pressed Steel Car losing one point each. Foreign Oils as well as Industrial Alcohol, Allied Chemical, Division Chemical, Utah Copper and American Smelting featured the market's stronger side. Preliminary foreign exchange quotations continued firm on more cheerful advices from Paris.

Less favorable aspects of proposed steel merger provoked steady liquidation among those issues during the morning. Crucible, Lackawanna, Gulf, Republic, Sloss Sheffield and Vanadium sustained losses of one to two points. Most of the Domestic Oils and several of the foreign group reacted to the same extent, and Coppers, Chemicals, Shippings and Food Specialties lost one to 1 1-2 points. Among Rails, Pacifics, Coalers and several of eastern trunk lines, including New York Central, were under pressure. Only shares to show strong tone were Tobaccos.

Revival of speculative interest in shares which are not ordinarily very prominent in the dealings caused some notable advances. Meantime the recognized leaders fluctuated within a very narrow radius, but with the undertone steadier than in the morning. Burns Brothers and New York, Chicago and St. Louis First Preferred improved four points each, New York and St. Louis Second Preferred, 4 1-2, Willys Overland Preferred 3 3-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 25.— (Canadian Press.) — Opening wheat prices, which ranged from 1-4 to 2 1-2c. lower, with May 1.30 1-2 to 1.31 and July 1.22 to 1.22 1-2, was followed by successive breaks that carried May down to 1.28 and July 1.20 3-4; Corn and Oats went down grade in line with Wheat. After opening a shade to 3-8 lower, July 62 3-4 to 63, Corn market continued to sag. Oats started 1-4 lower to 1-2c. advance, July 38 1-8 to 38 3-8, and then suffered a moderate general setback.

MONTREAL STOCK MARKET.

MONTREAL, May 25.— (Canadian Press.)— Contrary to expectations inspired by Mr. Fielding's budget in connection with its effect on various listed stocks, trading on local stock exchange this morning was not marked by any variations in price quotations of sensational nature. A general decline, however, was noticeable.

The strongest issues to be traded in were Atlantic Sugar, up a half point at 24, and British Empire Steel, up a quarter at 11 3-4. Brazilian fell off a half to 48 1-2, while two declines) of 1 1-2 points each were registered in Dominion Textile and National Breweries to 152 and 56 respectively.

TORONTO STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, May 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Trading was a very low ebb on the local stock exchange this morning and the total was the smallest for many weeks. Steel of Canada closed at 73 5-8, loss of 1 3-8 on sales of 35 shares, City Dairy lost a point at 1.223, Bread 7-8 lower at 34, and Winnipeg Rail was 1-2 lower at 40 1-2. Brazilian, most active of the morning, opened lower at 48 1-8, a net loss of 5-8 from Friday.

TORONTO CATTLE MARKETS.

TORONTO, May 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Cattle market receipts 221. Trade poor. Quotations: Heavy beef steers $8 to $8.75. Butcher steers choice, $8 to $8.75. Butcher cows, medium, $5 to $6. Calves, $10 to $11. Lambs $11. Hogs, selects, $14.

Things Were Too Crooked For Sam

TORONTO, May 25.— (Canadian Press.)—Sam Smith, called by the Attorney-General's Department to prove that former Inspector Jefferies was not drunk during a raid in Hamilton, stated that he had left the Department because things were "too crooked there for me." He accused Accorian and O. T. A. Operator Cross of having been drunk when sent to assist him in a raid. He made several charges against Chief Inspector Ayerest, one being that one Applebaum, a "bootlegger," was a confederate of the Chief Inspector. He said that Applebaum was often visiting Mr. Ayerest. Mr. Ayerest denies the charges.

WORK RESUMED WARSAW DAM

Staff of Men Swinging Into Stride on West Half of the River.

The construction of the west half of the Nassau dam is beginning to gather momentum since the heavy equipment was recently set up for the excavation and haulage that will be an important operation in the preliminary work. Mr. George Kidd of Orillia, is the engineer in charge and Mr. W. H. Munro of Toronto, is superintendent. Both have had extensive experience in dam contracts, and Mr. Kidd is not unknown to this district having been engaged for some time at Campbellford.

At present some thirty men are dismantling the old raceway to the power house which the C.G.E. company vacated a month ago when the spring flood washed out part of the cribwork. Some of the labourers are now breaking up the rest of the crib, hoisting out the stones that filled it and lifting the timbers out of the way. Other men were drilling the concrete floor (cushion) of the raceway which had been laid many years ago to prevent the water from working up from beneath. This concrete bottom and the walls will all have to be blown out with dynamite, and eventually the old power house itself will disappear. C.G.E. employees are now dismantling the whole generating plant which for so long provided the electric energy used in the company's local shops. The generators are being stripped and the turbines which transformed the hydraulic power to electric are also being taken apart. For a time this detail of the work was made extremely objectionable by the remains of a lot of eels which were left stranded when the crib went out and tried to wiggle through the water wheels. The contract is being supervised by the Canal Department its local office of which Mr. D. Eason is superintendent engineer. At the new C.G.E. power house now on the east side of the river it was stated that it had been completed and ready for commission just in time. In fact it was rushed into use in the emergency without the preliminary testing and tuning up which it would probably have undergone, but the big machine has been maintaining its 120 revolutions a minute day in and day out without the sign of a flaw, an evidence of the efficient workmanship in the C.G.E. electrical production department.

THE WEATHER

May 24th for many years was known as the Queen's Birthday, and was almost invariably associated with what was known as "Queen's weather," beautifully bright, and warm (yet not too warm) weather. Yesterday kept up its good reputation and we had an ideal day for outdoor work or play. The highest the temperature reached was 79 degrees, the lowest 45 degrees. This is undoubtedly the most beautiful season of the whole year—all nature is now at its fairest. There is a freshness and greenness to the foliage of the trees and the grass and growing vegetation that will disappear later on when the leaves and grass become browned by the burning heat of the sun and the disfiguring work of innumerable insects and blighting disease. If you have eyes use them, admire Natures' panorama and be thankful you are alive.—W. P.

GOOD WORK BY KIWANIS CLUB FOR CHILDREN

Erect and Paint Dining Hall for Proteges of the Local Health Association.

YESTERDAY'S BEE

The Kiwanis Club put in a good day's work yesterday in the erection of the dining hall for the young proteges of the Health Association at Jackson Park. At 7 a.m., when the roll was called only the four corner posts of the building stood on the fine stretch of ground at the west side of the park, but at 5.50 in the afternoon the Kiwanians, perspiring copiously but still able to smile and sing "Never Mind," were able to lay aside their hammers and saws and view the product of their workmanship, a splendid structure of matched lumber, floored, roofed and furnished with tables and benches, and shining in its first coat of paint, Fulfil Pledge.

Victoria Day will be written large in the records of the club. Their pledge to the Health Association was fulfilled, and this summer 50 kiddies will use the dining hall put up at yesterday's "bee." At a future date the formal presentation of the building will take place. What the Kiwanians had to say about yesterday's job would fill a book and everyone from the president down is glorifying in a worthy achievement.

The 24th was no holiday for Kiwanis. At 6.50 a.m. there were 20 men on the job and at the peak-labor point during the day there were as many as 45. The members put in whatever time they could spare. The doctors, for example, were all on hand at 7 a.m., worked till 10 and made their calls, returning later on. Walter Stocker, who was a sort of ringmaster, saw that there was no shirking. Alex. Dick and Bill Barrie, both experienced in the building line, arranged the work, dividing the men into teams, and by arousing a spirit of competition, kept things moving all the time. Fred Roy took photographs of the work, showing how it progressed. At 11.30 the rafters were going up, and 5 p.m. showed the building complete.

Ladies Assisted.

During the day the ladies served piping hot meals. They were undaunted by any besetting circumstances and the incident of having to bring two camp stoves along on which to prepare the meals, was thought nothing of. A great many members to-day said that if it hadn't been for the encouragement of the ladies, material and otherwise, the job could never have been done in such record-breaking time.

EMPIRE DAY IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Prizes Awarded to Pupils in Essay Contest

Empire Day was honored in the Public Schools of the city on Tuesday. In the afternoon at 2 o'clock each school held an open air assembly and patriotic songs were sung and speeches on the significance of Empire Day delivered by prominent citizens. At the Central School the programme was featured by the presentation of the prizes awarded by the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. for the best essays on the subject, "Pioneer Life in Upper Canada. The contest was open to all the schools. Henry Zacks, Junior IV. class, secured first prize, bringing to Central School a special prize, a portrait of Joseph Brant, Chief of the Mohawk Indians, to be hung in the school. John Wyllie, Jr. III. class, won second prize. Those who won honorable mention were: Isobel Pogue, Gordon Pogue, and Rea Stinson. The prizes, which were pictures of historical interest, were presented by Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Regent of the Chapter. Appropriate addresses were made by Principal R. F. Downey, F. H. Dobbin and Rev. J. A. Mackenzie.

LLOYD GEORGE READY TO OPEN DEBATE ON GENOA

LONDON, May 25. Canadian Press. — Prime Minister Lloyd George was prepared today to open the debate in the House of Commons on the achievements at Genoa. His political opponents were also ready, and the Premier's replies to his critics is expected to be a feature of the debate.

Trenton Promises Recruits For General McDonald's Unemployed

COLBORNE May 25 (Special to The Examiner). — The successful march of Ernest McDonald's Army has resulted in further important developments.

An organiser of a similar movement in Montreal George Canabin, arrived here yesterday, and had a conference with McDonald. He promised at least 400 men to reinforce the present column in its march to Ottawa.

It is proposed that the Montreal contingent leave that city when the originals of the movement are within a hundred miles of the capital, thus being able to join forces just outside their objective.

At Trenton the present extensive unemployment makes the situation ripe for further reinforcements.

The advance guard, who have been busy recruiting at that point, report that from 50 to 100 are ready to join.

This brings the situation to a crucial point, for a large number of recruits might introduce an undisciplined element into the force at a time when the present veterans of the expeditions are just settling down as an organised unit.

The presence of Provincial Police officers, however, who have been with the column ever since its departure from Toronto, and McDonald's unique success with handling men under no obligation to obey him as a leader, will no doubt see the crisis safely handled.

More men are expected to join at Belleville and Kingston.

At the latter point a council of war will decide the route to be taken.

McDonald who had footed it every step of the way from Toronto at the head of his men rode the seventeen miles between Cobourg and Colborne under the doctor's orders.

THE MANUFACTURERS AFFECTED LOCALLY

What Peterborough Manufacturers Think of the New Budget--Sales Tax is Higher.

LOCAL COMMENT

Local manufacturers, interviewed with regard to changes in the tariff, as proposed by the Hon. Mr. Fielding, were of the opinion, as far as they were able to say from a perfunctory examination of the question, that the cost to the manufacturer of doing business would be considerably increased, and that, as one man expressed it, "the manufacturer is again made the goat. Why don't they turn around and tax the farmers a little more?" Still another man expresses himself as of the opinion that the Government is not doing much for the farmer; "they have given them two and one-half per cent. reduction in tariff, and then raise the tax to them by fifty per cent."

The Westclox Company, according to Mr. J. H. Vernor, will be affected in its building schedule, "very seriously." A large difference in cost is anticipated, coming suddenly on estimated contracts for the work. "We have been making an allowance for the sales tax," said Mr. Vernor, "and if we do not increase our prices, we will have to take the loss. With the falling market and upset conditions generally, this increase constitutes a handicap on business, but it is just one more whack at the manufacturers."

Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, speaking for the De Laval Company, mentioned milking machines, milk bottles and caps, with tinware for the dairy industry, as the main items affected in his industry by the changes. A reduction of five per cent. allows milking machines to come in that much cheaper to the country; milk bottles and caps are lowered by about 7½ per cent., with five per cent. reduction on tinware and cans. "The cost of doing business will be considerably increased by the two cents extra on each additional $50 on cheques amounting to more than $50, and the five cent. increase on telegrams." Regarding the increase of 50 per cent. on the sales tax, Mr. Breyfogle remarked that, instead of getting revenue through Customs, the Government proposed to get it through excise, "but the debt is immense, and they have to get the money in some way."

The Raybestos people, according to their pronouncement, are affected not at all by changes in the tariff. The increase in sales tax and in dues on cheques and telegrams are the only noticeable advances in their expenses.

Will Not Suffer.

The William Hamilton Company, according to Mr. P. Westbye, will not suffer to any great extent, outside of the increase in sales tax and the dues on cheques.

As one financial authority expresses it, the retailers will not be directly affected. The difference in manufacturers' taxes comes to them 'buried,' as it were, in the cost of the article, and eventually, the consumer pays by an advance in price to him. The sales tax on cheques affect directly, nearly every industry in the land, with the ultimate consumer probably paying the piper.

The profit which Mr. Fielding will derive from the one per cent. impost on bank circulation will be considerable. A bank recording a circulation of seven millions, say, would pay the neat little sum into the government of $70,000 annually. However, the banks, with their usual aptitude for distributing a burden amongst the staff, may get out of the difficulty by lessening the increases and bonuses. Something of the sort may reasonably be supposed to transpire. Another thing which will probably add to the joy or life behind the wicker cage is the consideration of the two cent tax on cheques over $50, with two cents extra for every fifty dollars or fraction thereof.

But a loud wail comes from the tobacco-consuming public. Increases on tobaccos will not be popular with this class of the community. Already, a certain manufacturer of a popular brand of cigarettes issues leaflets informing its patrons that "out of every 15 cents paid by the consumer for tobacco, over 7 1-2 cents goes to the Government in taxation."

Workless Tramp A Sacred Trust

COBOURG, May 25.— (Special.)—A local contractor offered six of the veterans employment on the breakwater that is being built here.

"Oh, no," they said. "This matter of going to the Capital was a sacred trust," they stated, "to which they had dedicated their lives, their honor was involved, and they would not desert the cause of the 450,000 they represented."

A wire to His Excellency the Governor-General was sent, asking his support towards the complete re-establishment of all the Byng boys. A wire was also sent to the Mayor of Ottawa requesting his support.

FULL PUBLICITY FOR ATROCITIES

Urged by De Valera That Exposure Would Lead to Peace.

DUBLIN, May 25. Canadian Press. —Eamon De Valera, speaking with newspapermen to-day, urged fuller publicity for the Ulster "atrocities" on the ground that the exposure of the facts to the world was the way to peace. There was a vicious circle of outrages and reprisals, he declared. The unionists were in the majority in the north east and he favored them having full local autonomy. He opposed coercing them but was equally opposed to having the minority coerced, and said that he would do all he could to prevent it.

BROCK STREET RINK CLOSES SATURDAY NIGHT

Very Fine Programs for Friday and Saturday Night's Skating.

The Roller Rink will put on an exceptionally good musical program for Friday and Saturday nights after which the rink will be closed for skating for the season. There will likely be two big crowds for the closing nights.

DON'T ASK RETAILER COLLECT SALES TAX.

WINNIPEG, May 25.—(Canadian Press).—"We believe in a sales tax provided they do not ask retailers to collect it," saisd J. A. Banfield, Dominion president of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, here yesterday. "We don't want to be tax collectors, but are quite willing to assume our share of the burden."

LAST PARTY OF DR. BARNARDO'S GIRLS IN CITY

For 40 Years Hazel Brae Has Echoed to the Sounds of Youthful Laughter.

TO CLOSE IN JUNE

Hazelbrae will soon be closed up. Sometime along the third week of June, the whole big place will be empty and silent. For nearly forty years now, it has echoed and re-echoed to the sound of young feet and young laughter, and here, doubt less, many a homesick youthful English heart has had its first glimpse of the chill of Canadian winters and the beauty of Canadian summers. And now the big place is being vacated. Even the cat, that, during its successive generations, made the house more home-like for arriving parties, is no longer there.

Last Saturday, the final party arrived in Peterboro; 22 girls, in years ranging from eleven to seventeen, the smallest party in the memory of the place. Perhaps the largest number came out in one party in 1911, when 175 girls arrived together. Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave at St. John's Church, extended a cordial welcome to the newcomers last Sunday evening, when he expressed the feeling of the church towards the young girls "from the country where people have warm hearts", saying that he was sure they would find good homes, experience Christian love and kindly treatment from all with whom they came in contact in Canada.

The Last Party

This last party, the rear guard of hundreds that have come and gone in years that are past, was a healthy happy-looking group, with the roses of England in their cheeks, bright eyes and cheerful faces. The Examiner representative arriving just at their tea-hour, there was probably a shade more cordiality in their "good-bye" than in their polite welcome, because, owing to a little unnecessary formality, they waited with empty plates until the visitor departed. The girl in charge of piles of thick bread and butter and other eatables hovered in the background in the interim, but the children chattered happily, one girl with a dark bobbed head relating stories that brought mirthful response from the group at her table. They had their first taste of ice-cream that afternoon, "Canadian castor oil", some of them call it, and are looking forward to sampling Eskimo Pie for the first time, during an afternoon walk, a horse drawing a buggy, which is not a common sight in England. They considered that the horse was much too big for its conveyance, which looked just like an "umbrella", they said. Mosquitoes, also, are a novelty, and a very unwelcome one, to the little ladies, the small pests taking advantage of the unsuspecting nature of the new arrivals to get in some good work in the pedal extremities. These girls are brought out for "domestic service", but many of them marry well, or work into other occupations. Their opportunities are unlimited in this free land. According to their guardian, Sister Smith, a travelled young lady, who spoke n terms of acquaintanceship of the bad habits of Polish mosquitoes, as experienced by herself, of work in war time in France, but who never yet had been to "America", as she called the U.S.A., all sorts of inducements are being held out to the Barnardo parties to emigrate to Australia, in preference to Canada, the Australian authorities paying passage of boys to their country.

First Stray Waif

The work of the Barnardo Homes since the Doctor discovered the first stray waif hidden under a barrel, has been going on since 1866, and first party of children sent to Canada in 1882. A book published in 1803, giving a brief review of the Homes, gives the sum of ten pounds as the entire cost of sending a boy or girl to Canada, placing him or her in suitable employment in Ontario, including outfit, rail fares and ocean passage. After a lapse of nearly 30 yers, the average cost of outfit and passage to Canada is placed at $185, an increase in that space of time of about 270 per cent. The cost then, (1893) of feeding, clothing, lodging and educating a child in the Homes in England was placed at ten pence, three farthngs per day. Now, the cost of the average stay in the English Homes, before being sent to this country; at least four and one half years, is placed at $700.

All the children, both boys and girls, will be sent after this, direct to the new Barnardo's Homes in Toronto, the War Memorial Building, situated at 538 Jarvis street, a beautiful establishment affording every convenience and comfort for the arriving parties.

Miss Maud Earl, an English artist, has painted the portraits of all the principal dogs of Great Britain including the pets of the royal family.

Graves Decorated I.O.D.E. Chapter

The 57th Regimental Chapter of the I.O.D.E. carried out the custom on Tuesday afternoon which it has faithfully observed for more than ten years now, of decorating the graves of soldiers in the city. Between 140 and 150 graves were marked with small Union Jacks in the Little Lake Cemetery by ladies of the Chapter, with Mrs. B. H. Poole acting as convenor, and Mrs. W. S. Merrill placed the emblem of their country over the last resting-place of twenty soldiers of the Empire in the Roman Catholic burying ground.

SIMCOE STREET HOUSE GUTTED

Chief Gimblett Believes Fire Was of Incendiary Origin.

A fire believed by Chief George Gimblett to have been of incendiary origin gutted the interior of a frame dwelling at 306 Simcoe street, early on the morning of the 24th. The alarm was received at the hall at 1.32 a.m. A man whose name the firemen have been unable to learn arrived at the hall on a bic ycle, giving the alarm. When the department arrived flames were pouring out of the west windows and the centre of the house was a roaring furnace. Two lines of hose were laid and Chief Gimblett led the men into the flames with the hose. After a hard fight the flames were subdued. The front room, staircase, and rear room on the west side were gutted and the damage estimated at $500 was extensive enough to make the repair of the building practically impossible. The house was empty, the last tenants having vacated on Monday. It is owned by J. Houlihan and the insurance held covered the loss. "It was of incendiary origin", said the chief to-day describing the fire. "The building was set fire to under the steps".

A fireworks celebration on Donegal street set fire to the roof of the home of Mrs. A. Dawson, at 10.55 last night. Several holes were burned. When the firemen arrived there was little for them to do as several pails of water poured on the roof by volunteer firemen had done the trick.

MUST SAVE THE ANGLO-IRISH PACT

LONDON, May 25. — (Canadian Press).—Newspapers to-day say the Anglo-Irish Treaty must be saved. There are indications of increasing anxiety, and even alarm, and suspicion, that the agreement between De Valera and Collins covers an intention to declare an Independent Republic continues unabated.

The Times and Mail emphasized that Britain will never tolerate the separation from Ireland, and elsewhere Sir James Craig's refusal to participate in the Boundary Commission is sharply criticized.

ALBERT SMOKE CAME THIRD IN ROAD RACE

In the road race from Oshawa to Bowmanville, which was the first event in yesterday's programme of sport at Bowmanville, described as the biggest day's sport ever held there, before a record crowd of 2,500 spectators, Albert Smoke, the Chemong Indian, now affiliated with the Gladstone Athletic Club, Toronto, won the third prize. Fourteen contestants started in this race, which was won by Moorecroft of Toronto, in one hour and fourteen seconds, with Dellow one hundred yards behind, and Smoke trotting in three minutes later. White was next, all four prize-winners being members of the Gladstone Athletic Club.

FOG DELAYED FLIGHT AROUND THE WORLD.

PARIS, May 25. — (Canadian Press). — Because of a slight fog this forenoon, there was some delay in the departure of Major W. T. Blake, Captain Norman MacMillan and Lieut.-Col. L. E. Brome, the British aviators who reached Paris yesterday from England, on the first stage of their attempted thirty thousand-mile flight around the world.

TO VISIT CATACOMBS.

ROME, May 25. — (Canadian Press). — Pope Pius was to celebrate mass in the Basilica of St. Peter's to-day before thousands of pilgrims attending the International Eucharistic Congress, which opened yesterday.

In the afternoon the delegates will make a pilgrimage to the Catacombs of St. Calixtus.

MUST INSTALL ANOTHER PUMP WATERWORKS

Need is Due to a Low Estimate of the Washwater Pump's Capacity for Peterborough.

WILL COST $4,000

An low estimate of the capacity of the washwater pump at the filtration plant installed by the filter company resulted in the Utilities Commission at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon, deciding to procure and install another pump at a cost of $4,000 or $5,000 as estimated by R. L. Dobbin, Waterworks Superintendent, William Kennedy, Jr., of Montreal, consulting engineer of the Commission, advised securing a new pump. An impeller which is a device to increase the capacity, is being installed by the company and Mr. Kennedy pointed out that if this did not work a settlement might be made with the contratcors.

Insurance Against Trouble.

The second pump will be valuable as an auxiliary and there will be no danger of the water service being interrupted when it is installed. The opinion of the Chairman, Robert Hicks, and Commissioners W. H. Bradburn and E. F. Mason was that the installation of the second pump was an insurance against trouble that might develop with only one pump.

Take Over Power System.

A letter read from T. H. Stinson, of Lindsay, in regard to the taking over of the Central Ontario power system by the municipalities marked another step in this direction. "I have received replies from Bowmanville, Cobourg, Port Hope, Peterborough and Lindsay," said Mr. Stinson, in reply to a recent letter of the Commission, "that they are willing to participate in a preliminary conference in connection with the above matter. I also had a reply from Oshawa stating that they are giving the matter consideration and will advise me shortly as to their decision. As soon as I hear from Oshawa we can then proceed to fix a date."

Map of Hydrants.

Mayor W. H. Taylor, on behalf of Fire Chief Gimblett, asked for a map of the water mains in the city and the hydrants. "It's a funny thing. Every fire chief that comes on gets a new map. Send him over to me, we'll fix him up," said Superintendent R. L. Dobbin.

Main for Westclox.

J. H. Vernor, superintendent of the Western Clock Company, and Francis H. Leleu, resident engineer, asked that the water service be extended 70 feet up Hunter street beyond its present limit for their factory purposes, and not 179 as first planned. It was resolved that the Superintendent be authorized to extend the main as requested, the Board of Health regulations to be complied with.

To Sod Embankment.

After some discussion it was decided to proceed with sodding the embankments of the reservoir and sedimentation basin of the filtration plant, which Mr. Dobbin in his report on improvements to the property at the filtration plant estimated would cost $1,550. He was authorized to prepare specifications and call for tenders for the work. A report submitted by the superintendent on the estimated cost of main laying last year and the actual cost showed that a saving of $2,000 was made on the estimates when the work was done.

Principal H. R. H. Kenner, of the Collegiate Institute, acknowledged the invitation of the Commission to the staff and pupils to visit the plant and said he would bring up the matter at an early date.

CAR BOWLED OVER TELEPHONE POLES

Two telehone poles were snapped off and a few slats pushed out of the end of a culvert on the Chemong Road, about two miles from the city, by an automobile owned by Mr. Reuben Wilson, an employee of Magee's Garage, Hunter Street, last night shortly before midnight. Bridgenorth people driving in this morning said that they were astonished at the evidence of a rampageous car, and wondered how many had been killed or injured. In fact, the customary gossip developed various accounts of a head-on collision that sent five persons to the hospital.

The car itself, as it lay in the ditch this morning, looked rather far gone, but Mr. Wilson was on the job at the garage.

FULL ACREAGE IN MANITOBA

The Weekly Crop Report Shows That Seeding is Progressing Favorably in Spite of Wet Weather.

WINNIPEG, May 25 (Canadian Press). — The seven-day period from 17th May to 23rd May has been satisfactory from a seeding standpoint over most of Western Canada, although local showers have caused some delay, states the weekly crop report of the grain trade news, issued here yesterday.

The present date is bordering very closely on the time that it is no longer advisable to risk sowing wheat, the report states.

Fortunately, splendid progress has been possible, and a full acreage of wheat is assured in Manitoba, an increase in Alberta, but a serious decrease in Saskatchewan, according to the report.

FOUR DROWN WHEN ENGINE EXPLODES.

WINNIPEG, May 25 (Canadian Press). — Four Winnipeg citizens were drowned at Lac Lu, near Kenora, some time on Saturday night, when the gasoline engine of their motor boat exploded, shattering the small craft and throwing its occupants into the water.

They were Alexander Thompson and Robert Charton, employed in the Weston shops of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Harold Hawke and Raymond Perry, employees of a local automobile company.

Up to noon yesterday no bodies had been recovered.

TEN KILLED AS SHIPS COLLIDE.

BERLIN, May 25 (Canadian Press). — The German battleship Hanover and the torpedo boat S-18 collided during night manoeuvres on Tuesday night, near Sassnitz.

Ten sailors on the torpedo boat were killed.

Not much was left of the German Navy under the Treaty of Versailles, but under the naval clause Germany was allowed to have six battleships of a specified type, six cruisers, twelve destroyers, and twelve torpedo boats, or an equal number of ships constructed to replace them.

PROBABILITIES.

FLYERS HOP OFF.

PARIS, May 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Major W. T. Blake and his companions who started from Croydon, England, yesterday morning for their flight around the world, arrived in Paris at 6.12 o'clock last evening.

The trip was uneventful. Major Blake will leave this morning for Lyons, which he expects to reach this afternoon, and will continue on to Turin after a brief stop, where he is due the same evening.

TARIFF RAISES PRICE OF BEER 5 CTS. A BOTTLE.

Imperial Tobacco Company Says Their Prices Will Also Take an Upward Jump For Cigarettes. Cheque Duty.

MONTREAL, May 25. —(Canadian Press.)— "The tariff has not been seriously interfered with," was the comment of C. Howard Smith, Provincial Chairman of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. He commented on the cheque duty of two cents on each additional fifty dollars, he said: "That is a stiff tax."

"The one thing we know is that prices will go up,' said W. J. Brennan, of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada Limited, in connection with the new rates on cigarettes.

Beer took a sharp upward turn yesterday following the tax of 15 cents epr gallon imposed by the budget. The price was increased from 15 cents to 20c. a bottle.

AMERICAN FREIGHT RATES REDUCED.

Expected to Affect Exports From Canada.

WASHINGTON, May 25. Canadian Press. — Large reductions in freight rates ord red by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday are expected to have an important bearing on importations from Canada and elsewhere.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC WAS VERY LIGHT.

TORONTO, May 25.—(Canadian Press.)— Contrary to expectations, holiday traffic on railroads was the lightest in many years, due in a large measure to the holiday coming in the middle of the week. Only one special was run during the day, the Grand Trunk operating one from Hamilton to Toronto last night to take care of extra traffic between the two cities.

POLICE HELD UP BISHOP OF DERRY.

DUBLIN, May 25. Canadian Press. — Ulster special constables held up the Catholic Bishop of Derry in his automobile yesterday. He was made to leave the car while the constables searched it.

NEW TARIFF IS ANNOUNCED TO FEDERAL HOUSE

Many Changes Will Be Made in Taxes Though None of a Drastic Nature

THE BUDGET.

OTTAWA, May 25.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. William S. Fielding in bringing down the Budget for the coming year, announced a number of changes in the revenue-raising taxes. None of the changes are of a very drastic nature, but are along the line advocated some time ago by Mr. Fielding to make conditions as easy as possible for industry and to levy taxes upon the finished product rather than upon the raw material

The following gives the Budget in brief:

Tariff reductions combined with increases in special taxes.

British preference increased on many items.

Few reductions on imports from United States.

Acts of last session regarding consular certificates, valuation for duties and limiting depreciation on foreign exchange to 50 per cent. are all repealed.

Sales tax increased by fifty per cent.

Tax of one per cent. imposed on bank circulation, in addition to income tax.

Five per cent. tax on premiums paid to unlicensed insurance companies.

Tax on cheques raised to 2 cents on each $50.

Tax on telegrams raised to five cents.

Taxes on tobacco, cigars and cigarettes revived so as to relieve cheaper brands and increase rates on more expensive.

Ale, beer, porter, etc., to pay tax of 15 cents per gallon.

Soft drinks taxed 10 cents per gallon.

Additional tax of 5 per cent. on autos up to $1,200 in value; above that, ten per cent.

Confectionery to pay tax of 5 per cent.

Tax reduced on matches in small boxes.

Customs rates on agricultural implements reduced by from 2 1-2 to 5 per cent.

Increase in British preference on sugar.

Duties on cocoa and chocolate reduced.

Reduction of 2 1-2 per cent. in duties on woollen clothing.

Collars and cuffs, reduction in duties of 5 per cent.

Boots and shoes, duty reduced by 2 1-2 per cent.

Reduction in duty on gasoline for fishing vessels, and on other fishermen's supplies.

Reduction of 2 1-2 per cent. in British preferential rates on cotton yarns and cotton fabrics, also on knitted goods, linen or cotton clothing.

British "movie" films to come in at lower rates.

Parts of pumps and iron tubing come in at reduced duties for mining industry.

Iron tubing and tools reduced for plumbing.

Window shades reduced 2 1-2 per cent., if British.

Import of many birds added to prohibited list.

Drawback schedule revised.

ABANDON FARMS.

OTTAWA, May 25.— (Canadian Press.)—Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Immigration, stated in the House Tuesday that there had been 2,252 abandonment of farms by soldier settlers.

The total amount of public moneys invested in the abandoned farms was $9,889,535. The amount invested in lands and buildings was $1,651,237. The returns received was $1,852,334. The amount invested in stock and equipment was $539,853, and the return received from the sale of this stock and equipment $376,466.

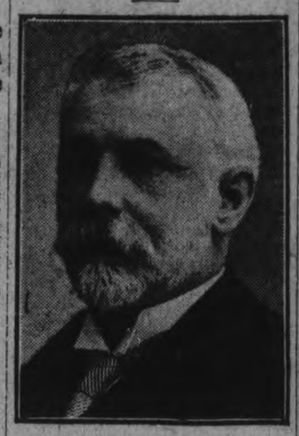
DECLARATION ACT RAISES STORM IN HOUSE WHEN UP FOR THE SECOND READING

Announces Tariff



Hon. W. S. Fielding

Attorney-General Raney is Up in Arms to Protect His Bill and Collect the Racing Tax.

THE OPPOSITION.

TORONTO, May 24 (Canadian Press). — The debate on the second reading of the Bill which enacts that no injunction can stand as against the Crown, any Minister of the Crown acting in that capacity or any official acting under instructions of a Minister of the Crown in such capacity, developed into a legal battle of a very high order in which many of the lawyer members of the Legislature took part. It covered the constitutionality of the original Bill, which imposed a 5 per cent. tax on race track winnings, the rights of the Ontario Jockey Club, which made application for an injunction against the Government collecting this tax, the wisdom of Mr. Justice Middleton in granting the injunction, as well as the constituionality of the Declaratory Act now up for second reading.

In moving the second reading, Attorney-General Raney took the position that the injunction questioned the supremacy of the Legislature within its own jurisdiction. If it were allowed to pass unnoticed, any citizen could, at the discretion of the judge, hold up Provincial laws by applying to the Courts for an injunction until that citizen could test the validity of the law in the Courts.

The Attorney-General read a number of authorities to show that the law had already been that an injunction could not stand against the Crown, and he resented the statement that he was a "little Canadian." He said a little Canadian was a man who regarded Canada as a colony and this Legislature is nothing more than a glorified County Council. He did not take that view. He viewed Canada as a nation and this Legislature as a sovereign body within its own jurisdiction.

Referring to the accusation that this Bill was contempt for the judiciary, Mr. Raney reasserted his esteem for the judges, but he did not think that prevented him from questioning the wisdom of some of their judgments. It would be a sorry day for democracy when a member of the Legislature or the press of this country could not express themselves in the most clear and definite terms against any pronouncements of the Court. He took as an example the criticisms of the findings made yesterday in the Merchants' Bank investigations, expressing his sympathies with the criticisms.

Mr. Dewart argued that the 5 per cent. tax was an indirect tax, and as such could only be levied by the Dominion Government.

W. F. Nickle (Kingston) thought the tax was a direct one, but maintained that it should be left to the Courts to decide this point. He explained that the Declaratory Act was an effort backed by a majority of the members in the Legislature to declare that Mr. Justice Middleton's decision in granting the injunction was wrong, and that the Attorney-General's opinion on the matter was right.

The member for Kingston personally favoured the tax.

GOVERNMENT TO CLEAR LAND FOR NEW COLONISTS.

Quebec Province is Going to Clear 15 Acres and Build House and Barn For New Settlers.

MONTREAL, May 25 (Canadian Press). — Practical aid to colonists by means of clearing a portion of their lots is intended by the Provincial Government, according to an announcement made here yesterday by Edmond Robert, the newly appointed colonisation agent at Montreal, and formerly M. L. A. for Rouville.

LAKEFIELD LADIES WILL HOLD DANCE.

Ladies' Branch of Athletic Association Will Stage Gala Affair.

LAKEFIELD, May 25. — The ladies' branch of the L.A.A.A. are giving a dance in the Riverside Pavilion on Friday evening of next week. The plans are being carefully made to make it a real success and as a special attraction prizes are offered for the best fox trot, waltz and one step.

Grounds are secured for sports, basket ball and croquet, and the girls are now looking for a croquet set which might be loaned for the season.

This promises to be a busy season in athletic circles.

W. Sherin Ill.

For the first time in 21 years W. Sherin did not preside at the nomination in Lakefield. On Monday evening, Mr. Robert Duff occupied the chair owing to Mr. Sherin's absence, and expressed his deep regret at Mr. Sherin's illness. It was however gratifying to learn that his condition was decidedly improved, and that before long he will again take his accustomed place in the life of the village.

Lecture in the Town Hall

There will be a lecture in the town hall at 8.15 on Sunday evening under the auspices of the Lakefield School Board of Captain Laing representing the Navy League of Canada. Captain Laing is a most interesting speaker and his lecture is well worth hearing. There is no admission fee.

SLUMP IN PRICES FEATURES FIRST SALE OF CHEESE

In Spite of Holiday Peterboro Cheese Board Held Opening Sale and Disposed of 385 Boxes at 12⅛ Cents.

Three hunderd and eighty-five boxes of cheese were sold at the adjourned sale of the Peterboro cheese board yesterday morning. Through some hitch the keys to open the Chamber of Commerce rooms were not on hand and the sale was held in the hallway in an informal way. Some of the officers, salesmen and buyers found seats on the stairs and other points of vantage, but they were lucky. Those who came late had to stand. There were no preliminaries other than the appointment of Secretary E. Hawthorne to represent Peterboro on the deputation that will wait on the Minister of Agriculture in Ottawa on May 30th asking that grading be continued at the factories, and the Grading Act be held over for the present. Belleville, Picton and other boards in Eastern Ontario will be represented.

The following factories boarded cheese: Warminster, 70; Selwyn, 35; Villiers, 45; Warsaw, 30; Ormonde, 52; Young's Point, 45; Lang, 13; Norwood, 70; Killarney, 25; total, 385 boxes.

J. S. Cook of Belleville started the bidding at 11 3-4c. G. A. Gillespie, the only other buyer, and Mr. Cook made his choice at 12 1-8c. One year ago the cheese sold at about 15 1-2 cents. All the factories answered "yes" at once when asked if they would sell, excepting Villiers. The salesman said he would let them know later on. "You're going to bust this boy up if you monkey on this way every week," commented the Belleville buyer. Villiers finally assented so Mr. Cook took everything excepting Norwood, Kilarney and Lang which went to Mr. Gillespie at the same price. Mr. Gillespie said he thought he could place the 13 cheese Lang had, locally.

Various experiments different factories are making come to light at the sales. The Norwood salesman reported that they were going to paraffine the cheese instead of wrap it.

"I don't think for export it is a very good plan although I can't say I have heard any objections," said Mr. Gilespie.

"They kick like blazes in England about them," remarked J. S. Cook.

"I think for local sale they're all right," said Mr. Gillespie.

BRITISH OFFICER IS SHOT IN EGYPT.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Wilfred Cave, a British officer, assistant Commandant of Police here, was shot and killed today while returning home from a bicycling trip.

Six bullets of different kinds were found in the body of Mr. Cave, proving that there was more than one assassin. No arrests have been made.

Cave once belonged to the bodyguard of Viscount Milner, former British Secretary for the Colonies.

EMPIRE DAY IS NOT A HOLIDAY IN GT. BRITAIN

Day is Being Observed in the Schools More of Recent Years Than Was Formerly the Case.

A TAG DAY.

LONDON, May 25. —(Canadian Press.)—Empire Day has never been celebrated as a public holiday in Great Britain, largely, no doubt because Whit Monday, which for more than half a century has been a statutory public holiday, generally falls prey close to May 24. For the last ten years or more, however, there has been a steady advance in celebrating Empire Day in the schools, the children being assembled, the flag saluted, and addresses on Imperial responsibility and privilege delivered by teachers or some visitor of more or less distinction. To-day was no exception, school celebrations being held all over despite the blazing heat.

Even these celebrations have met with a certain amount of opposition from those who fear the inculcation into youth of an aggressive military spirit, or at any rate distrust any demonstration of "big drum thumping." These objections, however, have largely disappeared now, a happy circumstance due without doubt to the moderate manner in which promoters of Empire Day celebrations in the schools have pursued their activities.

London's big demonstration takes place Saturday in Hyde Park. The feature of yesterday in the Metropolis was a huge tag effort on behalf of London hospitals, which for a long time have been in a woeful financial condition. Extreme efforts are being put forth to preserve the voluntarny system of maintaining such institutions and yesterday's tag collection brought an enthusiastic response. It is estimated £25,000 was collected by noon.

FRIDAY, MAY 26TH, 1922.

VICTORIA DAY.

May 24th has always been one of the most popular Canadian holidays, due not only to the fact that it commemorates the birthday of the beloved Queen whose long reign was marked by the great progress made by the British Empire, but also to the fact that it is the first of the summer holidays, and in a sense is the beginning of the summer season. Being an athletic people, Canadians naturally utilize the holiday to the best possible advantage, so far as healthful sport is concerned, and so from one end of the Dominion to the other yesterday, in city and town and hamlet, there were ball games and lacrosse matches and football games, and an outpouring of people into the open air. The first picnics of the year were held, and automobiles carried thousands to the lakes and river resorts of the Dominion, and the whole population benefitted by the long hours spent in the open. The only regret is that the holiday came in the middle of the week, and in this connection the suggestion is receiving hearty support that Victoria Day, instead of being held on the 24th of May, should be celebrated on the Monday preceding that date, as a week-end holiday not only would give people the maximum amount of enjoyment, but would also cause the minimum amount of dislocation of business. There is considerable merit in the proposal, and The Examiner is confident that a change such as outlined would be endorsed by the majority of Canadians.

THE LENNOX CHARGES.

Mr. W. F. Nickle, M.P.P. for Kingston, hit the nail on the head at Tuesday's session of the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature when he declared that the committee was not concerned with whether T. H. Lennox had been unethical or not in his conduct as a lawyer, but that the point was whether or not the charges made by him in regard to the Ontario Temperance Act could be proved or refuted. That is the case exactly. The public is not interested in the fight between Messrs. Raney and Lennox except inasmuch as it serves to throw some light upon the operations of the Ontario Temperance Act. The people want the facts, and they care very little about Mr. Lennox's opinion of the Attorney-General or the latter's opinion of Mr. Lennox. The real issue is much more important. It is whether or not the Ontario Temperance Act is being satisfactorily and efficiently administered, and whether or not the officers entrusted with the carrying out of the law are not only energetic but reliable. Grave charges have been made, and they must be shifted to the bottom, and the people of Ontario want them to be shifted. Regarding the whole question as a personal fight between the member for North York and the Attorney-General is to completely miss the issue.

STANDARDIZING "O CANADA."

At the Rotary Club luncheon the other day it was reported that the Vancouver Rotary Club was endeavoring to have a standard version of "O Canada" adopted. Other organizations have taken steps along this line, and it is to be hoped that the attempt will succeed, for at present there are numerous versions of this splendid patriotic song which has crowded "The Maple Leaf For Ever" out of the running as Canada's national air. The result is that when a public gathering is called upon to sing "O Canada," one section sings one set of words, another defiantly roars out a second, and the majority content themselves by humming the verse and coming in very fortissimo on the words of the refrain. A notable example of the confusion caused by the multiplicity of versions of the National Anthem was afforded during the concert of the Scots Guards Band, and Lieut. Wood, the conductor of that splendid organization, must have been surprised at the manner in which "O Canada" was sung at the conclusion of the programme. Just before the patriotic number, "Abide With Me" was played by the band, and the big audience sang the favorite old hymn as if inspired, because everybody was familiar with the words, and the contrast between the rendition of this number and "O Canada," which followed it, was striking. If the Vancouver Rotarians are successful in securing a standardization of the anthem they will have performed a very useful public service.

THE PIRATE ON THE SCREEN.

The astounding spectacle of the American Government preferring a charge of piracy on the high seas against an eighteen-year-old youth who is said to be the leader of a gang of pirate boys, and whose raids have been occupying the attention of both the British and the American naval authorities of late, directs attention once more to the dangerous influence of the movies upon impressionable youngsters of both sexes, says the Montreal Star. In too many cases judges in juvenile courts have been able to trace this or that crime attempted or committed by boys and girls still in their early teens to the example set by some sensational film.

It is a very difficult thing to combat such influences. One way would be the extension of the production of pictures intended specially for children. These might well deal with historical and geographical subjects, and could easily combine entertainment and instruction.

The community motion picture house is going to be a more potent influence in the future than ever, and upon those who undertake the selection of films exhibited at such houses a grace responsibility rests which they cannot shirk by denying it. Public opinion given effective articulation can do much in the direction of improvement. But so long as children of any age are admitted to witness deeds of crime, desperation, illicit love, and other sensational material on the screen, so long will misguided youth strive to gain in actual life the experience the melodrama on the silver sheet suggests.

THE MERRY MONTH OF MAY.

Who can withstand the witchery of May, the merry month of May, this month that seems the very embodiment of joyous life! Birds are singing everywhere, and as one looks out over the city from a high office window, with clouds of tender green foliage screening all that may be unsightly, one feels that it is a pretty good place to live in, particularly in May.

How the poets have revelled in May, with its inevitable associations of youth and love and beauty and abounding vitality! "Love whose month is ever May," says Shakespeare, and "Maids are May when they are maids," and again, "In the very May-morn of his youth, ripe for exploits and mighty enterprises," or better still, "As it fell upon a day in the merry month of May." By the way, these lines from the Passionate Pilgrim appear in precisely the same form in Barnfield's address to the Nightingale:—

"As it fell upon a day
In the merry month of May,
Sitting in a pleasant shade
Which a grove of myrtles made."

Shakespeare and Barnfield were contemporaries, Shakespeare having been born six years before his much less illustrious fellow-countryman. Which was the plagiarist? Probably Shakespeare, who had no hesitation in borrowing material from any source, which, good or bad, his genius transfused into pure gold.

Even old Chaucer had something to say in praise of May:—

"For May wol have no slogardie a-night,
The seson priketh every gentil herte,
And maketh him out of his slepe sterte."

Milton speaks of "the clouds that shed May flowers," and Goldsmith draws a somewhat less joyous picture of "winter lingering in the lap of May," while Bobby Burns restores our happiness with his assurance that "in May a braw wooer cam' down the lang glen." But perhaps nothing that has been written is more in harmony with the spirit of May than these lines of our own Canadian poet, Bliss Carman:—

"Here's to the day when it is May,
And care as light as a feather,
When your little shoes and my big boots
Go tramping over the heather."

There are so many happy associations connected with this month. Those of us who are a little on the shady side of life can look back to the days when we celebrated the Birthday of the Good Grey Queen. That day is still commemorated, perhaps with a wider significance, but it has not quite the personal touch of the days some of us remember back in the eighties and nineties, when one could think of the wise little woman over the seas who still governed the greatest Empire the world had known, and drink her health in something better than ginger beer.

And the month has other associations, running far back into the cradle days of our Mother Land, and brought to mind by such verses as Tennyson's May Queen and Alfred Noyes' Lord of Misrule. Noyes puts under the title of his poem the following quotation from an old Puritan writer: "On May days the wild heads of the parish would choose a Lord of Misrule, whom they would follow even into the church, though the minister were at prayer or preaching, dancing and springing their may-boughs about like devils incarnate." Just such an incident forms the subject of the rollicking poem that begins:

"All on a fresh May morning, I took my love to church,
To see if Parson Primrose were safely on his perch."

But less boisterous and perhaps more in keeping with the spirit of the race were the celebrations that centred about the May Pole and the crowning of the Queen of the May. Such celebrations are still carried out on many a village green in England, and it may not be generally known that the pretty idea of the May Queen was brought over to Canada by our forefathers. May Day was celebrated for years in parts of the Maritime Provinces, and probably in Upper Canada. It is still celebrated in British Columbia in a number of towns, and particularly in New Westminster, where the fifty-second celebration took place on May 5.

We have just been reading an account of the ceremonies in one of the New Westminster papers, and could almost wish we had something here equally spontaneous and whole-hearted, even though as in New Westminster the ancient ceremonies must inevitably be accompanied with such modern contrivances as automobiles and motion picture machines. It is impossible to reproduce the account of the celebration, entertaining as it is, but one must find room for this bit from the speech of the retiring Queen:—

"Proud as we were to be called to reign over you, we are more happily so now at the close of that reign when looking back at the continued peace and prosperity of the whole domain.

"It is gratifying to feel, too, that the fealty sworn to our crown and person has been unswerving, and that, upon retiring from the exalted position to which you called us, we shall enjoy in retirement the good-will and affection of you all.

"And now behold Irene, whom you have chosen as our successor; Irene, whom as our last official act, we now crown Queen of the May."

And Queen Irene closes her own brief address to her loyal subjects by proclaiming a public holiday.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

How do you like the Budget?

Trouble is that most Canadians were so busy yesterday celebrating Victoria Day that they have not yet had time to digest Mr. Fielding's figures.

A horse named "Second Thoughts" won a race at the Woodbine on Tuesday. Second thoughts are generally best.

The Ottawa hikers are meeting a lot of hardships. Did you notice they had to spend a half-day in Port Hope?

LITERARY GEMS

MONTANA WIVES

I had to laugh,
For when she said it we were sitting by the door,
And straight down was the Fork
Twisting and turning and gleaming in the sun.
And then your eyes carried across to the purple bench beyond the river
With the Beartooth Mountains fairly screaming with light and blue and snow,
And fold and turn of rimtock and prairie as far as your eyes could go
And she says: "Dear Laura, sometimes I feel so sorry for you,
Shut away from everything—eating out your heart with loneliness.
When I think of my own full life I wish that you could share it.
Just pray for happier days to come and bear it."

She goes back to Billings to her white stucco house,
And looks through net curtains at another white stucco house,
And a brick house,
And a yellow frame house,
And six trimmed poplar trees,
And little squares of shaved grass.

Oh, dear, she stared at me like I was daft.
I couldn't help it! I just laughed and laughed!

ACCURACY in Small Watches

AS you reduce the size of a watch movement so you increase the care necessary in its making. Therefore, the small watch costs more to build, if it is made to keep accurate time and give dependable service.

There are many thousands of small watches made abroad, but now reposing in bureau drawers, useless to their owners because they were made at a price and not to keep time.

These are reasons why the Canadian citizen is discovering that a good watch must have the record of its maker behind it and his word to guarantee it.

The Waltham small watch is made with the utmost care and to exceedingly high standards of quality throughout. It is famous as a time-keeper and, with reasonable care, will last a lifetime.

WARSAW, May 25 — When a loose mud guard caught in the front wheel of Allan Hendron's motor truck, yesterday morning, the truck was ditched. The mishap occurred on the Lakefield-Warsaw road, when Hendron was driving a load of milk to the cheese factory here. A testimony to the skilfull handling of the truck in trying circumstances is the fact that no milk was lost and no damage or injury resulted to either the driver or truck. A resident close by the scene of the accident assisted Hendron in getting the car back to the roadway.

'What you should know about a Fountain Pen

A FOUNTAIN PEN is nothing more or less than a writing instrument which carries its own supply of ink. It is virtually a tube containing ink, with a pen point inserted in one end of it.

The difference in efficiency between one make of fountain pen and another lies in how closely they approach perfection in controlling automatically the flow of ink from the tube to the pen point during the act of writing.

Thirty-eight years ago, Mr. L. E. Waterman invented Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen. It was the first fountain pen with a device that in scientific conception and practical application automatically controlled the flow of ink from the barrel to the point of the pen. It did this with a degree of perfection never before known and which, to the present moment, has never been equalled.

This device is the famous Waterman spoon feed and it can be found only in Stock Report

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The much needed rain, extending more or less over the last two or three days of the past week, has caused vegetation to leap ahead wonderfully. Newly seeded fields are already showing the benefit, while fall wheat and clover have also picked up well. May has begun its fourth week full of promise for the Ontario farmer.

While stating that the seed never found the bed in better condition, the Grey representative regrets to notice that some grain was sown that had never gone through the fanning mill.

Timiskaming is of the opinion that there will be an increased area of all crops as a result of the clearing of a lot of land last year.

Huron says: "With reference to clover, a visitor informs me that in a 20 mile drive, on which note was taken, the new meadows all appeared to be either sweet clover or alfalfa. Apparently very little red clover has been sown.

Waterloo states: "Alfalfa is probably showing up better than anything else. In most cases alfalfa was a good catch."

Both Bruce and Grey claim that orchards are receiving more attention than formerly.

The general opinion regarding fruit is that orchard trees are giving good promise, more especially as to early apples.

Bush fruits generally and strawberries are also looking well.

Peel states: "Market gardeners are well advanced with planting; melons are now being sown and sweet corn 3 in. higher under field conditions was observed this week."

Northern Ontario potatoes have been in demand for the last week or so.

Fort William says: "One carload of Irish Cobbler potatoes was shipped from Slate River this week to St. Catharines at 75c. per bag. f.o.b. here.

Port Arthur, however, has mention of better prices. "I have just received an order from Manitoulin Island for 150 bags of Irish Cobbler seed potatoes at two per bag f.o.b. shipping point."

Elgin reports that cattle are picking up well on the grass, and that while very few steers are being sold, hogs are being marketed quite lively.

Lennox and Addington says: "Farmers are beginning to realize that it apys to finish their veal calves in A1 condition, as buyers are very discriminating in this respect and refuse to accept unfinished calves at any price."

A number of farmers in Dundas are again making butter at home, as they think that it pays better than sending the milk to the cheese factories at present prices, which have fallen to 92c. a cwt. at some factories."

Middlesex reports: "Milk prices are dropping, some cheese factories paying less than $1 per hundred. This is less than half for the same period last year.

Lanark states that the first cheese of the season was sold on Friday at the low figure of 12 1-2 cents a pound.

Frontenac says that $15 a pair was paid for small pigs on the local market last week. Brant quotes them at $12 a pair.

Grey reports that the farmers are talking of selling their large lambs, and that more than usual are being castrated. The Representative also goes on to say: "The increasing price of wool has sent dealers into the county to capture the supply on hand. A 20 p.c. increase in price during the past three weeks is responsible for the movement.

Kenora has the following regarding bee-keeping: "One of our large apiaries here has imoprted 110 2-lb. packages of bees from Texas. These came all that distance in excellent shape and only a few were lost. The newcomers have set to work already and are making a good showing with honey gathered from the willow. These bees are of an Italian stock and are supposed to be of a very hardy strain."

Hairs Will Vanish After This Treatment

(Toilet Helps.)

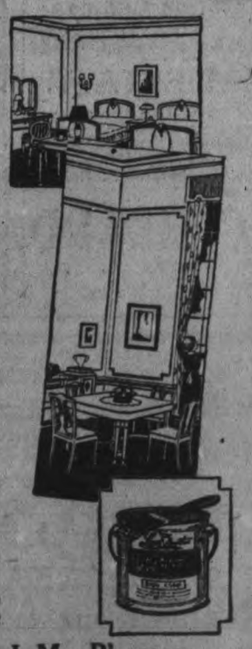
You can keep your arms, neck or face free from hair or fuzz by the occasional use of plain delatone and in using it you need have no fear of marring or injuring the skin. A thick paste is made by mixing some of the powdered delatone with water. Then spread on the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and all traces of hair have vanished. Be careful, however, to get real delatone.

SENTENCE COMMUTED.

BRANDON, Man., May 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Walter F. Grover, who was to have been hanged on June 1 for the murder of a male infant on January 3, has had his sentence commuted to life imrpisonment.

A number of French widows wear rings striped with black and white to remind possible suitors of their eligibility for marriage.

How to Have Beautiful Walls



THE most economical and satisfactory way is to paint them with Mellotone—a flat wall paint made by Lowe Brothers.

Mellotone is easily applied with a brush. Dries quickly with that soft, dull velvety finish that is so much desired.

Using it, you can have a different color scheme in every room, yet all will be in perfect harmony.

Mellotone colors are as soft as the tints of the rainbow.

Easily cleaned with soap and water.

Come in and see the sample panels and ask for literature.

300 GUESTS AT G.W.V.A. DANCE IN MILLBROOK

Many Visitors Tripped the Light Fantastic to Toronto Music.

MILLBROOK, May 25.—The last dance of the season under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. was held in the Armouries on Monday evening, May 22nd, and was one of the most enjoyable and successful ever given by that organization. The fine weather and good roads doubtless did much to contribute to the splendid attendance and good time enjoyed since there were about 300 guests present, a large number coming in from outside points by motor.

The music, furnished by A. Linton's four-piece orchestra of Toronto, was particularly good, and every number received repeated encores. An excellent supper was served at midnight, after which dancing was resumed for some time longer, many seeming loth to bring so pleasant an occasion to a close.

Those Present.

KEEP FIT

Never let your system get run down -- keep fit all the time

As long as you keep yourself strong and healthy, it is almost impossible to contract colds and other contagious diseases.

Don't wait until your system becomes weakened, but immediately you notice you are not feeling up to the mark, start fortifying your system against disease by taking Carnol. These remarks apply specially to children who do not realize the importance of taking proper care of themselves.

The peculiar feature about Carnol is that, while it is a preparation containing cod liver oil, it has a delicious taste.

Carnol is the ideal preparation for all run down conditions. It is an excellent remedy for anemia, consumption and all diseases of a wasting nature, due to impaired nutrition, poor and insufficient blood supply. Carnol provides food for the nerves and food for the body. It increases weight and builds up the whole system.

Carnol is of special value in the treatment of all nervous conditions marked by depression of the vital forces and usually caused by prolonged mental strain, overwork, nervous prostration.

Carnol has proven an excellent remedy in Rickets, that common disease of ill-nourished children, and in other ailments.

Carnol is composed of that wonderful nerve tonic—glycerophosphate salts. This is commonly know the world over as "The Blood Salts." It is the best blood builder and nerve invigorator yet discovered. Carnol also contains the soluble nutritive properties of fresh beef which stimulates and nourishes the system.

In addition, there is cod livers' extract with all the nauseating, bad-tasting elements removed.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 5-122

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, May 25. — In the local cash grain market there was a better demand Tuesday with the tone of the market steady. There was no improvement in flour. The millfeed is steady but the demand for rolled oats is slow. The market for baled hay is firm. An active trade is passing in eggs. The market for potatoes is firm. There was no further change in the butter market. Business in cheese is quiet.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, May 25. — Receipts on the market on Tuesday totalled 200 cattle and calves, 110 hogs and 7 sheep.

Trading opened this morning with a little more activity in evidence and while a fair proportion of the offerings lacked quality bidding was generally brisk and quotations maintained a fully steady tone over the close of yesterday. On the hog market packers were bidding $11.75 for selects, fed and watered, with odd lots weighing up at $12.

The handful of lambs on offer were secured at $13 and mutton sheep at $10.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, May 25. Canadian Press. — Reports from practically all points state that receipts are being well maintained but the quality is poorer. The unsettled condition at country points in Ontario continues and though prices are unchanged the tendency is to lower levels. Some of the large operators are now offering 2 per cent to stores and 25 cents to produce.s. From the present basis of cost of 24 to 24 1-2 for Chicago fresh firsts, they can be laid down in Toronto and Montreal at about 28 1-2c to 29c cases free.

Toronto easy and unchanged.

Montreal specials jobbings 35c to 36c; first 32 to 33c; seconds 28 to 30c.

Winnipeg unchanged. One car mixed firsts and seconds, rolling Brandon to Montreal, firsts 29c, seconds 25c f.o.b., shipping point.

As First Urged by EDDY Over a Year Ago

For example, on a box similar to the Eddy Safety and the Eddy Sesqui, each containing approximately 50 matches, the tax is reduced from one cent to half-a-cent, or $7.20 per ten-gross case.

The many smokers and other consumers who find the small boxes of Eddy's so convenient will, therefore, benefit by this reduction in tax on these boxes.

P.A.A.A. CABARET MINSTREL SHOW

First Performance at the Grand Tonight—Wi l Be Repeated Tomorrow.

The opening performance of Peterborough's finest Minstrel Show will take place to-night in the Grand Opera House, and will be repeated again to-morrow evening. The end men are looking mighty classy in their new suits. It makes one think there is something in the old saying, "It's the clothes that make the man," especially if he is an end man. Day Warnica is exceptionally fine in a comic song hit, 'Boo-Hoo-Boo." Al. Spencely makes a hit as "Dapper Dan," the ladies' man. One's thoughts are carried back to the Sunny South when Charles Perry sings, in his pleasing tenor, de new song success, "Swanee River Moon." Kerneghan and White will receive much applause in a clever comic duet, "Oh. Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean." Mr. Phillips, one of Ontario's best comedians, will give a comic selection in the second part. The Spring Dance, by four of Peterborough's leading aesthetic dancers will please the most critical observer. A pleasing feature is a saxophone duet by Mesrs. Crowe and Roberts.

On the whole, it will be a Show Peterborough might well be proud of. Popular prices—75c, 50c, 35c.

FRANCE TO PROTECT ROUMANIA'S CLAIMS.

PARIS, May 25. — (Canadian Press).—Steps have been taken to place France on record as agreeing to protect Roumania's claims to Bessarabia, Vice-Premier Barthou announced here last night.

TEA PRICES RISING WITH INCREASED DEMAND

The shortage of the supply of tea available for consumption, due to the 20% reduction in production in the gardens of Ceylon and India, during 1921, has, as might be expect ed, pushed the price of the tea offer ed on the market to-day, up and up. At the same time the use of tea has been gaining in popularity, and the reduction of four pence a pound duty on tea entering England will further stimuate the demand. Those in touch with the situation advise us that higher prices are inevitable.

SCOPE OF THE ACTIVITIES OF HOME & SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Every Aspect of Child Life Has Been Considered By the Members—Expenditure For Eye-Glasses.

An idea of the scope of the activities undertaken by members of the various Home and School Associations in the city is obtained by a glance over their several annual reports for last year. Every aspect in the life of the child seems to have been considered by the ladies. Pennants presented for the class having the largest number of parents present at the monthly meeting; pennants and Union Jacks and prizes for highest standing in class; the purchasing of a piano by one society for school use and the renting of a skating rink during winter months by another to encourage the love of healthful sport in the scholars; the holding of school concerts; pic-nics and monthly meetings with helpful addresses; in one instance, the procuring of a mother's pension by ladies interested in the cause of a needy mother, they all add their quota to the list of good deeds accomplished by these busy women.

Items in one report include expenditure for eye-glases, for medicine, for new boots, donations to the Russian Relief fund and to the school library, and all unite in the relief work during the winter months, and in the pet project of the Home and School Associations, carried on throughout the year; that of supplying milk for under-nourished pupils, a scheme which has resulted in splendid effects already, both in the mental and physical advancement of its beneficiaries. Rummage sales and sales of home-made cooking are favorite methods employed by the ladies for augmenting their funds. At the recent annual meeting of the Home and School Council, anouncement was made of the assistance offered by the Council by the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs of the city in furthering the milk campaign which it hopes to inaugurate in the near future.

Graduation exercises will be held under the auspices of the various Home and School Associations, at the end of October.

Hon. President, Mr. A. Mowat; President, Mrs. S. T. Medd; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. W. R. Morris; 2nd Vice-President, Mr. K. S. Wightman; Secretary, F. H. Dobbin; Assistant Secretary, F. H. Dearborn; Treasurer, Miss Esplin.

HEADS THAT ACHE AND PAIN

It is hard to drag al g with a head that aches and ains all the time.

In nine cases out of ten, persistent headaches are due to poisoned blood, the blood being rendered impure through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels, but no matter which organ is to blame the cause must be removed before permanent relief can be obtained.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS, which has been on the market for the past forty five years, removes the cause of the headache by starting the organs of elimination acting freely, and when the impurities are carried off fr the system, purified blood circulates in the brain cells, and the aches and pains vanish.

Miss Clara Murphy, Centre Dummer, Ont., writes: "My systen was greatly run down and my blood out of order. I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health. I took another bottle and it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to some of my friends who were in a similar condition and they all say it is a wonderful remedy."

On the Night before Wash Day

Do this, and you will have a pleasant, easy, work-free wash-day—with wonderfully clean sweet clothes:

For each tub of clothes take half a package of Rinso, dissolve in just enough cool water to make it as thick as cream. Then stir in two quarts of boiling water, and stir well. When the bubbles disappear you will have a clear, amber-colored liquid that is the magical Rinso washing solution. Pour it into your tub of cool or lukewarm water, and put in the clothes and soak. For extra hard water or extra dirty clothes add more Rinso solution.

In the morning rinse thoroughly and hang out to dry—the washing is done! That's why Rinso is different from all other Soaps and Washing Powders.

WHY KNOCK THE KNICKERS?

For life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness—knickers They are comfortable, trim, good looking. The sketch shows you one young woman who gives them her entire approval. She knows that it won't be a month before every other girl in town will have a pair, too. They are so superior to skirts in important matters such as tennis matches, hiking, camping and climbing.

Knickers are shown in the shops for girls of from 8 to 18, as well as for older women, and many a mother who "wouldn't" be caught dead in them" herself, as she would say has thanked the fashion for providing a suitable outing costume for an active young daughter.

The knickers are shown in homespun, tweed, jersey, khaki and flannel as well as in linen crash and ratine.

Do You Feel Tired After Eating?

A tired, nervous feeling may be a sign of poisons in your system which prevent proper digestion. Food turns into more poison and gas, making you nervous and weak. Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adlerika, expels poisons and gas from both upper and lower bowel. Removes old matter you never thought was in your system which poisoned stomach and made you tired and nervous. Adlerika is EXCELLENT to guard against appendicitis. (Name of druggist).

CRISIS IN CABINET.

BERLIN, May 25 (Canadian Press). — There are persistent rumours here of a Cabinet crisis owing to Dr. Joseph Wirth, the Chancellor, having declined to endorse the proposals made to the Reparations Commission in Paris by Andreas Hermes, Minister of Finance, especially the proposal to impose new taxation to cover the increase in Germany's floating debt.

TO RE-ORGANIZE NORRIS CABINET.

Provincial Secretary of Manitoba Tenders Resignation and Several Others to Follow.

WINNIPEG, May 25 (Canadian Press). — Hon. J. W. Armstrong, Provincial Secretary in the Norris Government, tendered his resignation to Premier Norris on Tuesday morning. Mr. Norris took the resignation under advisement pending a decision on the re-organisation of the Cabinet.

Mr. Armstrong is retiring to private life. He has been a member of the Legislature for twenty-five years, and of the Government since Mr. Norris formed his first Cabinet in 1915, sitting for Gladstone constituency.

Col. George Clingan, member for Virden, is mentioned as his probable successor.

With the resignation of the Hon. George H. Malcolm on hand and the resignations of Hon. T. H. Johnson and Hon. Edward Brown expected, a complete re-organisation of the Cabinet prior to the election is expected.

NORWOOD HAD A QUIET HOLIDAY.

Celebration Gave Way to Old Boys' Re-union — Norwood News.

NORWOOD, May 25.— Norwood was exceedingly quiet on the 24th. The I.O..DE. have kept the day for a number of years, but on account of the Old Boys' and Girls' Re-union on July 1-4, it was thought advisable to drop the celebration for this year.

However, a play, "Unacquainted With Work," was given in the evening in the town hall, under their auspices by Havelock talent.

Baseball Game.

On Monday evening the local baseball club played with the Hastings team. The score was 9-5 in favor of Hastings.

On Tuesday evening at the exhibition grounds the Catholic and Methodist teams of the church league played the second game of the series, the result being a victory for the Methodists, the score being 13-3.

Death.

The death occurred on Wednesday, May 24th of Mrs. Samuel Scott at her home in Asphodel.

PROPOSED BY-LAW WOULD RAISE PRICE.

OTTAWA, May 25.— (Canadian Press.)—That the increased cost of plumbing in Ottawa in a single residence under the proposed new plumbing by-law would be $39.96 or 17.77 per cent. and $84.68 or 19.63 per cent. in a double tenement, was the outstanding feature of the long-awaited report on the new plumbing by-law, submitted to the Board of Control Tuesday by M. M. O'Connell. Mr. O'Connell was retained by the city some time ago to bring in a report on the difference in costs of plumbing under the present by-law and the proposed new by-law.

WEAK AND MISERABLE

Describes the Condition of People With Thin, Watery Blood.

Thin blooded people experience a form of fatigue which robs them of strength to get about and deprives them of restful sleep. This fatigue is not to be confused with the healthy reaction which follows a day of work and is relieved by sound slumber.

The fatigue which accompanies an anaemic or thin blooded condition robs women of beauty, for it causes their color to fade and leaves the face haggard and drawn. In addition to a feeling of exhaustion there is generally nervousness, headache, a loss of appetite and dizziness. These symptoms indicate the need of a tonic, and the best tonic for enriching the blood is the one taken by Mrs. C. R. Taylor, Bass River, N.S., who says: "I was so run down and miserable that I was completely discouraged. I was so short of breath that at the least exertion I would have to sit down and rest. I often had headaches and my appetite was poor and sleep disturbed. A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have reason to be grateful that I followed the advice. I continued using the pills until I had taken ten or twelve boxes, and I can truthfully say they have made me feel like a new woman and I know in my case they have done all that is claimed for them."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Wiliams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FIFTEEN DEATHS.

SIGHTED WRECKAGE.

PORT ARTHUR, May 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Captain Alexander Wilson of the Canada Steamship Lines freight steamer Maplebranch, which reached Port Arthur early Tuesday morning, reports that while his vessel was in the vicinity of Caribou point up-bound, members of his crew sighted a quanitity of wreckage. Although the wreckage was some distance away, making it impossible to make out any of it, it is believed to be from the Government lighthouse tender, which has been lost for several weeks and now given up as lost.

FORMER PETERBORO RESIDENT TELLS OF WOMEN'S DIVISION.

Miss G. M. Perry, a former resident of Peterborough, and National Immigration and Travellers' Aid Secretary for the Dominion Council, Y.W.C.A., actively engaged in immigration work at the Atlantic ports for four years, addressed the Tenth Annual Conference of Young Women's Christian Associations in Toronto last Friday, in the course of her talk referring in terms of highest praise to the Women's Division of the Federal Department of Immigration at Ottawa, extolling also the services of the conductresses, who have been placed on practically all the Atlantic liners by the steamship companies.

"Canada has every reason to be proud of the Women's Division, and what it has been able to accomplish in the bettering of conditions, and providing protection and care for the newcomers to our country," said Miss Perry. "This country now occupies a unique position in organization and development, in having a women's division as an integral part of the Department of Immigration. This is the outcome of calling together the Women's Canadian Council of Immigration, and it now consists of a staff of Canadian women at Ottawa, two women in the Commissioner's office at London, one at Liverpool, one at Glasgow, principal women officers at the Atlantic ports, and a staff of conductresses to accompany special immigrant trains from the ports."

CHILDREN'S SUNDAY.

It was a warm Sabbath, but the occasion had been announced as Children's Sunday, so the usual couples brought along their offspring to take note of the Holy Word. Some of them were good, and some of them were having a good time. The little boy in the seat ahead swung his legs out in the aisle and peered curiously at each new arrival. The baby behind us joined in the singing of the choir, with a loud one-keyed hum, and yelled "Da-da" and "Ma-ma" in quiet intervals. Another older infant just a few seats farther on agreed with loud "Ahs" to several of the preacher's opinions, but the child in the seat with us provided a free performance for several of the congregation. He was an active, little, yellow-haired slant-eyed morsel, and the space under the pew just ahead was evident-enchanted land for him. He played that he was a bear, and, with growling murmurs, made darts at the luckless feet infront of him. The prim little boy and girl who studied their hymnals with such devout attention were greatly shocked by his manoeuvres and his mother spent most of her time protecting his head from the sharp edges of the prayer-book holder. But he eluded her vigilance, just once, with a resounding smack that filled the blue eyes with tears, and sent him whimpering softly, to his mother's arms. Later he began blowing audible kisses to his maternal parent, and then, just before we left, at the conclusion of the sermon, he was pitching his cap and pencil in turn on the floor demanding them in peremptory accents, and then repeating the performance, between repeated requests that "we do home, mamma."

Canada is feeding

75,000 Russian Children

The money and food, which the people of Canada in their generosity have contributed to the Save The Children Fund, will be sufficient to feed Seventy Five Thousand Russian Children.

In addition to these, the British Save the Children Fund—with which the Canadian Fund is associated—has undertaken to care for 50,000 more, making a total of 300,000 children to be fed until the end of August, and perhaps throughout the winter.

You can understand the very urgent need of more money to continue the wonderful work that we have undertaken.

Will you not help?

WILL PRESENT SONG AT TRINITY CHURCH.

To-morrow evening in the Reid St. Hall, some fifty or more children from the Sunday School Department of Trinity Church will present in song "The Walrus and the Carpenter," from Lewis Carroll's "Through the Looking-Glass."

The children have been practising for some time for this event, which promises to be a dainty affair, the music, composed by Percy E. Fletcher, under the direction of Mr. R. Gliddon, whose twenty-two-piece orchestra provides the accompaniment. Mrs. G. E. Porter presides at the piano.

The pretty musical numbers include choral and orchestral selections, relating the story of the shellfish that came to an untimely end, and when they went for "a pleasant walk" along the beach with the Walrus and the Carpenter. Lovers of the quaint little Alice will remember how the fat little things were lured from their comfortable oyster-bed, for a moonlit walk along the shore, and then:

"A loaf of bread," the Walrus said,
"Is what we chiefly need:
Pepper and vinegar besides,
Are very good indeed—
Now, if you're ready, Oysters dear,
We can begin to feed."

"But not on us," the Oyster cried,
Turning a little blue.
"After such kindness that would be
A dismal thing to do!"
"The night is fine," the Walrus said,
"Do you admire the view?"

A QUIET HOLIDAY FOR THE POLICE

Indian River Case Heard This Morning — Magistrate Questions Costs

The police reported a quiet 24th of May, and the police court docket to-day did not provide any unusual sensations. For taking the law into his own hands by striking Leo Crough, a youth who, with "the gang," is alleged to have been causing a disturbance outside his show at Indian River last Monday night, Bert Johnston, conjurer and entertainer, was fined $10 and ordered to pay costs of $13.50 on the charge of assault. Leo Crough claimed he was badly beaten up, but F. D. Kerr, K.C., who represented the showman, looked him over pretty closely and said he could find no bad scare. Crough admitted provoking Johnston by a remark "that he was a pretty big fellow to-night," following his alleged remark, "Why the devil didn't they go inside?"

The showman, in his evidence, said the blows were struck in self-defence, and that "the gang" had, by cat calls and general rowdyism, interrupted the show, and he had tried to stop the disturbance.

Magistrate Langley found that he had undoubtedly been annoyed but that he had gone too far in not calling for police protection rather than introducing with violence. The Magistrate found that an assault had taken place, and he found that the blows were not struck in self-defence. His judgment against Johnston, however, he pointed out he did not wish interpreted as condoning rowdyism, and he promised if proper cases against this evil of country villages was presented before him the law would be strictly enforced. Wilfred Huycke appeared for Crough.

Somewhat of a sensation was created in court when the Magistrate refused to allow Provincial Officer T. Y. Stratton $6 for the hire of a car yesterday to subpoena the witnesses. The Magistrate claimed this charge was high. The return fare to Lakefield, he said, was only $2.50, and it is only one mile further to Indian River. Magistrate Langley objected that the Provincial Officer had not also presented a formal account.

"This might as well be settled any time as now. I will only allow you $4 for that car. You can take it up with the Attorney-General. The total costs will then be only $13.50," said the Magistrate.

Officer Stratton disappeared, returning a minute later with a local livery tariff rate, claiming that the account was not exorbitant. "I have a letter from my Chief that the rates allowed are the same as in the city," he said. He threw the card with the rates down on the bench. In an annoyed tone the Magistrate said, "Oh, I know all about that. I'm on the Police Commission," and paid no attention to it.

F. D. Kerr submitted that Constable Whibbs at Indian River should have subpoenaed the witnesses and avoided the cost, but Stratton said it was a holiday and there was no one to do it but himself.

Walter J. McKenzie, of Smith Township, was fined $5 and costs for fishing by other means than angling on May 1st in Chemong Lake. According to Inspector Carson, he was shooting 'lunge. He pleaded guilty and paid the fine, which is the minimum the Game and Fisheries Act provided for.

Speeding on the Gravel Road on May 20th cost Frederick Case $10 and costs. Provincial Constable Stratton claimed he was going 45 miles an hour, and was unable to overtake him.

The case of T. E. Curvin, under the Game and Fisheries Act for illegally having beaver coupons, was enlarged again until the 31st. J. F. Strickland represented the Crown Attorney, G. W. Hatton. The latter is unable yet to attend court, and Mr. Strickland said he would remind Mr. Hatton of the written charge desired by His Worship.

(BY A BRIDE)

CHAPTER XLV

PLAY'S THE THING

"Bonny is making all this trouble for everybody because she's so ignorant," said I to Me. "She doesn't realize how she'd upset the play if she drops out of the cast. She never stops to think how awfully cut up her father will be if he has to take George Bradshaw for a son-in-law.

"That's the whole trouble with modern flappers. They're too young to have sense. Peggy Madison, you've got some job—if you keep Bonny from eloping!"

I used to believe that life's complexities were of slow growth and avoidable, if one had any sense. Since my marriage I've learned that the most trying situations develop in about half a minute. Alone, as a spinster, I had to decide things for myself. As a bride, I never could make a decision without consulting Jack.

And that was the very thing we had planned to avoid.

Once upon a time I would have been completely absorbed in the play.

But marriage had made it impossible for me to handle any detail of my existence so simply. How I acted was now less important to me than how Jack would react to my work in my part. How would he take the love scene when the Viking was reunited to his bride?

I made my entry in Bart's arms. I, his queen, was supposed to have come down to the harbor to welcome him, and he had picked me up and carried me aboard his ship.

My returning hero had many rich gifts for me. I sat by his side while captive maids spread the rich treasure of the raid before me.

Bart made an elemental conquering Norse lover.

The captive maids who served me were all humble enough—mere slaves—except one. She gazed upon the Viking's wife with the eyes of an equal. And I knew her for a rival in my lord's affection. Each recognized the fact without a word, and each guessed the place and the power of the other, knew the truth about the other, as rival women always and everywhere have known. Only the man in a triangle case is ever duped for long.

So ran the play. Before Bart picked me up, he had warned me:

"Now, Peggins! Don't make a row! Here's where Jack Madison gets what's coming to him! Don't pinch or bite when I kiss you. Don't stick a pin into me when I hug you, Peggy! You've got nothing to say in this little act.

"Now, if Jack can be made to feel, he's going to have his chance. Peggy, listen to me: Your Jack is in for a lesson!"

Half way through the scene Jack began to pace up and down the auditorium.

Was he angry? Or disgusted? Or hurt?

(To Be Continued)

J.-BERTRAM SIMON, well-known photographer, of Tacoma, Wash., who says that since taking Tanlac with good results he now knows why everybody is praising this wonderful medicine.

"When they told me about Tanlac it seemed almost too good to be true, but since taking the medicine I know for myself that all they said about it was so," said J. Bertram Simon, 1031 E. 46th St., Tacoma, Wash., a well known photographer. "I suffered from rheumatism in my shoulders for ten years and at one time had to go to the hospital. I was down in bed for months and hardly able to turn from side to side. I couldn't sleep and I don't believe I had a day free from pain. My appetite failed and I couldn't digest a thing properly. Gas made me have heartburn for hours after meals.

In a very short time after I had started taking Tanlac I actually felt like a new man. I am now entirely rid of rheumatism and my stomach is in first class condition, while I have gained ten pounds and never felt better. I have recommended Tanlac to a number of people and I am always glad to say a good word for this remarkable medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

SHINE OF PEACE.

LONDON, May 25. Canadian Press. — Replying yesterday to one of the numerous messages paying tribute to his efforts at Genoa, the Premier said he "trusts and believes Genoa will be the shrine of peace and tranquility to the disturbed world."

BENJAMIN DISRAELI

"It should have been spared and pensioned in some green meadow, by a running stream," Mrs. Travers said.

"What a sight it would have looked, without its feathers," said Clarissa.

"Ah, you have no reverence, no sense of awe!" laughed Mrs. Travers, as she laid down the quill.

XXI.

"I was told you were here," said Lady Beaconsfield, sweetly.

Clarissa and she met and kissed, and she turned to Mrs. Travers with:

"How d'ye do!"

Without waiting for a responsive greeting from Mrs. Travers, Lady Beaconsfield went on to ask of Charles:

"Where is Mr. Disraeli?"

"Still closeted with Mr. Meyers," replied Deeford.

Mrs. Travers gave a little start. But she commented:

"The banker. How dull!"

"Dull? I'm on tenterhooks," said Lady Beaconsfield.

The door of the den opened at this moment and the Prime Minister and Meyers emerged. Both smiled, and Disraeli seemed in particularly good humor. He turned immediately to his wife.

"I am glad you came back so soon." Then he stopped to address Clarissa. "Come to see the neophyte?" Next he bowed to Mrs Travers and then glancing at the banker, he said, "Do you know, I half expected this visit. Charming women may ever be found in the audience when the money kings are in the arena." Then he introduced the banker.

"And now," he laughed, "we can tell Lady Beaconsfield our secret." He turned to her. "You see, my dear, all the engineers tell me that if scientific drainage in London is made a fact, the city will ultimately become so desirable a dwelling place that half the world will become resident here. So I am borrowing money from Mr. Meyers to make this drainage possible—for I want at least half the world here so that it may admire you—and envy me for having you at my side. Else I would have to take you over half the world to show my treasure."

With a smile and a bow he led the somewhat flustered Meyers into the hall. Mrs. Disraeli joined them. Their voices grew fainter as they advanced through the widening corridor.

Mrs. Travers looked after the group in amused indignation.

"I must say," she exclaimed with a laugh. "To leave us planted here like this! And all this interesting talk about drainage, without a single detail to gossip about. How much money is involved, Charles?"

"I really do not know."

"That means you do. How proud you must be to be taken into all these deep state secrets!"

"But I am not!"

"But you can at least draw your conclusions. You see all the correspondence—"

"It is quite meaningless to me. I am like an apothecary's apprentice. I pound the drugs in a mortar, but I haven't the slightest idea o' their properties."

Clarissa had been admiring the flowers in the greenhouse. Their half-shadowed foliage glinted luringly through the glass roof of the structure below.

"How humbly you speak of yourself!" Clarissa remarked.

"That is the point I have reached. I now know that I know nothing."

"That is a great stride towards your goal, isn't it?" asked Clarissa.

"Is it?" asked Charles, with meaning.

"I think so," replied the girl.

Charles placed a chair for Mrs. Travers and crossed over to Clarissa. The girl sat silent for a moment. Presently she said:

"Poor London pants dreaming of blue skies!"

"Come and look at them," said Charles. "When they see your eyes their dreams will be realized."

"Giant strides, Charles!" and Clarissa, laughing.

Mrs. Travers walked to the chair Charles had placed for her and moving it slightly closer to Disraeli's desk she sat down.

"May we step out on the balcony, Mrs. Travers?" Charles asked.

"Pray do so, by all means. But let an old lady rest her weary bones—right here in this comfortable chair."

Charles took Clarissa's arm and escorted her to the balcony.

Mrs. Travers recovered the note that Foljambe had written. It was tucked in the palm of her glove. Smoothing it out, she read it and replaced it in the glove. Then taking Disraeli's large ivory paper cutter she tapped with it on the desk. Once—twice—thrice! As though by a prearranged plan, Foljambe instantly appeared in the door leading from his office. He held the door almost shut behind him and spoke.

"Agatha—!"

"Sh!"

"Yes."

"About the canal—?"

"Yes."

"They are agreed."

"How do you know?"

"Both radiant."

"Then—?"

"Cairo. Start now."

"Now?"

"Instantly."

"Instructions?"

"At Trieste."

Trieste? How?"

"By way of Ostend."

'Ostend?"

Disraeli entered the room again, in time to hear "Ostend" spoken by Foljambe under his breath. But the Prime Minister did not betray that he had heard anything. Going directly to his desk, he addressed Mrs. Travers.

"All alone, Mrs. Travers?"

Foljambe slammed the door behind him, and entered.

"The estimates you were asking for, sir," Foljambe turned as he spoke.

"Oh, thank you. We managed on a rough guess."

And then addressing Mrs. Travers, he said:

"Mr. Foljambe is such a worker—indefatigable!—Sorry to put you to so much trouble Mr. Foljambe."

"A great p'easure, sir." And as he spoke, Foljambe walked toward the door leading to his office.

"And how is your poor husband, Mrs. Travers?" asked Disraeli, looking from Mrs. Travers to Foljambe. The latter paused a moment. Then, entering his office, he closed the door behind him.

"Just the same," Mrs. Travers replied with a little sigh. "At Kissingen, you know."

"You said—Kissingen." Disraeli paused, and went on. "Too bad. Too bad. What have you done with the young people?"

"There," Mrs. Travers replied, pointing to the balcony. And continuing she said: Will you kindly make my excuses to Clarissa?"

Mrs. Travers extended her hand in adieu.

"But you are not going so abruptly?" queried the Prime Minister.

"I have to accompany the dear Duchess. She is organizing a bazaar, and I am her secretary."

"Ah, always occupied with good works," said Disraeli, taking the lady's hand. "Always with your hand in some great undertaking. And always in secret, too!"

"Oh!" Mrs. Travers smiled sweetly as Disraeli walked with her to the door. "Not a step, Mr. Disraeli—not a step."

"Levers!" called Disraeli.

An under-secretary entered and escorted Mrs. Travers to the street door.

XXII.

Disraeli turned back to his desk. He walked slowly to his chair, and sat down. He was perplexed. He was speaking low, muttering "Ostend—Ostend." He looked at his desk, and moved the papers here and there. The only thing that she could have touched, he decided, was the paper cutter. Taking this up, Disraeli turned it over between his fingers and finally resting his hand on the table, he tapped with it. Once—twice—thrice! Once—twice—

Foljambe opened the door wide, but started back upon seeing Disraeli.

"Oh, I—I beg your pardon, sir. I thought you called."

Disraeli turned toward Foljambe but he was gone in an instant. Then realizing the use to which the paper knife had been put, the Prime Minister tossed it back on his desk with a disgusted expression and called Charles.

"Charles!—Charles!"

Lord Deeford appeared instantly, followed by Clarissa.

"Sorry to interrupt you, Charles, did Foljambe ever bring those papers?"

"Oh, yes. Long ago!"

"Ah! Why didn't you send him in with them?"

"I thought you would not like to be disturbed."

"Quite right," replied Disraeli, as he followed Charles to the latter's desk. Charles sat down, and the Prime Minister came up close and asked:

"Did he say anything?"

"I thought him rather impertinent."

"Oh! How?" asked Disraeli carelessly. Charles paused

"Shall I go?" asked Clarissa.

"No, my dear," replied Disraeli. And to Charles: "Well?"

"He asked questions."

"Yes?"

"But I snubbed him. Finally, he had the impertinence to say that you were seeing Meyers about—"

Charles paused to look at Clarissa, and stopped.

"Well?" Disraeli seemed impatient.

"Am I to speak in Lady Pevensey's presence?"

"Yes, yes! Go on—!"

"About the Suez Canal."

"And what did you say?"

"Not a word of course."

"Oh?—Then how did you snub him?"

"I merely stood up—and looked at him!"

And Charles, suiting the action to the word, stood and glared at the Prime Minister, who threw up his hands in horror.

"What more could you have told him if you had talked an hour?"

"Do you accuse me of speaking?" asked Charles.

"No, sir. I accuse you of holding your tongue too eloquently."

"Oh, well! He is easily muzzled."

"How?"

"Put him on his parole. I will fetch him."

Charles rushed into Foljambe's room, as Disraeli exclaimed:

"Ah! Capital! Fetch him by all means!"

Disraeli walked hastily to the bell-pull, and rang.

"Mr. Tearle! Mr. Tearle!" called Disraeli.

An aged clerk appeared

"Send for the Senior Queen's messenger at once!"

"Done, sir," responded Tearle, apparently agitated at Disraeli's manner.

Clarissa stepped up close to Disraeli, and asked:

"Has Charles made a mistake?"

"A horrible one!"

"He is not there! Well!"

"He is not in his room, sir."

"No? Shall I tell you where he is? He is at Victoria Station catching the ten-thirty express on his way to Ostend, to Trieste, and so to Alexandria."

Charles in complete alarm gasped:

"For God's sake! Who is he?"

"He is Mrs. Travers' husband!"

Charles and Clarissa gasped.

WEAK HEART

NERVES BADLY SHATTERED

Many a woman who should be strong and healthy, full of life and energy is bound by the shackles of ill-health.

Some disease or constitutional disturbance has left its mark in the form of a weak heart, shattered nerves, impoverished blood and an exhausted system.

In

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

they will find a remedy that will supply food for the exhausted nerves, one that will strengthen and regulate the weak heart and invigorate the whole system.

Mrs. W. W. Morse, 14 Seaton St., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"I was left with a weak heart and in a run down condition from the 'flu.' My nerves were badly shattered, and I had such pains around my heart I could not sleep much at night. I took several doctors' medicines without getting any better. My husband got me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after I took one box I got relief, and after taking six boxes I have been well and not bothered since."

NOW DO MY WORK WITH EASE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored My Health

Hornell, N.Y. — "I was in bad health but there didn't seem to be any one thing the matter with me. I was tired out all over and it was an effort for me to move. I was irritable and could not sleep nights and had trouble with my bowels and at my periods. It seemed that nearly every one around me knew of your medicine and wanted me to try it, so at last I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and improved every day. I do all my own work now except the washing and do it with ease. I can accomplish as much in a day now as it would have taken me a week to do last winter and I try to get every one I know to take your medicine to build them up. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you like."—Mrs. CHAS. BAKER, 21 Spencer Ave., Hornell, N.Y.

In almost every neighborhood there are women who know of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They know because they have taken it and have been helped. Why don't you give it a trial?

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK AND BEAUTIFUL

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large obttle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everyobdy uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gary hair disappears, and after another application or two, you hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

BILL HARCOURT RESIDING HERE

Treasurer of the O.A.L.A. and Prominent Lacrosse Figure in Motor Repair and Garage Business With "Banty" Evans.

W. R. Harcourt, treasurer of the O.A.L.A., and a playing member of the Torontos in the senior series of the provincial lacrosse series, recently became a resident of Peterboro. He is engaged in the garage and automobile repair business opened a short time ago at the corner of George and Smith streets by his brother-in-law, Mr. George (Banty) Evans. In addition to being a big-leaguer lacrosse performer "Bill" Harcourt is an expert machinist. The local followers of lacrosse are principally interested in the fact that the presence of Mr. Harcourt means a certain impetus to the game here, which should be soon reflected in his occasional coaching of the local junior team. The new Evans garage has started with a rush of business that has left little spare time to Mr. Harcourt, but he managed to get away to Campbellford yesterday, where he was pressed into service as referee for the two games between Campbellford and Aura Lee and the Campbellford and Peterboro scratch junior teams.

Mr. Harcourt is still a member of the Torontos team and will likely go up for their game on Saturday.

The opening game in the city league will be staged at the grounds of the Sacred Heart church on Friday night between the Crescents and Strathconas. As a matter of fact this field has been considerably reduced in size by the construction work on the new rectory, and some of those who have noticed the shrinkage have suggested that this game should be played on King Edward Park. It is hoped that a fairly large crowd will attend this opener. There is no admission charge, but the public will have a chance to contribute to a silver collection.

Wallace, the fifteen-year old youngster, who played goal for Aura Lee yesterday, passed up the dance at Trent Bridge last night, and came on alone to Peterboro. "I've got a history exam in the morning and I want to make sure of a night's sleep," was his reason for deserting the "gang" at Campbellford. The teams were due to catch the early train out of Havelock, which meant no getting to bed.

THE SCHEDULE FOR CITY BALL LEAGUE

At the last meeting of the City Baseball League the following schedule was adopted:

Tuesday, May 30—6.00 p.m., Raybestos vs. C.G.E.

Thursday, June 1—6.00 p.m., H.N.S. vs. Lock Works.

Tuesday, June 6—6.00 p.m., Y.M.C.A. vs. Raybestos.

Thursday, June 8—6.00 p.m., Adanacs vs. Lakeviews.

Tuesday, June 13—6.00 p.m., Classics vs. Y.M.C.A.

Saturday, June 17—2.00 p.m., Adanacs vs. H.N.S.; C.G.E. vs. Classics.

Tuesday, June 20—600 p.m., Lakeviews vs. Lock Works.

BALL PLAYERS ARE GUESTS OF P.A.A.A.

To-night the members of the Peterborough Central Ontario baseball team will be the guests of the P.A.A.A. at the minstrel show which that organisation is putting on in the Grand Opera House.

TRAP SHOOTING ON VICTORIA DAY

Good Shooting and Some Fine Scores Turned in

The Peterboro Gun Club held a shoot on Victoria Day morning at their traps and the high gun was Tom Curvin, who broke 48 out of 50. Tom was in good form but was given a close run by Mr. Sutton of Lakefield and Messrs. Eldridge and Hutchison of Peterboro. Messrs. Eldridge and Hutchison tied for the number one event of fifteen birds each breaking straight and in the shoot off they were still ties but Roy won in the toss up so got first money and Eldridge second. The second event of fifteen birds was won by Tom Curvin with Sutton of Lakefield second. The third event of twenty birds was won by Percy Spence of Lakefield with Chris. Graham second. Curvin also won the high gun and longest run prizes having a long run of 39. The shooting was very good and some fine scores were turned in. Mr. Sutton of Lakefield was the winner of the International Handicap at St. Thomas in 1921 and certainly knows how to break the clay birds.

	Broke	Shot at
Curvin	48	50
Eldridge	47	50
Hutchison	47	50
Sutton	47	50
Tanner	42	50
Graham	42	50
Spence	43	50
Coon	40	50
Symes	40	50
Wood	34	50
Spence G.	26	50
Edwards	32	50
Pellow	24	35
Simmons	15	35

TO OPEN NEGOTIATIONS FOR SHIP WATERWAY

NEW YORK, May 25 (Canadian Press). — The United States administration has notified Canada that it wishes to open negotiations for the construction of the St. Lawrence Great Lakes Ship Canal as soon as possible, a Washington correspondent of the Tribune says.

The message was conveyed to the Canadian Government by Sir Auckland Geddes on behalf of Secretary Hughes.

"This is the latest step in the history of this project, so vital to many Great Lakes towns with visions of Majestics steaming up to their docks," says the Tribune story.

"President Harding became convinced some time ago that the treaty would have to be negotiated before any legislation should be passed. This decision was a rude shock to most of the advocates of the project, especially those from the States in the northern part of the Middle West, where opposition to the proposition has been strong for some time," continues the Tribune story.

The forests of the United States comprise 465,000,000 acres, of which 191,000,000 acres are owned by farmers in the form of farm wood lots.

JACKIE COOGAN IN "MY BOY"

When the children start having their pictures taken by the Pathe camera man, in the contest to find another Jackie, there will be far more than casual interest in the Capitol Theatre. "My Boy", will delight everybody who sees it, and it will appeal just as much to grown ups as to the little ones, in fact, it will surprise many who do not realize just what a wonder-child little Mr. Coogan is. During the screening of "The Kid," the initial appearance of Jackie before the camera, Charlie Chaplin, called the attention of the director and the camera men to the fact that the youngster was not only clever, but that he had extraordinary intelligence and could be depended upon to do things which no other child seemed to accomplish without a great deal of hard work. So it was not long before he was under contract to make big pictures and "Peck's Bad Boy" proved the soundness of the policy which has also worked out well in the case of "My Boy." There is a pathetic scene at Ellis Island, when the authorities are going to refuse admission to him to "the land of the free and the home of the brave"; the poor little boy has lost his emigrant mother during the journey across the ocean and in spite of the protests of the old ship's captain, who has grown so fond of the lad, red tape is about to prevail, when a rich woman is moved to compassion and promises to be responsible for the kid. That is only the beginning of the dramatic story — there are humorous incidents, of course, and the work is divided among many capable people—it is a cast worthy of mention in any photo-play, but, of course, the big scenes are those in which "Jackie" is seen most frequently. It is sometimes a great satisfaction to be able to look at a picture that is just a little different, neither a problem play nor a thriller, but just a nice little bit of life, with a small boy for the hero. Every mother's heart will glow with a sisterly pride, in sympathy with the feeling that must be Mrs. Coogan's as she watches her lovely boy. There will be novel features connected with the showing of "My Boy."

All juniors in the city desirous of breaking into the movies shouldn't forget the competition on Saturday in connection with the "Jackie Coogan" picture. A chance to get on the silver screen, and prizes for the first five who dress to look like the celebrated "Jackie" will be offered, with small prizes for every child taking part. Pictures of the children, to be shown later on the screen at the Capitol, will be taken on Saturday morning.

AT THE REGENT.

Jazz music is all right— but oh, what a difference between jazz in a Melody Shop and Jazz in the softly lighted cafe on a fine hotel!

Gladys Walton, in "Playing With Fire," her Universal starring vehicle at the Regent theatre, makes the change from queen of the sheet music emporium to high toned society very sympathetically. She's not so bad in the jazz dispensary, but boy, what a queen in the conservatory!

Really, you know, the flapper isn't such a heartless little creature. She's often pictured as a girl of such cruel vamping tendencies that youthful masculine hearts lie in heaps about her. But this one doesn't even lean across the sheet music counter when dinners at the Astor, rides along the Hudson and tickets to the best show in town are mentioned to her. She merely notices the presence of the music buyers as though they were one of the necessary evils of life, and keeps on dreaming of young Lochinvars with the names in the blue book.

Of course she finds her ideal. His name off the screen—and that stands for a lot so far as your entertainment is concerned—is Hallam Cooley, but —spare us from the necessity for elucidation! See for yourselves whether he carries the Cupid stamp.

AT THE ROYAL.

This is another Special Feature Day! To-night's programme includes the popular young actor, Maurice Flynn, in a six reel featured called "Smiles Are Trumps." This is a corking railroad romance that has all the thrills of a serial, with the dignity of a special feature. Jimmy Carson, played by Mr. Flynn, is assistant paymaster of a railway division. He is hated by the paymaster through jealousy. The paymaster has been working in with an Italian section foreman and stealing by padded payrolls. They learn that Jimmy is wise to their crooked work. He is sent out to make the monthly pay and is handed envelopes in which every man's pay is found to be short. The men attack Jimmy, whom they suspect of cheating them. He escapes and after a row with the paymaster, leaves him, as he fears, dead. On his way to the county seat to give himself up, the paymaster recovers and steals a large roll of bills from the company's safe and blames Jimmy for the theft. The crooked foreman organizes an attack on a train carrying the general manager and his beautiful daughter. Jimmy is hiding on this train on his way to surrender for his supposed killing of the paymaster. Jimmy comes to the assistance of the G. M. and his daughter. The paymaster who stole the money is caught and so is Jimmy, the later by the general manager's daughter. A virile plot electrical with thrills and sweetened by romance. Then there is another First National super-feature, called "Good References," with Constance Talmadge, the world's greatest comedienne, in the leading role. This is a scenically beautiful and delightfully humorous high-class comedy. The two reel Clyde Cook comedy called "The Guide" is a crackerjack funmaker. This theatre is electrically cooled and the best plaec in this city to spend an evening.

NOTES OF GAME AT COBOURG

McCaffery, the Cobourg first sacker, and Max Swanston, the Petes' catcher, were the only two players to get more than one hit. McCaffery had two doubles and a single, while Swanston had two singles and a pair of sacrifices as well.

The fielding feature for the Petes was Dugan's catch of a long by in the sixth innings.

Sandy Lockington of Port Hope, and Secretary Jack Nott, of Oshawa, were two of the Central League celebrities who saw yesterday's game at Cobourg.

The Central League race this year promises to be a hummer. The campaign is not a week old yet, and already six of the eight teams have already been beaten. The standing:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Cobourg	1	0	1000
Belleville	1	0	1000
Peterborough	1	1	.500
Oshawa	1	1	.500
Leaside	1	1	.500
Lindsay	1	1	'500
Bowmanville	0	1	.000
Port Hope	0	1	.000

Tyson tried to steal second in the first innings on the third strike on Butler, but Swanston's perfect peg to Johnston nailed him by a yard.

LINDSAY GREYBIRDS DEFEATED LEASIDE

LINDSAY, May 25.—(Special to The Examiner). — Before a record crowd the Lindsay Greybirds defeated Leaside in a League fixture yesterday by a score 9 to 5. The score stood 3 to 0 at the end of the third in favor of Leaside. Lindsay scored 4 in the 4th, 3 in the 6th and 2 in the 8th; Leaside scored 2 in the 9th. Oulette had 10 strike-outs. Ward, for Leaside, pitched four innings and was replaced by Lefty McGuire, who had six strike-outs.

Manager Peacock protested the game at the end of the 5th owing to a decision of Butler, the base umpire, which banished Jones, left fielder for Leaside, from the game for back talk.

TWO LACROSSE FEATURES AT CAMPBELLFORD

Intermediates Defeated Aura Lee and Juniors Played Peterborough to 6-6 Tie — Big Holiday Crowd.

LOCAL HORSES WON.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 25.—Aura Lee Juniors of Toronto provided a good practice game for Campbellford's Intermediates before a big crowd on the holiday afternoon. The score was 13-4, and up to half time the game was an interesting exhibition of lacrosse, but the third quarter was a walkover, and the whole game lacked the sustained excitement aroused by the curtain-raiser between Peterborough and Campbellford Juniors, ending in a 6-6 tie.

The abundance of lacrosse and a card of three races, with loose ends of other attractions and a fine concert by the Northumberland Regimental Band, under the direction of Mr. R. T. Cowell, provided a real holiday entertainment that went well with the perfect weather traditionally associated with the "Queen's birthday." Nothing happened to mar the the celebration, and in the lacrosse games the best of sporting spirit was shown by the four teams.

The crowd gave this year's Intermediates a thorough once-over and were more than satisfied with its performance. In Elwin Sommerville on the defense they have a find. Not only has he lots of ability in stick-handling and field work, but he apparently has plenty of brains with the technical skill. Gannon and Harte looked just as good as ever, Jack Nesbitt, Jimmie Kerr and Charlie Montgomery gave a good account of themselves, and Garrison, a junior goal-minder, performed so well that Pat Kelly needn't worry about the goal-tending job if his pupil continues the pace he set yesterday. Ackers of Stirling and Saunders of last year's Juniors will be good material to draw from, and Charlie Holmes, who was with Havelock last year, seemed natural enough in Campbellford's colours. Heagle at outside home may be as good as reports favour him, but to be of use on that home he will have to pass more freely than he did yesterday when Walter Newton, the 135-pound international boxing champion, wasn't watching him. Heagle hung on to the ball about as well as did Pete Johnston of last year's team. Paul Thomas delighted the crowd with his clever work.

The teams were:

Aura Lee—Goal, Wallace; point, Cavanagh; cover-point, Kitchin; defense, Craddock and Sanderson; centre, Rice; home, Shaw and H. Morris; outside home, Shell; inside home, E. Morris; spares, Newton, Tough, Watson and Rowan.

Campbellford — Goal, Garrison; point, T. Thomas; cover-point, Montgomery; defense, Summerville and Gannon; centre, Holmes; home, Paul Thomas and Harte; outside home, Heagle; inside home, Kerr; spares, Nesbitt and Ackers.

Referee—W. Harcourt.

Judge of play—Dick Cole.

Gannon scored first for Campbellford and Cavanagh tied it up, taking a long pass inside the defense. Wallace stopped a fusilade of shots during the next ten minutes, and finally Tom Thomas beat him with a fast one along the grass, and Harte flipped the next into one corner of the net.

E. Morris opened the second period for the visitors, getting inside for a clean shot, but Jack Nesbitt got the next for Campbellford on a solo effort. Tom Thomas whiffed another along the grass past Wallace, making the score 5-2 half way.

Campbellford scored six in the third, while Aura Lee looked helpless. Kerr, Paul Thomas, Nesbitt, Harte and Summerville got the goals. The score at the opening of the last period was 11-2, and each team notched two in the final session.

The Junior Game.

The Junior game tickled the crowd. It was clean and fast and the local youngsters, who appeared lighter than Peterborough showed considerable style in their tactics, probably an effect of Elwin Summerville's coaching. The teams were:

Peterborough—Goal, Joe Meyette; point, J. Ward; cover-point, George Leonard; defense, J. McCoy and J. Taylor; centre, Miller; home, Alf. Johnston and Eric Finlay; outside home, Dunk; inside home, J. McDonald; spares, Hormel and White.

Campbellford—Goal, C. Garrison; point, G. Reynolds; cover-point, A. White; defense, Blake and Cochrane; centre, Maybee; home, Smith and Brown; outside home, F. Hendricks; inside home, Ralph Copperthwaite; spares, Akers and Saunders.

Referee—W. Cole.

Judge of play—W. Harcourt.

Hendricks whiffed a grounder past Meyette to open the proceedings. Peterborough's checking was loose Hendricks had lots of time to pick out a loophole. Eric Finlay had several chances for Peterborough, but the Campbellford defense made it warm for him. Finally he shot a pass to Dunk, who scored. Alfie Johnston put the visitors ahead after racing in alone for the next goal, but Jack Brown tied it up. He was uncovered and helped himself to an easy goal. Johnston scored again for Peterborough, but Copperthwaite once more put the teams on even terms, and White sent Campbellford ahead after an easy passage through the Peterborough defense. Ackers of Stirling and Saunders went on in the second period for the home team, and at once equalized the play. Saunders scored the last goal before half time, leaving it 5-3, and after the rest Blake made it six. In the last half Peterborough gradually closed up the gap, Dunk, Leonard and McDonald getting the goals.

Petes Lose in Cobourg Beaten in a Great Game

Lakeshore Crew Win 3 to 2, Getting Winning Run in Eighth After Duel Between Derry and Heckman.

BIG CROWD THERE.

MASHING out a long double in the eighth inning of yesterday's Central Ontario League at Cobourg, McCaffery, Cobourg's new first baseman, made baseball history, for the blow sent Tyson home from second with the winning run and the lakeshore gang won by 3 runs to 2, beating Peterborough for the first time since the Central loop was organized. From a Cobourg standpoint, it was a perfect finish to a thrilling game of baseball, and McCaffery can run for Mayor any time he wants to after yesterday's exploit.

It was a battle from start to finish. The Petes jumped in with two runs in the first innings, only to have Cobourg come back with a pair in the fourth. In both cases it was the pitchers who delivered the necessary punch. Heckman coming through with the bases full in the first and Derry repeating the trick for Cobourg. From then on the teams fought along on even terms, until the eighth, when a fumble by Tommy Holyman and a neat sacrifice placed the winning run on second, and McCaffery supplied the necessary transportation to register the counter that meant the game.

"Punch" Derry, Cobourg's right-hander, secured from the Kingston Ponies, did the heaving for the winners, while Al. Heckman was on the firing line for the Solomon crew. Derry proved a steady, reliable twirler with a nice hook, a good deal of smoke and excellent control, and he went along nicely after the first innings. Heckman was not the Heckman of last Saturday, simply because he lacked control out there yesterday. He had as much stuff as ever, fanning no fewer than fourteen of the Tyson gang and allowing only five hits, but two of his four passes were mixed with two doubles, to score a pair of counters in the fourth. At that it took an error to pave the way for the winning counter, and with a little assistance in the way of timely hits from his teammates Heckman would have registered a win in spite of his lack of control. Several times a hit would have meant the ball game, but it was not forthcoming.

Cobourg have a real team this year, and the Petes are not the last crew that will have their colours lowered by the lakeshore bunch. They have secured a jewel of a first baseman in McCaffery, a big left-hander, who is a classy fielder and a powerful hitter as well. His record yesterday was two doubles and a single in four trips to the plate, and both two-baggers had a big share in the run-getting. Skitch and Tyson are as good as ever, Turpin is developing into a good third baseman and the acquisition of Derry has given them a dependable twirler.

Nearly 3,000 people, including 500 fans from Peterborough, saw the game, which was played at Horse Show Park, an ideal ball grounds with ample seating accommodation and a fine grass diamond. The opening ceremonies included a parade of the teams, headed by the Kilties' Band, and several of the civic dignitaries assisted in the proceedings at the park.

The Petes got away to a great start. Lowe was hit on the leg with the first ball Derry delivered and Johnston moved him up to second with a neat sacrifice. Swanston cracked a single through the box, Lowe going to third. Swanston then stole second, making room for Frank Collins, who walked, filling the bases. Heckman came through with a long drive over Bulger's head in left, scoring Lowe and Swanston. It should have been a double for the pitcher, but Collins failed to touch second and had to go back, forcing Heckman to stop at first. Collins stole third, but Kirn was called out on strikes, and Shaughnessy lined into Derry's hands.

Cobourg filled the bases in the second on Kirn's miss of Collins' throw, Turpin's safe bunt and a pass to Bulger, but Heckman fanned Derry, leaving the cushions densely populated.

The Tyson crew, however, evened the count in the fourth. McCaffery, the batting hero of the day, started the proceedings with a ringing double between Dugan and Lowe. Higginbottom drew a pass. Turpin struck out, but Markey walked, filling the bases. Bulger fell a victim to Heckman's smoke, and it was up to Derry to help win his own game, and the ex-Kingston twirler made good with a long double to the fence in left, scoring McCaffery and Higginbottom. Markey overran third on the play and a relay from Shaughnessy to Holyman to Johnston to Collins nailed him.

With the score even, it was a battle royal. Both teams had a chance to score in the fifth, but the necessary hit was lacking. Cobourg went out in order in the sixth and seventh, five of them via the strike-out route. The Petes made a bid for a run in the seventh, only to be robbed by a great play by Skitch, Cobourg's clever second baseman. With one down, Lowe doubled down the third baseline, Johnston fanned, but Swanston met one of Derry's curves on the nose and drove the ball on a line to right. Skitch made a leap at the whizzing lined and knocked it down in time to hold Lowe at third, Swanston getting a single out of what looked like a sure double. Swanston stole second, but Collins' best was a tap to the pitcher.

Another good chance was wasted in the eighth. Heckman, first up, got a life on Turpin's high throw to first and Kirn singled to right. Shaughnessy laid down a perfect sacrifice, advancing the base-runners, but both Holyman and Dugan fanned.

Cobourg won out in their half. Tyson started the trouble with a roller to Holyman, who fumbled, giving the lakeshore catcher a life. Butler sacrificed him to second and McCaffery delivered the necessary wallop by a long smash over Lowe's head in centre, Tyson carrying the winning run over. Both Higginbottom and Turpin fanned, but the damage had been done, the Petes going out in order in the ninth.

Lakehurst defeated Omemee, 2 to 1 in a fast football game at Omemee yesterday afternoon. Both teams played first-class football and a good game resulted.

Diamond Dust

The Peterborough-Cobourg game was a good one, even if the Petes did lose.

* * *

Whitlaw did some great bating for the Lakeviews yesterday, with a single, a double and a tripple in three times up.

* * *

McLean got three tripples and two singles in five times to bat against Keene.

* * *

Thompson and Kendry pulled rather a boner when they stood and watched Rose's slow grounder roll between them.

ERRORS COSTLY FOR "Y" TEAM

C.G.E. Aggregation Holds Long End of 11 to 6 Score. Sheehan Gets Poor Support.

Costly errors on the part of the Y.M.C.A. players in the early part of their game yesterday afternoon gave the victory to the C.G.E. aggregation, 11 to 6. The winners collected five of their runs in the third inning when three men reached first on errors, and Sheehan was touched for three safties, including a two-bagger by McElroy. They also got at least one tally in every inning, except the sixth. The only inning in which the "Y" team looked at all dangerous was in the fourth, when they gathered four hits and an equal number of runs. Sheehan, who did the twirling for the Y.M.C.A., fanned four and walked three, while McElroy, who pitched the first four innings for the C.G.E., struck out five without issuing a single complimentary, and Frost, who officiated on the mound for the last four innings, fanned the same number and walked one. The players were:

THREE BALL GAMES.

BAILIEBORO, May 25.—Three baseball games featured the Tuxis Square celebration here yesterday, in the senior game Garden Hill defeated the locals, 5 to 1. The batteries were: For Garden Hill, Wright and Dunbar; for Bailieboro, Hutchinson and Lord. The Millbrook Trail Rangers defeated the Bailieboro Trail Rangers, 11 to 4, and in the third game the Bailieboro Public School girls defeated the Bewdley Public School girls, 13 to 12.

LACROSSE GAME.

The Havelock Intermediates and the Hastings Juniors staged a good lacrosse game at Hastings yesterday, which resulted in a 5 to 5 score.

OSHAWA GAME SATURDAY WILL DRAW BIG CROWD

Visit of Last Year's Champions Has Peterboro Fans Excited and Attendance Record is Threatened.

THE TEAMS ARE TIED.

Excitement is at fever heat in the old Central League circuit as a result of yesterday's doing, and with Oshawa scheduled to meet the Petes at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon it looks certain that new attendance figures will be rung up. Yesterday was a big day in the league race. Leaside and Peterborough, the two winners on Saturday, were both beaten, Leaside dropping the Lindsay fixture by 9 to 5. Belleville nosed a victory at Bowmanville and Port Hope were the victims of the only landslide of the day, being walloped 11 to 1 at Oshawa. The victory will put the Oshawa gang right on edge for their game with the Petes here on Saturday, while the Solomon gang are anxious to get back some of the percentage they lost yesterday(and there will be something doing every minute. The game is called for 3 o'clock, and there won't be much vacant room in the stands when Umpire Jack Rosevear of Port Hope calls "Play ball!"

LINDSAY DEFEATED BY PETERBORO IN FOOTBALL GAME

Locals Take Fast Game By 6 to 2 Score at the Oval. Dyer Stars For the Petes

THE GAME.

Peterborough's picked football team clashed with a likely looking team from Lindsay yesterday afternoon at the Oval, and after and at the end of a hard and fast game were the winners by a score of 6 to 1.

Peterborough scored first through Dyer, and the same player made it two shortly after. Lindsay got a well deserved goal when Burchall beat Griffin with a hard grounder. Peterborough had two chances on penalty kicks, but both McMillan and Dyer were charitable and made it easy for the Abrahams. At halftime the score stood 2 to 1 for the Petes.

In the second half Lindsay pressed the home team hard, but their nearest reward was when a hard shot got the foot of the post, with Griffin beat. Dyer and Burgess then opened up a spirited attack for Peterborough and finished up under full steam, Dyer getting three and Burgess one goal. The players were:

Lindsay — Abraham, Halliwell, Mount, McGee, Burchall, Pullen, Rhodes, Hughes, G. Mount, Harper and Dungar.

Peterborough — Griffin, Young, Willshaw, Burrows, McMillan, Hurrle, Manders, Shaw, Dyer, Hannah and Burgess.

Referee—William Thompson.

HASTINGS WINS OPENING GAME.

Inter-County League Got Away to a Good Start Yesterday. Warkworth Loses.

HASTINGS, May 25.—Hastings held the long end of a 9 to 2 score in the opening game with Warkworth in the Inter-County League yesterday afternoon. The game was opened by Father Bretherton, who pitched the first ball, with Alex. Wilson, Clerk of the town, at bat and A. U. Bailey catching. A large number of fans turned out and were treated to a good fast game. The players were:

Warkworth—Cokery, p; Bunney, c; Armstrong, 1b; Thompson, 2b; Baker, 3b; N. Thompson, ss; A. Smail, rf; Thompson, cf; Zuefelt, lf.

Hastings—Herrington, p; Scriber, c; Stephenson, 1b; Long, 2b; Doonan, 3b; Burkholder, ss; Langley, lf; Downes, cf; O. Scriber, rf.

The score:

Warkworth	000000002—2
Hastings	10420110x—9

THEY PITCHED PERFECT BALL

CY YOUNG. ADDIE JOSS.

CHARLEY ROBERTSON.

Since the Inception of the Modern Game no Other Hurler Has Touched the Record Made By These Three.

Since the inception of modern baseball only three major league pitchers has ever pitched a perfect game.

These three are:

Charley Robertson, who, for the White Sox, allowed the Tigers neither a run or hit during the game of April 30. In all, 27 men faced him, not one of whom reached the initial sack.

Cy Young, who, in 1904, pitched a no-hit, no-run game for the Boston Americans against the Athletics.

The late Addie Joss, who equaled Young's record, four years after it was set, for the Cleveland Americans, pitching against the White Sox.

All this, remarked is modern baseball history. Three old-time National Leaguers accomplished feats similar to those of Young, Joss and Robertson in the days of long ago.

The first was W. G. Bradley, St. Louis, on July 15, 1870; the second J. L. Richmond, Worchester, June 12 1880; the third, J. M. Ward, Providence, June 17, of the same year.

OSHAWA WON BY BIG MARGIN

Automobile Town Held the Lakeshore Aggregation Scoreless.

OSHAWA, May 25.—(Special.)—Port Hope and Oshawa clashed in a Central League fixture yesterday afternoon. It was the local opening, and the usual ceremonies, with the 1921 championship flag raising as an extra, were on the bill of fare. Oshawa got away to a good start in their first innings with two runs, but they were held scoreless until the seventh, when Dear was driven to the showers after four runs had been put across, and Boyd took his place, but with no beter results, as the home crew chased five men across, while Gallegher held the Easterners scoreless for the full nine innings. Score:

LAKEVIEWS WIN AN EASY GAME.

Whitelaw and Ash Do Some Heavy Hitting For Winners of Lakeview. Holy Name Game.

In the first half of yesterday afternoon's double-header at the park the Lakeviews showed a decided superiority over the Holy Name Society's aggregation and carried off the honours with a 9 to 4 score. Heavy hitting on the part of the winners was a feature of the game. Whitlaw topped the lot with a triple, a double and a single in ofur official times at bat. Ash, also with four appearances, had a double and two singles to his credit. The third frame was the only one in which the Holy Name players showed any signs of becoming dangerous. They brought in three of their runs in this inning.

The players were:

H.N.S.—Sheehy, p; Miller, c; Holland, 1b; McPherson, 2b; Malloy, 3b; Fitzgerald, ss; Hall, lf; O'Toole, cf; Rody, cf, ss; Modsley, rf; McDonough, rf.

BOXING BOUTS IN THE QUEEN CITY.

TORONTO, May 25.—(Canadian Press.)— Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo featherweight, fought ten rounds to a draw with Tommy Noble, English featherweight champion, here last night. Eddie Pinchot, the clever Charleroi bantam, handed Curly Wilshur, Toronto, a nice lacing in ten rounds, and Mixer Mitchell, welter, of Syracuse, outslammed Nate Lewis, of Buffalo, in ten sessions.

BETHANY SWAMPS MILLBROOK TEAM.

Millbrook Player Sustains Serious Injury While Sliding to Third Base.

MILLBROOK, May 25.—Bethany defeated Millbrook, 11 to 2, in the opening game of the C.M.E. League yesterday afternoon at Millbrook. The losers were greatly handicapped by the loss of C. Larmer, their star second baseman, who broke his ankle while sliding into third base in the fourth inning.

The ball game was the climax of a big field day, which was featured by a brass band and sports of all kinds. The game was opend by President Stinson of the C.M.E. League, who pitched the first ball and made a few remarks. The players were:

Bethany—C. Staples, p; T. Staples, c; H. McKinlay, 1b; H. McCarthy, 2b; R. Staples, 3b; C. Sisson, ss; Arnott, lf; Riley, cf; Johnson, rf.

The game was followed by an exhibition game between picked players from Cavan and Bethany. This game also went to Bethany, 8 to 7.

Many spectators turned out for the sports, and the day was a success in every respect.

SCOTS CORNER HAS GREAT SPORT DAY.

The Scots Corners Community Club held a big time yesterday with a field day, which featured two baseball and a basketball game. Two senior boys' teams played an excellent game, resulting in a 9 to 5 score. In the junior boys' game the Fairmount team was victorious over the Town Hall gang, 10 to 7, after a fast and exciting game.

In the girls' basketball the whites defeated the blues, 13 to 4.

RACING RECORD AT WOODBINE BROKEN.

TORONTO, May 25.—(Canadian Press.)— Favored by fine weather and an excellent racing card, the record for attendance was smashed at the Woodbine yesterday, when 28,000 paid to see the Toronto Cup, Coronation Stakes and other fixtures run off.

BASEBALL NEWS

The Fire Hall Falcons won their third game of the season, when they defeated the Salvation Army team at Hiawatha by a score of 32 to 2. The game was well played, though the Firemen had the edge on runs in the game. The Salvation Army rolled in two counters. The feature of the game was Cheu's superb pitching for the fire hall, he having ten strikeouts. Butcher's catch on third for the Salvation Army was indeed a brilliant sensation. Score by innings:

CLASSICS FALL TO RAYBESTOS

Raybestos Hit the Ball All Over the Field. Adanacs Trim the Lock Works.

Adanacs defeated Lock Works by 10 to 1, and Raybestos trimmed Classics by 11 to 2, in the morning games at Riverside Park, on the holiday. Incidentally, the Raybestos crowd captured the Spaulding donated by George Russell of the factory nine, and used in opening this game. It is worthy of note that Herm. Wolff hit this particular ball on its first trip along the firing line, far into left field, for three bases.

The games produced some nice pitching and a generous display of long-distance clouting. Charlie Shaughnessy twirled a clever game for the Adanacs, and Raybestos hit Camp's offerings hard in the third and seventh, for a total of nine runs.

Adanacs never were in danger. Shaughnessy held the lockmakers to a pair of dinky singles, fanned nine batsmen, retired the enemy in order in four frames and did not issue a pass. His teammates gave him runs in bunches, getting four in the second and five in the sixth, Wilgar and the Hardill brothers each knitting for two bases. Connors, on the hurling heap for Lock Works, was going good enough to keep in the running, but the help behind him gave poor support, wild throwing being their chief sin. Moore went in for relief duty in the sixth and retired the side in order. Batten, the Adanacs' second sacker, featured the fielding by laying for and spearing a line drive by Collins in the sixth.

The teams:

Adanacs—Hensley, ss; Bradshaw, lf; Turner, lf; McLean, 3b; Wilgar, c; Batten, 2b; Jeff. Hardill, cf; Scates, rf; J. Hardill, 1b; Shaughnessy, p.

By innings:

Adanacs ..... 140005x—10	10	3

The intermediate meeting was a swatfest, in which Raybestos took a liking to Camp's pitching, while Bartley held Classics well in hand. It was some revenge, for the majority of the winning team who, as members of the Westclox team last season, lost the hunt for Mercantile League honours, being put away by the team now pastiming under the name of Classics. Bartley allowed Classics four hits, one a double, by Head, but Raybestos hit out twelve safeties, including a triple and a couple of two-baggers. Bartley fanned seven of his former teammates and Camp whiffed six batters. Bergoine, usually reliable and steady behind the bat, put in a bad morning, and was far below form.

The teams:

Raybestos—Wolff, 3b; Coursey, lf; Lundy, ss; Prosser, c; Russell, 2b; Nicholls, 1b; Auger, cf; Murray, rf; Bartley, p.

Classics—Hunter, ss; Cobb, 1b; Sage, 3b; Head, cf; Johnston, lf; Wilgar, 2b; Armstrong, rf; Camp, p; Bergoine, c.

BELLEVILLE WON WITH SCORE 3-2

The Opening Bowmanville Home Game of Central Ontario League.

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., May 25.—(Special.) — The opening home game in the Central Ontario Baseball League was played here yesterday afternon, when Bowmanville held Belleville to the close score of 3 to 2, each team scoring runs in the seventh innings.

The credit of the victory goes to Jack Williams, who had 18 strikeouts to his credit and only allowed 4 hits. Chambers, although not credited with as many strike-outs, held Belleville under control with the exception of one innings. The Bowmanville team as a whole gave a splendid exhibition and clearly demonstrated that they are entitled to a berth in the Central League. Score by innings:

DONATIONS TO GRENFELL MISSION ACKNOWLEDGED.

The treasurer of the local branch of the Grenfell Mission acknowledges with grateful thanks a contribution of $23.43 from Knox Presbyterian Sunday school; also $3 from the Lily Lake Sunday school. The committee is very grateful for the interest shown in the work, and for donations received from several older friends of the Mission. There will be at least $100 more to be sent to the general treasurer, and the bale which is to be packed next week promises to be very satisfactory. Any clothing sent to the Grafton store for this bale will be gratefully received.

"THE BLUEBIRD" SEPTETTE

There is a wonderful septette in "The Message of the Bluebird", Mr. Asa Huycke's light opera, to be presented at the Grand Opera House next Tuesday and Wednesday. Probably the finest musical number in this pretty production, it is composed of Mrs. H. H. Park, Mrs. A. A. Perrin, Miss Ida Sanderson, Miss L. Eastwood, and Messrs. C. Legendre, E. Picard and A. Huycke. These well-known vocalists have put a lot of hard work into their preparation of this difficult number, and it is safe to say that Peterboro theatre-goers will hear something on a scale never before attempted by amateurs The costumes, scenery, etc., are absolutely new, and everything promises to go off without a hitch. Plan opens to-morrow morning for subscribers and for the general public on Saturday. 1d 122 3457

HOPES EMBARGO ON CAN. CATTLE WILL BE LIFTED

British Columbian Points Out That England Has Pledged Word to That Effect.

REDEEM PROMISE.

QUEBEC, May 26.—The Empress of Scotland arrived in Quebec late yesterday afternoon, and after making a turn in her own length, with the aid of only one tug, reached her dockage and had the passengers ready to land at 5.25 o'clock.

Captain J. Gillies, commander, reports a splendid passage and fine weather all the way across. The Scotland brought six hundred and fifty passengers, including 268 in the saloon, for the most part Americans on their return from a trip to the Mediterranean; also many Canadians of prominence, among the number, Mr. F. C. Wade, B.A., K.C., British Columbia agent to London, accompanied by Mrs. Wade on the way to Vancouver on a holiday; Hon. Frank and Mrs. Carrel, Quebec; Hon. H. M. Barwell, LL.B., J.P., Prime Minister of South Australia, and Mrs. Barwell; Mr. A. D. Curtis, the well known publisher, and Mrs. Curtis, of Chicago; Mr. Rolph King, of Toronto; Lady Ellen Jackson, London; Col. W. M. Sinclair, C.D. C.M.G., C.D.E., of London, Eng.

Hopes For Benefit.

Referring to the Genoa Conference, Hon. Frank Carrel said that although the optimistic hopes of the economists and politicians in Great Britain have been to a great extent shattered by its conclusion, it is believed in the most thoughtful circles that much good may come out of it when the smoke of controversal disagreements has evaporated.

As far as he could learn and from his own observation he would say that conditions in commercial and trade circles in England and France were on the mend, and the fears heretofore entertained of political advantage in the various parts of the world were giving way to a better feeling of conciliation that would, in the near future, bring about a better understanding between Europe, and thus be the turning point of a standardization of safe and sane economical conditions.

Cattle Embargo.

Mr. F. C. Wade expressing his opinion on economical conditions in Europe, said that there were rifts in the clouds for their betterment, and he was inclined to say, from his personal observations as well as from official enquiries, that conditions in England were steadily improving. Referring to the cattle embargo Mr. Wade said, the embargo will be lifted by the British Government.

England pledged her word to that effect and England never goes back on a promise. He speaks very highly of the new Canadian High Commissioner, Hon. Mr. Larkin. To London, he said, Mr. Larkin from the very moment of his arrival, brought with him and planted on the soil of England the true ring and sentiment of loyal Canadianism. He gathered together the agents of the various Provincial Governments, and immediately gave his status which we did not heretofore hold, and which now means our influence is greater. As you are aware, there is a Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London, with a membership of five hundred Canadians. Mr. Larkin immediately got in touch with that Chamber of Commerce, and with his Canadian personality and spirit of Canadianism generated a new life into the members, who have to-day elected him Honorary President of the British Canadian Chamber of Commerce. "I expect big things from Mr. Larkin, and in him Canada has a true representaive."

Lost An Opportunity.

Referring to immigration Mr. Wade said Canada has lost a golden opportunity by not removing the restrictions on British immigration last year instead of this spring. If this had been done last fall, to-day thousands of the finest class of Britishers wold be coming to Canada for settlement instead of going to other countries.

Asked if the restrictions recently removed would not have the effect of bringing out a large mid-summer immigration to Canada, he replied that he hoped that such would be the case, but he was afraid that the removal of the restrictions came too late for this year's immigration.

Declare Conference At Genoa a Failure

LONDON, May 26.—(Canadian Press.)— Editorial verdict in London this morning on Lloyd George's Genoa speech is directly opposed to that of the House of Commons, which gave him what is considered a vote of confidence.

Five of the leading newspapers write "Failure" across the face of the Conference, and have nothing but censure for the Premier's defence of his foreign policy.

Two others bestow praise on the Conference.

Mantle of Secrecy Envelops Parley in Paris to Solve Europe's Financial Problems.

WORLD NEWS

PARIS, May 26. — (Canadian Press.)—A mantle of secrecy envelopes the proceedings of the International Commitee of Bankers here endeavoring to solve Europe's financial problems. Not a single French newspaper got a hint of what they did yesterday. Consequently they have vanished from the news columns to-day. Even persons prominent in France's public life have not been permitted to know what was passing at Hotel Astoria.

DIGGING IN AT BELFAST.

BELFAST, May 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Since Saturday last twenty-eight deaths from violence have occurred in this city, including six last evening and to-day. In the east end of the city this morning inhabitants dug trenches to provide shelter against an expected attack.

TO REPLACE TEMPLE.

QUEBEC, May 26. — (Canadian Press.)—A temple costing three million dollars to be erected in Ste. Anne de Beaupre to replace the destroyed one, according to an announcement made by Redemptorist Fathers, and a monastery of five hundred thousand dollars to provide accommodation for resident Fathers. At the same time it was also stated that in view of the importance of the work a contest open to all Canadian architects and bearing a prize of $15,000 for successful candidates, may be held in connection with the scheme.

A BRILLIANT CAREER.

MONTREAL, May 26.— (Canadian Press.)—With the death of Rev. James Roy, M.A., LT.D., which occurred yesterday at the age of 87 years and six months, there came to a close a career which was marked by both brilliance and disversity, since Dr. Roy ministered at different periods of his life in Methodist, Congregational and Anglican churches, while for some time he was also principal of Cobourg College.

He was born in Montreal on November 12, 1834, son of English and Scotch parents, and educated in city schools and later at Bishop's College, Lennoxville.

MRS. EMMA EDWARDS AND ABE FILION WITH POLICE ESCORT

The above photograph was taken as Mrs. Emma Edwards and Abe Filion, both charged with murder, were leaving the police station for the County Goal, where they are awaiting trial. The prisoners were taken out of the rear door of the police station and removed to the goal in the police car. Many who had gathered around the police station to catch a glimpse of the prisoners were disappointed when they failed to show up at the Water street entrance. With Mrs. Edwards and Filion are Detective Sergeant William Meagher on the left and Detective George Cookman on the right.

BREAK GROUND AT NEW PLANT

Construction of the New Westclox Plant Will Start on Monday Next —Lots of Help in Sight

Francis H. Leleu, resident engineer of the new Western Clock factory on Armour Hill, announced to-day that the contractors would break ground for their plant on Monday and men looking for work must show up that morning. A grand rush is expected. "Every five minutes some one has applied for work," said Mr. Leleu. "We intend to employ local labor and we have decided to make the artificial stone on the job to give more work." This work, Mr. Leleu said, would require cement workers and laborers.

"Everything is going nicely," he said. "Yesterday Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald surveyed the property. We expect a half-yard mixer to arrive today and will be in a position to put in the footings on Monday."

A few carpenters were working for the company to-day on the contractor's office which has been put up in record time. The engineers are now moved in, although work is still going on inside and outside. The water line is rapidly being pushed up the hill, and the Utilities Commission had a gang of men on the pick and shovel. The next entrant into the field, according to Street Commissioner Evans will be the gas company, and the city's final work on the street will be necessarily held up for a week or two, until all the tearing up of the road is over.

Mr. Evans said they expected to finish the job to-morrow night, and by the present outlook 25 or 30 men will be thrown out of employment again. A five foot trim has been taken off the roadway over the hill to bring it rown to the level of the factory, and to-day the gang were on the home stretch at the eastern side.

The company intends proceeding with the laying of sewer connections as soon as the water main is finished. The sewer will come in at the west side of the property linking up with the section that connects St. Joseph's Hospital a short distance south of Hunter street.

Nineteen Killed in Munition Explosion

VIENNA, May 26.— (Canadian Press.) — The death list from the disaster in an ammunition factory at Blumau, near Vienna, which blew up yesterday, was increased to 19 by the reports received here during the night.

More than three-score persons were injured and scores of dwellings in the town were destroyed, hardly a house escaping damage of some nature.

MARCHERS OBTAIN SUPPLY OF SOCKS

Workless Army is Another Lap Nearer the Capital—Gen McDonald Decorated

TRENTON, May 26.—(Special).—The cause of the veteran army was given a most effective boost here last evening by the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association. Through their efforts the town was canvassed for donations in cash and kind. Hundreds of hand bills were distributed asking the support of the townspeople. The result was a continuous flow of parcels into the Skating Rink, where the men were quartered.

This step on the part of the local G.W.V.A. stands out in contrast to the attitude of the association elsewhere, for the veterans have not been previiusly recognized by them.

From Brighton onwards the march was one long triumphal procession into Trenton. Reeve Harry Phillips of Brighton took the platform at lunch time, and with a megaphone made an appeal for socks that was heard all over the village. One hundred and fifty pairs were donated to replenish the quartermaster's stores, besides a number of good marching boots and nine dollars in cash.

On the road into Trenton one lone lady, the mother of four soldier sons, rushed out with a small cluster of white lilacs and pinned it on McDonald's coat, while the whole column cheered as it went past in a cloud of dust.

As the tired marchers halted in front of the memorial arch leading into the park, McDonald ordered thirty seconds of silent prayer for those names which were recorded on the tablets on the other side of the gate.

Consuming Interests Favor Removal of Canadian Cattle Embargo

LONDON, May 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Cattle committee of London Corporation has called another meeting of consuming interests favoring removal of embargo on Canadian cattle for June 14.

The Morning Post, in an article to-day, declares that Canadians object in getting live cattle to this country is not only clearly accentuated by impossibility o f making sales to United States pay at seven pounds or less per head, but has further point in fact that Great Britain does not tax live animals.

"Canada over duty," adds the paper, "must be feeling uncomfortable for she has been allowing the United States six per cent. ad valorem preference over the United Kingdom. Therefore the United Kingdom, before admitting Canadian meat, which is not raw material but product, is entitled to demand six per cent. ad valorem reduction in Canadian taxation of products."

CAR DAMAGED BY ANOTHER'S FAULT

Apparently Anything Goe-on the Chemong Speed way.

Some of the details of the accident on the Chemong Road that almost ruined Reuben Wilson's car and left it wrecked in the ditch about two miles from the city emphasizes some of the reckless driving that other motorists have reported since the roads dried up this spring. The car was driven by James Conway, and was homebound from Chemong. Mr. Conway, who was in no way responsible for the mishap, was driving at a comfortable rate of about fifteen miles an hour, when a big car rushed up from behind them, and on their right hand side, passing with a swish, their left rear wheel brushing Conway's right front wheel and shooting them across the road almost before Mr. Conway was aware of what was happening. The bigger car shot by at what seemed to be forty or fifty miles an hour, breaking all the possible rules of the road. Four other persons were in Mr. Conway's car, and as it overturned in the ditch several of them were slightly injured, but those who saw the damaged car marvelled that there had been no fatality. No telephone pole was struck, and if any of them in that vicinity are broken it was by some other force. The identity of the driver of the offending car is unknown, and Provincial Constable Stratton, who made some investigations, was unable to find a clue to guide him.

LOCAL MEMBER IS SATISFIED WITH CHANGES

Thinks the New Budget Will Help Relieve the Burden to Majority of Consumers.

IS WELL BALANCED.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., interviewed to-day said he believed the budget would relieve to some extent the vast majority of the consumers from the high cost of living.

The amount of the tariff reductions was not very extensive in most cases, but the fact that the tariff was reduced on sugar, and an excise tax upon Canadian grown grown beets, would equalize the price of that commodity.

Mr. Gordon further said that he was very much pleased that rolled wheat, buckwheat, meal, etc., were exempt from sales tax, because it was very important that the foods actually used by the people should not be taxed.

Last year, acocrding to Mr. Gordon, flour, oatmeal and other similar classes of cereal foods, had the sales tax removed, after a very long and tedious effort to have that done by the former Government.

Further Adjustments.

According to the local member's views there will be subsequent and further adjustments made to finally equalize and balance the scale of taxation, so it will bear as little as possible upon the necessaries of life and more upon those things which are considered luxuries.

Altogether Mr. Gordon said the budget was well balanced and he did not feel that any interest should consider itself otherwise than well treated, and that the general cost of living should have a direct drop, as there is now a definite Government policy in regard to the tariff, and the means by which the income of the government could be raised. Last year, on railways alone, Mr. Gordon said, some sixty eight million dollars was the deficit required to be met by this government, and the only manner in which this could be done was by finding a new source of taxation, such as the Finance Minister had adopted.

city until Sunday when he returns to Ottawa to resume his duties as Deputy Speaker of the House.

TO EXEMPT FLOUR MILLS FROM BOARD'S CONTROL

OTTAWA, May 26. — (Canadian Press). — A motion to rescind the resolution of R. M. Johnson (Moose Jaw), favoring a compulsory wheat board, passed the Agriculture Committee of the House this morning. This was moved by Robert Forke (Brandon), and seconded by Dr. L. J. Lovett (Digby-Annapolis).

R. M. Johnson, mover of the original resolution, then moved a new one, including some of the suggestions made by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, to exempt flour mills from control by any board which might be formed.

The resolution asked for a board as near the Canada Wheat Board as Parliament could grant, and that the proposed Act become effective by proclamation when two or more provinces had passed concurrent Acts.

The resolution carried unanimously.

EDWARDS CASE AGAIN DELAYED BY ILLNESS

One of the Principal Witnesses Under Quarantine With Chickenpox Until Next Week—Prisoners' Appearance Improves in Jail.

HEARING THURSDAY

Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards and Abraham Filion who are held on a charge of murdering Ernest Edwards were again remanded for a week by Magistrate Langley this morning. Mr. J. F. Strickland, representing the Crown, reported that Verna Martin, the young Norwood girl who is regarded as an important witness, has not yet recovered from chickenpox. He said that Dr. Young had told him the quarantine would be lifted next week, accordingly the remand was set until next Thursday.

The prisoners on their appearance this morning apparently find conditions at the jail congenial. The regularity and simplicity of their last three weeks seemed to have had a good effect, for both Mrs. Edwards and the youthful Filion looked better today than they have at any time since their arrest. Little personal touches achieved by brush and comb and a general cleanly appearance left them quite presentable.

Mr. F. D. Kerr, K. C. representing the young man and Mr. C. R. Widdifield counsel for the woman consented to the adjournment which they regarded as unavoidable. Magistrate Langley remarked that the Crown would be expected to have their case ready next week.

Disappointed by the failure of the main case to afford a little interest to start the day with Chief Newhall's regular patrons remained for the hearing of a charge of vagrancy against a young man whom the constables testified belonged to a good family but who had no affection for work. The patience of the morning audience seems proof against repeated adjournments.

Continent-wide Search Results In Two Arrests

MONTREAL, May 26.— (Canadian Press.)—As a result of a continent wide search by the William J. Burns International Detective Agency, bonds to the value of $7,000, a portion of the $30,000 worth which were stolen from the safe of the Bernier Hardware Company, 12 St. Lawrence Blvd., on March 20 last, has been recovered and W. M. Smith, a curb broker, 518 Second avenue north, Minneapolis and H. E. Sorlein, a promoter, also of that city, arrested.

SCOUTS HELD A RALLY HERE

Central Ontario Lone Scout Boosting League —Officers Elected.

A Lone Scouts Rally was held at Jackson Park on Victoria Day. A number of Lindsay boys took in the event as well as delegates from points in Central Ontario. The rally was featured by addresses concerning the work of the Lone Scouts and an organization work for further rallies. Lindsay will, in all probability, get next year's rally. A constitution was drawn up for Central Ontario Lone Scout Boosting League.

The following officers were elected:

SHOULD STIMULATE TRADE WITH CANADA

LONDON, May 26.—(Canadian Press).—The Financial Times, commenting on the Canadian Budget, said it was not surprising to find Hon. Mr. Fielding's downward revision of the tariff related principally to articles on which British preference applies.

"If the revision attains its purpose," states the Times, "it will achieve an improvement in the Dominion's Customs revenue by the cheapening of many imported goods, and a stimulation of the United Kingdom's export trade with Canada."

WILL INTERVIEW HON. F. C. BIGGS

Peterboro Interested in the Welcome-Dale Road

Arrangements have been made by Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., for a deputation to wait on Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Public Works, at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, at noon on Wednesday next, in regard to the Province, including the Welcome-Dale road in the Provincial Highway scheme.

W. A. McLean, Deputy Minister, looked favorably on the suggestion when he inspected the Port Hope-Peterborough section a week ago. This road is at right angles to the Provincial Highway from Port Hope and its inclusion in the highway system would remove the circuitous route now followed by traffic coming to Peterborough. Four miles would be saved on the road to Toronto. It would provide two drives into Port Hope from the west, either by the present route by Welcome or by Dale.

In anticipation of the Province taking over the road, the county of Durham has held up the construction of the Smith Creek bridge. Outside of this work there is not a great amount of improvements necessary, it is stated.

The County Councils of Peterborough and Durham are expected to join in the deputation, as well as representatives of the township councils interested, the municipalities of Peterborough and Port Hope and the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Motor League, which is strongly behind the movement to have this section of road added to the system and give Peterborough more direct communication with places to the west.

NO REPLY YET RE ST. LAWRENCE SHIP CANAL.

WASHINGTON, May 26. — (Canadian Press).—No reply has been received by the United States Government to its note forwarded to the Canadian Government, in which willingness to commence negotiations looking to a treaty relative to the proposed St. Lawrence ship canal project was expressed.

It is expected, however, that the Dominion will commence the negotiations on the treaty at a time deemed expedient by the Canadian Government.

Baby Shirley and Her Two Mothers

There is heartbreak for one woman when the case of Baby Shirley (Crosier) Margolies is decided in court.

Baby Shirley's child-mother gave her away before she was born, because she thought her boy husdanb had deserted her and she could not see how she could care for her as babies should be cared for.

She was young, and not very wise—Baby Shirley's mother—and thought she was doing what was best for her little one. Because she was young and not very wise she did not think to inquire very closely into the history of the woman to whom she entrusted her baby's life. She knew that they had money, because they said they had, and because they were richly dressed, and came in a big limousine—and so she signed the adoption papers, and Baby Shirley was taken away in the big car.

When the child-mother learned that she had given her baby to a woman with a long police record for crimes that a good woman turns away from with shuddering she did what every mother on earth would do—started action to recover her baby.

Mrs. Margolis herself understands, and would have done the same if the situation had been reversed—is doing the same now when she opposes the action to take the baby away from her. It is the same instinctive understanding of mother love that made her refuse to allow Mrs. Crosier to touch the baby when she was permitted to see her. She knew that once let that mother feel the warmth of that soft baby body in her arms, that no power on earth would ever stop the struggle to get her—only death would do that.

Both women are prepared to fight to the bitter end—to defy law and man and God Himself, if necessary, to have and to hold that baby. It is the mother instinct that every woman knows.

The right of travail and suffering and love—the natural mother right—is Mrs. Crosier's. The legal right of adoption, and love of a foster-mother that has come with her daily care of the little one, is Mrs. Margolies'.

Lifelong remorse and longing and tears will be Mrs. Crozier's if the judge decides that the legal right holds for Mrs. Margolies.

Regret and resentment, longing and tears, will be Mrs. Margolies' if the judge gives the baby to its mother. She loves that baby. There is no doubt of that—loves it with a love strong enough to make her live honestly, she says. The touch of baby fingers has roused in her the mother instinct that can not be resisted, even by a woman who has deliberately chosen a life that has denied motherhood to her. Whether it is an unselfish love that will enable her to sacrifice herself to the good of the child, and accept the decision of the judge, if it goes against her, as the inevitable price that must be paid when a woman errs morally, is a question for her to decide. It is perhaps the final crisis of her life, when she must choose between continuing to live honestly, as she is now, for the baby's sake, or go back to the old life out of spite at what seems to her the unjust treatment of fate. If she is the "good sport" she thinks she is, she will let the baby go for its own sake and accept her sacrifice and sorrow as the inevitable payment.

Little Shirley holds, in her unconscious baby hands, the lives of two women—abiding heartbreak for one, abiding joy for the other—and the condition of her own future life. 'Tis well she is unconscious of her power.

ABOUT CHECKS..

To be more explicit, fashion leads a gingham-checkered career, for gingham has come out of the kitchen and is found in the best society this season.

The sheer French ginghams are used for handkerchiefs and tailored underwear. New little sets of collars and cuffs made to be worn with suits or sweaters are of gingham or are gingham trimmed.

Summer frocks, of course, are of checked ginghams in all colors and varieties, combined often with plain materials. Even other materials are shown in gingham checks—taffeta and ratine especially. Red and white is the most popular check, with brown and white, brown and blue, green and white and yellow and white following close behind.

The sales of chewing gum which was little used in England before the war, now amount to $1,000,000 annually in that country.

LONDON COMMENT IS FAVORABLE TO CANADIAN TARIFF

Business Men Believe the Proposed Tariff Will Promote Trade Within the Empire.

MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, May 26. Canadian Press. — Although the Canadian budget so far has produced no particular comment in London, the feeling in business circles is altogether favorable. The tariff changes are regarded as distinctly favorable to Great Britain which, excluding the United States, is the greatest exporter to Canada.

The new tariff proposals are regarded as a distinct inducement towards trade within the Empire and it is believed here ought to improve the outlook for all shippers. Financial circles in London are already looking towards a revival of borrowing by Canada in London. The prophets are predicting that exchange will be at parity within a year.

"Wherever you borrow money, you have to trade there," said one Canadian finacier here yesterday. "If England increases her trade with Canada we shall be able to borrow here."

AUTO BURNED

ST. CATHARINES, May 26.—(Canadian Press).—A five passenger touring car owned by J. J. Powers of 570 Sherbourne street, Toronto, was practically destroyed by fire on the Queenston and Grims by Road near Victoria Lawn Cemetery. The blaze was caused by a short circuit.

WINE HALTS WEDDING

ST. CATHARINES, May 26.—(Canadian Press.)— A Hungarian wedding was postponed at Welland yesterday morning because Steve Takosch, the father of the bride-elect was caught by a policeman carrying a keg of wine which had been presented to him for the wedding feast. Steve was fined $200, given his freedom and the wedding took place yesterday afternoon.

SCHOOLS AND UNIVERSITIES OCCUPY THE ATTENTION OF MEMBERS AT QUEEN'S PARK

Matter of Training Secondary School Teachers at Toronto or Queen's Universities Causes a Small Storm.

SCHOOL SUBSIDIES.

TORONTO, May 26.—(Canadian Press.) — School and University questions furnished most of the subjects for dispute in yesterday afternoon' ssitting of the Ontario legislature. Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education, explained the clause whereby he hoped to more equitably distribute the provincial subsidies to Public and Separate rural schools of the province.

Exception was raised to the minister of education announcing through the press that he was calling a conference of representatives of county councils on July 5 to discuss continuation school problems without taking the members of the legislature into his confidence and laying the question before them. The minister promised that the result of this conference would be laid before the members of the legislature at next session.

Amendments to the University act which places the Faculty of Education where students are trained for High school and Collegiate Institute teachers solely with the Toronto University were attacked by W. F. Nickle (Kingston) as being unfair to Queen's University. The government of Toronto University also caused considerable controversy although the major debate on this will come up later.

Second readings were given the bills making changes in the fees to be retained by crown attorneys, division court clerks, and bailiffs; amendments to Power Commission Act; Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park Act; Load of Vehicles Act which provides that each truck must have on it a sign indicating the load it is allowed to carry; and the Educational Acts.

Secondary Teachers.

On the second reading of the bill to amend the University Act, Mr. Nickle pointed out that before 1908 or thereabouts, the school to train secondary school teachers was at Hamilton. This did not prove satisfactory and it was brought to Toronto, being made one of the faculties of the University here. Queen's objected because a number of its students took up the teaching profession and if Toronto had the exclusive right of giving the final training for High school teachers, then it would attract to Varsity, students who would otherwise go to Queen's. Accordingly Queen's was also allowed to have a faculty of education as this course is termed. This went on until two or three years ago when the faculties of education were moved from both Toronto and Queen's universities to a faculty at Toronto not to be connected, it was promised then, with any university. The bill now before the legislature puts this faculty back under the control of Toronto University.

Two Methods Used.

This is not only unfair to Queen's, the member for Kingston maintained, but it wold be a distinct loss to the province. The training at Toronto and at Queen's are from entirely different viewpoints and it is to the advantage of the province that it should have both methods of imparting education. This act would result in practically every High school teacher in the province being a graduate of Toronto Varsity and representing its viewpoint, with few or any teaching in the secondary schools the views and ideals of Queens.

Mr. Grant did not recall that there was a definite promise to Queen's that the provincial faculty of education would not be handed over again to Toronto University, but he would investigate it. This phase will be further discussed when the bill is in committee next week.

University Government.

Hon. Howard Ferguson and H. H. Dewart joined in the criticism of the government of Toronto university. Mr. Ferguson pointed out that Varsity had now the largest student body of any such institution in the British Empire. It was too much like a large manufacturing concern that turned out graduates as a mater of product, students who knew nothing of the government or ideals of the university and had no enthusiasm for their alma mater. He suggested there be four ex-officio governors, namely the chancellor and president of the university, the minister and deputy minister of education. He would have the graduates in Ontario elect six governors, and the student body elect one each year. H. H. Dewart condemned the present system of selecting governors as undemocratic. The board of governors was not representative of the university body. It was decided that this clause should be also further considered in committee.

School Subsidies.

Mr. Grant explained the clause by which he hopes to make changes in the act respecting subsidies to rural common schools. The situation is that parliament votes the subsidy to Public and Separate schools on the basis of average attendance of pupils. However this money is distributed by the department of education under an entirely different system. It is disbursed according to salaries paid teachers, accommodation, certificates held by the teachers, etc. The same terms apply to both Public and Separate schools, but as the teachers' qualifications and salaries average higher in the Public schools than in the Separate schools,

CONSTABLE SHOT BY BANK ROBBERS NEAR MOOSE JAW

Wounded in the Leg When He Disturbs Burglars in the Act of Blowing Open the Safe.

MEN ESCAPE.

MOOSE JAW, aSsk., May 26. — Canadian Press. — Peter Whitelock, the town constable of Lafleche, Sask., was shot in the leg by one of two robbers who were attempting to rob the Bank of Hochelaga there on Wednesday night.

Whitelock interrupted the man, who had already blown the outside door off the safe and was shot. The men made away in an automobile. No money was secured.

Two men and possibly a third are suspected of being concerned in the shooting. Theye were in Lafleche on Wednesday driving an automobile bearing an Indiana number plate.

TWO MEN ARRESTED IN ST. CATHARINES.

ST. CATHA3RINES, May 26.—(Canadian Press.)—At the request of the authorities of Troy N.Y., the local police placed under arrest Edward McAvor and Sidney Gibson of Schnectady who were stopping at a local hotel. Several gambling devices were found in their room. McAvor is alleged to have jumped at $7,000 bail bond at Troy. Both were arrested on a nominal charge of vagrancy.

AN ADDRESS TO KIWANIS CLUB

John J. Walsh Tells His Hearers to Stop Chasing the Dollar.

MONTREAL, May 26 (Canadian Press). — "You are business men chasing the dollar. And when you began to make that the objective of your work you lost your sense of direction. The dollar, gentlemen, is only a means to an end—it is not the end. What books have you read? What tribute have you paid to those men who have given you the joys of life—those exquisite works of art, immortal literatures, and heavenly, harmonious music?" asked John J. Walsh, formerly State Senator for Masachusetts, and now candidate for the United States Senate in an address he gave here yesterday to the members of the Montreal Kiwanis Club at their luncheon.

The speaker, whose subject was entitled "Investing Spare Time," made an eloquent plea for culture amongst business men.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before eating more food.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

PREMIER TELLS OF CONFERENCE GIVES WARNING

IS CRITICIZED.

LONDON, May 26 (Canadian Press). — The feature of Premier Lloyd-George's first speech on the results of the Genoa Conference, delivered in the House of Commons yesterday, was his warning of the danger of a real Russo-German entente if the two nations are driven to a state of desperation, and of the rearming of Russia by Germany.

The first speech was mainly read from a typed document, and many passages were hardly audible, but the second speech was an impromptu reply to his critics and was very lively and reminiscent of Lloyd-George in his old fighting days. He had a series of lively encounters with Lord Robert Cecil, upon whom, rather than H. H. Asquith, leader of the independent Liberal forces, the Premier concentrated his attack. The Mihisterialists cheered delightedly.

Lord Robert Cecil several times indignantly interrupted, exclaiming in one interruption: "I don't wonder that Genoa failed if this is an example."

The Premier's second speech was almost purely a debating speech, but contained one emphatic passage on Anglo-French relations which was regarded as significant.

While Lloyd-George was speaking there were many cheers and counter-cheers, with interruptions from the Opposition benches and the House completely threw off its langour despite the almost tropical heat, but thereafter the proceedings were tame.

WILL CONSTRUCT LOOKOUT WER

Fire Rangers in Apsley District to Be Better Equipped. Apsley News.

APSLEY, May 26.—Yesterday Chief Fire Ranger Dan Whitmore went to the Blue Mountains to superintend the erection of an observation tower for the fire rangers. The tower will be a steel structure eighty feet high and will be placed on the highest point of the mountain which is about midway between Jacks Lake and Koshmabog Lake, and the observer will command a clear view over territory covering five townships. A 'phone wire will be laid between the tower and Dan Whitemore's residence and as soon as a fire is detected by the observer who equipped with powerful field glasses will be constantly on the look-out, the news will be at once 'phoned to the chief, giving the location and other necessary particulars and in a very short time he and his gang will be on the scene. The two men who will be in charge—one being always on duty—are John Woods and Sanford Lawrence.

Held a Debate

The St. Paul's Lasswad, Progress Class met after service at the church on Tuesday evening (it being one of the Rogation days and observed with an appropriate service), at Mr. A. Whitemore's house the programme consisting of a debate, 'who work the hardest on a farm, the men or the women". Great interest was aroused in the subject, and some good arguments were produced showing that women have the hardest end of it, even the male members of the club on the whole concurring in this opinion. Mrs. A. Whitmore enhanced her reputation as a debater, a novel point in her argument being that physically men were three times as strong as woinen so that one hour's work of the latter equalled three hour's of the former. Other good points were made by Miss Ellen Steen, Mr. Davis and Mr. A. Whitmore and the debate was much enjoyed by all.

Thousands of game birds were needlessly destroyed every season at Las Vegas, Nev., by oil discharged on waters frequented by the birds, but the Union Pacific railway has remedied this condition.

EVIDENCE OF BRUTAL MURDER DISCOVERED

Farm Hand Discovers the Body of a Man Hidden Underneath the Barn—Skull Was Crushed.

BODY IDENTIFIED.

CHATHAM, May 26.—(Canadian Press).—Every indication of a brutal murder was uncovered on the farm occupied by Clayton and Bert Croft near Charing Cross village shortly after the noon hour yesterday when a hired man whose name has not been learned found the dead body of an elderly man under the stable on the farm. The farm hand had crawled under the stable for the purpose of catching a hog that had fallen through a hole in the floor, and on commencing his search saw the head of a man within two feet of the county police and Coroner ran to the farmhouse relating his discovery to the brothers who were at the dinner table. The brother immediately notified Chief Peters of the county police and cproner McRitchie, both of whom left immediately for the farm.

In order to view the body in the position in which it was found several boards of the stable floor were torn up. In this manner the remains were viewed by a jury which was impanelled on the spot by Coroner McRitchie. After viewing the remains, adjournment was taken until Friday, June 2, in order to give the police time to collect evidence.

The body which is believed to be that of Gusten Noel, was badly decomposed. The rear portion of the skull had been crushed in with some blunt instrument. The mouth also had been hit only two teeth remaining. The clothes were in fairly good condition and a pair of substantially built boots were on the feet. It was believed that at one time the murdered man had studied for the Roman Catholic priesthood. A medal, some loose tobacco and a corncob pipe were found in one pocket of the coat. The victim was last seen about a month ago.

From the marks on the head of the body, Coroner McRitchie expressed the belief that the man had been murdered and that the body had been carried to the stable and hidden. From the position in which the body was lying, it would indicate that it had first been the intention to bury the body under the manure in the stable. From the appearance of the ground when the body was taken up it seemed as though a trench had been dug and the body placed in it; manure pressed about the body seemed to bear out this theory.

Doctors Skullard of this city and Reid of Blenheim conducted a post mortem on the body when it was removed to a morgue in the city. A report on their findings will be made at the inquest at Charing Cross.

KILLED BY TREE.

PORT ARTHUR, May 26 (Canadian Press). — Peter Hansen, fifty, a member of a gang on the C. N. R., was killed by a falling tree when fighting bush fires near Jellicoe on Wednesday.

M'MILLANS ARE NOT GUILTY OF MURDER CHARGE

Judge Censures Hasty Marriage Following the Death of Jamieson Johnson.

DIED SUDDENLY.

OWEN SOUND, May 26 (Canadian Press). — When the words, "Not guilty," wer pronounced by the foreman of the jury on Tuesday night, a broad smile wreathed the face of Dan McMillan, while his wife, Mary Elizabeth McMillan, sat unmoved in the prisoner's box at the words which freed her from the charge of murdering her former husband, Jamieson Johnston.

The verdict, after a three-hour adjournment, was given before a crowd that overflowed the Court room.

Addressing Mr. and Mrs. McMillan, Mr. Justice Orde said "that the verdict, after a three-hour adjournment, the evidence is very apparent to me. I would have found it very difficult to make up my mind as to whether there was guilt without any reasonable doubt. The unpleasant circumstances in which you have been placed during the past eight or nine months, have been due to the haste with which you were married, breaking a rule of society that a person will wait at least a decent time after the death of his wife or her husband, before remarrying. You certainly gave rise to a very strong suspicion that you had been responsible for the death of Jamieson Johnston. The verdict has cleared you insofar as it has proved you not guilty. You depart from here free."

The case arose out of the sudden death, in great pain, of Jamieson Johnston, on 5th September last.

Johnston was buried on Wednesday, and on Saturday his widow married Dan McMillan, a man who had been working as Johnston's hired man.

TWO BODIES FOUND.

SHERBROOKE, May 26.—(Canadian Press). — The body of Francois Xavier Audet, 60 years of age, a woodsman, was found in Little Lake Magog Wednesday. Stones were found in the man's pockets. The body of Charles Coulter, 20 years of age, a farm hand was found Wednesday in the woods at Milby.

The young man was last seen carrying a gun.

CANADA AND THE SOLDIERS' NEEDS.

Several hundred returned soldiers are on the march from Hamilton to Ottawa in demonstration calculated to give force to appeal for further assistance from the Government to the veterans of the war, says the Ottawa Journal. The massed approach of these men on the Government at the end of their long march will attract attention to their demands but whether or not it will accomplish anything more is doubtful. Everybody wants the returned men to get all the assistance that can be given them. The unfortunate condition of large numbers of them is recognized and generally deplored. But this sympathy for the returned soldiers does not provide a solution for the problem of further help for them. Can the country afford to do more than it has done and is doing?

It is well to remark Lady Astor's reference in her address at the Russell Theatre to Canada's treatment of her soldiers. Lady Astor had an intimate acquaintance with the soldiers of the allied nations during the war and has observed their condition since. No country, she said, took better care of their soldiers during the war than Canada and no country had been fairer to them since the conclusion of the war.

The conditions which are responsible for the circumstances of so many returned men, as they are responsible for the plight of thousands of others, are not due to any fault of the Government nor can they be remedied by the Government alone. They are conditions common to nearly all countries and are the result of the political, economic and industrial situation in the world at large. It is not in Canada alone that returned men and others are out of employment. Two millions are unemployed in Great Britain. The United States has a similar number. Canada is in the same difficulty as the other countries. This the returned soldiers and all who sympathize with them in their need must remember. The Government is not omnipotent.

THE BUDGET.

No Budget ever succeeded in pleasing everybody, so it is not to be expected that the new taxation and tariff proposals made by Hon. W. S. Fielding will be received with unanimous approval. So far at least, however, the Budget has been on the whole well received. Mr. Fielding has had a difficult task, and the policy he has adopted has been dictated by the stern necessity of having to raise a very large amount of revenue. The veteran Minister of Finance has not gone as far as he doubtless would have liked to have gone either in his tariff revision or in his effort to improve the conditions for the people of Canada who are engaged in farming, mining and fishing, or in reducing the cost of living, but nevertheless he has progressed as far along those lines as the financial needs of the country make it safe for him to go. His problem has been to raise the additional revenue required and at the same time to implement so far as is possible the pre-election pledges of the Government and to distribute the burden over as many shoulders as possible, with a minimum dislocation of business. Several newspapers, in commenting upon the Budget, have remarked that it is not sensational. That is quite true. The business of the country will not be upset by Mr. Fielding's Budget. There have been no sweeping changes in the tariff nor are the new taxation proposals drastic in their nature. It is evident that the Finance Minister has endeavored to hit upon ways and means of obtaining the revenue he must have that will do the least harm to the interests of business in Canada or to the people generally. Extreme low tariff advocates may not think he has gone far enough in his revision; ultra protectionists may declare that he has gone too far, but at first reading at least the Budget impresses one as a skilful handling of a most intricate problem.

A SEASONAL WARNING.

The opening of the boating season has arrived, and from now on during the summer months the Otonabee River will be the mecca that will attract hundreds of young people. Among them will be many who have not long been in Canada, new citizens from the British Isles, to whom the river will prove a lure. It is well, perhaps, to remind them, if their inclination runs to canoeing, that the Canadian canoe is a craft that requires steady handling. There is no more pleasing small boat in the world than a canoe, but it must be used with some appreciation of its peculiarities. A paddler who knows his business is at home in a canoe and has no worry as to his safety, but the beginner who takes chances with his frail craft, takes chances at the same time of a ducking, and perhaps of losing his life if he does not know the useful art of swimming. New-comers to Canada should be warned that an ordinary sixteen-foot canoe is not a safe boat in which to change seats in mid-stream, and that a sudden shifting of weight to one side is liable to capsize the craft without warning. Similarly too, the practice of sitting in the stern of a canoe when one is alone in the boat, thus swinging the bow clear of the water, is inviting an accident. With a canoe in this position a wave from a passing launch or even a sudden gust of wind is liable to cause an upset. The Canadian canoe, in expert hands, is a safe, comfortable boat, but beginners should exercise care until they have mastered the intricacies of paddling.

THE SALES TAX.

The feature of the Fielding Budget that will have the greatest effect upon the people of Canada is the increase of 50 per cent. in the Sales Tax. It is difficult to see how this change can fail to at least check the decline in the cost of living that has been noticeable in the past few months. The higher sales tax in fact neutralizes the reduction made in the tariff on certain articles. For instance, the duty on farm implements has been lowered by 1-2 per cent, so that a farmer who purchased a plow worth $100 manufactured in the United States, would have to pay $2.50 less custom duties. But he doesn't get much advantage from that reduction, thanks to the increased sales tax, for he is called upon to pay $6 instead of $4 as a sales tax leaving, leaving him the gainer to the extent of 50 cents on a $100 purchase. The sales tax will be passed on to the consumer, of course, and the increase will be generally felt. But it is not possible to engage in a world war without paying for it. The conflict may be over, but so far as the payments are concerned they will last long after many of the features of the war have been forgotten. Mr. Fielding had to find revenue and he has selected the sales tax method as affording the biggest field for the funds that Canada requires, and as at the same time offering an opportunity to distribute the burden as widely as possible. No taxation is popular, and this increase in the sales tax will not be appreciated but its necessity will doubtless be recognized.

PATRIOTISM.

A very striking Victoria Day message has been issued by the Victoria Paper and Twine Company, Limited, which strikes the Examiner as well worth reproducing. It is as follows:

A country is as great as her people, but no greater. Natural resources, mineral wealth, material possessions do not measure Canada's greatness.

Canada's greatness can only be measured by the sincerity and morality of her people plus education and culture, and lastly by their possessions.

The word "patriotism" is loved by all true patriots, and the word has been defined as "love of country," but love of country is only the starting point of deep-rooted "Patriotism."

The true Canadian's patriotism is the love, the appreciation, the maintenance and the keen advocacy of British ideals, British freedom, British institutions and, last but not least, British justice and fair play.

Her arms of friendship are extended to all parts of the world.

Her word, advice, and assistance is sought and trusted.

Coming up through the centuries of time the Empire has learned many a hard lesson, made many a sacrifice, paid many penalties for still greater, still more excellent, still more beneficent virtue that time and experience alone could give and open heart receive.

Let us continue with the self-came torchlight of ideals that has headed the long, long caravan of mankind for ages past.

The furtherance of these God-given ideals, these liberties, the truth of the word, the education of the people is essential and necessary in order to earn the name "Canadian" a true patriot of the "Land of the Maple Leaf" and a member of the British Empire.

Three institutions are declared to be necessary, viz., the Church, the Home and the School. Let us strive to make each one COUNT.

Let each one of us appreciate the wonderful process of evolution to greater and better things and may this be the source of our patriotism, followed along with a reverent spirit of law-observance, self-sacrifice and respect for others.

Finally, may we each understand the purchase price paid for the liberties we now enjoy and "SO SERVE" that we may hand down to posterity a still larger and more "ennobled" and "inspired patriotism" not diminished by selfishness but made greater by our own individual sincere and unselfish desire to be of service to our fellow-man.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Evidently Mr. Fielding is not interested in the smokers' vote.

A contemporary remarks that the non-smokers will not be hurt by the new tax on cigars. As we see it, any one who possesses a sense of smell will be affected.

As a seasonal reminder, "Swat the Fly."

Mr. Fielding should have included a tax on radio messages.

The open season for straw hats has commenced, judging by the fact that the girls are beginning to wear their furs.

"WE WANT TO GO HOME"

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: The Mennonites are good farmers and a frugal, thrifty people. Manitoba has learned something from the exodus and will give them freer rein and concede more autonomy to their schools. And have not the Mennonites learned something? In all their innumerable migrations, when before have Mennonites come to grief because of too little instead of too much law? The lesson of this Mexican adventure should become a permanent part of the Mennonite records, to be frequently cited for the instruction of all future members of the fraternity. For only under a just system of civil law to which a common deference is rendered is material well-being or even religious progress possible. Without it the industry and other qualities for which the Mennonites themselves are most admirable become impossible.

NO STOMACH FOR FIGHTING

London Daily News: "We have no quarrel with the Russian people; we do not fear a German-Russian menace; but we are determined to prevent Europe again becoming a shambles." This is Mr. Lloyd George's summary of his position and that is the British view. We have no quarrel with France or with Germany, with Russia or with Japan; we desire nothing better than to see all nations, great and small, masters in their own house, managing their own affairs in their own way. We desire nothing less than to interfere with the legitimate ambitions or the just independence of any one of them. But we are perfectly determined to do everything in our power to prevent a repetition of the abominable horror of war. The British statesman who expresses that determination firmly and consistently, in act as well as in word, will have the support of the overwhelming majority of his countrymen.

THE LONG AND THE SHORT OF IT

London Daily Express: The busybodies are at work trying to induce women to let their skirts down to the ground again. Short skirts, they say, are unbecoming; unfeminine, immodest and what not. Woman has been emancipated from the trailing skirt for some years and no one can say that she has not liked the change. The long skirt, reaching to the ground, has never been useful except as a sweeper of dust and germs. There is, of course, something to be said for the case against skirts which are little more than kilts, but all things considered, it is certain that if a plebiscite were to be taken throughout the world there would be an overwhelming vote for shorter skirts; not shorter than at present, of course, but short enough to do away with competition with the dustman. The cult of the short skirt can be carried too far, just as the cult of the long one can be brought down to ridiculous lengths.

HARD TO FATHOM

Al Kashkul of Egypt: We never talked to a man three years ago, about the protectorate, who did not strike the ground with his foot and the air with his hand, and say that it was a false protectorate, an illegal protectorate, and now every one tells me that it is all nonsense, that we are still under the protectorate, that the protectorate has not been abolished. Some time ago the members of the Legislative Assembly met, and as Maalum Pasha refused to preside at the meeting, Ibrahim Said Pasha did so, and the members passed a resolution to the effect that Egypt was independent, when the public was overjoyed and said that our country was independent, because Ibrahim Said Pasha said so. Now that England has recognised that we are independent, that the protectorate is abolished, these embarrassing people say that we are not independent, that we are still under the protectorate. We wonder if the declaration of Great Britain is not equal to that of Ibrahim Said Pasha? Is the declaration of Great Britain not worth that of Ibrihim Said Pasha? Ibrahim Said Pasha says that Egypt is independent and it becomes independent; but Great Britain says that it is independent and it becomes aprotected! Relly the cup has overflown.

Wise and Otherwise

In this glad springtime, it is almost impossible to have anybody except an umpire.

It is hard to tell which causes the patient greater discomfort, the hives or a political bee.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Nurse Recommended Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bothwell, Ontario.—"I was weak and run down, had no appetite and was nervous. The nurse who took care of me told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I am getting strong. I recommend your medicine to my friends, and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. D. MAXWELL, R. R. No. 2, Bothwell, Ontario.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old-fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, beneficial influence, and as it contains no narcotics nor harmful drugs it is a safe medicine for women.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

BIG CELEBRATION HELD AT OMEMEE.

O. A. A. Observes Empire Day With Grand Parade and Field Sports.

OMEMEE, May 26.—The 24th of May 1922 is over, and once more the O.A.A. have made a name for themselves by the splendid celebration in town on Wednesday. The town was gay with decorations and almost every resident of town put up flags for the occasion. The weather was ideal and brought a splendid crowd from many miles in every direction. The only attraction in the forenoon was the rifle match. Albert Clemett winning of the first prize of $7.50. The Indian Band arrived about 10.30 and furnished music for the remainder of the day.

At 12.30 the parade commenced from Sturgeon street headed by a pair of clowns, the executive of the O.A.A., the reeves of Emily and Omemee and the Warden of Victoria County followed by the band, the baseball team, the decorated bicycles and many cars, which proceeded to the grounds where the sports were run off. A truck from Lakehurst conveyed the football team and a number of fans.

The booths for soft drinks, cigars and ice cream did a flourishing business all afternoon.

Immediately after the races, the baseball game between Mount Pleasant and Omemee commenced, but the home team soon saw their finish the score being 4-7.

A football game followed which brought the afternoon to a close, and again Omemee was beaten, the score being 2-1 in favor of Lakehurst.

A full house greeted the actors from Peterboro for the play "Just Plain Folks" given in Cornation Hall in the evening.

YOUNG FARMER CONVICTED OF DOING DAMAGE

Mosson Young is Fined $20 and $10 Costs For Damage Done to Seed Drill.

THE CASE.

A case of interest to county residents and of a somewhat unusual nature was heard by Magistrate O. A. Langley, Thursday afternoon. Mossom Young of Galway Township, a young farmer who has been before the magistrate on other charges is was said, was charged with on May 9th wilfully damaging by night a seed drill the property of Robert Henderson, a neighbor farmer. The damage, the charge read, was less than $20. The Crown was represented by J. F. Strickland, A. M. Fulton of Lindsay, appeared for Mr. Henderson, and accused was defended by R. I. Moore of Lindsay. The hearing of the case took practically all afternoon, various conflicts of the solicitors over points of the law accounting for considerable delay.

Young was convicted of the offence charged, Magistrate Langley pointing out discrepencies in the evidence of the defence that made it impossible for him to find other than that Young had damaged the seed drill, but by what means he could not say. He was fined $20 or given the alternative of two months in jail and ordered to pay the costs and $10 to Robert Henderson for the damage done. Magistrate Langley pointed out that there was little substantial evidence of the actual damage and he felt $10 would cover it.

Evidence submitted indicated that there had been a breach between Henderson and Young. Both men testified that they were afraid of the other one doing him bodily harm On February 18 Henderson sent a lawyer's letter to Young warning him to cease making threats against him. Young on the other hand claimed he was in constant fear of Henderson "beating him up".

In the afternoon of May 9th Henderson testified that he saw accused peeking in the field at him. That night he left the seed drill in the field and believing that some mischief was afoot watched to see if anything would happen. About 9 o'clock Mossom Young and Walter Fern entered the field and wet to the drill Young putting his hand on it. Henderson followed them up and with a stick and he hit Young on the shoulders and with his hand touched Fern. "I've got you, you rascals" he is reported to have said. The young man got away from him and ran to the swamp according to Henderson. It was found latter that two levers on the drill were bent.

Garfield Henderson a son who was watching on the road which the men came said he heard Young say "we'll rimrack his machinery tonight."

"Mossom didn't say no such a thing" said Walter Fern called by Mr. Moore in the defence. Fern and Young denied seeing a seeder in the field in which they explained their presence by stating that they were taking a short cut to Damon Peter's. Young however in his evidence after denying seeing a seeder asked Mr. Moore in regard to a conversation if it was before they reached the seeder. This admission innocently made was not missed by the Crown or Magistrate. It developed also that there was a question if it was a short cut or not across the fields and that the business at Damon Peter's could not have been urgent as after the conflict with Henderson the mission was given up. Young explained this "I was afraid he was laying for me in a fence corner so we went to Fern's through the fields.

SCOTT'S CORNER COMMUNITY CLUB

A Big List of Sports—The List of Events and Prize-Winners.

MILLBROOK, May 26. — The Scott's Corners Community Club held a very successful sports' day and picnic on the afternoon of May 24th with about 200 in attendance, and gate receipts of over $40. It is unusual in any rural community to find such a number of young people of the 'teen age and early twenties whose parents see to it that they are supplied with the necessary grounds and equipment for sports—outdoor and indoor—according to the season, and with the leaders and organization to benefit by the same, as are enjoyed by the young people of Scott's Corners. The danger of any exodus from the farm to the city to locate is minimized when the former is made so attractive. The following is the programme of sports:

Boys' Baseball (senior)—

Cavan — W. Seymour c; A. Craw p; H. McArthur 1b; M. Mcdoo 2b; C. Seymour 3b; J. Whitfield ss, H. Ball cf, R. Wood rf; C. Robertson, lf.

THESE BABIES ARE WELL NOW

Remarkable effect of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin on constipated babies.

Daughter of Mrs. E. Smith, Guelph, Ont.

The experienced mother quickly associates the baby's crying with constipation, biliousness, feverishness or sour stomach, and knows that a mild laxative will soon relieve the trouble.

Half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin will work wonders with a crying, peevish baby. It is just a vegetable compound of Egyptian Senna and simple laxative herbs with pepsin that all druggists sell under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. It has the largest sale in the world, and a dose costs less than a cent!

Mrs. E. Smith, 9 Harris St., Guelph, Ont., says Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is just the remedy her little girl needs and she will never be without it. Mrs. A. F. BENJAMIN DISRAELI

"Yes," continued Disraeli "he and she are agents—spies—Russia has sent her to discover—what you have told him!"

"Have him arrested!" Charles suggested.

"On what grounds? What has he done?"

"But why did you employ him, knowing him to be a spy?"

"Because I knew it! Because I wanted to have him under my own eye! For some time he has been seen about Downing street, and since I put him to work he has been prying about my desk. I've laid traps for him—letters for him to read. I had him on a false scent when you—"

"When I blundered," stammered Charles, in dejection.

"When you lost control of your features."

"Is there anything I can say or do?" asked Charles.

"I am afraid not," replied the Prime Minister.

Disraeli paced the floor, forward and back, seeking some way out of the dilemma.

"Will you tell us why silence is so important?" asked Clarissa.

"Oh, now it's of no importance whatever" Disraeli responded. "Yes, you ought to know, so that in future, Charles—"

"Future? What future is there for me?" asked Charles completely crushed

"So that in future you may control your features as well as your tongue. Sit down!"

Charles and Clarissa sat down and Disraeli stood near them. He said:

"Ismail Pasha, Khedive of Egypt, is under the impression he is Ramases the Great; but the only Pyramid he has raised is a pyramid of debt. Egypt is a dry bone, out of which he has sucked the last ounce of marrow. The last assets he has are the controlling shares in the Suez Canal, and these he is dying to sell to the highest bidder. France built the canal, but he is too poor to buy it. Russia covets it, as a means of snatching India; England as a means for defending it. Both pretend the purchase is the last thing they are thinking of; both are watching each other like cats; and Ismail sits and waits for the cat to jump!"

A change had come over Disraeli—a change that made the two young people before him gasp in astonishment. Clarissa blanched. Charles was so deeply moved that he felt the beating of his own heart. For a transformation had taken place in the man before him—as though the curtains of the play had been pulled aside and his eyes, used to the smiles and the aspect of an unconcerned audience, suddenly beheld the actors upon the stage in the throes of tragedy.

Disraeli stood before them, erect, his arms half raised. His eyes shone brilliantly. His lips formed a straight line. All the calm, the calculating expression the debonnair manner, the restrained and measured ways that were so familiar to all those about him that they could hardly picture him otherwise, had fallen from him.

"Those shares I mean to have," His voice was sharp, piercing, vibrant

As he continued, it took on a deeper tone, almost like the rumble of approaching thunder. Now Disraeli wore no mask. The words poured from his lips like a torrent. He had thrown all reserve to the wind.

"The Bank of England refused to back me; but to-day Meyers has given me a blank cheque. I thought the thing was done. But now Foljambe knows—Russia knows. In a week Foljambe will be in Cairo, and whatever sum I offer, he will double. Now, do you see the importance of it?"

The young people were silent. Disraeli, suddenly calm once more, sat down.

"And all because I blundered!".

"Yes."

"Is there no remedy?"

"Of course, there is."

"What, sir? What?"

"I must send a man to the Khedive with unlimited powers; ready to outbid anything, and ready to pay on the nail."

"What must be the man's qualifications?" asked Charles.

"Ah!—A strong, stern, silent man; subtle and cunning; fighting wiliness with wiliness."

Clarissa bowed her head.

"Have you such a man?" asked Charles.

"I've sent for him!" Disraeli answered, sharply. And turning to Clarissa, he asked: "Why, child, what is the matter? Weeping? What is it, Clarissa?"

Disraeli stepped to her side, and she tried to regain her composure.

"Oh, don't take any notice! I am childish this morning. I suppose it is disappointment. For a moment—while you were speaking—I had hoped—that perhaps—"

Clarissa was looking at Charles.

"Ah, don't say it, Clarissa! Don't say it!" said Charles, in the depths.

"Yes," said Disraeli to Charles, "do say it, Clarissa! Do say it! Because there is another kind of man who might be twice as useful."

"What kind?" asked Charles, hesitatingly.

"A man so honest the rogues would think him a rogue; so truthful they would swear he was lying: so simple, that they would never fathom him—"

Charles stood up, indignantly

"Why laugh at me, sir? I feel my folly bitterly enough!"

Disraeli who had been standing near the weeping girl turned to Charles.

"What is the matter, Deeford?"

"Disgust—utter disgust with myself. And despair." Charles replied.

A servant appeared at the door.

"Why despair, Deeford?" asked Disraeli;

"The Queen's messenger!" the man announced

"Not wanted!" responded Disraeli. And turning instantly to Charles, the Prime Minister fairly shouted, as he pointed to the young lord:

"You are the man!"

Both Charles and Clarissa uttered a little cry of surprise as Disraeli repeated:

"You are the man!"

"I?—I, to be trusted with this mission after what I have done?" asked Charles.

"Why not?"

"Am I the man you want? Ah you know I'm not. I'm a useless, conceited idler—a perfect and complete fool!

"Well—granting that—" Disraeli turned to Clarissa—"I didnt say it"—and turned again to Charles—"but granting that, that is a very good reason for sending you."

"But I have failed already," replied Charles.

"Nearly all of my successes in life," Disraeli said, solemnly, "were founded on previous failures. On your own showing nobody will suspect you. You have only to meet all their cunning with that stolid British face of yours and the schemers will be disarmed. Come! Will you go?"

"Will I go?" Charles almost shouted it.

Clarissa rushed over to him.

"Aha! There's your man of action, Clarissa!" said Disraeli. "But I must warn you. There will be grave danger! Are you ready to meet it?"

"Gladly!" responded Charles.

"I mean—danger—of death!"

"Yes, sir." Charles spoke slowly and quietly.

"Death!" gasped Clarissa, almost in a whisper.

"Every step of the way—every hour of the day—danger lurking in every seductive disguise. When once he is in Egypt, if his errand be known, his life will not be worth a moment's purchase!"

"I didn't know—Oh! I didn't know!" whispered Clarissa with her eyes looking into those of the splendid fellow before her and whose hands rested on her shoulders.

"Clarissa, my child, do you forbid him to go?" asked Disraeli, tenderly.

"I—I cannot forbid," she replied.

"Oh, yes you can. He shall obey you. But think a moment. If you forbid him and he obeys and I send another man—how will you feel?"

The Prime Minister had lowered his voice. The two men faced each other, with the girl standing between them.

"Clarissa!" Charles whispered.

"You must go!" Clarissa cried. "You must go!"

"Ah!" came from Disraeli and Charles simultaneously.

"Well done!" Disraeli applauded, holding out his hands to the girl. "I think I may tell him—may I not?—there is a great reward awaiting his return?"

Clarissa bowed her head and Charles suggested:

"If I succeed?"

"Whether he succeed, or fail, eh?" added Disraeli.

Clarissa's bowed head moved slightly —up, then down once more.

"Good! Now then, Charles, when shall you be ready to start?"

Disraeli stepped quickly to his desk and took up his pen. Charles paused gave the moment's matter a consideration and responded:

"I think I could start the day after tomorrow."

Disraeli looked at him quickly and smiled And turning again to his writing, remarked:

"Capital! That will make the undertaking so much more interesting."

"How do you mean?" asked Charles, innocently.

"Why, your friend Foljambe will have forty-eight hours' start with Ismail."

"You mean I shall be late?"

"I am trying to convey that impression," replied Disraeli, dryly.

"Well—tomorrow, then, if it must be!" said Charles.

"That's better!—but Foljambe can do a great deal in a day!"

Charles got his watch and looked at it.

"Well—there's a night mail tonight at 9!" Charles suggested.

Disraeli crossed to where Charles was standing, looking at his watch and said:

"Now! You start immediately."

"You don't mean—"

"You start in ten minutes—"

"But my luggage? I shan't even have a clean collar!"

"Damn your collar! Catch the Dover express at 11 from Charing Cross. You'll be in Marseilles tomorrow morning and in Cairo a day ahead of Foljambe! A day ahead!"

"By Jove! I'll do it!" exclaimed Charles, as he brought his fist down on the table.

"Of course you will!" commented the Prime Minister. "Now children, say good-bye to each other. I will write your instructions. You shall have—three minutes!"

And Disraeli hurried into his den.

When they were alone, Charles quickly walked to Clarissa, and taking her hands he asked

"Clarissa—did you hear what Mr. Disraeli said—just now—the hope he held out of a reward?"

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

BOLAND. ALIAS GARDNER

(Copyright 1921 By The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

When Hyman and Hess, dealers in cloaks and suits on State St. in Albany, N.Y., sent a check for $38.77 to Reis and Blum, garment manufactureres in New York City, they didn't have the slightest idea that they were starting a chain of evidence which would land one of the cleverest crooks in America behind the bars. They just wrote the check signed it, dropped the envelope containing it in the mail box and forgot about it.

A few days later, before the New York firm had had time to report the non-arrival of the check and thus permit Hyman and Hess to look into the matter, a young man came into the National Commercial Bank in Albany and presented a check for $380, made out to "Bearer" The date on the check, filled in with a rubber stamp, corresponded to the day on which it was presented and the man who handed it to the paying teller mentioned casually that the check "was to cover an option" and that he had to hurry back to New York in order to complete the transaction. The paying teller, feeling certain that the signature was genuine, cashed the check and the man who had presented it walked out of the bank with $380 in his pocket.

When Hyman and Hess had their account balanced they found that they were exactly $380.00 short—for the original check had never reached its New York destination, but had been lifted out of the mail box by one of a gang of clever criminals, the body of the check erased with an ink eradicator and the date and amount filled in on top of the original signature.

"Only one man in the country could have done that and gotten away with it," growled George A. Fuller, assistant superintendent of the Pinkerton Detective Agency, when the bank called the details of the case to his attention. "It's Boland's work!"

"Boland?" queried the bank official, for the name of the master check-raiser was then now known in financial circles.

"Yes, Boland," replied Fuller. "Or Gardner, as he sometimes calls himself. He's got a regular organization for this sort of thing. Trains boys to loot the mail boxes, washes the checks with an acid preparation of his own invention, writes in a higher amount, makes them payable to "Bearer" and then another of his tools cashes them."

"If you know so much about the man," asked the amazed banker, "why hasn't he been arrested long before this?"

"It's easy enough to arrest a man," was Fuller's reply. "but it is sometimes very difficult to convict him. So far as the actual check-raising goes, Boland plays a lone hand. What's more, he pays his men well and takes care of 'em if they happen to get caught. So far, none of 'em has turned State's evidence and, until they do—or until we catch Mr. Boland red-handed—there's nothing to do but be careful. We've got our eyes on him. He can't move without our knowing it, and, some day, he's going to make the slip that'll land him in the pen—the false move that all criminals make, sooner or later.

Warned by the Hyman & Hess check that the Boland outfit was once more conducting operations in New York state, the Pinkerton men kept close watch on all persons suspected with belonging to the orgainzation—with the result that three men were arrested and sentenced to terms in prison. But all of them steadfastly refused to implicate the "man higher up"—the master-mind which planned the details of the thefts and oversaw the final cashing of the checks.

Finally Boland and three of his associates were arrested in Boston, after Fuller had shadowed a boy whom he suspected of robbing a mail box. Dano, the boy, and Devine, another of the organization, drew short terms for petty larceny, but Boland escaped on account of a technicality, and moved to New York, where he tried to continue his operations. But the New York police and particularly Commissioner George S. Dougherty made things so difficult that he was soon reduced to the expedient of securing checks wherever he could—a necessity which led to the fatal slip which Fuller had predicted.

Out of the mail-box of an up-town apartment house one of Boland's apprentices secured a check for $50 made out to a real estate company in payment of the rental for one of the apartments. It was child's play for Boland to wash off the original name and amount and to write in the words "Bearer" and "Two Hundred and Eleven dollars." Once that was done, he had a perfectly good check (apparently), and he sent one of his men down to the bank on which the check was drawn, with minute instructions as to the cashing of it. But the cashier, being suspicious of a check of that size being made out to "Bearer"—particularly as he knew that the woman whose signature appeared upon it was very careful in her financial dealings—declined to cash it and Bowland's man returned with a story of having been watched and therefore being fearful to approach the paying window.

Boland, in a spirit of bravado, again altered the check, this time making it out in the name of "William Hath" and set forth to cash the check himself, something which he had never before attempted. One glance at the odd amount—$211.00—and the recollection that a check of a similar size had been presented that morning, payable to "Bearer" was enough to convince the paying teller that something was wrong. The Pinkerton's were immediately notified and Boland was caught, red-handed.

Fifteen minutes after, his case came up in the County Court in Brooklyn. Boland was on his way to Sing Sing and for the first time in five years Superintendent Fuller and the rest of the Pinkerton agency breathed freely. Boland, alias Gardner, had been convicted and from that time on he would be a marked man—an ex-convict whose picture appeared in the Rogues' Gallery and whose operations would be curtailed if not entirely nullified, by the knowledge which was on file about him.

The makers of "Kayser" Silk Hosiery recommend

LUX

Every lady knows "Kayser" silk hosiery. Here is a word of advice from the manufacturer of these famous Made in Canada silk stockings:—

"Silk stockings should be washed every night to remove perspiration which is the enemy of Silk. There is nothing better for this than Lux."

Lux with its generous suds is ideal for the quick thorough washing silk stockings require. The thin, satin-like flakes of Lux, which are made by our own exclusive process, dissolve in hot water as quickly as snow. There is nothing like Lux — it stands supreme as the only product, eminently suitable for washing silken hosiery, and garments, or other fine articles of wear.

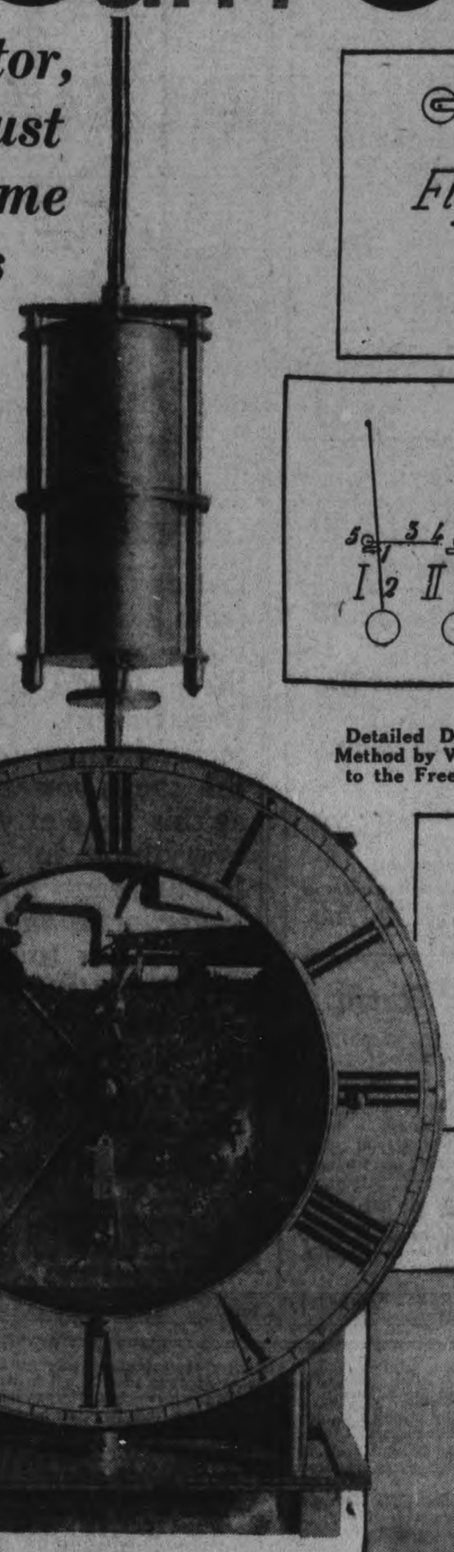
The Clock That Can't Go Wrong

Here, at Last, According to Its Inventor, a Jesuit Priest, Is a Timepiece That Just Has to Keep Time Because It Is Stopped, Put Right and Restarted Sixty Times Every Hour

Father William O'Leary Who Teaches Science and Astronomy in the Jesuit University, Dublin, and Who Also Invented the "Ortho Clock."



The Original Working Model of Father O'Leary's Clock, Showing, Above, the Peculiarly Constructed Pendulum.

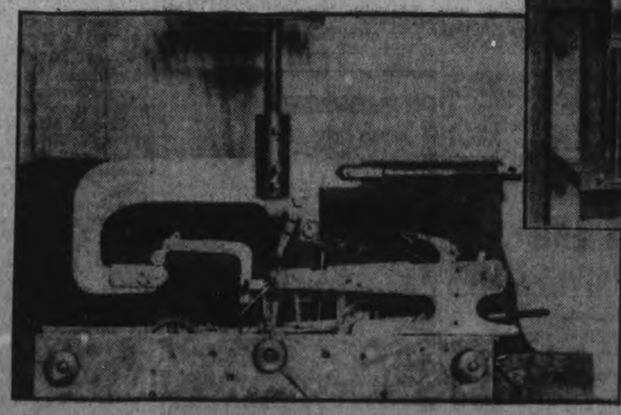
The Clock with Its Face Removed to Enable the Observer to "Watch the Wheels Go Around."



A Close-Up Photograph of the Trigger Mechanism by Which the Free-Swinging Pendulum Stops, and Starts and Regulates the Clock Once Every Minute.

The First of the New Clocks to be Completed. It Is Now in America.

THE most extraordinary clock the world has ever known—introducing an entirely new principle in timepiece construction—has just been brought to America by Father William O'Leary, Jesuit priest, professor of science and astronomy in the Jesuit University at Dublin.

It is "regulated" once every minute by a free-swinging pendulum, entirely detached from the clock-works.

That is the vital principle—basically simple, like all great inventions. The details are explained later in this article, and you will find them fascinating even if you haven't a mechanical turn of mind.

While the distinguished inventor confines his claims to the statement that he has "reduced error to a minimum," enthusiastic scientists who have seen the mechanism in actual operation have called it "the clock that can't go wrong."

You may think your own clock keeps "correct" time—or that you can depend absolutely on the standardized clocks you see everywhere in public places.

For ordinary practical purposes—yes. But for scientific accuracy—no.

The best clock you have probably ever seen—unless you have been in an astronomical observatory—has a "minimum error" of at least eight seconds a week. Unless it were corrected from time to time it would "go wrong" at least 416 seconds in a year.

Father O'Leary refuses to state the "minimum error" of his clock. He wants other disinterested scientists to form their own opinions. But it is understood to less than nine seconds a year! Perhaps less than six!

That being true, this "Ortho Clock," as Father O'Leary calls it, is by far the most accurate time-keeper ever devised by the human mind.

How the scientist-priest came to invent it is an interesting story. In connection with his work as professor of science in the Collegium Maximum, which is the head university of the Jesuits, he wanted a seismograph (an instrument to record earthquakes) of greater accuracy than any then in use.

So he invented a seismograph for himself. And for this seismograph he needed a clock more accurate than any in existence. So he set about inventing that, too.

His first natural step was to look about for something (not a clock) that he could take as an absolutely accurate measure of time. He found only two things—and so far as science now knows there are only two—the movement of the heavenly bodies in the sky (as, for instance, the revolution of the earth), and the oscillations of a free swinging pendulum.

It was Galileo who first found out that a pendulum "kept time." He made the discovery in the Cathedral at Pisa, Italy, five hundred years ago, one evening at twilight when the lamps were lit. There was a lamp hung like a long pendulum from the roof—the same great bronze lamp that hangs there to this very day. The verger pulled it toward him to light it, and then let it swing back. Galileo thought that as the swinging died down the oscillations would become faster or slower. To his amazement all the swings, although their distance kept getting gradually shorter, were made in exactly the same time.

Father O'Leary couldn't "hook up" the sun and moon and stars as regulators for a mechanical clock—so that left him nothing but the pendulum. He used it, and why his pendulum is totally different from the pendulum on all other clocks he tells in his own words:

"Our standard clock is the earth. The most careful observation has not revealed any variation in the rate at which it revolves. Study of that subject lies in the domain of astronomy. We know the laws governing the earth's movement; they are immutable and the mere accidents of stellar dust and meteorities do not appreciably change them. But we cannot all carry Mother Earth in our waistcoat pockets. Some more practical timekeeper must be found conforming with sufficient accuracy to astronomical measurement. The rate of decay of radium, or the velocity of light might perhaps afford measures that would not offend the astronomer. But the harnessing of those phenomena in a practical way is not yet achieved. A simple pendulum, or a balance wheel will do the work very well indeed, especially the pendulum. Both of these instruments sway to and fro according to a well-known definite laws. And although variations in time may occur through accidental causes, the causes are well known and the effects can be cured. The balance wheel is not quite so amenable to treatment, but the pendulum can be placed beyond suspicion. So the pendulum is really our practical time measurer.

"But we must treat it with very great respect indeed if it is to live up to its reputation. 'Evil associations corrupt good manners,' and the aberration from rectitude in the comportment of the associated clockwork will corrupt the pendulum. Every little tick of the clock means that the pendulum has unlocked a tooth and received a little appreciative pat on the back in return. Now although it is true that 'fair exchange is no robbery,' still in this case there is rarely an equal exchange. It is impossible to construct clockwork so accurately that these exchanges balance correctly. At one instant there is overpayment, at another there is a deficit. The result of this is that the deficiency of the clockwork imposes itself at each tick on the pendulum. Clockmakers have devised many beautiful movements to diminish the error, but some error there always is. An absolutely swinging pendulum would be ideal. But in order to keep it going it must get some help. Let us reduce the help to the minimum.

"In the Ortho Clock I have limited the contact between the pendulum and the clockwork to one 'touch' per minute. Except for that contact, which lasts only one-quarter of a second, the pendulum swings absolutely free, without touching or being connected with or coming in contact with the clock at all.

"If you have even a slight knowledge of mechanics you will get a good general idea of the principle used in the construction from the diagrams which I have drawn. (See drawing at right-top of this page.)

"A pallet (1) is fixed transversely on the pendulum (2). An impulse lever (3) pushed at (4) has a roller (5) which is to be made to fall every minute on the pallet just a little before the pendulum reaches its meridian or exact minute position.

"In position I the impulse lever has just been released. In transition from position I to II the roller merely rolls on the pallet. In position II the edge of the pallet has reached the roller, and this latter will roll down along it, thus giving an impulse to the pendulum. In position III the roller has fallen free of the pendulum, and will be reset to be ready for the next impulse.

"Now the outstanding perfection of the Ortho is that during the whole minute interval from impulse to impulse the pendulum swings absolutely free, and if we are to count out the time correctly for giving the next impulse just at the right moment, we must have some counter that keeps as perfect time as the pendulum. This would seem to be putting the difficulty only one step back. Well, I have managed to get such a counter in a very queer and simple way. My very exact counter is a very ordinary balance wheel clock. In fact, I have one instrument made from the parts of an alarm clock which keeps accurate pace with the costly clock beside it. And it must, for the accurate time-keeping depends wholly on the freedom of the pendulum, and is independent of defects in the clock-works.

"And here is the principle: Though an ordinary time-piece may vary by several seconds in a few hours, its error in a short run like one minute is very small indeed. And hence, if such a clock is corrected at the beginning of each minute, it can never be materially wrong at the end of any minute. I take an ordinary clock and couple to the minute wheel a device for releasing the impulse lever. I run the clock fast so that it gets through its minute run about one-quarter of a second before the minute. That leaves just nice time for the release of the impulse lever, and the impulse is accordingly correctly given. Meanwhile another little device has stopped the clock at the end of its short minute run, and it remains stopped till the impulse lever, having fallen away from the pendulum, releases a cam in the clockwork, which resets the impulse lever and starts the clock off again. So you see that the clock is momentarily held up till the exact minute is reached, and thus it always starts the next minute correctly.

"Figure 2 shows diagramatically the arrangement of the pendulum with the clock work controlling the impulse lever, and Figure 3 similarly shows the main features of this clock. Number 7 in Figure 3 is a circular releasing wheel mounted on the axle of the minute wheel, Number 8 is the balance wheel, 9 the resetting cam, and Number 10 an intermediate pivoted lever between the clockwork and the impulse lever.

"A pin on the lever (10) rests on the rim of the slotted wheel (7) so that the lever falls over when the slot moves under the pin. This is arranged to happen about one-quarter of a second before the exact minute. At the same time gripping pawls on the end of the lever engage transverse pins set in the balance wheel (8), and stop the clock, and at the same time the impulse lever is released. It falls on the pendulum pallet, gives the impulse at the exact minute, and falls away. In falling away it releases the cam (9), which revolves rapidly, resetting the levers (3) and (10), and freeing the balance wheel. The clock, which was held up, is thus started correctly at the beginning of the next minute, and after 59¾ seconds the same operations will take place. This gives the main idea of the working, but there are many little refinements in detail which insure reliability of functioning and elimination of variable friction.

Father O'Leary's clock, like many other scientific inventions of the Jesuits, is the property of the Church. Any financial profits which may accrue from it will go directly back to the Society of Jesus to be used in the pursuit of other scientific work.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, May 26. Canadian Press. — Wheat trading yesterday consisted chiefly of what appeared to be the mopping up of wreckage of the May deal. Demand for wheat to deliver on May contracts here had seemingly come to a halt, and with chances greatly diminished for a month end squeeze, something of a general rush to sell was witnessed.

The market closed unsettled, 1-2c to 4 1-4c net lower, with May $1.28 to $1.28 1-2, and July $1.21 3-4 to $1.21 7-8.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, May 26. Canadian Press. — A weaker feeling developed yesterday in the local oats situation and prices were reduced 1c per bushel. The local flour market was without special change. The millfeed market was quiet and trade in rolled oats was slow. There was little demand for baled hay. The condition of the potato market was unchanged. Butter was steady with prices unchanged. There were no sales in the cheese market.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, May 26. Canadian Press. — Receipts yesterday totalled 520 cattle and calves, 450 hogsand 27 sheep and lambs. On the cattle market this morning trading opened fairly active on a good demand.

Killing classes changed hands under a liberal enquiry with buyers bidding generally strong to around 25c higher while stockers and feeders found a ready outlet at firm prices with higher prices in prospect to-morrow.

Packers bidding $12.25 for select hogs fed and watered. Sheep and lambs steady, sheep $8 to $10; medium lambs $12.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, May 26. Canadian Press. — Cattle receipts were 11,000, beef steers steady to strong; top, $9.25 on yearlings and heavy steers; bulk $8 to $8.75; she stock steady to a shade lower; weakness shown on closing prices; bulls and calves, strong; stockers dull; bulk fat she stock, $.755 to $7.25; bulk vealers to packers, 9$.25 to $9.75; bologna bulls largely $4.60 to $4.75.

Hogs — Hog receipts were 25,000; opened 5 to 10c higher than yesterday's average; closing firm; top $10.80; bulk $10.30 to $10.75; holdover liberal; many held off markets, pigs slow, steady.

Sheep, receipts 13,000; steady to 25c lower; one load of shorn lambs $13.75 to shippers; choice 85 pound shorn lambs $13.60 to packers; bulk, $12.40 and $12.75; fed Texas wethers $7.25 to $8; fed Texas yearlings and twos, $9.50 to $10; top fat ewes, $7.

SCHOOLS AND UNIVERSITIES

they earn practically all the subsidy voted them by parliament. However, in the case of the Separate schools there is a considerable amount left over after paying what the schools earn under the tests fixed by the department. The department has been advised that all subsidy the Separate schools are entitled to on the basis of average attendance must go to them regardless to whether they earn it under the departments test. Accordingly it has been the system to divide up what is left over on a pro rata with the first subsidy. Thus a Separate school that got a big grant in the first instance gets a proportionately large portion of the left-over. In the case of the Public schools there is very little left over to be divided.

This system worked out in Separate schools often getting much larger grants than Public schools doing corresponding service in the same neighborhood. They were really getting it at the expense of poorer and weaker Separate schools, but it has aroused much criticism. The new bill provides that this left-over be not divided pro rata, but in a manner to help out needy schools which were hard pressed. A regulation will be provided to govern the division of the surplus. The minister promised to submit it as soon as possible.

A. Pinard (Ottawa E.) took exception to the bill, fearing that it would enable the grants which for several years have been held up from the Ottawa Separate schools as a result of regulation 17, being diverted to other schools.

The debate on the second reading of this bill was continued in the night session.

OPERETTA AT CAMPBELLFORD HUGE SUCCESS

Capacity House Acclaims Charming Presentation of "Princess of Poppyland" By Local Talent.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 26.—The operetta, "The Princess of Poppyland," presented in the Opera House Wednesday evening by over eighty young people, under the efficient direction of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cowell, was, as have the previous entertainments presented under their direction, an unqualified success.

The hall was taxed to its utmost capacity, and all taking part acquitted themselves most creditably. The background decorations were effectively arranged, most suggestive of the 'Land of the Poppies,' and the color scheme of the various costumes, with their most pleasing designs, were delightful. Catchy choruses, pleasing solos and duets, and pretty dances kept the large audience interested every minute.

Miss Myrtle Forde made a very charming princess, and it was little wonder that Baron Insomnia and Prince Wideawake were both eager rivals for her hand. Mr. Claude Duncalfe as King of Poppy Land, and Mr. Roy Miller as Fizzletop (Court Chamberlian) were exceptionally well qualified for their parts. Miss Hilda Cowell as Prince Wideawake and Mr. Carl Maguire as Baron Insomnia, are deserving of very special mention, as was also Mr. Percy Gould, who took the part of Honorable Doxey, whose greatest problem was to keep awake. Baron Insomnia's attendants, Pip-Pip and Honk-Honk, impersonated by Mr. Fred Dorre and Willie Hore, caused much laughter.

Mr. Percy Gould's clever presentation of the part of Honorable Dozey, a sleepy secretary, elicited much merriment. Miss Cherrie Turner, as Cornflower, and Miss Hazel Labrash, as Moon Daisy, acted their parts most cleverly. The entrance of Britannia with her pages, was charmingly effected by Miss Grace Payne, and followed by England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, all most suitably costumed and cleverly represented by Mrs. Edward Bates, Miss Ruth Taylor, Miss Mary Taylor, Miss Willena Duncalfe, respectively, lent a decidedly patriotic air to the scene, to which a full chorus lustily broke in with "Rule Britannia." The special dances, Little Sunbeams, Buttercups Dance, Floral Dance and Castanet Dance were most gracefully performed.

The operetta was presented under the auspices of the Agricultural Society.

The personnel of the chorus and dancers was as follows:

Daisies—Little Misses Aileen Linton, Nora Cowell, Chrinne Cassan, Jacqueline McEachern, Mary Smith, Zella Carr, Marion O'Connor, Evelyne Abernethy, Wilhelmina Allan.

Lord Fauntleroys—Little Masters George Smith, Billie Richardson, Raymond Wragg, Clifford Longman, C. M. Bell, Raymond Covert, Arnold Bates, Donald Holmes, Ronald Richardson.

Buttercups— Misses Grace Irwin, Jerrine Barnum, Reta Hutcheon, Vivian Reynolds End Richardson, Muriel Linton, Jean McArthur, Iossie Henson, Eva McKelvie, Margaret Longman, Audrey Cassan, Lola McPherson, Dulce Carter.

2000 Yards of This Season's Organdies and Dotted Swiss Muslins At One-Day Prices

45-Inch, Permanent Finish, $1.25 Organdies, 97c Yard

Genuine Swiss qualities with a permanent finish, and that counts a whole lot in the quality of Organdy. We imported them direct from the mills in Switzerland. A wonderful color range—in fact, most every shade—dandelion, canary, rose, grey, tomato, cinnamon, sea-foam green, pink, rose-bud, flesh, lavender, cadet, cardinal, pale blue, maize, navy and black. black.

36-Inch Organdies with Dot or Shamrock Designs, $1.73 Yard

Very novel and very pleasing are these. The dots are about the size of a pea. You can have maize, rose, pink, cadet blue and lavender. All with self-colored dots. The Shamrocks are small and neat and come in self-colors of sea-foam green, orchid, lavender, pink and light blue; also navy with red, white with orchid, white with black, white with pale blue and white with pink.

29-Inch Dotted Swiss Muslins, $1.48 Yard

A wonderful assortment of colors and a satisfactory quality. In colored grounds with white dots you have choice of jade green, China blue, russet, helio, rose, navy and black. In colored grounds with colored dots there are navy with red, white with navy and white with pale blue.

31-Inch Dotted Swiss Muslins, $1.95 Yard

A very lovely quality that shows tiny white pin-head dots on colored grounds. Choice of jade, rose, pink, pale blue, lavender, China blue, navy and black. Also a black ground with a yellow dot.

ANNUAL MEETING OF METHODIST DISTRICT

Needs of Probationers Dealt With—Changes in Charges.

The Annual district meeting of the Methodist ministers and lay representatives of Peterboro district was held at George Street Methodist Church, with Rev. F. E. Malott, B.A., B.D. of Trinity Church occupying the chair, and Rev. R. M. Patterson acting as Secretary.

In the ministerial session of the morning it was recommedned that Rev. P. H. Neville be returned to the active ministry, and that R. Bruce Harrison of Lakefield and Earl Barrie, a prominent boys' worker of George Street Church, be received on probation to the ministry. The probationers A. G. Finnie and H. J. Bell were recommended to be returned to Victoria College.

The case of the Probationer J. M. Deck was considered, and he will be recommended to go on circuit or be returned to College as soon as his wish in the matter is learned. Roy MacDonald, probationer, is recommended to be received into full connection and ordained. Chas. A. R. Armstrong, probationer, was recommended to be returned to Wesley College.

The ladies of George Street Church had prepared a most appetizing dinner for those in attendance, after which the recitations of Miss Harvey and the songs of Miss Oldham provided a pleasant respite.

Evening Session

In the full session, including laymen, commencing at 1.30, encouraging reports were received from all the churches and departments. Seventeen delegates were appointed to attend the forthcoming annual conference at Whitby, and assigned to its committees. Rev. Andrew McLaughlin, B.A., B.D., was elected to represent the district on the Stationing Committee, and Rev. R. M. Patterson on the Statistical Committee.

Rev. J. E. Beckel reported that the Sunday Schools and Young Peoples' Societies were in good condition, with an increase of 560 in Sunday School attendance. These organizations raised $1950 for the support of Rev. E. Hibbart, a missionary of Chengtu, China. A splendid increase from $775 last year to $1942 this year was reported in the givings of the W.M.S. of George Street Church. The total givings of the W.M.S. of the district were $4,761.00, and $11,832.00 was the sum raised as General Missionary Fund.

By co-operation with the Presbyterian Church, Lakehurst appointment will be under Presbyterian charge, while Wesley is joined to Bridgenorth circuit. Chemong Indian Village will be in charge of a preacher who will also conduct the public school, under appointment by the Missionary Society. Yelverton and Fleetwood from the Lindsay District will be joined to Bethany Circuit.

A resolution of congratulation was sent to former Police Magistrate Dumble and his wife who, on the same day, celebrated their diamond wedding.

The stand of the Attorney-General on the Ontario Temperance Act was commended by a strong resolution.

Votes of Approval

As the Chairman, Rev. F. E. Malott, leaves the district after a term of most energetic and efficient service, a vote of hearty approval and appreciation was tendered to him. A vote of congratulation was also tendered to Rev. George Ross of Mark Street Church, upon whom the degree of Master of Arts has this year been conferred. Rev. F. E. Malott leaves the district in July to assume the pastorate of Bridge Street Church, Belleville, one of the largest in the Bay of Quinte Conference.

What Men Admire Most in Women is Perfect Health —the Sign of Strength

Barrie, Ont.—"I was suffering from a rundown system some time ago, was unfit to perform my daily duties, and was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I tried it, took two bottles, and was restored to my natural strength. I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's medicine too highly and will be willing to write to any one sending a stamped envelope."—Mrs. A. H. Bishop, R. R. No. 1.

Mothers, Advice for You!

London, Ont.—"I wish I could tell all the women in the world who suffer with woman's trouble, what a wonderful medicine Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is. My earliest experience with it was during my first expectancy. I became dropsical and my people were quite alarmed about my condition. The doctor's medicine did not seem to reach my trouble at all so my husband urged me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and to please him I did. Before I had finished the second bottle the distress and dropsy left me and I felt in absolutely perfect health. I had no further trouble from that time on. I afterwards took Favorite Prescription whenever in a nervous rundown condition and it always strengthened and built me up."—Mrs. Lily Stoddart, 438 Ontario St.

Varsity Tribute To Judge O'Connell

Entered University of Toronto in 1886 and Has Been Faithful to His Class.

The promotion to the Bench of Mr. Daniel O'Connoll removed from the ranks of the practising profession one of its ablest and most interesting members, and adds to the goodly company of judges, a man of wide learning, fine mind, and genial attitude to life. The appointment has met with the enthusiastic approval of his fellow lawyers and of the larger public to whom the wise administration of the laws is a concern. It remains for The Monthly, on behalf of the alumni of the University of Toronto, to offer to Mr. O'Connell congratulations on the honor that has come to him.

Daniel O'Connell came up to the University in the fall of 1886, youthful, sprightly, and equal, without great effort, to the demands of his course. Whether or not the mighty name, or racial leaning to the ways of peace, predisposed him to Law is not known. Fate, however, supplied the contact that induced the charm. Innocently attached to a Hallowe'en parade of student—one of those objectionalbe demonstrations that may now be indulged in only by permission of the Caput—be became a subject of interest to an observant policeman, and being of low stature was "gathered in." "Your name?"—"Daniel O'Connell." "Date of birth?"—"The seventeenth of March." "Place of birth?"—"South Africa." The truth had all the virtues of fiction. The sergeant felt that he was receiving the ictum obliquum on the side of nationality, but was startled by the bold change of venue implied in the third answer. Each evasion was familiar to him, but in their aggregate there was a bewildering inconsistency. There is a maxim of the lower courts—deriving from Solomon it is believed—to the effect that where nothing clearly presents itself to be done, do nothing. The young offender was freed, the sergeant taking advantage of the occasion, however, to make a speech. It is said that the speech, fervent and kindly, yet without remote motive, was the subtle influence that directed the young hearer to the Law: Felis qui potuit rerum cognoscere causas.

On making his degree, Mr. O'Connell betook himself to Osgoode Hall, and in due time went out into the profession. For some years his lot and his net were cast in Peterborough. It seemed at one time that politics would claim him, but he hearkened not to the call. Soon after coming to Toronto he was elected a Bencher.

In all things pertaining to the University, Mr. O'Connell has kept up a keen interest. No member of his class has been more faithful in attendance at the reunion and banquets, where always—not without provocation—the speech of the sergeant has been a feature of the evening. In the recent organization of the Alumni Association of University College he was very active and is first vice-president of the organization. In Judge O'Connell, his College and his University will always have a good friend.—From University of Toronto Monthly.

LLOYD GEORGE GETS SUPPORT OF HOUSE.

LONDON, May 26.—(Canadian Press.) — Following precise and carefully worded statement on the Genoa Conference, and an eloquent rebuttal of criticisms directed against him, Premier Lloyd George last night received the support of the House of Commons in what is considered the equivalent of another vote of confidence.

JOCKEY CLUB.

TORONTO, May 27 (Canadian Press). — Before the end of the present week a new income from the Ontario Jockey Club will commence to flow into the Provincial Treasury. In committee stage last night the Attorney-General resisted half a dozen amendments and suggestions affecting his Declaratory Bill, but they were all voted down.

The Bill will return re-printed today for final approval.

Constipation

It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned. Indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.

(BY A BRIDE)

CHAPTER XLVI

HURTING A HUSBAND

While the rehearsal was in progress I couldn't determine just how Bart's audacity had disturbed my husband.

According to the plot I, the Viking's bride, continued to chatter my joy in the jewels my hero had brought me while I schemed darkly.

I was blonde and angelic. My rival was tawny and bold. And she taunted me with her smug smile. As if she knew that my hold upon him was weak!

About her neck was a string of pearls. These I demanded to humiliate her. But the girl looked fearlessly to the Viking, and laid a protecting hand upon the pearls. And my lord refused to take them from her! In all the ship, he said, those pearls were the only thing I might not have!

And so I let them go as if they were nothing.

But heart of her burned in my heart.

I, too, had a gift, I told my lord. Oh, only a small thing. I could carry it upon one arm! But precious! A gift from the gods themselves!

I left him to go for it. And I did not tell him that I was going to fetch his little son.

His son had been born after my lord had gone to the southward, the little son of whom he had not known, of whom no one dared to tell him except me, the mother. For that proud honor had I waited tswo long year. Had waited while the child learned to toddle and to lisp his father's name.

The next scene disclosed the ladies of the court ranged with the heroes to see their leader receive his gift.

Proudly I returned with my treasure. But I came not as I had planned, holding my beautfiul babe by his tiny hand.

I followed an upturned shield, borne by a warrior and covered with a golden cloth.

And as we reached the throne of the Viking I motioned that hateful beauty from the south to stand forth and draw aside the cloth of gold.

The people raised their cups as she obeyed. She lifted the cover, beheld what was on the shield. And the people cried "Skoal!" But they could not drown the shrieking of the creature who fell and clung to the Viking's feet.

My lord shook her off, threw back the gorgeous napkin—saw—and the curtain fell.

My part in the play was exhausting. It was the most difficult emotional role I ever had undertaken. When it was done I was almost too weary to listen to the congratulations of those who crowded around us.

Many came—but not my husband. Nor did Jack speak to Bart.

Jack is invariably courteous. His neglect annoyed me. Even if Bart had made him jealous I did not like my man to be unmannerly.

DEAD FROM EATING POISONOUS FUNGUS.

Mother and Daughters Thought They Were Mushrooms.

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 26 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Lawlor, aged 29, wife of Joseph Lawlor, a farmer of Gordon Lake, nine miles north of Desbarats, and her two children, Beatrice, twelve, and Mary, seven, are dead as the result of eating a quantity of what were believed to be morals, but which happened to be a poisonous species of fungus.

The lives of two other members of the family are in danger from eating the fungus.

DAYLIGHT SAVING MAY BE DOOMED.

TORONTO, May 26.—(Canadian Press).—When Justice Latchford yesterday quashed the daylight saving bylaw passed by Kitchener Cit; Council, he delivered judgment which apparently makes way for appeals against similar bylaws passed by other municipalities in Ontario. In the case of Toronto, there is no bylaw to upset and citizens declared in favor of daylight saving in a referendum.

Massage Must Include Neck and Shoulders

BY HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Famous Beauty Specialst.

Let's talk about massage to-day! Massage as a beauty promoting treatment dates back to the very ancient days.

According to Martial, the Roman epigrammatist, Phryne, Sappho, Aspasia and other beauties of the classic era owed the perfection of their loveliness to massage.

The day when the beauty specialist stopped with massage of the face alone is past. The neck, shoulders, even part of the spine should be treated if one hopes to clear up a skin, keep it soft and plant.

This isn't as difficult as it sounds, for the home woman. There are instruments which can aid her in the manipulation, but if she cannot invest in even those she can manage quite nicely with her creams and her own hands.

The face should be given attention first. After putting on a generous supply of cream without rubbing it in begin to treat the cheeks with an upward movement, not rubbing, rather picking up the flesh. About the eyes the touch should be exceedingly light and should follow the line of the eye. This stimulates the muscles and has a tendency to brighten the eyes. Quite a great deal of attention should be given the chin. With the finger tips down and the wrists up, such a position as one in back of you might take. Follow the line of your chin with a gentle pressure, holding the pressure just a moment at the end of the stroke. Chins sag as the years begin to creep up if they aren't given attention.

The shoulders and neck should be given a generous application of skin food, which should be worked in with a rather slow kneading action in which the palms of the hands can be used.

TARIFF AND POLITICS.

NEW YORK, May 26.— (Canadian Press.) —Addressing American and Iron Steel Institute to-day, Judge Gary, President, advocated that Congress take tariff out of politics, that it play no favorites in its tendency to regulate things, that it substitute sales tax for income tax and that it forget soldier bonus until the nation is less severely burdened financially.

Included in the list of founders of the National Women's party are 82 women from 19 states.

Your Scarf Betrays Your Character Watch It, Warns Marian Hale

BY MARIAN HALE.

Every neighborhood has its gossip and so has every wardrobe.

The local gossip, who acts as personal press agent and general purveyor for publicity for everyone on her block, often causes us annoyance, but at least we can find out what she is saying.

But the gossip that lives in our own wardrobes is more underhanded. It makes the most startling disclosures about us, and we never know.

All of which leads us to my text today: Watch the scarf.

I know it is lovely and alluring and innocent looking, but be not misled. It isn't. Danger often lies in the handful of chiffon or the length of lace you add to your costume.

This season we are not only taking our scarfs straight, so to speak, but are taking them in modified form on practically everything we wear. They appear hanging from hats, disguised as panels and capes and even as a part of the gown itself.

* * *

The danger of the scarf lies in the fact that it has no character of its own. It is only a chameleon, taking on the qualities of the person wearing it.

On a coquette a scarf will flirt outrageously and unrestrainedly. Yet put the same article on a woman of stern moral fiber and it will immediately take on dignity and assume a virtue it has not.

The scarf is old, very old—as old as woman herself. It belongs to women with old souls and a knowledge of the arts of their sex. Though the flapper has adopted it as a part of her uniform she has made nothing of it.

To get an idea of its possibilities study the Oriental or the Spanish woman.

The Oriental woman will wind a few yards of chiffon about her face in so subtle a manner that she is more alluringly veiled than the most ravishing beauty whose face is exposed.

The Spanish senorita can say with her scarf practically anything she may put into words, and often much more. Her conversations with men are closely chaperoned in her girlhood day, and a third person must always be present.

The stern duenna may regulate her talk, but how can she regulate what the girl may say with her fringed scarf or her lace mantilla?

* * *

Oriental and Spanish women have often delevoped the language of their clothes far beyond that of their speech.

If you can manage a scarf or shawl as well as they can, by all means adopt it at once. If not, study their ways and be wise.

It is interesting to notice that in countries where there is great conversational freedom between young men and women the language of clothes is neglected.

Higher education has not considered it. The serious young college sophomore, with her horn-rimmed spectacles and her armful of books, may converse with her college professor in several languages and have a fair working knowledge of Freud and Brill, then proclaim he ignorance of all the arts and artifices of her sex when she carelessly dons her scarf.

The scarf is the sort of thing that must be [illegible] it will compromise you. And at all times it will compromise you. And at all times it will compromise you. And at all times

REV. G. E. ROSS TALKS TO S.O.E.

Inspiring Sermon on "The Eagle Life." Excellent Music By Choir.

The S.O.E. Parade on Sabbath evening was a most implosing spectacle. The church was becomingly decorated for the occasion, and the choir excelled any former effort in months. "The Eagle Life," was the subject of the evening sermon, and was founded on Isiah xl. 31. "They shall mount up with wings as eagles." The following is an outline of the sermon.

In the book entitled, "The Life of Roosevelt," there is an outstanding sentence by the wife of the great soldier and statesman. When the last of her four boys had enlisted in the service of his country, Mr. Roosevelt was somewhat daunted to see his last and youngest son leave for the front. But at this point the mother spoke up and said, "You must not bring up your children like eagles, and then expect them to act like sparrows." There you have it, it is a royal word: it links itself with some of the greatest sayings of the Roman mothers, which are still ringing through the years. Her boys had been created for great ventures, and when the call came they went forth as naturally as eagles when they leave their errie for hazardous flights.

Hunger for Society

God never intended man to be alone; and man's desire is for association. This is exemplified in all the departments of nature, animate and inanimate. From the ferns and mosses at our feet, to the giant pines and cedars on the mountain, it is cluster, and group, and family. All through the triple kingdom of God's creation we find association and confederation. In the world of waters it is fish in schools, you catch one fish, then you look about for of its aquatic associates. Stars in squads, companies, regiments, brigades, divisions, and armies. Not isolation, but aggregation, is the characteristic of God's great star-chamber. We have flowers, fruits, and leaves in clusters, insects in colonies, birds and beasts of the field, and fairest in flocks and herds; rocks in families and associations, then why should men be isolated and separate.

Why this Hunger

The desire is in the blood, it is natural. Man in his primitive state found himself alone, exposed to danger, from the great beasts of the jungle, and from the mighty forces of nature around him. He needed food, clothing, protection and fellowship; so he looked about for companionship. God says that it was not well for man to be alone. Some people object to "Secret Societies," as they term them, but I think Jesus had such a society. They numbered just twelve men. What did Jesus mean when he said, "Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are without, all these things are done in parables." This sounds like an active society. Others object to insurance. But when a man buys an insurance policy, he simply buys a piece of personal property similar to a Victroy Bond. And this is right. Do we not learn from the Word of God, that the man who will not provide for his own family is worse than an infidel. Yes, and many times an insurance policy is all the provision a man can make for the future of his family. Who has not been impressed with the enthusiasm of a body of men?

The Eagle Life

I would consider fidelity to God, to a man's self, and to his fellow: would embrace the element of the eagle life. Man's picture as taken by the camera of his God, by that of the man in the street; and the photo of a man, taken by himself, should be very interesting. Remember the camera does not lie. The artist may smooth out the wrinkles and twists, but it is not an honest picture; and the camere of God, and that of your neighbour, leaves them just as they are. No man can take so true a photo of you as you can take of yourself." Know thyself," my friend: Then what is God's estimate of our life, what is our neighbour's opinion of us, and what do we think of ourselves? This is peculiar to man, that he can study his own heart and life.

Made for the Skies

The wings of his soul were made to cut the upper air, and hold against the tempest. He was not made for the swamps and moral marsh lands. The eagle does not build its nest in the bogues of the lowlands, but up in the clouds, and above the low lying mists and vapours of the valley. So God intended man to be a seeker after that which is lofty and pure, and pertaining to the true, the beautiful, and the good. Perhaps you have heard of the farmer who found a young eagle, brought it home, and put it in the yard with his chickens. But this was no place for this bird of the mountains, and so its eye grew dim, and its wings were drooping, for degeneration had seized upon this young prince of birds. One day the farmer took the bird out of the chicken yard, placed it upon a high fence and left it there to see the result. In the course of an hour or two, the bird stretched its mighty wings, bringing its talons down along each pinion with a thrum. Then fixing its kindling eye upon the sun, and stretching its mighty wings it rose with a scream that rang through the hills. Circling three times in the upper air to get its bearings, it soared away towards its native mountain home. Live for God, my friend, live for each other, and live true to yourself and those who love you best.

Something Great

An eagle does not spend its time chasing mosquitoes. It will seize a lamb or even a child. Your work is large, you are helping to clean up the world. You are wearing a beautiful flower on your breast, let me ask you to "put on Christ," for He is the "Rose of Sharon" and the "Lily of the Valley." Do your best for one another, for this is brotherhood. "Lives of great men all remind us, we can make our lives sublime." Let us do our best to live the eagle life. A certain promotor phoned to the owner of that great race horse "Dan Patch," asking for an exhibition of speed at a certain fair. "We will do a mile with 'Dan Patch' in 2.10," was the reply, "for $5000.00." "We will give you $500.00 to see Dan Patch do his best," was the reply. Ah, that's it, our very best is required.

DROP TOYS FOR RADIO

ELEANOR GOULD, OF MINNEAPOLIS, AND HER RADIO SET

Girls are laying aside their jacks and jumping ropes for radio.

They are vieing with boys for the honours as radio fans. They are making their own sets. And they're learning all about the new science, too.

School authorities in all parts of the country report interest in wireless not only by the boy pupils, but by the girls as well. Y.M.C.A. radio schools also report several girl students in their classes.

Eleanor Gould of Minneapolis, Minn., is only one of the many girls of the country who have taken up radio. She's eleven, yet has just completed her own crystal set. Now, she says, she is going to make a vacuum tube set.

Eleanor wound the coils, mounted the parts in an oak cabinet and even strung the aerial from the roof of her home.

It's one example of what girl fans have been doing throughout the country.

GREATER TEA CONSUMPTION IN GREAT BRITAIN

The reduction of the English duty on tea by four pence a pound will undoubtedly result in greater consumption on the part of the public of Great Britain, which is now by far the largest tea consuming country in the world. This increased demand will tend to raise the present abnormally high market, and an increase in cost of teas throughout the world mbay be expected.

Voice of the People

RICE LAKE FISH

Editor, Examiner:—

I see in the Toronto Globe and other papers, sent in by what is known as the Coburg Fish and Games Association, telling about wanton slaughter of fish on the north shore of Rice Lake. This has appeared quite frequently. Where they get their grounds for this assertion I do not know. I suppose the reports are sent from the south shore of the lake, no doubt by some of the members of the Association who live there. They will likely rest easy now that they have a lot more overseers on the job. This is what writing to the Toronto papers has been resorted to for, and of course, they would have to say a lot of fishing was done somewhere.

It will be remembered that the government last year, reduced the fish overseers through the province, from some 232 to 33, and they pay the 33 as much as they paid the 232, or more, and took on returned soldiers. These men are young and well fitted for the work, but there were hardly enough of them. The men engaged this year should have been returned men and not fish guides, as has been the case in some instances.

One of these men some years ago, peddled fish caught out of season through South Monaghan. This method of delivery was a bag over his back. The result was it had left his back the shape of a rainbow. This work be kept up for years. Surely a fitting specimen to protect fish. You cannot protect fish with this sample of men guards as fishery overseers. It won't work. The public suspect such men make their living out of our fish. When the open season comes around some men are going Sunday and Monday all summer. What is done with all the fish they catch? I do not know how about a close season for some men.

Have these Associations considered this very important matter? If not, I would advise them to do so at once. The time is past for people to make a living on this lake out of fishing. They have about exterminated the frogs, and would have soon cleaned out the musk rat had the farmers not shut them out. Marshes protected three years are now giving as good a catch of rats as ever they did, yet they say the farmer is the man who is the law breaker.

When it was necessary to appoint a few more overseers returned men should have been taken on, as such men can be depended upon—men who risked their lives to protect their native land are good enough to protect fish in preference to guides. Some of these guides seem to want office very badly.

What do the Fish and Game Associations think about cutting out fish guides?

I saw a foreigner throw 80 bass out of the ice house at Jubilee, into the river, some years ago; he had kept them too long This is what seems to be going on right along. I have heard of similar incidents to that. If these men had to row themselves around there would be no fish thrown away, or buried, as the case may be.—W. A. NURSE,

MME. BROCHU LIVED ON VICHY AND MILK DIET

But Now Montreal Woman Eats Anything and Feels Fine All the Time—Gives Tanlac Full Credit.

"For nearly five months before taking Tanlac I had to live on milk and vichy water alone", said Mme. Louisa Brochu, 1366 Amity street, Montreal, Que.

"I suffered so much the past two years I was almost a wreck. My indigestion was so bad I was almost afraid to eat for everything disagreed with me. My liver got to troubling me too, and pains in my side nearly run me wild. Nearly every night my sleep was broken by terrible headaches.

"I took the first bottle of Tanlac to please my husband, who worried overy my case, but my second bottle I took of my own accord for I was beginning to feel so fine. I have a good appetite now, eat any thing, and have no more trouble from pains or sleeplessness. I think Tanlac is wonderful."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

A PRESENTATION REV. F. E. MALOTT

Young People Recognize the Services of Pastor of Trinity Church.

The Rev. F. E. Malott was taken by surprise when a number of the young people of Trinity Church representing the Epworth League assembled at Trinity Parsonage and presented their pastor with a handsome club bag as a token of their affection and esteem and as a recognition of the interest Mr. Malott had taken in them and in the work of their Society. An address to the pastor was read by Mr. Walker Jones, the president of the Epworth League.

Mr. Mallott was deeply affected by the gift and the address. He assured the young people of his interest in them and in their work and said that it had always been a pleasure to be with them at their meetings, and take part from time to time, in their programmes and the work. He assured them that he would be with them in spirit when they should begin, under a new pastor, their Fall and winter work, and that he should ever follow with interest the progress of their work which he believed would be increasingly successful.

PRESENTATION MISS MAY URQUHART ON EVE OF WEDDING

The Toronto Globe for Saturday has an item of interest locally, regarding the coming marriage of Miss May Urquhart, who was connected with the Dramatic section of the Conservatory of Music here during 1921, and superintended the offering of the dramatic section at the closing exercises last week. It says:—

The men's and women's committee of the Port Credit and District Liberal-Conservative Association met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Urquhart in Port Credit to make a presentation to Miss May Urquhart, their only daughter, whose marriage to Dr. Archibald Kilgour is to take place at their summer home, Lake Simcoe. The presentation of a mahogany tea wagon was made by Mr. Samuel Charters, M.P. for Peel. Dr. Kilgour responded for Miss Urquhart. Mrs. Urquhart was then presented with a bouquet of Killarney roses by Major T. L. Kennedy, M.P.P. for Peel, as a token of appreciation of her services as president of the women's committee. Mrs. Urquhart responded suitably.

Miss Urquhart, as one of Port Credit's most popular daughters, has been the centre of many showers and teas. Last week's miscellaneous shower given for her by Mrs. J. J. Foy was especially interesting, when little Miss Betty Thomson brought in the gifts in a white rose-garlanded chariot laden to the top, she herself being dressed as a dainty little bride. The tea table was appropriately decked in bride roses and ferns centred by another little miniature bride, whose gown concealed the electric lamp and whose tufled veil with scattered flowers around a mirror, formed a most picturesque decoration. A euchre-tea was given in Miss Urquhart's honor last week by Mrs. Dixie Cotton and Miss Agnes Grey; also a kitchen shower by her girl associates in church work, and handkerchief shower by the J.M.F. Club. Miss Nairn Lee is entertaining in her honor today.

Miss Urquhart came to Port Credit ten years ago, when her father became manager of the Sterling Bank.

LIVER TROUBLE

BAD BILIOUS ATTACKS

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers. Your bowels become constipated, the tongue coated, the breath bad, the stomach foul and sick, and bilious spells occur on account of the liver holding back the bile which is so essential to promote the movement of the bowels, and the bile gets into the blood instead of passing out through the usual channel.

The only way to keep the liver active and working properly, and thus get rid of the nasty bilious attacks, is to keep the bowels regular by using

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS.

They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take, work smoothly and gently, and there is nothing of the griping, weakening and sickening effects of the old fashioned purgatives.

Mr. John S. Caron, Donavon, S writes: "I was troubled with my liver and had severe bilious attacks. A friend advised me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, so I took two vials and have had no more attacks."

Y.M.C.A. BOYS WILL HOLD BICYCLE HIKE SATURDAY

Weather permitting, the Y.M.C.A. Boys' outin gto Lakefield which had to be postponed last week on account of rain, will be carried through according to plan this coming Saturday. This bicycle trip will give the boys a real good day in the open which should count much these days when Nature is at her best. During the non halt for lunch a game of baseball will be played after which the cyclists will journey on to the village and make another halt. The party will leave the "Y" building at 10 a.m. and will return about four. Every Y.M.C.A. boy member should have his bike well oiled up and be on hand for Saturday's trip.

A GREAT LAKES CRUISE

Travellers to Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur, Fort William, Winnipeg and Poinuts West, will find the Great Lakes tour a delightful break in a comparatively long journey. The freedom, the clean cool comfort, the fun on shipboard, the concerts, promenades and dances, the excellent meals, appeal to all who travel on the palatial steamers Hamonic and Huronic, that sail from Sarnia, Ont., Tuesdays and Saturdays. You will enjoy the sail up beautiful St. Mary's River, the thrill of passing through the "Soo" Locks, and the visit to Canada's Twin Cities Port Arthur and Fort William. The fare by lake and rail to Winnipeg and points West is exactly the same as by all rail. The cost of meals and berths on steamer however, is particularly low, just $10.00 one way. Any Canadian National-Grand Trunk Ticket Agent will give you all particulars. 1d-123

AYEARST DENIES SMITH CHARGES

Says O. T. A. Operators Were Neither Drunk Nor Abusive in Making Arrests.

(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 26. — The spotlight was again focussed on the Sutton liquor raid at to-day's session of the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature, when T. H. Lennox, G. H. Ferguson and M. M. MacBride strove by examination of the three officers who conducted the raid, to prove that it had been a political frame up.

Further evidence, in support of his allegations of improprieties in the License Department, was given by Inspector E. D. L. Hammond, who charged that General Elliott, a former commissioner of Provincial Police, actuated by "personal spite" had endeavored to throw all the responsibility on his (Hammond's) shoulder. Inspector Hammond testified that after being complimented by General Elliott upon his work, he had been removed from his position and placed in the criminal investigation department at a salary $1200 lower than he had formerly received. All this he charged had been done without any explanation.

At the request of Chief Inspector Ayearst three witnesses were called to refute charges made against Mr. Ayearst's department yesterday by Samuel Smith, a former operator.

Inspector Charlton swore that he had heard the interview between Mr. Ayearst and Walter Bellam, of which Smith had spoken. He denied that Mr. Ayearst had used the expression "d—— scoundrel" or any other profane language.

Albert P. Rogers, an operator, denied having taken liquor to the home of Stanley Nash for the purpose of "framing" Nash or anyone else.

H. H. Cross, another operator, denied that former officer Courain had been drunk or abusive during a raid on a McCaul street house, to which Smith had referred.

Mr. Ayearst himself testified that when Courian and Cross left the office on that occasion they were as "sober as I am," and they had only 15 minutes to get to the house.

"But are you sober?" J. W. Curry inquired anxiously.

"I haven't tasted liquor for many months," the Chief Inspector replied. "It is only when our work makes it necessary that I touch it."

NO DISCRIMINATION IN GOOD ROADS TAX

TORONTO, May 26. — W. D. Gregory K.C., the chairman of the Chippawa Commission and the recipient of several other honors from the government, found himself opposed in a demand for the Southern portion of the premier's own county of Halton this morning, before the committee on Municipal Highways by Hon. F. C. Biggs.

Mr. Gregory urged the support of the committee on behalf of a bill that would provide a more equitable taxation of lands in certain townships. The bill divides the townships into zones for the purpose of road improvement. It would provide the levying of a rate on only certain sections.

Mr. Biggs opposed the bills on ground that it would violate the principles of fair play by favoring certain sections.

It was laid over on the minister's suggestion to be considered in conjunction with a similar measure drawn up by R. T. Bracken of Kent.

In Belgium women have been employed in the railway, postal and telegraph service since 1882.

IMPLICATED BY FORGERY

Tenant Must Explain Dealings With Landlord Whose Battered Body Was Found Under Barn

C. CROFT IN JAIL

(Special to The Examiner.)

CHATHAM, Ont., May 26.—Clayton Croft, aged 28 and married, who was arrested here last night for the murder of Guston Noel, whose battered and decomposed body was found beneath Croft's barn, is faced to-day with the necessity of accounting for his financial dealings of the past few weeks and for what the police allege was the forgery of a cheque drawn in favor of prisoner and signed in the name of Noel.

Croft had been the tenant of the farm when it was owned by Noel. A few weeks ago a sale to the tenant was arranged, and Croft claims that four weeks ago he paid the old man $250 in cash. Last Saturday, according to police information, Croft appeared in Chatham at the store of Peter Cunningham, a hardware merchant, and presented a cheque signed apparently by Noel and made in favor of Clayton Croft. Cunningham accepted the cheque and paid over the $100 which it called for.

A few days later the cheque reached the bank and was declared to be a palpable forgery. Croft was confronted with the facts and admitted that he had made out the check, but stated that he did so at Noel's direction. He then contended, so the police allege, that the arrangements for the cheque were made last Saturday. The authorities claim that Noel must have been dead for several days at that time.

Crown Attorney H. D. Smith, K. C. caused the arrest of Croft on a charge of forgery as a result of the cheque transactions and pending the outcome of the coroner's inquest there will be no further action in that charge. Nevertheless it is said to be probable that the murder charge will follow just as soon as evidence is collected.

Croft's father lives on a farm near Chatham, where the young man was raised. He lived for a time in Windsor and is said to be out now on suspended sentence for some offence committed there. He returned to Chatham district some months ago and took up a tenancy on the farm where the body was found. The police allege that he has been in intimate contact with bootleggers plying their traffic in the Chatham district. The inquest will proabbly be proceeded with by Coroner McCritchie, of Chatham, on Thursday or Friday of next week. In the meanwhile, there will be no preliminary hearing for Croft on any count, and he will remain in jail on remand.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, May 26. — (Canadain Press.)—Substantial gains were made by both old and new issues of Riordon stocks on this morning's board of the local stock exchange. Old Riordon Common, opening at 122, advanced to 15, a gain of 6 3-4 points from previous sale. Old Preferred stock closed at 2, a net gain of 3. The new stock, in the unlisted section, was more active with a close at 21, a gain of 3 1-2. Transactions were heaviest in Brazilian, but the range was very narrow with the close at 48 1-4, or a shade under last night.

MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, May 26. —(Canadian Press.)—Trading was uninteresting this morning on the local stock exchange, and practically no variation worthy of mention was recorded. The leaders were quiet and for the most part unchanged at yesterday's closing quotations. With the exception of a few fractional changes, prices were steady.

UPWARD PRICES AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, May 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Resumption of bullish activities on more favorable money conditions and increasingly cheerful trade indications, caused another rush of public buying which swept prices upward at a rapid pace. Extensive purchases of such leaders as United Staes' Steel, Baldwin Locomotive, Mexican Petroleum and Studebaker enccuraged pool operations in a wide assortment of shares. Mathieson Alkali jumped 5 1-4, American Ice Pfd. 4, Mexican Petroleum 3 3-4, National Enamelling 3 1-4, Studebaker 3 and Brooklyn Transit, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Standard Oil of California to 2 1-2.

FEW EXCEPTIONS.

NEW YORK, May 26.— (Canadian Press.) — There were no important exceptions to higher range of prices at active opening of to-day's stock market, buying orders more than offsetting short selling. Independent Steels again led the advance and Motors and Oils were strong under the leadership of Studebaker. Moderate heaviness was shown by American Woollen, United States' Rubber, Brooklyn Union Gas and Atchison. Early foreign exchange rates eased slightly from yesterday's final quotations.

RAILS WERE ACTIVE

NEW YORK, May 26. Canadian Press. — Rails esperially the cheaper grades were taken up more actively during the morning. Lake Erie and Western common and preferred made like gains and Lehigh Valey, and New Haven, St. Paul and Weeling, and Lake Erie preferred rose 1 to 1 1-2 points. Mex Pet continued to feature the oils increasing its rise to 3 points. Crucible was the strongest of the steels but that group and related equipments were less prominent than usual. Call money opened and renewed into next week at 3 1-2 per cent.

STERLING IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, May 26. Canadias Press. — Sterling exchange irregular, demand rates, Great Britain, 4.44 7-8; Canadian dollars 15-16 of 1 per cent discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, May 26. Canadian Press.

CHICAGO, May 26. — Opening wheat prices which varied from unchanged figures to 1-4c higher, with May 1.28 1-4 and July 1.21 1-4 and $1.22, was fololwed by a moderate further gain in some cases and then by a set back all around to well below yesterday's finish.

Rainy weather hindered field work, gave comparative firmness to the market for corn and oats. After opening unchanged, July 63 to 63 1-8, the corn market eased a trifle and then scored a slight general gain.

Oats started a shade to 1-8c higher with July 38 3-8 and held near to the initial range.

Radio News

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23. — Radio fans who delight in sports!

Get ready to tune in, Memorial Day, on station WOH, broadcasting from Indianapolis on the 360-meter wave length.

If you do, you will enjoy the 10th annual 500-mile motor racing classic at the Indianapolis Speedway almost as well as the racing fans in the grandstand. You will hear all they hear—even the pop-pop of the motor exhausts as they speed around the track.

Arrangements Made.

T. F. Myers, secretary and general manager of the Speedway, has made all arrangements for the radio service with the Hatfield Electric Company of this city. The central location of station WOH makes it possible, if the day is clear, for radio enthusiasts the country over to hear its program.

Get your receiving set in tune with WOH early, for promptly at 9.30 the program will start. It will begin with a band concert by perhaps the largest aggregation of players heard by radiophone.

It will consist of 40 bands massed into one organization of 1,000 pieces. For a half hour before the race, this band will play before the grandstand and its music will be broadcast to all the radio fans listening in.

From 10 o'clock on, when the race begins, WOH will broadcast the progress of the contestants at half-hour intervals. Important incidents will be related.

Bombs by Radio.

Bombs signallin- progress in preparations to start the battle between 32 drivers for the $100,000 prize money will also be heard by radio. The start of the race, even the cheering of the crowds as the cars get under way, will be heard hundreds of miles from the track.

Throughout the day the bulletin radio service will continue until about 4 o'clock, when the finish of the event is expected! Following the race, a complete review of the classic and names of the ten prize winners will be broadcast.

BRANTFORD, May 26.—(Canadian Press). — The Brantford Branch of the Ontario Government Savings Bank was opened this morning promptly at 10.30 by the Hon. N. C. Nixon with the sun shining and the moving picture machines clicking. J. Wedgewood Bowlby one time mayor of Brantford was the first depositor, he deposited one dollar. Hon. H. C. Nixon was the second and Earl Big gar the third. The U.F.O. were on hand in great numbers to see the mighty triumph of their principles. Mr. Nixon in opening the bank declared it was an epoch marking event in the economic history of the country.

LADY NICOTINE NEW MAY QUEEN

Her Devotees Stocking Up in a Hurry to Avoid the New Taxes and Prices.

MONTREAL, May 26.—(Special to The Examiner). — Cigarette smokers are building up a new high sales record for local tobacconists to-day in the rush to stock up before the new price boost of four or five cents per package becomes effective. Tobacconists announced early to-day that the new scale of prices will be announced late this afternoon, and will become effective at once.

Well-known brands which had been selling at 18 cents per package are to be hoisted to 22 or 23, and the 15-cent brands to 19 or 20 cents. Executives of the Imperial Tobacco Co. which manufactures the majority of popular brands, had been wrestling with the problem thrust upon them by the Budget for the past two days, and have not yet completed their task. They have to compute the effect of the new three cent excise tax and the sales tax hoist of 50 per cent. As yet, they have been unable to decide just how much must be added to the current prices. Only a few thousand cigarettes have been shipped by this company to their customers since the increase became effective, advising their customers that they would be charged the price to be decided later. These unfortunate retailers whose stocks were depleted at the critical moment are compelled to sell their new stock at varying prices from 20 to 22 cents per package, while their more fortunate competitors whose stocks were sufficiently large at the time are still able to sell at the old price. The margin of profit which the retailer makes on popular brands is about four cents per package, and as the new levels exceed this margin he finds himself unable to maintain the old prices unless willing to pocket the loss for a few days. Officials of Benson and Hedges are also in conference to-day filling pages with their figuring in their task to fix their new prices, and expect to announce the new scale at the same time as the Imperial Tobacco Co.

NORTH CITY GROCETERIA

CORNER ANTRIM AND GEORGE STS.

Opening Saturday, May 27, 1922

The last thing in an up-to-date grocery is presented to the north city residents. Nothing has been spared in making this store a sanitary, clean, and above all, a convenient place to shop. It is so simple a child can do the buying as well as an adult.

On entering the store one can see and select the goods, hand them to the cashier, who totals up the amount on an electric register and wraps up the receipt with the goods. A supervisor will inform customers about merchandise they want.

On the Opening Day a Present will be given every child or young person making purchases or assisting parents to select requirements.

Discounting the Count

A COUNT used to be a man in charge of a count of 500 persons to whom he was a sort of overlord. This is not true today because of altered political conditions. We still have Counts, but the Count business has changed somewhat.

Business, of all kinds, has undergone something of a revolution. It was not so many years ago that pack peddlers were the sole distributors and transporters of many of the household articles of the day. Their legs set the limits for most distribution problems in those days.

Modern transportation, progressive sales methods ---and advertising---have broken the shackles of time. They make a speedy job of what used to take years. Through advertising many an article has been introduced simultaneously in stores all over the country.

Advertising today is the method used by business to tell you why you should have certain goods and how to identify those goods. The advertisements you find here are a truthful catalog of needed merchandise.

Articles of all kinds and for all purposes are presented in a pleasant way through the medium of type and picture. The outstanding requirements of every member of the family are met by offers of good merchandise of proved value.

Use the advertisements for guidance and you will be a constant gainer

OSHAWA THE BIG ATTRACTION FOR TOMORROW

Last Year's Champs Will Battle With the Petes at Riverside Park in Central League Fixture.

Every ball fan in Peterboro; a lot from the surrounding district, and a bunch of people who have yet to win the name of fans but intend to qualify tomorrow, will be out at Riverside Park tomorrow afternoon to see the battle between the old rivals Oshawa and Peterboro which promises to be one of the most exciting fixtures of the season. While Manager Solomon has made no announcement as to his pitching selection it is assumed that Heckman will be on the mound against the champs. He will be opposed by Gallagher, Oshawa's left-handed recruit from the Kingston Ponies or by Patten, the veteran right hander of the motor town's pitching staff. Gallagher worked against Port Hope on Wednesday shutting them out and letting them down with four hits, and he will be ready to go in tomorrow if called upon, although it would not cause much surprise if Patten drew the assignment. Both are tough birds to battle against and with the fast fielding Oshawa team behind them either will give Manager Solomon's team an awful argument. The game is called for 3 o'clock and the fans are advised to get over early as the game is rightly looked upon as one of the most important of the year. The fixture will be in charge of Umpires Butler of Lindsay and Rosevear of Port Hope.

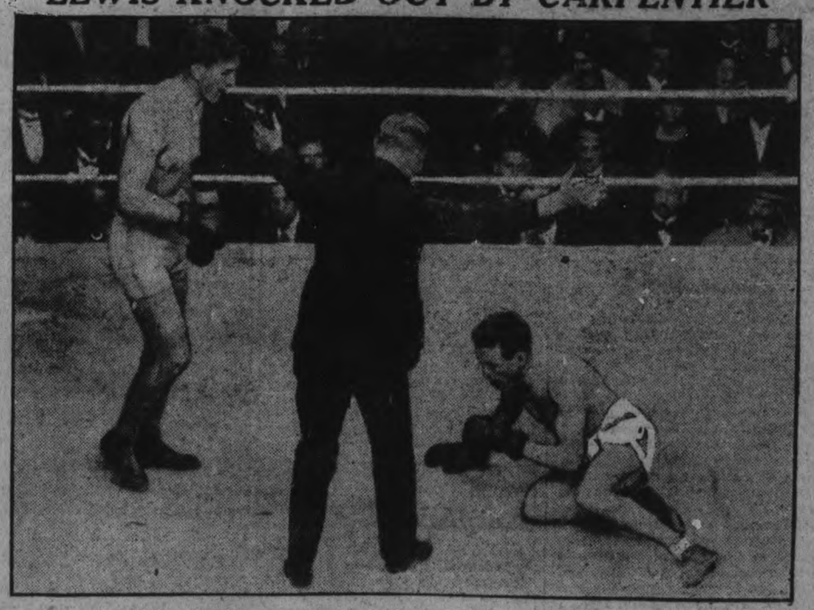
LEWIS KNOCKED OUT BY CARPENTIER



The accompanying picture is the first received in this country of the finish of the fight in London on 11th May, between Georges Carpentier, the light heavyweight champion, and Ted (Kid) Lewis, the European welterweight titleholder, who, going out of his class to meet the Frenchman, was knocked out before the end of the first round.

There were complaints of a foul, and it is said the "movies" showed the referee to be holding Lewis' arm with one hand, and with the other pushing Carpentier out of a clinch, when the final blow was struck.

The referee's decision, however, was unqualifiedly in Georges' favour.

BABE RUTH IN TROUBLE AGAIN

Questions a Decision and Threw Dust in Face of Umpire.

NEW YORK, May 26. Canadian Press. — Babe Ruth is in hot water again, but just what the temperature is, is the question that is burning the thoughts of the 15,000 fans who saw him throw diamond dust in the eyes of Umpire Hildbrand.

After laying a safe bunt to centre he grossed the first base and made a great slide for second, but the umpire held that he had been tagegd out. Babe then took a handful of dust and threw it in the umpire's face. He may be suspended.

MONTREAL HAS NEW GOLF LINKS.

Royal Montreal Golf Club Opens New Club House and Links to Members.

MONTREAL, May 26.—(Canadian Press—An epoch in Canadian golfdom was witnessed yesterday morning with the official opening of the two eighteen hole courses of the Royal Montreal Golf Club at Dixie and the entrance by members to the mangificent new $350,000 club house. This club has the honor of being the oldest golf organization on the American continent. Attracted by ideal golfing weather, hundreds of members visited the club and course in the morning, displaying unusual enthusiasm in their inspection of links and new building. While still a little soft, the links were in excellent condition and in a few weeks should attain their mid-summer perfection.

Football

The following team will represent the Owls in their game with the C.G.E. on Saturday next, 27th May, at King Edward Park:

Goal, McFadden; backs, Frost and Hosker; half-backs, Burrows, Turner and Edwards; forwards, Burgess, Hutton, C. H. Hotston, Hannah and Hotston. Reserves, Davey and Bills.

PLAYER INJURED.

Football fans will be sorry to hear that Ralston, the left, back of the Owls F. C., was seriously injured on the holiday. The nature of the injury was a kick on the head from a horse which he was driving. Bob claimed a foul, but he was put out himself for the rest of the game.

The games in the P. and D. F. A. League scheduled for 27th May are: Canadian Woollens vs. Lakefield at the Oval. Frank McKinley, referee.

C.G.E. vs. Owls at King Edward Park. J. L. Howarth, referee.

The game at the South-end between the C.G.E. and the Owls should draw a large crowd. Two weeks ago C.G.E. won 2-0 against the Owls, who are determined to reverse this score to-morrow.

The C.G.E. team opposing the Owls will be: Griffin; Parkins and Lupton; Williams, McMillan and Hurrle; Mander, Gatfield, Dyer, Monks, and Sharman. Reserves, Gash and Hurry.

W. Curtis, reserve goalkeeper of the C.G.E., has been released by the club at his own request.

The Lindsay F. C. are negotiating for one of the local clubs to play at a G.W.V.A. field day to be held in Lindsay on Saturday, 3rd June.

An English inventor's tree felling saw is mounted on a continuation of the piston rod of a steam engine, steam being provided by a portable boiler through hose.

THE UMP

Dick Butler of Lindsay will be the chief umpire tomorrow and will tell the boys which ones are the strikes and when to meander slowly down to the initial sack. Jack Rosevear of Port Hope will look after the bases.

Diamond Dust

Oshawa will play at Riverside Park to-morrow. So will the Petes. This looks like a lively game.

* * *

"Hap" Wilgar had a tough day of it on Wednesday. He played in three games, two in the morning at Riverside Park and then went to Keene for the afternoon performance.

* * *

* * *

McCaffery of the Cobourg bunch was the star batter of Wednesday's game with three hits in four official times at bat. Two of his clouts went for two bases each.

* * *

Oshawa blanked Port Hope but the automobile makers will have a team of a different calibre to bump up against tomorrow.

* * *

A playing rule which is in force to-day, that a player running to first base is out if the ball is held by an adversary on that base before the runner reaches it, was adopted in 1848.

* * *

The Otonabee team of the E.P.B. Circuit held a workout at Riverside yesterday morning. Manager Lancashire's men will play all their home games at Riverside.

* * *

Maple Leafs and Lakeviews will play a Juvenile league contest at Riverside Park next Wednesday evening.

Look out for this Raybestos crew in the intermediate race. They are liable to break out on a batting rampage at any stage of the game.

LACROSSE GAME.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., May 26 (Canadian Press). — Syracuse lacrosse team defeated University of Toronto 7 to 4 here yesterday.

SPORT GOSSIP

Dick Bates brought home a medal as a reward for his efforts in the ten mile race at Bowmanville. He had a big field of good ones to compete against.

Norwood struck a snag in entertaining Hastings on the holiday and the former "U.F.O." team went down to defeat.

With an unbroken string of victories to their credit and with the series cinched for another season Queen Mary seniors meet King Edwards at Riverside Park this afternoon.

Twilight track and field events are being arrayed for by the P.A.A.A. as a means of encouraging and devloping the local talent in these branches of sport.

PLAN FIELD EVENTS.

Plans are now under way to start a series of semi-weekly field days at Nicholl's Oval. The events will probably be run off Tuesday and Thursday evenings starting at 5.30. The events will be scheduled in several classes with a handicap system depending on the weight of the entrants. Badges will be given to winners of the events and a big field day will be held at the end of the season as a closing event.

The committee consists of Doc. Frank, Douglas, Loomis, Charlie Thorpe, Jim Martin, and Walt Smaill.

MOUNT PLEASANT WINS.

OMEMEE, May 26.—The Mount Pleasant baseball team went to Omemee Wednesday and won an easy victory by a 13 to 4 score. This was the opening game for these teams in the Cavan-Manvers-Emily League. The players were:

Omemee—Mitchell p, Clements c, Corneil 1b, Clemmett 2b, Adams 3b, Pogue ss, Brooks rf, McGahey lf, B. Corneil hf.

SACRED HEART ON TOP.

Fans who remained away from Riverside last evening suffered the usual fate, for they missed a snappy game between Holy Name Society and Sacred Heart juvenile teams. Sacred Heart youngsters won the contest by a 4 to 3 count. The game abounded in fielding features and McDonough and Guiry pitched well. The batteries:—

Sacred Heart—McDonough and Miller.

Holy Name Society—Guiry and Halliday.

"Y" TIGERS ARE WINNERS AGAIN

Close Game With Bonner-Worth Girls Ends 38 to 30 in Favor of Y Tigers.

The Y Tiyers were the victors 38 to 30 over the Bonner-Worth girls in the league game played last evening at the Armouries. The game was closely contested and at the end of the sixth innings the winners only had a one run lead. The last inning however proved disastrous to the Bonner-Worth aggregation for the Y girls piled up a lead that they could not overcome. The players were:—

Y Tigers—Mildred Sisson, Alice Ebbs, Margare Holmes, Eva Outram, Kathleen Holmes, Ethel Cunrie, Margaret Eastwood, Carrie Crookshanks and Ethel Nickol.

Bonner-Worth—Doris Sturgeon, Mae Howe, Myrtle Bradley, Gladys Howard, Dorothy Woodgate, L. Slaughter, Ruth McGovern, Edna Mann and Hazel Blake.

In the junior game betwen the King Edwards ad the P.C.I. juniors the former were the winners 41 to 16. This game preceded the intermediate game.

A BASEBALL GAME PLAYED NORWOOD.

NORWOOD, May 26. — A game of baseball was played on Thursday evening at the Park between the Presbyterians and the Anglicans and Baptists. The score was 7-1 in favour of the Presbyterians.

COLLEGIATE GAME.

A last inning rally by the Legons netted three runs and tied the score in the Collegiate league game yesterday afternoon between the Breyfogle and Legon teams. In the extra inning the latter team was able to get one run across the plate and carried the honors before them with a 16 to 15 score. The players were:

Legons—Hay, Maniece, Legon, lookout, McLellan, Stacey, Young, Sharp and Ash.

Breyfogles—McFarlan, Widdess, Doughty, Gray, Breyfogle, McCullough, Menzies and McColl.

ST. SIMONS WIN.

ST. CATHERINES, May 26.—(Canadian Press)—St. Simons of Toronto defeated Athletics of this city here Wednesday in the opening home game of the O.A.L.A. senior series. Although the visitors rolled up eleven goals to the locals three the play was not at all one sided. The athetics had more than their share of the ball and had just as many shots on goal, but could not connect. St. Simons defence was almost air tight.

TO MEET LAKEFELD.

The Canadian Woolens will meet the fast Lakefield team at the Oval Saturday afternoon. The kick off will be at 3 o'clock sharp and a lively game is expected. J. Clark will be the referee. The following team will represent the Woolens: E. B. Williams, A. Read, J. Chambers, G. Monkman, R. Hillman, C. F. Monkman, A. Murray, J. Shuttle, T. Gasgkill, A. Roberts and W. Downes with Hotstone and Kippax as reserves.

PRINCE OF WALES WIN.

Prince of Wales juniors defeated the Queen Mary second team on the former's grounds yesterday by the score of 11 to 10. Prince of Wales boys secured an early lead but the visitors made a strong rally and threatened to tie the score in the seventh. Smart fielding saved the game for Prince of Wales.

BASEBALL

The Midgets journeyed to Lakefield on Wednesday and defeated the Lakefield nine by a score of 5 to 2. The game was played at the Exhibition grounds in the afternoon. Lord played a good game on second for the winners.

Batteries—

Midgets, Macdonald and Miller; Lakefield, Wansmaker and McFadden.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

The fielder has the right of awy on a batted ball. If a fielder about to make a play on a batted ball be occupying a base runner's path, the base runner must run out of a direct line to the next base. In such a play there is no limitation as to how far the base runner can run out of line provided the fielder has not the ball in his possession. The one thing is, that he must avoid the fielder, regardless of how much he runs out of a direct line. If he fails to do so, and collides with the fielder about to field the ball, the umpire must call him out for interference.

GEORGES CARPENTIER SAYS HE'LL MEET HARRY GREB

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

If with no one on the bases the pitcher while not in his legal position delivers the ball to the batsman, the umpire shall rule it a ball whether or not it goes over the plate. If there is a runner or runners on the bases such an act is construed as a balk. If, however, the batsman strikes at such an illegally delivered ball, it counts either for a strike or whatever play may follow.

CITY LACROSSE OPENS TO-NIGHT

Strathconas Play Crescents on South End Field

The City Lacrosse League opens to-night with the initial game between the Crescents and Strathconas at the Sacred Heart church grounds. Both teams are composed of intermediate and junior players and also include others who will be making their debut on a lacrosse field. No admission fee will be charged, but a silver collection will be taken up to help defray the incidental expenses to which the teams have been put. Both teams have been practising for three or four weeks and are reported in good condition.

Dr. Sutton had invited Mr. R. M. Glover to referee the first game, but was advised at noon that Mr. Glover had been suddenly called from the city. The doctor himself may handle the whistle, but whoever the arbiter may be he should not hesitate to hand out penalties if there are any signs of intentional roughness.

Johnny Ward is credited with having signed on Bill Harcourt who may be seen on the defense. It is this combining of juniors with seniors that is hoped to have a developing influence on the younger players and hasten their acquirement of skill and knowledge of the game and also of tactical experience.

Monday night's game between Athletics and Riversides will be played at the Nicholls Oval.

School Practise Games.

Walter Smaill will supervise the following practise games at Central Park on Saturday morning between teams representing the public schools:

9 a.m.—King Edwards vs. Prince of Wales.

10 a.m.—Queen Mary vs. Queen Alexandra.

11 a.m.—King George vs. Central.

Mr. Smaill has a dozen sticks to distribute among those boys whose parents couldn't afford the money to satisfy the youngster's natural interest in this game. The last two dollars was contributed by Mr. Bert Todd, of the Athletics, and if another eighteen dollars could be raised in the same voluntary way there would be another dozen school boys to be delighted by the possession of a lacrosse stick and immeasurably helped by playing the game. Those who gave the money for the first dozen deserve a special vote of thanks from the boys who will have the advantage of this generosity.

GOLF FIELD DAY.

The opening luncheon and Field Day for Ladies will be held at the Golf Club on Wednesday next, May 31st, luncheon commencing at 12.30. It is hoped that all members will take advantage of the opening.

P.A.A.A. MINSTRELS AT THE GRAND

(By Jeannette).

Last night saw the first performance of the P.A.A.A. Minstrels at the Grand Opera House, before an audience that encored every number The Minstrels are an attractive-looking aggregation of young people, with a galaxy of pretty girls in lovely frocks and young men in dress suits forming the seated background in the cabaret setting. The end men: Messrs. Al. Spenceley, Sam Everett, Chas. Perry, Stan. Kerniaghan, Ken. Anderson, Art. White Fraser Skinner, Day Warnica and Roy Gadoua, are snappy outfit in spotless white suits and gloves with broad black lapels, cuffs, and ties, in full 'blackface' regalia of shining countenances, 'watermelon' mouths and kinky polls. Mr. Alex. MacDonald acts as director and interlocutor in his usual popular style, and Mr. Bill Leader has charge of the orchestra whose excellently-rendered music has much to do with the success of the performance.

There is a tuneful melodious chorus, that joins in the different solos with fine effect, and has a pretty opening number, in "Ginny Shore", and, between musical numbers, the end men have a line of humour that includes many local celebrities with definitions of the Rotarian and Kiwanis organizatons; recipes for indigestion and the thoughtful remarks of an inventive genius, one of the gang.

Vocal Numbers

Well rendered vocal solos are given in turn by Ken Anderson, Which Hazel"; Sam Everett; "Don't Leave Me, Mammy"; Al Spenceley, "Dapper Dan", sung with bright effect; Miss Ann Gallagher, "Georgia Rose", in sweet voice; and "I Aint Got Enough to Pass Around", a whimsical number by Art White. Day Warnica has a crying number in "Boo Hoo Hoo", with a realistic effect achieved by the use of a large red bandanna handkerchief and real moist tears, followed by a rendition in falsetto key on his cigar-box fiddle of "The Missouri Waltz", which receives loud applause. Mrs. Ida Lynn Clark sings in soft, clear fashion "Weep No More, My Mammy"; and Fraser Skinner does "She's Mine, All Mine", with the help of Miss R. Lewis, the latter in a wonderful costume of black and red,with striped skirt effect, small muff, and large mouthful of chewing gum. The pair finish this number with a fantastic dance.

Mr. G. Loescher sings "Granny", and introduce in song the next duet an uproarious novelty, well rendered by Art White and Stan. Kerneghan, entitled "Gallagher and Shean A solo by Mr. Chas. Perry, "Swanee River Moon', has guitar accompaniment by Mr. Loescher, a splendidly played saxaphone solo by Mr. Eric Roberts receives much applause with a repeated encore and little Irene Wright gets an enthusiastic reception with her readings, which include a cunning 'little girl' number, in "I Wouldn't Want to be as Black as You", and "Canadian Born", the latter done with fine patriotic fervour and dramatic emphasis.

Second Part

The second portion of the programme opens with a short chalk talk by Mr. H. Lush, who pictures with lightning strokes of his swift, facile medium, the lady transformed from the flower, the metamorphosis of two doves into a human countenance, and the shamrock that becomes an Irish man in the space of a few moments. Applause greets every quick delineation.

Mr. Roy Gadoua, in remarkable get-up, has a whistling solo, that includes some wonderful bird imitations, and brings repeated encores; and Messrs. George Wesley and Dave Quinlan give an exhibition of rapid, skillful footwork that brings down the house and draws another well-executed example of nimble, sure-footed skill from the latter. A monologue, chiefly concerned with the habits of the ferocious doughnut is done effectively by Art White and Fraser Skinner the former in red "breeks" with black cutaway and tall silk hat, the latter in red and checked costume, and small brown 'katy.

"Spring Song' Dance

One of the most attractive numbers in the entire programme, which is repeated to enthusiastic applause, is the airy interpretative dance to the music of Mendelssohns "Spring Song", in which four fairy-like nymphs, barefooted, with flying chiffon draperies and floating wings wend their way, in soundless fashion, through the soft movements and graceful measures of a delicate, vernal dance, circling under a soft light about a central fountain. The Misses Daisy Davidson, Edna Connor, Dorothy McClelland and Martha Kirn are the lithe young dancers in this lovely number.

A Hawaiian trio, with Mr. Harry Wagner, and company, is well received, the sliding, thrumming cadences of the native music coming softly from skilful fingers, in a medley of popular numbers.

The closing number is a pretty arrangement of triple, prettily-decorated swings for the "Swing Me in the Moonlight" number, well sung by Miss Bishop and Mr. Charles Perry, with full chorus joining in, in a waltzing number that brings the entire company on the stage, to form a softly-dancing background for the swings, moving gently beneath a colored spot.

The Minstrels are repeating their performance this evening. The hard work and care that has been put by local talent into a programme that includes fine selections of so many sorts, with the object" to help along and encourage good clean sport", should attract the patronage of Peterboro people interested in the P.A.A.A.

BOXING MEDALS TO BE PRESENTED

The medals for the City Boxing Championships will be presented at an early opportunity. It was not possible to have them ready for presentation during the P.A.A.A. minstrel show.

AT THE THEATRES

CAPITOL—A very special screen feature, Jackie Coogan in "My Boy," together with the balance of a high class programme.

ROYAL—Constance Talmadge in "Good Reeferences," Maurice Flynn in "Smiles and Trumps," Clyde Cook in a comedy, "The Guide."

REGENT — Gladys Walton in "Playing With Fire,' Mabel Ballin in "Pagan Love." Also Northwest Mounted Police story, "Matching Wits."

Capitol Entertainment

Little "Jackie Coogan" is at the Capitol Theatre this week, the wee boy actor who is so much better than many of his larger confreres on the silver sheet. The cunning little lad, in his shabby clothes, with his wide-necked jersey and tough-looking cloth cap, has a capacity for registering the changes in human emotion that can hardly be surpassed by more mature performers, and in "My Boy," as the little lost uchin on the steets of a big city who adopts the old sea-faring captain as his guardian ,'because he likes him," he has plenty of opportunity for the exercise of his talents in portraying humour and pathos.

While his wealthy grandmother has detectives scouring the byways for her missing child, the little lad watches over the sick captain, rubs liniment on his aching back, and takes a hearty bath with the aid of a stiff scrubbing brush and a colander for rinsing purposes. He stays at home from the children's party to care for the old man, arriving later, however, right under his unsuspecting grandmother's nose, and makes off, in a furious, funny chase with an officer of the law, with some of the "nutritious" food that the old man needs; stuffing his sweater with cake, ice cream and hot-house grapes. The picture will have an appeal for young and old, in the unconscious art of the clever child, the humour and pathos injected into a story that gives many glimpses of the sordid life of a big city, in its highways and byways.

There is an exciting Nick Carter story that is particularly good this week, with murder and robbery to hold the interest of the great detective; there are some splendid views of high diving stunts by the world's greatest woman diver and swimmer, Annette Kellerman, and there is a very funny comedy, whose hero contrives a spectacular method of encouraging his sweetheart's sales of "Foot Ease," becoming mixed up later up with the sale of toy balloons, and the lovely visions induced by the opium wares of two wily Orientals.

To the children :DON'T FORGET the special matinee on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, when prizes will be given to the five children representing Jackie to the satisfaction of the judges, and a prize to every child taking part. All children competing should be at the theatre at 9.30.

AT THE REGENT.

With something of the pathos and tendencies of "Broken Blossoms," "Pagan Love," a Hodkinson released picture, which opened at the Regent Theatre yesterday for a three days' run tells a story of an Oriental and a girl and another man. Except for the general theme of the love of the young Chinaman for white girl, however, there is no similarity in the plot.

"Pagan Love" is an adaptation of "The Honourable Gentleman," by Capt. Achmed Abdullah, which ran successfully as a serial in the "Pictorial Review." The director, Hugo Ballin, has preserved the unusual atmosphere which the original boasted and achieved some good photographic effects.

Rockliffe Fellowes is seen as the young doctor who restoers the sight of the blind girl, and gives a very convincing portrayal. Mabel Ballin is very pretty and appealing as the girl, and Togo Yamamoto gives a finished performance as the Oriental.

A motion picture film showing the manufacture and operation of an electric meter has been produced in the United States Department of omerce for educational purposes.

AT THE ROYAL TO-NIGHT AND TO-MORROW

In addition to our regular programme for to-day and to-morrow we have been fortunate enough to secure the First National feature called "Dinty," which is the hit of the season in pictures. An unusual combination of types is offered in "Dinty," Marshall Neilan's newest production for First National release. As three of the chief characters in the story Director Neilan has used Wesley Barry, the freckle-faced kid in "Go and Get It" and "Don't Ever Marry;" Aaron Mitchell, a pickaninny, and Walter Chung, an almond-eyed youngster of Oriental extraction.

Other widely contrasted types are offered by Colleen Moore, as an Irish girl; Julia Faye, as a modern vamp; Anna May Wong, a beautiful Chinese maiden of eighteen summers in pretty Oriental garb; Noah Beery, as a Malay half-breed; Pat O'Malley, Marjorie Daw and J. Barney Sherry, in straight American parts; Tom Wilson, as an Irish cop; Jimmy Wong, an 86-year-old native of the land of the Chee Chee bird, and Kate Price, as a typical Bridget from Erin.

CONCERT TO START

The first of a series of summer concerts will be held in Victoria Park on Sunday evening at 8.15 o'clock. The music will be supplied by the band of the 57th Rangers and an excellent program is being prepared. It will be remembered that the concerts last year were of the highest order and the indication are that the music this summer will even surpass that of last season. The program will be published tomorrow.

ENTERTAINED BY FRIENDS.

Mr. an Mrs. R. McCaulley of Haultain, were entertained by a number of friends and relatives last night at the home of their daughter Mrs. eGo. Foster, 64 Aylmer street and Reid & Willard's Orchestra rendered some very appropriate music which was appreciated by all. Mr. McCaulley who for years has been quite an expert with the violin surprised the audience by his wonderful memory of selections both old and new. During the evening card tables were arranged and a few pleasant hours spent after, which a delightful lunch was served by Mrs. Foster.

OFF ON A HIKE

Summer's coming, the fish are waiting,
Come along fellers the hook needs baiting;
Off to the waters and banish your sorrow,
When brain is clear no worries you'll borrow.
I feel in my bones you need a rest
Come along with me and be my guest,
You'll not be lonesome on that I'll bet
For we'll go to NELSONS and RECORDS get.
Jimmy says Nelson has a good lot of both used and new records.

"THE MESSAGE OF THE BLUEBIRD"

Catchy Music Will Be Heard in Local Offering

To those Citizens of Peterborough who are in any way interested in music, we just want to say that you are going to miss something really good if you fail to see "The Message of the Bluebird," Mr. Asa Huycke's light opera, which will be presented at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday and Wednesday Nights of Next Week.

The plot is very pretty, with a dual love story running through the entire production, and the music is exceptionally dainty, with catchy choruses that haunt the memory after the gay singers and dancers have disappeared, and another tuneful number is engaging the attention. Mrs. M. H. Park has the stellar role, to which her lovely voice and dramatic powers will do full justice, in the part of Cleo, the temperamental heroine, who sings with Marcel (Mr. Asa Huycke) one of the prettiest numbers in the entire production, the "Old Mother Sea" song. Cleo and Marcel sing also the charming "Little Brown Thrush" duet, and have solo parts in a distinct novelty, "Blind Man's Buff." Mrs. A. A. Perrin, who has a dainty part as Marion, sings the aria, "No Hope is There"; and Miss Ida Sanderson, as Aunt Jane, sings "Society Brides." Mr. Euclid Picard is the Count, in the solo, "I Am a Count of No Account," and Mrs. Park and Mr. V. E. Taplin, acting the part of the Major, have a pretty duet, "Love's Own Way." Arnold Everett is Professor Wren, Carmel Legendre the Swiss Innkeeper, Marion's father, and Charlie Perry is the "Prince of Pots and Pans." Mr. Everett and Miss Greta Lebarr have a charming number, 'In Days of Old," while Mr. Morgan Cottingham acts as the Captain of the good ship.

In the capable hands of its directors, with Mr. J. H. Renwick at the piano, Mrs. A. A. Perrin in charge of the staging, and Mr. W. Leader's orchestra interpreting the musical score, this promises to be one of the events of the Season.

IN MEMORIAM.

McKINLAY.—In loving memory of my dear father, Samuel McKinlay, who departed this life, 26th May, 1916.

He shall sleep, but not for ever,
There will be a glorious dawn;
We shall meet to part, no, never,
On the resurrection morn!

Lord, of Thee we crave a token,
Bid the wonders cease to roam;
May the circle be unbroken
When we meet at home, sweet home.

—Inserted by his Daughter, Mrs. A. J. Lashbrook.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear grandson, Joseph Fallon, who died May the 26th, 1921:

No one heard the footsteps of the angels drawing near,
Who took from me the one I loved so dear.
One year has passed, my heart still sore,
As time rolls on I miss him more.
His memory is as dear to-day
As in the hour he passed away?

LORD FRENCH EXTENDS VISIT TO THIS SIDE

Prefers to Remain in Seclusion — Has Not Mission to this Country.

"PRIVATE CITIZEN"

TORONTO, May 27.—(Special) —Striking proof of the sincerity of Field Marshal Sir John French's oft expressed desire for seclusion during his present visit to America, is found in the fact that for the last two weeks, he has been living the life of a private citizen in a city ready to lionize the man, who made one of the finest records of any soldier of the British Empire on the Battlefield.

Just as silently will Lord French pull into the Union Station in Toronto on Sunday evening on his second visit to Canada.

The Field Marshal when caught off guard for a few minutes in his hotel at New York declared that he had refused an interview to the 30 reporters of the New York Papers who had caught him on ship board, when he arrived. His picture was the only liberty he allowed them to take. One night, later on, at a banquet, a graduate of Cornell University with a newspaper of his own and an intimate acquaintanceship with the Marshal pleaded for an interview, but it had to be refused he intended to treat all the newspaper men alike, Lord French declared.

"In the first place," he explained, "I want to emhasize the fact that my visit to this continent is a purely private one. It was arranged at a few days notice, at the suggestion of these two friends of mine you se here, who had to come over on business to New York and who asked me to accompany them.

Without a Mission

"I want you to believe that I have no mission of any kind," said Lord French, "and I can only describe myself as a private Irish citizen.

"My original idea," said the veteran Field Marshal, who commanded the British expeditionary forces in France during 1914-15 was to spend the very few days I shall have on this side in New York, visiting personal frends. But I have received so many pressing invitations to attend receptions and banquets that I have had to modify my original intention as I realized that the honor was being paid to me as the representative of many gallant comrades in the field. I am coming to Canada solely with one object in view, and that is to express my heartfelt thanks to the Canadian people for the magnificent effort which they made in the war and to give my personal greetings to those who were my comrades in arms. I should have loved dearly to visit a number of places in the Dominion and to renew many old friendships, but this is out of the question as I am sailng for Europe the same week. I have engagements n England which cannot be broken. I have been very deeply touched by kind invitations and the warmth of hospitality offered to me during my stay.

"Please do not ask me to get on to public questions", said Lord French, as a list of questions ranging from poison gas to Ireland hove into view. "I have spent fifty strenuous years and more in the service of the state and am enjoying for the first time the comfortable feeling of being free and having some leisure. I have no opinions to express which could possibly be of value to the public at the present time".

BROADER POLICY OF IMMIGRATION

Petition of Jewish Congress Seeks Easier Entry into Canada.

While the Federal Parliament at Ottawa is discussing Canada's immigration policy many resolutions have been forwarded to the Government, urging that close restrictions be placed upon immigration from Europe. The following letter from Lion Cohen, president of the Canadian Jewish Congress, Montreal, to Mr. N. Sukloff, George Street, indicates that some other residents of Canada see this question in another light, urging that entry to this country be made easier. The telegram follows: "As the immigration question is now being discussed in Parliament, I would ask you to send at once the following telegram signed by prominent Jews and Gentiles, if possible, to your member of Parliament at Ottawa: 'We urge you to fight for freer immigration. Our burden of debt and taxation is becoming unbearable, and we want a much larger population to help us carry it.'"

SECOND READING FOR HYDRO RADIAL BILL.

TORONTO, May 27. Canadian Press. — Premier Drury's Hydro Radial Bill received its second reading in the legislature last night after the government forces had defeated a motion to give the bill a 6 months hoist.

Snipers After Grave Diggers

BELFAST, May 27.— (Canadian Press.) — Seventeen fires were started in a campaign of incendiarism waged throughout the city last night. Six bombs were used in starting a blaze that destroyed the model school in Falls Road. There were no burials in the city cemetery on Thursday owing to sniping at grave diggers.

M'DONALD'S ARMY IS WELL SUPPLIED

Expect to Reach Ottawa in Another Week. Veteran's Wife Was on the Job.

BELLEVILLE, May 27—(Special).— General McDonald has made good his promise to secure plenty of food and accommodation for the Ottawa hikers. They have lived on full rations and then some for the first half of the march which takes them as far as Napanee To-night. Recruits at the game after four years of civil life have averaged fifteen miles a day and got hardened They expect to reach the Capital on Friday night of next week.

The nearest approach here to any man coming into contact with the long arm of the law was when a veteran met his wife after an absence of over a year during which time he had not sent her anything for her support. However, she decided not to interfere with his mission to Ottawa, but to have it out with him after his return with more government money.

Another ex-service organization has followed the lead of the G.W.V.A. in boosting the marchers. Last night President J. G. Evans of the Kingston branch of the army and navy veterans telephoned, offering every possible assistance in making arrangements for entertaining them in that city.

The column left here at 8 o'clock this morning for Napanee, a distance of 23 miles. They will lunch at Shannonville.

Reception at Belleville

BELLEVILLE, May 27—(Special).—A message of bon voyage to the veterans as they left here this morning was received from the grand army of United Veterans in the form of a check for eighty dollars, J. H. Higgins, Dominion Vice President, who handed over the gift to McDonald told him it is reported that he would do everything he could to help the dependents of the veterans left behind in Toronto. It is also stated that Higgins agreed that none of the ex-service organizations had accomplished anything yet at Ottawa and that he was only sorry that the marching deputation was not stronger. Alhough the G.A.U.V. are the third organization to offer assistance after the movement has been successful in the trek there has not been any promise of co-operation at the Capital in pressing their claims upon the Government.

Eleven recruits and a motor truck were Belleville's addition to the contingent. A cartage man donated the truck and will drive it himself, the treasury to bear running expenses.

An example of the charity of the poor, for the poor was a hotel shoe shiner, who lost both legs in the war. He gave the men free shines and two pairs of good marching boots.

Mayor Hanna was on the job again this morning and motored out of the town ahead of the column. He also addressed the men in the Armory before their departure. The marchers will not halt tomorrow on account of the two half days rest during the week to suit billeting arrangements. Brigade Chaplain R. H. Rowand will conduct a road side service during one of the morning halts. Kingston is their objective tomorrow night.

STORM DRAINAGE FOR ASHBURNHAM

Work Started This Week. Pavement Next Year.

The first work in anticipation of Hunter street east being paved within the next year or so has been started by the Board of Works in the laying of new srface drains that will be adequate for the draining of the paved roadway right up to the top of the hill.

The work was started this week, and has advanced past Mark street According to Street Commissioner H. Evans difficulties of every nature have been met with; gas and water mains have proved snags on which the job has been held up. A gang of about 20 men were at work yesterday.

The surface water will be drained into the creek that acts as a natural drain for practically all of East City, and in time will be entirely closed in according to the plans of the city engineer. The section west of the creek as far as the slope towards the river will also be drained this way.

Operated by actylene gas, a machine has been invented in Switzerland to rapidly plate or galvanize metals by spraying them with acids and solutions of metals to be applied.

TESTIMONY IN CHARING CROSS MURDER CASE

Friend of Deceased Testifies to Relationship Between Croft and Victim of Crime.

ALLEGED QUARREL

CHARING CROSS, Ont., May 27. —(Special.)—Facts concerning the relationship which existed between Gustave Noel, the murdered farmer, an dClayton Croft, who is accused of the crime, were outlined to the olpice here to-day by Thos O'Neil, friend of the deceased.

Noel bought his farm about two years ago, and rented it for some time to Russian tenants, who finally left.

Noel then decided to work it himself. He had been a life-long friend of the Croft family, and, according to Thomas O'Neil, a garage proprietor of Charing Cross, who is admitted to have been one of the best friends the murdered had in this district, Noel brought young Clayton Croft to the farm in an endeavor to give him a start in life. According to O'Neil, everything on the farm belonged to Noel, and Croft had no sort of financial interest in the place, nor was he really a tenant.

Gave Him a Start.

When Croft wanted to get married, Noel bought him a suit of clothes and gave him a sum of money. Then the old man lived with Croft and his wife, the same as before the wedding, and he is alleged to have done all the work. He told O'Neil that he was anxious to help the boy, but Croft would not make good. He did not seem to like farm work and this led to frequent disagreements, which Noel spoke of on many occasions to his friend O'Neil, and he had stated that he would like to get rid of the youth and his wife, though Noel always sopke kindly of the young woman and said he did not blame her.

Shook the Old Man.

One day, O'Neill thinks it was about the 16th of May, Croft, he alleged, came to his garage and told his mechanic, Tom Billings, that he had had a row with the old man. "I shook him until his teeth chattered," Croft is alleged to have said to Billings, according to the story told by the latter to O'Neeil.

Clayton Croft is alleged to have made a similar statement in the same day to Dave Walker, another resident of Charing Cross.

It was at this time that the story started that Gustave Noel had sold his farm to Clayton Croft, and had gone to Tilbury to visit some friends. Subsequently, Clayton is alleged to have asked his brother Bert, who was at the Croft home near the village to Fletcer, to come and help him work the farm, as he had it in his own hands now, and could do with it as he liked, the old man having sold out to him.

TO INSPECT CADET CORPS ON MONDAY

Lieut.-Col. G. H. Gillespie the Inspector.

The anual inspection of the P.C.I. Cadet Corps will take place in front of the Armouries at 2.30 p.m. Monday. Lt. Col. G. H. Gillespie, Inspector of Cadet Corps for Military District No. 3 will make the customary inspection, but there will be several additional features that should induce the attendance of a large number of the parents of the boys.

Ten medals for proficiency in first aid work will be presented. The corps will be put through a snappy drill, and Lt. Col. Gillespie will address the unit.

Granted sunshiny May weather, it is expected that a large number of the friends and families of members of the corps will be on hand. On account of the tardiness in commencing spring cadet training this year the work has had to be somewhat rushed but the corps is expected to emerge with flying colors from Monday's inspection.

TAR AND WEATHERS ORANGEVILLE MAN.

ORANGEVILLE, May 27. Canadian Press. — A crowd of about 200 on Thursday night toog Sidney Irwin out of the residence of Mrs. Archie Nesbitt, whose husband ended his life by poisoning recently, and after applyin a coat of tar and feathers to his body paraded him up and down the streets. He was then warned to get out of town immediately.

The coroner's jury at the inquest on Nesbitt named Irwin as partly responsible for the domestic trouble.

Clothes hangers that hoist worker's clothing in baskets in which they are ventilated to the ceiling of a room have been patented, it being possible to lock the hoisting.

County Jail No Place For Aged And Infirm Magistrate Declares

Declaring that the county Jail is a place for law-breakers, and not for old men broken down in health and means, Magistrate Langley recently refused to send back an inmate who had been periodically committed for terms of six months during the last two years. This apparently friendless and helpless old man was accordingly removed to the Protestant Home, but it was said that the proper place for him would be a home for incurables. Magistrate Langley's action is in line with the recommendations of successive grand juries, and calls attention to the lack of a special institution that would combine hospital and refuge features.

LAW PROVIDES A PURE MILK SUPPLY IF THE CITY CONSUMERS DEMAND IT

Statute May Be Invoked Requiring All Herds From Which Community's Milk is Obtained to Be Tested For Bovine Tuberculosis.

THE INSTRUMENT.

Control of a city's milk supply against bovine tuberculosis is provided for, under the accredited herd system of examination which in its general aspects has already been explained in these columns. The Hon. Mr. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture in the Dominion Parliament, recently said that this law had been in force for years before any city in Canada took advantage of it.

"I am not sure that there is any city today which has made application, which was denied, for the appropriation that is set apart for the inspection of herds supplying milk to municipalities It rests with the cities and towns themselves to make application for an appropriation.

Mr. Sutherland of South Oxford had asked the Minister whether he approved of spending $467.535 for the eradication of tubercular disease in pure bred herds, and only $98,000 in herds supplying milk to the people of the towns and cities, in view of the fact that so much attention is being paid to the children in the schools, who are being advised to drink more milk in order to build up their physique. He asked whether only herds of a specified size were inspected under this provision.

Mr. Motherwell.—There is no limit, in the case of herds supplying milk to the cities, as there is in connection with the accredited herd system. It does not matter how small a herd may be that supplies milk to the cities, it is inspected. With the accredited herd system, however, the maximum is twelve.

Mr. Boivin:—What conditions must be complied with by a city wishing to take advantage of this provision?

Mr. Motherwell:—I think I could read the regulations as quickly as I could explain the matter. An Order in Council dated April 16, 1917, provides assistance to dairies under municipal control:

1. The aid of the Department of Agriculture will be given to such cities or towns as are in a position to fulfil their part of the following regulations and shall have secured the necessary provisions under provincial legislative authority for the purpose of agreeing to the present regulations:

2. The Government of Canada will assist any city or town which shall have signified in writing to the Veterinary Director-General its desire to have the aid of the department of Agriculture in controlling bovine tuberculosis in the cows supplying milk and cream to the said city or town, provided, the said city or town shall have stated in its application for the aid of the Department of Agriculture, as aforesaid that being thereunto duly empowered by law, it will undertake and provide that:

(a) Dairies in which milk or cream is produced for sale therein shall be licensed

(b) No licence shall be issued unless the dairy conforms to the standard.

(c) The standard shall require that the stable shall have ample amount of air space, and at least two square feet of window glass for each cow, and shall be well ventilated, drained, and kept clean and sanitary.

(d) Two years from the date of the first test of the cattle of a dairy the sale within the said city or town of unpasteurized milk or cream from the said dairy shall be prohibited, unless the veterinary inspector can certify that the said herd contains no reactors and in his opinion is free from tuberculosis.

(e) An inspector or inspectors shall be appointed and paid by the said city or town, whose duty it shall be to see that the undertakings and provisions as aforesaid are carried out, and that the cows are kept clean and properly fed and cared for.

3. The Veterinary Director General on receiving notice in writing from any such municipality of its desire to have the assistance of the Department of Agriculture, as aforesaid, shall forthwith make inquiry, and is satisfied that the foregoing requirements are being carried out, shall send veterinary inspectors from the Department of Agriculture to inspect the said cows.

So far as Lethbridge is concerned, we have no inspector. There does not seem to be sufficient reason for his going there, and he was busy elsewhere.

4. The veterinary inspectors shall use the tuberculin test (except as provided for in section 15), and also make a careful physical examination of the cows in order to determine whether they are healthy or not. Dairy bulls shall also be examined and subsequently treated in the same way as cows.

I think that covers the question. There is co-opetation between the city and the department. After the city has complied with the conditions and regulations, the department performs its duty.

Mr. Boivin:—Does this Order in Council only apply to dairy herds that are kept within the city, or to all dairy herds?

Mr. Motherwell:—It applies to all cows supplying milk; there is no limit as to locality.

Mr. Boivin:—Is the compensation, for animals owned on farms throughout the country, limited to pure bred stock, or does it apply to other cattle as well?

Mr. Motherwell:—It is paid to grade animals on a smaller valuation, $80 being the maximum.

Millions Wagered At the Woodbine $347,000 for Tax

TORONTO, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—About seven million dollars were wagered at the Woobine race track during the first five days of the present meeting, and it is believed that the total for the seven days will be close to ten millions. The sum of 347,000 dollars has been paid into court for the first five days to meet the five per cent. tax demanded by the Ontario Government.

BUILDING TRADE FAIRLY ACTIVE

Permits For the Month of May Reach the $50,000 Mark.

Building in the city this month, went over the $50,000 limit with the taking out of a $10,000 permit for a new building this week by the Salvation Army. The permit states the building will be a children's temple 70 by 31 feet of brick construction, two stories in height. The permit is signed by R. C. Braund, Superintendent of the Sunday School. There will be two large halls in the building. It is to be completed September 1st.

Permits for a medium and low-priced dwelling were taken out. D. Coughlin is building a seven-roomed house on Rubidge street, above Simcoe estimated to cost $2,500. T. Aimola has received permission to build a four-roomed dwelling on McDonnel street, to cost $1,200.

Other permits issued during the week were:

Henry Bros. verandah, 288 Park street, $125. Henry Bros. kitchen, 180 Antrim street, $125. F. R. Storey, woodshed, 294 Mark street, $20. J. W. Elliott, 145 Rubidge street, verandah, $150. Mrs. Smithson, repairs to roof, 266 Sherbrooke street, $18. Martin Hickey, alterations 313 1-2 Murray street. $200. W. H. Roberts, summer kitchen and sunroom, 552 Bethune street, $125. Joseph Johnston, 19 Park street, alterations $25.

BUTTER PRICES STILL DROPPING

Farmers' Market Had a Large Turnover This Morning--The Prices.

The basket market was overflowing this morning. Butter and eggs were available in quantities, on all sides, at prices ranging from 30 to 35 cents per pound for the butter, and from 26 to 28 cents per dozen for the eggs. Fowl also were plentiful, sundry large examples described as "last year's chickens" selling at from 26 to 35 cents per pound, and there were two monstrous turkeys, one demanding fifty cents a pound, and the other 28 cents.

Downstairs, the green plant men were doing a brisk business in cauliflower and tomato roots at 20 cents per small box, and flower plants, in salvia, Canterbury bells and pansies, at 25 cents. Rhubarb was five cents straight, or six for a quarter; there were a few onions and some lettuce, fresh and green.

One might purchase a large white fowl on the market this morning, beautifully stuffed, for 1.25, an oil-stove for $1.35, or a volume containing "Useful Information For All Occasions" for the sum of fifteen cents. The ice cream cone vendors, the ladies with home-made cooking and a gentlman with wicker trays were present also, and on the curb, a junior gentleman regaled himself with pop-corn while he studied a manual devoted to baseball information, his brown and white pup resting beside him in the sun.

Swedish interests are planning to obtain large quantites of a new fuel by carrying a step farther the usual process of recovering sulphite spiirt from the waste of wood pulp factories.

LOCAL MURDER SUSPECTS GIVE LITTLE TROUBLE

Abe Filion and Mrs. Edwards Are on Model Class Behaviour in the Peterborough Jail.

OTHER INMATES.

According to Henderson Nesbitt, Governor of the County Jail, there has been a falling off in crime and disorder of late, for there are only ten prisongrs on the hill. In the spring, he said, they had practically a full house, but the sentences which were of a holiday nature have expired and new arrivals have been few and far between. tI is dogs days at the historic stone building above Victoria Park. Of course Albert Bishop, who was turned down as too rough a customer by the Burwash Prison creates a littles excitement now and again by trying to break down his cell, in which pleasantry in the early days of his two years, he broke an arm and leg.

Abraham Filion and Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards are model prisoners, Mr. Nesbitt said, but as he was inclined to be reticent in divulging much information about the prison life of the pair that are charged with murder. Filion has been visited on one occasion by his father, the governor said. Attempts to send eatables or smokes to Filion have failed, for Mr. Nesbitt stated that the authorities have required them, since escapes have been made through carelessness in several persons, to prohibit all parcels being sent to prisoners except under special circumstances such as lunacy. Mrs. Edwards is confined in a cell at one side and end of a corridor, and Filion at the opposite and the governor said. By raising a hullabaloo they could communicate with each other, and Mr. Nesbitt said he had heard them attempting to carry on a conversation in this way. Two other women, sentenced on vagrancy charges, are in the women's section with Mrs. Edwards. There are six male prisoners

OWNERS OF GAS PUMPS WARNED

See That the Machine is Giving Full Measure.

The fact that a motorist paid for five gallons of "gas" has not always meant in every case that he received five gallons, according to the local Inspector of Weights and Measures, who has personally inspected the district pumps, and found that some gave short measure.

To date he has refrained from acting, but the Department has ordered prosecution in all clear cases, and proprietors of "gas" stations who knowingly give short measure will be dealt with severely.

Generally speaking, however, he does not think the shortage he found was due to premeditation on the part of the pumps' owners, but rather the result of some temporary defect in the machines, or perhaps to lack of care and forethought on the part of its operators.

Prosecution in a case of short measure was made by the inspector in Kingston, and a fine of $25.00 imposed on W. J. McCormack, a gas station proprietor, "for the use of a machine which was false and unjust." It was proved that the pump had been tampered with in such a way that on a five-gallon test the amount was short one pint.

BUSY PREPARING LOCAL TAX BILLS

Three Instalments Plan Affects Business Man.

Under the direction of Tax Collector J. W. Green, a corps of girls are working at the City Hall making out the tax bills for 1922.

On account of the three instalments, making out the bills this year entails more work. Provision has been made for the three payments by attaching to each bill three detachable slips that are removed by the collector and filed as the payments are made, while the taxpayer keeps the bill properly receipted.

The rate is 36 mills, and the dates the taxes are due are 5th July, 5th September, and 5th November.

"Peterborough is the only city I know of, excepting Toronto, that has the three payments. So far as I can see, it does not help the working man any, for he usually lays enough by to meet the payments, but the business man is affected, for he generally has his money out on speculation," commented the tax collector on the system the Council has seen fit to try out this year.

Last year the tax rate was 36.3 mills. While there is a reduction in the rate, Mr. Green pointed out that taxes will be higher on account of an increase in the assessment.

Taxpayers may expect to receive their bills some time between 15th and 20th June.

Minstrel Show Well Received

The Minstrel Show under the auspices of the P.A.A.A. Association was repeated last evening at the Grand Opera House, in a programme that adhered to the procedure of the evening before. Mrs. George H. King sang two heartily-applauded number last night, and are various soloists responded, to the encores which greeted their efforts.

The interpretative dance to the "Spring Song" was repeated by the quartette of local young ladies. In last night's report of the performance, it was stated that the young ladies were in their bare feet. This was incorrect, as each lady wore silk hose and satin slippers to match their costumes.

Ninety Years Old And Enjoying Life

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hamilton Haye Lived in Peterborough For Over Fifty Years.

Ashburnham's nonogenarian, the man who celebrated his ninetieth birthday this week, and who has lived on Hunter street east for the last fifty years, sat at checkers. He is particularly fond of a game of checkers or parchesi, and has a playing board marked in colored squares for the one on the upper side, with the reverse arranged in the formation necessary for playing the latter. When the idea that The Examiner representative should have a game was first broached, his face fell. "You will beat me," he said, although his step lightened as he got up eagerly to get the board and the little table. As the game progressed, however, and the worth of his antagonist became apparent, a confident expression replaced the doubtful one. The first game concluded with seven men to his credit on the board, and the second was even more lamentable, for old Mr. Hamilton won hands down, with eight black markers remaining triumphant. "And you didn't get one king," he remarked jubilantly.

Mr. F. Hamilton was born in County Cavan, Ireland, and his wife, who is now 86 years of age, a hale and hearty old lady without spectacles and possesing good hearing, was born in County Down. They met in Newark, N.J., Mr. Hamilton emigrating to America at the age of 13, where they married, and where their first three children were born. It is over fifty years since he came to Canada, and settled in Peterborough, then a place of few houses, of dirt roads and tallow candles. They settled in Ashburnham, where they saw three or four bridges come and go and in that space of time, and where Mr. Hamilton often crossed the river in a rowboat during the process of re-building the various structures. For twenty-three years he worked for Mr. Ames in the boot and shoe business on George street, and for twenty-three years thereafter he ran his own store in the same line, in Ashburnham.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, who were married 63 years in August of last year, had eight children, six daughters and two sons. Five daughters and one son are living, Mrs. M. Tighe, of Toronto, Mrs. C. L. Huffman, Mrs. John Speers, Mrs. Helen Russell and Miss Hamilton, of Ashburnham; and F. J. Hamilton, of Montreal. The aged couple boast of fourteen or fifteen grandchildren, with seven great-grandchildren, and of six grandsons who served in the Great War.

Mr. Hamilton was, up to last year, just as active as many a man half his age. If one had asked him at that time, he says, if he would live to pass the century mark, he would have answered in the affirmative, but now, after a winter of considerable illness, he is not so sure. But he is a staunch, wiry-looking old gentleman, not very stooped, with a head of thick white hair, the little "sideburns" of another generation, and blue eyes behind bowed spectacles. His hearing is not as good as it might be, and his teeth are nearly gone. Of these latter, he echoes the words of the 'Pollyanna' lady, who had just two teeth, but very thankful that they 'hit.' He is just a little bit proud of his resemblance to England's 'grand old man,' Mr. Gladstone, and still works his small patch of garden, takes short constitutionals, and goes out regularly to be shaved.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton have resided for the last thirteen years with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Speers, at 38 Hunter street east, in the "first brick house ever built in Ashburnham," which they remember as well as the old post office.

A staunch adherent of the Liberal party and a life-long member of the Methodist church, Mr. Hamilton was remembered on the occasion of his birthday this week by the Ladies' Aid Society of Mark street church, who sent him a large bouquet of tulips.

NOTICE.

A PUBLIC MEETING OF THE HUMANE SOCIETY WILL BE HELD IN THE COUNCIL CHAMBER, ON TUESDAY, 30TH MAY, AT EIGHT O'CLOCK. THE MEETING IS CALLED TO DISCUSS THE APPOINTMENT OF AN OFFICIAL INSPECTOR—SO IT IS HOPED ALL MEMBERS WILL BE PRESENT AND MANY NEW MEMBERS WILL BE ENROLLED AT THIS MEETING.

KIWANIS FAMILY GET TOGETHER FOR A BIG TIME

Seated Around the Festive Board, They Enjoy Splendid Programme of Entertainment.

LADIES PRESENT

The Kiwanis Club held their weekly get-together in the Business College rooms last night at 6.30 o'clock, with their wives and friends as their guests. Following the luncheon, which was catered by Hooper's, an open executive meeting was held at which important matters were discussed. The club went on record as opposed to the drug traffic, and recommended more strict control of narcotics. Gus. Hay presided at the luncheon and meeting, and kept things in perpetual motion. The programme was cleverly arranged, and the Kiwanis family had a big time together. Abundant good humor prevailed around the festive board as a result of the big success scored in the erection of the dining hall for the Health Association on Victoria Day, and the fines, which were unusually heavy, were regarded in the light of a privilege.

Musical Programme.

The musical programme was thoroughly enjoyed. Tom Smith, the well-known cellist, was heard in two numbers, and vocal solos by Maurice Park and Mrs. G. H. King, and piano solos by Leslie Unitt, who played the accompaniments for the other numbers, were appreciated.

The booster at the luncheon was Lloyd Hamilton. He had no trouble getting rid of other prizes, but it was alleged that Jack McKone backed down when it came to accepting a prize leghorn rooster, and for some consideration got Alec Dick to take it. Guilty or not, he was fined 50 cents for the alleged misdemeanour. He put the rooster up for raffle, although it protested vigorously, and $14.50 was realized for the children's camp. Ernest Hensley won the bird, that would not stay in its coop, and even attempted to roost on J. W. Worth's head.

Ladies' Auxiliary.

The affair was successful in showing the sympathy of the ladies in the Kiwanis movement, and, in the words of Mrs. J. A. McKone and Mrs. C. R. Widdified, they are willing to do all in their power to further the work. Mr. Worth suggested the adoption of his motion, of which notice was given some time ago to form a Ladies' Auxiliary, but it was finally decided, after many speakers had had the floor, that the ladies should decide for themselves in regard to the matter. "I don't see how we can force them to form an auxiliary," said R. H. Parsons. "It isn't necessary," said Mrs. McKone. "We are ready and willing to do anything we can." John Allen said he did not think it was constitutional. Mr. Worth said his idea was to have something new in Peterborough. He agreed to allowing the ladies to decide what action they would take.

The Drug Traffic.

Dr. Edward Wood took advantage of the representative attendance to suggest that the club should take a strong stand against the drug traffic, which he pointed out from his own observations was assuming serious proportions in this country, although locally he had been assured by the Chief of Police that the traffic was at an ebb. The Chief was quite sympathetic to any agitation the club might set up against narcotics, and volunteered to give an impersonal talk on the subject to the club at a date in the near future.

In bringing up this matter, Dr. Wood pointed out the steps Victoria, B.C., club had taken to start a Province-wide movement to throttle the traffic on the coast. They suggested in the first place stricter laws, and, secondly, an intelligent publicity against narcotics. "Now, in my mind, is the time to undertake this work if we are to do it at all," he said. Dr. Wood moved, and Walter Stocker seconded, a resolution, in connection with which Walter Stocker remarked that Frank Oldfield had told him that it was a common thing to see peddlers in the King Edward Hotel giving free drugs to young men to induce the vicious habit. The resolution unanimously adopted by the club was as follows:

1—That this club approve of the movement as outlined by the Victoria Club.

2—That we take immediate action in this matter.

3—That arrangements be completed to have the Chief of Police address us in the near future, so that we may have some definite information on which to base our activity.

4—That a committee of three be named by the executive to take charge of this work.

5—That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Victoria Club.

Flower Committee.

At the meeting the flower committee for next week, to arrange for placing flowers in the public wards of St. Joseph's Hospital, was named as follows: Will. Warne, Ed. Taylor, Leslie Stevens, and Jim Skinner.

PRIVATE AGENT OF J. STILLMAN NOW ARRESTED

Edmund Leigh is Held on a Charge of Kidnapping and Wire-Tapping.

BOUGHT LETTERS.

NEW YORK, May 27.— (Canadian Press.)—Edmund Leigh, private detective, who figured in the Stillman case, yesterday was indicted for kidnapping and wire-tapping with his assistant, Peter Larson, in connection with the charge by August Pr—st, Swiss butler, that an attempt had been made to railroad him out of the country because of an alleged love affair with a Pittsburgh society girl.

Leigh testified recently that he and a lawyer representing James A. Stillman, New York banker, paid Fred Beauvais, Indian co-respondent in the divorce suit against Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, $15,000 for four love letters purporting to have been written by her to the guide.

FURTHER ESTIMATES IN LEGISLATION.

Toronto University Gets Grant of $400,000.

TORONTO, May 27. Canadian Press. — Shortly before 1 o'clock this morning Hon. Peter Smith introduced further supplementary estimates in the Legislatue. They were tabled and will be discussed later. The estimates total $17,808,421. For the government departments a total of $1,709,263.82 is allowed. The largest item in this section is a grant of $400,000 to the University of Toronto. The estimates for capital expenditure of the Hydro-Electric Commission totals $6,866,769. The estimates for the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission are given at $9,232,389.01.

Other provisions include civil government, legislation, administration of justice, agriculture hospitals and charities, public works and the Department of Labor.

PROBABILITIES.

END OF LEGISLATURE IS NOW APPROACHING

Provincial House May Finish Up Business By Next Friday. Declaratory Act Passes.

OTHER BILLS.

TORONTO, May 27 (Canadian Press). — The U.F.O. Government in session yesterday afternoon made its first definite move with a view to finishing up the session, when Premier Drury introduced a motion calling for a Saturday morning session as well as the evening session on Friday, but owing to objections by the leaders of the Opposition, who claimed that sufficient notice had not been given of the Government's intention, the motion was subsequently withdrawn, as far as the Saturday morning session was concerned. In doing so, however, the Premier gave notice that the House would sit on next Saturday morning if the session was still in progress.

It is felt to be a question whether or not the House can conclude its session by next Friday, but in an effort to assist in this, Premier Drury promised to inform the House as to what legislation would be dropped.

The chief item of business before the House was the third reading of the Declaratory Act, introduced by Hon. W. E. Raney, to protect the Province from the injunction of the Ontario Jockey Club, who have opened litigation proceedings against the Government over the payment of the 5 per cent. on winning parimutuel tickets under the Corporations Tax Act.

Hartley Dewart, K.C., prior to the moving of the third reading, moved an amendment that the Bill be not read a third time, and that it be referred back to the Committee of the Whole House, with instructions that a clause be added which would prevent the Act from affecting any action or proceeding against the Crown or any Minister thereof, or against any officer authorised to act on the instruction of the Minister, in which any question is raised as to whether any or certain legislation is, or is not, within the legislative authority of the Province.

Mr. Dewart's motion was lost on division, and shortly afterwards the Lieutenant-Governor gave Royal assent to the Bill, and the Act became law.

The Bill of R. L. Bracken (Kent) respecting the use and control of natural gas, was withdrawn following a debate as to whether or not the Government was taking care of the assistance he wished to render the gas users in the Government Act which will be brought before the House to appoint a tribunal of three to take the place of the Referee on gas disputes.

Mr. Brackin was inclined to think that if the gas producers nominated one member of the tribunal, the municipalities the second, and the Government the third, the result would be that there would be one arbitrator and two advocates. He did not think the method would be satisfactory. He withdrew his Bill, however, when informed that he would have ample opportunity to discuss the issue when the Government Bill came before the House.

In spite of the protests of Dr. Stevenson (London), the second reading was given to the Bill respecting the London Street Railway Company, which will give the company power to increase its fares in that municipality. When the Bill was called in committee, Dr. Stevenson moved that the Bill be not read, and introduced an amendment that t e be allowed the City of London to pass a by-law to take over the road.

He was voted down by an overwhelming majority, however, as the House was of the opinion that the issue had ben sufficiently threshed out in committee.

Only nine members of the House voted with Sr. Stevenson.

Hon. Manning Doherty stated he was opposed to the principle of the Bill, but he was ready to stand by the ruling of the committee, and therefore voted against Dr. Stevenson.

The Bill introduced by Hon. Howand Ferguson to prohibit the use of spotlights on motor cars was referred to a special committee of the Legislature, yet to be named, that will sit during the recess and deal with all matters in connection with the Consolidated Motor Vehicles Act.

A few of the members expressed themselves as in favour of the abolition of the spotlight, while others were inclined to favour its use.

On the suggestion of Premier Drury, who thought the Bill worth considering, it was referred to committee.

Subject to the understanding that discussion would be allowed later on the subject of the Bill, the measure of J. A. Pinard (Ottawa East) that the guardian of Roman Catholic children be obliged to contribute through his taxes to the Separate Schools, was given a second reading.

Hon. Mr. Grant, Minister of Education, is opposed to the Bill, and stated that it would have the result of making a guardian act as a Roman Catholic whether he was or not.

Another member raised the objection that it would be difficult in the case of a guardian who was looking after two children, only one of which was a Roman Catholic.

PREFERENCE TO JAMAICA.

OTTAWA, May 27 (Canadian Press. — A proclamation presented here yesterday provides that the preferential trade agreement between Canada and Jamaica shall come into force on and after 1st June, 1922.

This gives a preference of 50 per cent., except in the case of certain specified imports.

MEMORIAL TO FLYING MEN IN WESTMINSTER

A Stained Glass Window in Famous Abbey is Dedicated to Britain's Aviators.

GIFT OF LADY.

LONDON, May 27. Canadian Press. — British officers and soldiers who died in the air service of the great war have been given a permanent memorial in Westminster Abbey through the generosity of Mrs. Louis Bennett of Wheeling, W. Va., whose only son was killed in France in 1918, while he was acting as a pilot with the British forces.

The memorial which was dedicated yesterday with impressive services by the Dean, consists of stained-glass window with allegorical figures symbolic of the sacrifice of the aviators, and it contains a figure of the Archangel Michael, who has become known as the patron saint of airmen.

BIG SPORT DAY AT BAILIEBORO A HUGE SUCCESS

Programme Acceptably Varied and Keenly Contested — Display of Fireworks and Dance at Night.

BAILIEBORO, May 27.—Victoria Day in this village was a decided success. The committee in charge of the programme were highly complimented on their success, as this is the first year that Victoria Day has been celebrated here. In previous years a picnic has always been arranged by the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church on the lake shore.

The field in which the sports were held was owned by Mr. Ira Dawson. A canteen was built and run by the Tuxis Square boys, on the field, and ready sale was found for their ice cream, soft drinks and candies, etc. The Willing Workers' Mission Band sold home-made candy.

The sports commenced at 1.30 o'clock. Following is a list of the events:

Trail Rangers' baseabll game, Millbrook vs. Bailieboro, score 11 to 3 3 in favour of Millbrook.

School girls' baseball game, Bewdley vs. Bailieboro, score 13 to 18 in favour of Bailieboro.

Slow mixed car race—1st Harold Dawson, prize, 5 gal. gasoline, 22nd N. Earle; 3rd D. Rutherford.

A most dainty supper was served by the Methodist Ladies' Aid in the evening and about fifty dollars was realized.

At night the sky was illuminated with a splendid display of fire works, and after this a dance was given in the hall by some of the young people. The dance broke up very early and every one returned home quite satisfied with their day's outing.

OPPOSITION TO A TAX ON CHEQUES

Committee Will Ask That Cheques of Municipalities Be Free From Stamp Tax.

WINNIPEG, May 27.—(Canadian Press. — Acting upon a suggestion made by finance commissioner Ross of Toronto, acting mayor F. O. Fowler and City Treasurer H. C. Thompson, of Winnipeg, yesterday were appointed a committee of the finance committee to get in touch with the western municipalities to obtain immediate and concerted action against the proposed imposition of the stamp tax on municipal cheques. The proposed tax is to be levied at the rate of two cents for every $50.

Mr. Thompson declared that municipalities should not be put on the same basis as corporations or individuals, as they were not in business to make money. During business depression and non-payment of taxes, many municipalities found it difficult to finance under present conditions.

OPPOSED CROW'S NEST PASS SCALE.

Premier Oliver of British Columbia Arguing That the Conditions Have Changed.

OTTAWA, May 27. — Premier Oliver of British Columbia speaking before the House Committee on transportation costs this morning came out strongly against the putting into effect of the Crow's Nest pass scale of rates claiming that as conditions have changed since 1897, other factors and other portions of the Country should be take into accout.

Premier Greenfield of Alberta urged the full agreement without regard to the consequences of contending that it was a contract and should be lived up to. Questioned as to whether, if the agreement were further suspended he would be in favor of reductions on a basis commodities not included in the agreement, he refused to commit himself on that point.

Premier Oliver said there was a disposition to treat the Crow's Nest pass agreement as a law of the Medes and Persians that could not be changed. The C.P.R. had received a cash subsidy from the Dominion and as it had received a more important land subsidy from British Columbia all Canada and British Columbia were interested in the settlement. If it could be shown that the agreement was not working in the way it used to work and that a better one could be evolved parliament should vary it if it were in the interests of Canada to do so.

Premier Oliver showed that in the matter of the western movement of commodities on which lower rates had been granted under the Crows Nest agreement, the situation had quite changed during the last 25 years. Fresh fruit did not now move westward but eastward and the same was true of coal oil and building and roofing materials.

As for grain, a comparatively large amount was now going out from the prairies via Vancouver, but if the Crow's Nest pass scale went into effect and the rate to Vancouver remained the same, the movement would be stopped.

Premier Greenfield based his claim for the coming into effect of the agreement, both on the contract and the depressed condition of agriculture. Questioned as to what he had to say about the making up of the $38,000,000 which the railways said they wold lose, under a return of the 1918 scale he said that this was a matter for the government and the railways.

WILL TRY TO SETTLE RAILROAD STRIKE.

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S., May 27.—(Canadian Press). — R. C. Morgan, division superintendent of traffic at Winnipeg for the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, left here for Newfoundland Thursday night, where it is understood he will make his services available to the Newfoundland Government in connection with the present railway crisis on that island.

Mr. Morgan was loaned to the Government railway in an advisory capacity on a previous occasion.

HEAD BLOWN OFF BY A SHOT GUN.

PARRY SOUND, May 27.— (Canadian Press).—Harry Thompson, 50, was found Thursday night with top of his head blown off caused by discharge of shot gun which he had tried to draw through fence by muzzle. It was decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The largest spiders in the world are found in New Guinea, and their webs are so strong that they are used by the natives as fishing nets.

WORLD FLYERS ARE DETAINED

Major Blake is Held Up at Paris Awaiting Spare Parts For His Airplane.

PARIS, May 27. — (Canadian Press.)—Major W. T. Blake and his companions in their attempted flight around the world, who flew from London to the flying field at Le Bourget, near Paris, Wednesday, failed to get away to-day in continuation of their journey. It was announced that the spare parts were being awaited for the airplane, which was found on the first day's flying not to be tuned up to the proper pitch. An airplane bearing the needed parts left Croydon airdrome, lead London, this morning, but was obliged to make a landing near Calais because of fog.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN COULDN'T SLEEP NIGHT

To those on the verge of a nervous breakdown the following symptoms present themselves: nervous headaches, a feeling of depression, fitful, disturbed, restless and unrefreshing sleep, often troubled with frightful dreams, avoidance of crowded places, dread of being alone, horror of society, etc.

When the nerves become affected in this way the heart generally becomes affected too, and on the first signs of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown do not wait until your case becomes hopeless, but get a remedy that will at once quieten the nerves, strengthen the heart and build up the entire system.

This you will find in

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. M. Damgand, Young's Cove Road, N.B., writes: "I was bothered very much with my heart and nerves; had nervous headaches and dizziness, could not sleep at nights, and my appetite was all gone. I was on a nervous breakdown when a neighbor told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. This I did, and before I had the second box used I was better and would advise anyone who has nerve trouble to take them."

WAGER TAX MIGHT PREVENT RACING.

TORONTO, May 27. Canadian Press. — Under the declaratory act passed yesterday by the Legislature, and recent legislation, providing for the collection of 5 per cent. on race track wagerings, the provincial police have power to prevent racing at the Woodbine meeting this afternoon, should the Ontario Jockey Club decline this morning to pay the tax over to the government. It is not expected, however, that this drastic action will be made necessary.

AMBASSADOR OF BULGARIAN GOVT. IS ASSASSINATED

Gukoff, Former Representative at Paris, Meets Death in a Mysterious Manner.

STATE UNSETTLED.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 27.—(Canadian Press.— Alexandre Grekoff, former Bulgarian Charge D'Affaires at Paris, Stockholm and Berne, was assassinated here Thursday night. Some mystery attaches to the circumstances of the crime and the motive for it, but the evidence is thought to point to a political basis for the crime.

The political situation here is notably unsettled, but there is no Communist revoltion, as has been reported from Vienna and Belgrade recently. The reports may have arisen from the fact that on Thursday, May 18, a large meeting of Communists was held here, demanding the immediate expulsion from Bulgaria of the soldiers of General Wrangel, former anti-Bolshevik leader in South Russia, who took refuge in Bulgaria, and asking the establishment of friendly relations with the Russian Soviet Government.

There is some apprehension regarding future developments, however, notably in connection with the assembling of 50,000 peasants in Sofia next Monday, attending the yearly convention of the National Peasants' Party. The convention plans to protect against the bourgesoie and possible developments in this connection are causing fears of possible trouble.

EPWORTH LEAGUE, BAILIEBORO, MET.

Port Hope Leaguers Attended. Personal News.

BAILIEBORO, May 27. — On Tuesday evening in the Methodist Church, the Epworth League held their usual weekly meeting, under the direction of the President Mr. Clifton Lang. Several members of the Port Hope League were present and addressed the meeting The addreses of the various speakers were much appreciated by the unusually large attendance. A number of the Millbrook young people motored over to enjoy the occasin, at the close of which lunch was served by the members of the Bailieboro League.

A hearty vote of thanks was given to the visiting league for their much appreciated services and the meeting then closed by the usual Mispah benediction.

IMPROVEMENT IN CANADIAN TRADE SLOW BUT SURE

Steady Improvement is the Verdict of Weekly Business Men's Report.

ORDERS INCREASE.

WINNIPEG, May 27.—(Canadian Press).—"Trade gradually improving", "steady improvement" and "slow but sure" figure in business reports received by the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association according to their weekly trade reports issued yesterday.

Montreal, Toronto, Quebec and the east generaly bear out a general improvement in wholesale and manufacturing circles, especially in men's and ladies wear, dry goods, millinery, etc. Retail trade is also reported to be much better with improved summer-like weather. Collections still poor but expected to improve as farmer's get off the land.

Winnipeg and Manitoba wholesalers report a steady increase in orders, somewhat delayed by wet weather and floods in central Manitoba. Splendid weather is now being experienced and business seems to be reviving all around. Retail trade is better, say merchants. Collections still slow.

In Regina and Saskatoon and throughout Saskatchewan wholesalers find an improvement, while retailers find busines better than at this time last year. Collections have improved all over Saskatchewan and new goods are being paid for to a greater extent than for some time past.

Vancouver, Victoria and other parts of Brtish Columbia indicate a general expectation that the summer will prove satisfactory for manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, reports coming in being most optimistic.

Dunlop Mile-age

"MILEAGE" is the magic word in Tiredom these days, and Dunlop Tires right across the continent are rolling up record after record.

To think about a 5,000-mile Tire is to live in the past; to talk about a 10,000-mile Tire is to be "just ordinary;" to dwell on a 15,000, 20,000, 25,000 mile Tire is to get into that rubber sphere where Dunlop is pre-eminently the leader.

Ask for Dunlop Cord and specify "Traction." Then you are on your way to a new experience.

The Famine is Still On

300,000 Children will Die of Starvation unless we Continue to Supply Food up to the End of August.

WHAT are YOU to believe about the famine situation in Russia—the idle, unsupported statements of prejudiced papers, or the firsthand knowledge of such men as Lord Emmott, Lord Weardale and Sir Benjamin Robertson, who are devoting their time and energy to saving millions of children from starving.

In February, Sir Benjamin Robertson, with the approval of the British Government, made an exhaustive survey of the famine districts and reported that help must be continued at least until the end of August.

To say that the famine is over, and that more money and food are not needed, is worse than untrue.

To make the relief work more efficient, three great organizations have been unified under the chairmanship of Sir Benjamin Robertson.

1.—The Russian Relief Fund, Chairman Lord Emmott, with whom is associated Sir Arthur Stanley, Chairman of the British Red Cross.

2.—The Friends' Relief Mission—the British Organization of the Quakers.

3.—The Save The Children Fund, with Lord Weardale as chairman.

These organizations are feeding 300,000 children in the Saratov area and are endeavoring to help some of the millions of adults who are in the direst need of food.

Will you not help these British organizations to save the helpless children of Russia from starving.

Cheques and money orders may be forwarded through your bank, the local committee, or sent direct to Sir George Burn, Treasurer, Save The Children Fund, Elgin Building, Ottawa.

All subscriptions are expended on Canadian Foodstuffs.

THE CHEMONG SPEEDWAY.

For several years in the summer months, and more especially after dark, the Chemong Road, between Peterborough and Chemong Park, has been a veritable speedway for reckless motorists, and from the reports that are being received, it is evident that the conditions will be worse than ever this year, if effective steps are not taken to check the evil. It has been a mystery to those who have been on the Chemong Road on the nights when dances are being held at the Park—or on any other night, for that matter—how fatal accidents have been avoided. They will not always be avoided, however, and if irresponsible drivers are permitted to continue their wild dashes along this six miles of roadway, sooner or later there will be a tragedy. There are drivers who boast of the few minutes it takes them to cover the distance from Peterborough to the Park. They do not seem to be worrying about the fact that only inches separated them at times from an accident that might have been fatal to themselves or others. And unless the authorities step in and make an example of some of the offenders, it is to be feared that Chemong Road will continue to be a speedway and a place of peril for everybody who ventures to travel upon it this summer. It should not be a difficult matter to detect the most reckless of the speed maniacs.

A BUDGET WARNING.

Not the least impressive portion of Mr. Fielding's Budget speech was the emphasis placed by the Finance Minister upon the necessity of economy in Canada if the financial burdens caused by the war and by the Government railways are to be carried. Mr. Fielding did not attempt to picture Canada's financial position as everything that is satisfactory. He, on the other hand, pointed out clearly the fact that it is only by rigid economy that the situation can be effectively met. There is to be no attempt for the present to reduce the national debt, and it will be some time yet before Canada's Budget can even be made to balance. In the meanwhile the expenditure of the Government must be reduced to a minimum, to as low a point as can be reached without starving the Government services. Public works can be carried on only when justified by absolute necessity, and members who hoped to get a plum or two in the shape of new post offices or other federal buildings for their constituencies surely realized on hearing the Minister of Finance stress the need of economy that there will be little use, under present conditions, of endeavoring to have the pork barrel opened. The Montreal Star, commenting upon Mr. Fielding's warning, suggests that economy should commence at home, in other words, that the members themselves should set an example by reducing their sessional indemnities, declaring that much of the debate could be eliminated, and rather unkindly declares that British members of Parliament do twice as much work for half the money.

THE NEW TAXES.

In connection with the taxation proposals contained in Mr. Fielding's Budget speech, there seems to be some doubt as to when the new levies are to be applied. The idea possessed by some people that they all become effective immediately is erroneous. Most of the new changes do not come into effect until 1st July. That is true of the tax on cheques, money orders, transfers of stock, and telegrams. In the meantime, of course, the old tax will apply, and firms and citizens who are doing business by cheque will only be required to affix a two-cent stamp to the cheque, no matter what the amount of the latter may be. Starting on Dominion Day, there will be an additional tax of two cents on every cheque in excess of $50.00 for each $50.00 or portion thereof. The tax on telegrams similarly increases from one cent to five cents on each message on Canada's birthday.

On the other hand, the effect of the new tax on cigars and cigarettes will be more immediate, although retailers are still selling at the old prices. All wholesale orders given now for tobaccos are subject to the changes announced, and it will not be long between the new goods on sale will have the tax added to the price of the article. An increase in the price of "soft" drinks may also be looked for before long, and the prediction is made that the five-cent drink will disappear off the menu card. So will the price of beer, but Quebec and British Columbia people will be the chief sufferers on that account.

AN ENGLISH-SPEAKING UNION.

There will be held this month in New York the first convention of the English-speaking Union of America, the object of which is to promote greater friendship between English-speaking people wherever they are found in the world, says the Hamilton Spectator. The movement is not national, but universal. All who speak the mother tongue are eligible for membership in the association. The Union was incorporated in November, 1920, and now has local branches throughout the whole continent. It was inspired by the British English-speaking Union, which was established on 4th July, 1918, but the American Society is not connected in any way with the British, except insofar as the two are striving after common objects and working in the interests of a single ideal.

The mysterious but very potent part which language plays in uniting individuals and peoples is well recognised. There cannot well be any deep or permanent estrangements between races nourished on the same literature and sharing the glories of a great tradition. The movement, however, is in no sense a propagandist movement. There are no axes to grind, no ulterior motives to be served. One great thought only inspires the union—the essential identity of sentiment permeating the minds of all who employ English as their mother tongue. The richness of our great heritage is emphasised, and the crime of provoking or permitting discord among the kindred is exposed. Such a society, imbued with such aims, is bound to make for good.

THE HEART OF CHRISTIANITY.

Christianity is at heart not a system of belief or a manner of worship, though both belief and worship are important aspects of it. At heart it is something better,—it is a life which permeates the life of the world to cheer and hearten and redeem it from its ingrained selfishness. To think of it in any other way is to miss its real significance, and to attempt to judge or test its followers primarily by such things as details of belief or manner of worship is to be untrue to its spirit.

In its origins Christianity was a Life. Its Founder outlined no system of belief, prescribed no form of worship. He discovered no scientific law, gave the world no remedy for disease, built no great bridge, designed no monumental building, led no conquering army, proclaimed no new mathematical truth, wrote not a line in book or poem by which to be remembered. The wonderful thing about Him and the thing in which His conquering influence over men had its beginnings was His Life. Not what He did but what He was has transformed the world.

Similarly the Christianity of our day becomes a conquering Christianity just in so far as it is made a life in our world. Not system of belief or proclamations of truth are the real redemptive force to-day, but rather the lives of men and women who are filled with the spirit of the Christ. A youth, says Dr. Fosdick, once sought Phillips Brooks for an interview on a problem that had long perplexed him. With care he phrased his question that he might surely ask it right. At last the day came and he spent a radiant hour with Brooks. He came out from it transfigured, life glorious again, until at last it dawned on him that he had clean forgotten to ask Phillips Brooks that question. "But," he says, "I did not care. I had found out that what I needed was not the solution of a special problem but the contagion of a triumphant spirit." That is still the supreme need of the world, and in so far as the Church can supply that need to-day will it be a power in to-day's life.

FREIGHT RATE REDUCTIONS.

Canada is vitally interested in the announcement made yesterday by the United States Inter-State Commerce Commission that railroad freight rates will be lowered on July 1 next by an amount approximately ten per cent. As to the method to be employed in the cutting there were divergences of opinion on the Commission, but the members were unanimous in their enumciation of the basic principle that "a general reduction of the rate level as substantial as the condition of the carriers will permit will tend to stabilize conditions under which commerce and industry are carried on."

It is not difficult to visualize the reaction of this announcement on our own commerce. During 1921 the total value of goods imported into the Dominion was $1,240,158,882, and of this amount the value of goods imported from the United States was $856,613,430, leaving only $383,545,452 to be imported from all other countries combined, including Great Britain. In the matter of exports $542,304,456 worth of Canadian products went to the United States, while the value of the exports to all other countries, including Britain, reached $646,859,248.

Canadian manufacturers have been complaining in recent months that the high tariff imposed by the United States, coupled with increased freight charges, have debarred them from the natural foreign market for their goods. This lowering of railway rates by a substantial reduction will offer them a portion of the relief they have been pleading for. Moreover, it cannot fail to affect domestic rates within the Dominion, for the Canadian manufacturer will have to meet the cut in price which the United States railway reduction will allow the United States manufacturer to make when both are competing in Canadian markets.

Canadian freight rates have been due for a cut for several months past. Mr. Beatty, the President of the Canadian Pacific, intimated at Ottawa a few days ago that his road expected and were perfectly ready to concede an all-round revision of rates, with lowered tariff on many commodities. That the reduction has not already been made has been due to the impasse reached by the politicians with regard to the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement. So long as there is any danger that through political pressure the Progressives may be able by striking a bargain with the Liberal Government to bring that agreement again into force there will be delay in the all-round reduction which railway men agree would be of more advantage to the community as a whole than would the re-imposition of the rates imposed twenty-five years ago on a few commodities.

Wholesalers are delaying the buying of large stocks from the East in the hope that the reduction may soon be enforced and this delay tends to instability and an unhealthy nervousness in trade. The announcement given out by the Inter-State Commission must hasten the bringing into force of new reductions in Canada.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

As a result of the new Budget, soft drinks are going to increase in price. That's hard!

As the sporting writers would put it, the Government may not be a hard-hitting team, but their Fielding is all right.

So far as we have been able to find out, George Street South is not even to be paved with good intentions.

The Kiwanis Club evidently could soon settle the housing problem if there were enough holidays in the year.

Hon. W. E. Raney is determined that Peter Smith is not going to be left at the post.

Although beer has gone up in Quebec as a result of the new tax, it will continue to go down just the same.

At a meeting of the Council of Women held recently in Peterborough, one of the speakers urged the building of smaller houses as a step in the direction of reducing rents. There is much in the argument. A great deal of money is wasted in house construction, and we have been building houses rather than homes. A Canadian Indian once said: "The pale face, is one big fool. He build heap big house,then him live in kitchen." There is a world of truth in the philosophy of the Indian.—Kingston Standard.

MAKE FRIENDS ALL ROUND

London Daily News: The way to avert this danger is to abandon once for all the evil policy which divides Europe into two camps, to admit Germany and Russia to the League, and to acknowledge the fact that Europe is one, and that France and Russia and Germany and this country are merely parts of an indissoluble unity. The way to make ultimate catastrophe certain is to badger and torment and blackmail and invade Germany, and to insult and ostracize and bully Russia.

GREAT INVENTOR DIES IN BELGIUM.

BRUSSELS, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Ernest Solvay, the inventor, reputed to be Belgium's richest man, died suddenly yesterday morning.

M. Solvay recently celebrated his 84th birthday and was frequently styled "the Carnegie of Belgium." His prominence in invention and industry came upon his originating the Solvay process for the manufacture of soda. During the war he took a prominent part in Belgian relief work and so embittered the Germans that on one occasion he was sentenced to three months' imprisonment for insulting a German officer.

Many Interesting Matters Slated For Convention in Vancouver, Starting on Monday.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—A large party of eastern delegates to the 22nd annual convention of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, which will be in session here from May 29 to June 3, inclusive, reached Vancouver yesterday and immediately began preparation for what is characterized by some delegates as one of the most important meetings in the organization's history. Miss Joan Arnoldi, national president, and other officers, were in the party.

COLLEGE BILL

OTTAWA, May 27.—(Canadian Press).—The bill incorporating the Frontier College was given third reading in the Commons to-night.

PETERBORO TALENT WAS APPRECIATED.

Staged "Just Plain Folks" At Omemee Village.

OMEMEE, May 27.—Judging by the huge crowd which assembled at the Coronation Hall to witness the splendid performance of Just Plain Folks, staged by Peterborough performers, the presentation was a huge success.

From the opening of the first act, until the final fall of the curtain, the audience were kept busy holding their sides with laughter.

The performers (ten in number)), deserve full credit for the way in which they rendered their various parts and more in the manner of professionals than amateurs. The principal parts were taken by:

Miss M. Caird, as the Doctor's wife; Mrs. H. Sisson as Rosey, the Dutch servant girl; Mrs. T. Sproats, as Arlette, auntie; Miss J. McConomey as Kitty, circus girl; Mr. H. Lemming as Doctor.; Mr. H. Freeman as Jim Grainger, circus boy; Mr. J. Price as Sammy (Doctor's nephew, school boy.

The management of this organization must be highly satisfied with the splendid results achieved, and it was the wish of the audience that a return engagement was not very far away.

Others that helped to make the concert a success was Mr. Ted Markham, Peterborough's comedian, who had the audience tickled to death by his various songs and was encored again and again. Some splendid Highland dancing by the Misses Hardie. These two Peterborough youngsters should do well in the future and develop into first-class dancers.

Mr. D. Grant should be credited with some fine bagpipe playing, and the way he played to the Misses Hardie was worthy of note.

The Omemee quartette were well received and put out some splendid harmony, which brought a very successful concert to a close.

Getting Acquainted.

On Tuesday afternoon the Warsaw teachers invited the children's friends to the school. The children had an interesting programme prepared and light refreshments were served. Not many availed themselves of the invitation. These open days are good for parents, teachers and children. The idea is to have all meet and become acquainted with each other, that teachers and parents may be better able to understand one another.

THE TORTURE OF INDIGESTION

Thousands Made Miserable By This Trouble

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Relieves It

What is Indigestion and what causes it? As you know, solid food must be changed into a liquid by the stomach before it can be taken up as nourishment by the blood.

The stomach acts as a churn. It is covered by a strong, muscular coat and lined with a soft, delicate membrane which secretes the Gastric Juice which digests or dissolves solid food.

When food enters the stomach, the muscular coat squeezes and presses the food from end to end, or churns it, with the gastric juice to dissolve or digest it.

But—if the stomach muscles are weak—or if the dissolving fluid is poor or insufficient—then food cannot be digested properly and you have Indigestion.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is the most wonderful medicine in the world for strengthening the stomach muscles and providing an abundance of pure, full-strength dissolving fluid to completely digest every meal. "FRUIT-A-TIVES" does this because it keeps the kidneys active, the bowels regular and the blood pure, which insures pure Gastric Juice.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" will correct your Indigestion or Dyspepsia and enable you to enjoy every meal. Try it.

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION

Nothing is more common in childhood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution or more likely to pave the way to dangerous disease. Fully nine-tenths of all the minor ills of childhood have their root in indigestion. There is no medicine for little ones to equal Baby's Own Tablets in relieving this trouble. They have proved of benefit in thousands of homes. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Lunette, Immaculate Conception, Que., writes. "My baby was a great sufferer from indigestion, but the Tablets soon set her right and now I would not be without them." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Report a Good Time at Bewdley — Successful Dental Students—Millbrook Church News.

MILLBROOK, May 27.—The C.G.I.T. group of Grace Presbyterian church, and a number of their friends held a delightful picnic at Bewdley on Tuesday after school closed, about 30 going to the Lake to enjoy the outing. Among those who kindly conveyed the party by motor to their destination were: Messrs. W. E. Ball, H. W. Johnston, G. S. Gervan, G. Carveth, and H. Lancashire. A thoroughly good time is the report brought home by all present.

At District Meeting.

Rev. S. T. Tucker, Mr. G. E. Burnham and Mr. W. G. Hetherington from the Millbrook circuit, attended the district meeting at the George street church, Peterboro, on Tuesday. The meeting was well attended and was one of the best ever held in the district. Mr. G. E. Burnham was appointed delegate to the Conference which meets in Whitby the first week in June, and Mr. P. Stinson is the alternate. Rev. G. S. Rorke and Mr. H. C. Ball were in attendance from the Cavan circuit.

Successful Students.

Among those whose names appear in the final Dental College examinations as successful candidates, and now entitled to L.D.S. after their names, is Mr Wm. Reginald Reynolds, who is a son-in-law of Mrs. Fred Johnson, Fallis Line. Dr. Reynolds' many friends here will unite in offering him hearty congratulations on his graduation in his chosen profession.

Remains Fourth Year.

Rev. S. T. Tucker received a unanimous invitation to remain for a fourth term on the Millbrook circuit at the last meeting of the Quarterly Board. His many friends here will be glad to learn that Mr. Tucker has accepted the invitation.

BANNER PIPELESS FURNACES

What Others Think

After all, it is the actual user of a furnace who is the final, supreme judge. This is what Mr. George W. Robinson of Hamilton, finds:

"Our house is sixty feet long and twenty-seven feet wide, two floors; a difficult proposition. The Banner Pipeless Furnace does the work satisfactorily; it does not heat the cellar, a good draft is easily controlled. Your guarantee stands behind it and has made good."

TRINITY SUNDAY SCHOOL CANTATA

Considerng the lateness of the season, there was a very good attendance last evening in Reid street hall, for the presentation by the Junior Boys and Girls of Trinity Sunday school of the cantata, "The Walrus and the Carpenter," from Lewis Carroll's 'Through the Looking Glass," under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon, with Mr. R. J. Kidd acting as chairman for the occasion.

The cantata, which composed the second part of the programme, was a delightful affair, daintily sung with full orchestral accompaniment by fifty of the smaller boys and girls, in ages ranging from eight to twelve, who gave a surprisingly good rendition of the charming music, telling the tale of the forlorn oysters who fell victim to the rapacious appetite of the treacherous Walrus and Carpenter, in the course of an unsuspecting evening walk. Exceptional training was manifested in the performance of the little things, whose shading of the pretty music, transition from rapid to slower tempo, and excellent ensemble singing was a credit to the painstaking tuition of their teachers. They did full justice in harmonious blending of the fresh young voices to the pretty setting of the litle tale. Many of the young songsters show great promise for the future.

In the first part of the evening's delightful entertainment, the church orchestra, a clever aggregation of some 24 players, gave three bright numbers, the "Festival March," "The Thistle," a stirring rendition of popular Scottish airs, and the March that closed this portion of the programme. In this section, Mr. Gliddon has built up an organization of which both he and the officers of the Sunday school are justly proud, and this bright musical group deserve great praise for their splendid loyalty and excellent work.

Assisting artists for the evening were Miss Ina Allen, who sang in lovely voice two of Eric Coates' compositions, "The Land of Dreams," and the dainty encore, "The Man in the Moon." Miss Faith Jones, whose mastery of the pianoforte was exemplified in her pleasing selection, "Old Black Joe," with variations; and Joseph Nazimok, playing with splendid effect the dreamy "Berceuse," by Jocelyn, and "Adoration." Mr. Harry Wager and his Hawaiian quartette gave several well-received selections.

The whole evening's programme proved a really delightful entertainment, enjoyed by all, and Mr. Gliddon was requested by many present to repeat the performance next fall.

Mrs. G. E. Porter and Mr. Gliddon deserve great credit for their painstaking work in preparing for this occasion.

TEA SHORTAGE— HIGHER PRICES.

In 1920, so much more tea was produced than required throughout the world, that the market dropped to a very low level. The situation was so serious for the growers that they agreed to reduce their production 20 per cent. during 1921. Consumption, which has increased tremendously, and the production of tea being curtailed, has resulted in the highest prices for tea in years. The recent reduction of four pence per pound on tea tax in England has further stimulated consumption, which means thta even higher prices may soon be expected.

COLLIE DOG KING OF CANINE WORLD.

Milady's "Pet" Comes Second in Public Favor.

There are more collie dogs in Peterborough than any other kind. There are very few thoroughbred Scotch collies, however, or else the owners have neglected to include this further information in their statement to the police sergeant who issues licenses at the police station. The stubs of the licenses tell to what family every dog belongs, and reveal that collies are evidently the most popular dogs. Hounds and terriers are tied for second place from a numerical standpoint. Out of a total of 200 licenses issued 33 were for hounds and 33 for terriers.

Spaniels are numerous, and Airedales, Pomeranians and Boston Bulls are next in order. The two hundred dogs were shown to belong to the families as follows:

Collies 40, Hounds 33, Terries 33, Spaniels 30, Pomeranians 13, Airdales 13, Boston Bulls 13, French Poodles 8, Spitz 3, Miscellaneous 7, Mongrels 7. Total 200.

Pick of the Lot.

Those set down in the list as miscellaneous are probably the pick of the lot. There were in the 200 dogs listed one British bull dog, one French bull, one coach dog, a single Shepherd, Yorkshire, Setter and Great Dane. The fact of there being but one coach dog indicates the effect of the horseless carriage in the dog world. These dogs, like the fine horses that once made such a show, find no place in the modern scheme of things and live in the memory of a past which will perhaps not be understood and appreciated by the generation of people now growing up.

Milady's Pet.

The survey of the dog world indicates the growing popularity of the "pet" or "lap" dog, and that the huskier kinds are being done away with. Pomeranians, French Poodles, Spitz and other sorts of toy creatures are growing in numbers, and the more vigorous types are having a hard battle to keep their own. Possibly the bull dog wonders why he should be ousted in favor of a little ball of hair that wold make about a mouthful. He who was once so secure in the public favour, realizes in a dumb way that a great change has come about.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

(Bruce Herald.)

Mr. Robert Irwin, the erstwhile Walkerton horse-buyer, who recently returned from the West to his home in Kincardine, is spending a few days in Walkerton this week, and anybody going into raptures over the consolidated school idea will quickly lose their enthusiasm for the scheme if they consult Mr. Irwin, who comes back loaded up with real experience instead of bubbling over with beautiful theories on the subject.

Mr. Irwin, who has a 500-acre farm near Conquest, in the Saskatoon district, pays taxes of $1 per acre of which 65 cents off each acre goes toward paying for the consolidated school in that district, leaving only 35 cents for other municipal purposes. In other words, $65 goes off every hundred acres towards the upkeep of the school.

Nor does the scheme work out well, as far as the children are concerned. The van which calls at the crossroads for the youngsters waits but two minut s, and any child that is not on hand simply loses the chance of getting to school that day. Children who might start out too early would run the risk of contracting severe colds, if not altogether freezing up, standing around waiting for the van, thus making it compulsory for the child to hit the corner practically at the same minute each day, which, with the clocks of the district varying, is some little trick to perpetually accomplish.

The result is the consolidated school at Conquest has been closed for the winter, as the natives there are so disgusted with the scheme that is relieving them so liberally of their cash, and is actually robbing the children of many school days through inability to always catch the van, that the chances are the scheme will be abandoned altogether after having already gone to the enormous expense of erecting an up-to-date consolidated school.

The scheme, which was also tried in Puslinch township, near Guelph, was abondoned a few years ago for the same reason. As consolidated schools are being advocated for this section and as only the bright side of the picture has hitherto been placed on exhibition by the speakers on the subject, the more sombre coloring that comes from actual experience in some parts is also worth holding up to view.

COMMENCE TRAINING ON WEDNESDAY NEXT.

Local Machine Gun Corps Will Be Reduced in Strength.

The Peterborough Company, 4th Canadian Machine Gun Corps, commences training on Wednesday next.

The entire corps, by the drastic reduction in Militia expenditure, has been cut from a strength of over 400 to 206.

The local Company, with 125 on the pay-roll last year, is only allowed 68 this year. Nine days' training, which allows of 18 evening drills, has been authorised for this year, to be divided between spring and fall work.

Firing at the ranges will commence shortly.

The Tire the Doctor can Depend on -

The Doctor is often a link in the chain of life. If the Doctor fails to arrive in time on a critical case, his failure is a broken link. Lives depend upon the Doctor, and the Doctor depends upon his automobile, and his automobile depends on its tires. If the tires fail, the doctor fails, the link breaks and a life is lost. See how directly then the lives of men may hang on having the best, most substantial and most reliable tires. The Tires Doctors are learning to trust for a life and death run are "Gutta Percha" Tires.

PRICE: Who would risk a delay at a critical moment to save a few dollars on the price of a Tire? Wise doctors know that standard make Tires are the only reliable ones and that "Gutta Percha" Tires have saved a life many a time.

KIWANIS FAMILY

(Contined from page 1.)

Numerous donations to the fund for the erection of the hall at Jackson Park were announced. The following were acknowledged: G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., $10; M. Carton, $10; W. E. Conway, $10; Rev. F. M. Baldwin, Toronto, $10. The latter donation was unexpected. Gray Copping had been busy with Rev. Baldwin all the 24th, having to drive him up the lakes. The minister said he was sorry to take up his day. Gray explained what he would have been doing had his time not been taken up. When Rev. Baldwin boarded the train here at the end of the day he handed the Kiwanian an envelope. When Gray refused to take it, thinking it was pay for the drive, he was told it was not for him, but a contribution towards the hall. When he opened it a ten dollar bill lay within.

Advertise Waterway.

Acting on a motion of Dr. Wood and Alec Dick, the secretary will mail to 700 International Kiwanis Clubs descriptive circulars of the Trent Waterway, urging the delegates who will attend the international convention in Toronto on June 19, 20 and 21, to kill two birds with one stone by coming down to Peterborough and spending a few weeks in the seductive Trent country.

The meeting was brought to a close with votes of thanks to all who were responsible for the success of the affair, J. A. McKone and Mrs. McKone coming in for an extra warm vote for placing the spacious quarters at the disposal of the club.

CORNS
Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit. Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

REPORTS FROM BERLIN.

PARIS, May 27. — (Canadian Press).—Reports from Berlin that the German Government had accepted the Allied reparation proposition were qualified by fears in reparation circles here that the proposition had been accepted only as a basis for discussion, while the determination of the commission is that they constitute the last word.

FOUR EARTHQUAKES.

ROME, May 27. — (Canadian Press). — Four violent earthquakes occurred to-day near Terni, fifty miles north of Rome. The population are terrified, but no reports of damage yet received.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDED.

BELFAST, May 27. — (Canadian Press). — A despatch from Dublin says a British soldier murdered, another seriously wounded, in the post office on College Green, Dublin, this afternoon. The shooting was done by a civilian.

DISORDERS CONTINUE IN PARTS OF IRELAND.

LONDON, May 27. — (Canadian Press).—Continued outbreaks of disorders in Ireland are reported in morning despatches. It is stated that members of the Irish Republican Army surrounded Ballinalee, County Longford, and arrested all the Protestants in the town, charging them with conspiracy with Orangemen in the north.

Grain, Cattle & Produce Markets

The succulent porker, on the hoof, has gone up a little in price. Last week you could buy him for 25c. cheaper on the hundred, but he is a temperamental proposition, and advances or retreats at will from week to week. People with finicky tastes may now buy mushrooms at $1.25 a pound, making sure, the while, that they don't possess a little pink skirt that is supposed to be a sign of malignancy. Pansies the "thought" flowers, are budding gaily in small boxes, for a quarter, with six or eight roots in a box. And butter is down another cent in some varieties.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Big receipts here and heavy deliveries on contracts, led to fresh declines yesterday in the price of May Wheat, but railed to keep down values for later months. The market closed unsettled at 2c net lower to 1c advance, with May $1.26 12 to $1.26 3-4 and July $1.22 1-2 to $1.22 5-8. Corn finished unchanged to 18c higher; oats up 1-8 to 1-4c and provisions varying from seven cents off to a rise of 75c.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—There was no further change in the domestic cash grain market, prices being steady at the recent decline. The flour market was without feature. Feeling is unsettled in millfeed but there is as yet no price change. Demand for rolled oats was slow. A firm feeling prevailed in the baled hay market. Trade in eggs is active. The tone of the potato market is steady. Butter and cheese markets are quiet.

WHEN you require a roof, the measurement will be in squares (100 square feet). A basis for analysis of the costs of Brantford Asphalt Slates is given below:

1—INITIAL COSTS OF MATERIALS—Brantford Asphalt Slates are sometimes higher in initial cost for the material.

2—NAILS REQUIRED—Brantford Asphalt Slates require ONLY 684 nails to lay a square. Brantford Asphalt Slab Slates require ONLY 450 nails.

3—COST OF LAYING—Brantford Asphalt Slab Slates are four on one strip—require only one operation in handling, one operation in spacing—individual slates are 8 x 12¾ inches—Cut easily, fit easily, fit on angles and bend over round surfaces. You save 30 to 50 per cent. in laying.

4—NO PAINT OR STAIN REQUIRED—The surface of Brantford Asphalt Slates is in nature's permanent colors, green and red, unfadeable, always attractive,—requiring no stain to produce artistic effects, no liquid coats to make them fire-resistant.

5—SAVING OF INSURANCE—Brantford Asphalt Slates are classed as non-combustible by fire insurance companies—a direct saving of from 10 to 20 per cent. on premiums is effected. In certain localities fire regulations demand asbestos paper under some roof materials, but Brantford Asphalt Slates are fire-resistant and are immune from special regulations.

6—COST OF REPAIRS—From the day they are laid Brantford Asphalt Slate roofs show almost 100 per cent. of the original roof untouched. Brantford Asphalt Slates do not curl, split, crack or rot. Complete protection and permanent protection are built into Brantford Asphalt Slate Roofs.

Compare these roof costs with those of any other roofing material; it is your money you are spending and you want value for it—then buy

HAVELOCK SCHOOL WILL BE REPAIRED.

Trench Mortar Will Be Placed in the School Grounds.

HAVELOCK, May 27. — The regular meeting of the School Board was held in the School Room. All the members were present, except Trustees Forde and Carter.

A communication was received from F. L. Woodley, chairman of the Superannuation Commission, informing the Board that no refunds were to be made to teachers in respect to that Department, and on the motion of Messrs. Barlow and Roche, it was received and filed.

A communication was received from Architect Blackwell, of Peterborough, in respect to the condition of the school roof, in which he advised the Board that it was not safe, and recommended raising the roof to the same level as on the south wing, and estimating the cost thereof at $2,200.00.

On the motion of Messrs. Barlow and Anderson, it was decided that the necessary repairs be made as suggested by Mr. Blackwell, by a Committee of the Whole Board, and that the trustees, T. Barlow, H. Roche, R. Anderson, and A. Forde, be a committe to obtain the services of a competent man without advertising for same, to oversee the work, secure matrial, and engage the necessary labour, rather than do the work by contract, and also that the secretary apply as soon as possible to the Town Council for the sum of $2,500 for the work.

Reeve Jones asked the Board for permission to have the trench mortar war memorial placed on the school grounds, and on the motion of Messrs. Anderson and Barlow, the Council will be permitted to place the memorial on the north-east corner of the grounds.

Principal Davidson addressed the Board ,seeking its co-operation in promoting athletic pursuits in the school, which, properly conducted, elevated self-control, courage, and the qualities requisite to make men and women, and requested the Board to allow Monday, 5th June, to be a Field Day, when the pupils could have the benefit of instruction by Walter Knox, coach of the Canadian Olympic teams, and now physical director of the Ontario Department of Education, who will be present on that date.

On the motion of Messrs. Barlow and Anderson, the request of Principal Davidson was granted.

On the motion of Messrs Roche and Barlow, a special meeting of the Board will be held on Friday night of this week at 7 o'clock in the School Room for the purpose of business in general and furthering the work in connection with repairs to the roof.

Won Scholarship.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. Hunter Lewis, a former Omemee boy, for having been awarded the LeRoy Memorial Scholarship of $300 in British Columbia. Hunter entered the University there when he became medically fit after his return from overseas and his many friends and acquaintances will be pleased to hear of his success. His father, the Rev. J. G. Lewis, was the former pastor on the Methodist circuit here.

Epworth League.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church journeyed to Bethel on Thursday evening where they furnished the programme, after which they were right royally entertained by the Bethel Leaguers. The joly crowd gathered at the church at 7:30 p.m., about sixty strong and were conveyed by motor truck and a number of cars. Needless to say the air was full of music, both going and coming. The meeting was presided over by the Omemee President, Miss Lila Parsons and the programme was as follows:

Hymn 291.

Psalm 116: Responsive reading lead by Mrs. Boyd.

Lord's Prayer in unison.

Hymn 173.

Scripture reading: Miss Hilda Sanderson.

Duet: Misses Laura and Ilma Shea.

Paper: Canadian Poetesses, Miss Jean Sandy.

Hymn 276.

Paper: Works of Drummond, Mr. L. Skuce.

Hymn: O Canada.

Address: Rev. Mr. Harrington (a former pastor.)

Chorus: "Pilgrims."

A musical contest and dainty refreshments brought to a close a most enjoyable evening.

PALE, WEAK GIRLS AND DELICATE WOMEN

Can Find New Health by Enriching Their Blood Supply.

Nature intended every girl and every woman to be happy, active and healthy. Yet too many of them find their lives saddened by suffering—nearly always because their blood is to blame. All those unhappy girls and women with colorless cheeks, dull skins, and sunken lusterless eyes, are in this condition because they have not enough red blod in their veins to keep them well and in the charm of health. They suffer from depressing weariness and periodical headaches. Dark lines form under their eyes, their heart palpitates violently after the slightest exertion, and they are often attacked with fainting spells. These are only a few of the miseries of bloodlessness. When the blood becomes thin and watery it can be enriched through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the troubles that come from opor blood disappear. In almost every neighborhood you will find some formerly ailing woman, or pale breathless girl who has a good word to say for this medicine. Among them there is Miss Laura Monaghan, Campbellton, P.E.I., who says: "Before using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was in a badly run down condition. I was pale, thin and scarcely able to go about. The least exertion made my heart palpitate so violently that I actually was afraid one of those spells might carry me off. Often my nights were sleepless, and as the treatment I was taking did not help me I was almost in despair. Finally a friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in the course of a few weeks after beginning this treatment there was a decided improvement in my condition. I continued using the pills, and am now enjoying good health. I am glad to give you my experience in hope that some other sufferer may find the way to better health."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHAPTER XLVII

A KISS FOR MY HUSBAND

Bonny took us home in her car, on her way to a big dance given for returning college men. After she left us she would pick up two young men at a hotel. Her chauffeur and her father's car were the sole surety of the indubitable respectability of this proceeding.

"Jack, kiss me good-night!" Bonny suggested as we drew up at our door. "Peggy first! There! Peg, you look blue? What's wrong? Don't you like Jack's new moustache?"

"I detest it!" I answered, only half-honestly, because I ought to have added that I detested the flapper freedom which permitted Bonny to hiss another girl's husband.

From Jack's quick way of getting me out of the car and into our suite I knew that the subject of our conversation and Bonny's kiss annoyed him excessively. His only remark about the rehearsal had nothing to do with my success:

"I suppose a wife could make a husband pay that way—better than any other."

He was speaking of the child in the play and the mother's crime.

And I had hoped that Bart's primitive version of love would make Jack wretchedly jealous. And Bart had expected it to. And Jack ignored it entirely.

Instead of insinuating that I and Bart had overacted, my husband was caught up with the idea that a wife could take vengeance by robbing a father of his child!

While I was thinking only of my husband's love for me, Jack was considering the larger aspects of married life.

Never before had it occurred to me that Jack had any particular interest in babies.

I had the unmarried girl's view of children. I prided myself that it was an up-to-date view to consider the child as particularly the woman's affair.

Jack and I had more than once talked of our family. I realized that Jack had an indefinite sort of a notion that it was good for a man to have his children around him and as he grew older, also I knew that Jack would make a splendid father. But—not yet—not yet!

So far in my married life I had taken it for granted that I filled all the needs of my husband's heart.

Of course, when we could afford children, when we had a real house with a yard instead of a suite in an apartment I would think it time to raise my babies.

No wonder Jack astonished me by thinking about babies when he should have been thinking about my success on the stage!

POINCARE WILL VISIT LONDON.

PARIS, May 27. — (Canadian Press.)—Premier Poincare will go to London June 17-18, it was officially announced yesterday, but merely in response to invitations extended by county and city committees to attend celebrations organized by the committees, especially in observance of Verdun Day. It was added that the voyage would have no political significance, although the Premier is sure to meet the British Prime Minister.

GIRLS! LEMONS WHITEN SKIN AND BLEACH FRECKLES

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whitness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

GERMANY TO PAY.

COPENHAGEN. May 27.—(Canadian Press.) — The Ekstrabladet learns that negotiations between representatives of Germany and English bankers have resulted in Germany obtaining means for paying the reparations installment due at the end of May. The negotiations are said to have been conducted through a Danish intermediary.

The Romance of Oil In Central Ontario

Forty-five years ago when the Canadian Pacific Railway was building its first line between Montreal and Toronto it was necessary to blast a cut on the right-of-way adjoining William Haughton's farm, east of Havelock. When the great masses of rock were taken out of the cut after the blasting oil ran down the side of the cut in streams. One of the large oil companies is said to have promptly offered Haughton $75,000 for his property, but if the offer was made it was refused.

Edward J. Cowain, the son-in-law of the owner of the property, was a prospector, and the strike on his father-in-law's farm led him to survey the entire district for traces of oil with a new method of locating oil based on electrical attraction. Cowain leased all the properties on which he found traces of oil, keeping a little ahead of geologists of oil companies who had learned of the strike on the Haughton farm. Financial reverses prevented him from developing the leaseholds which he had acquired, but he extended his search for oil throughout Central Ontario, spending years in carefully and quietly surveying the entire district.

About a year ago reports began to be made public from several places in Central Ontario of oil, seepages being found in wells and of a scum on the surface of pools. Geologists employed by important oil interests promptly began to survey the districts from which these reports had come, Mariposa, King's Wharf, the head of Rice Lake, north of Port Hope and near Colborne and Belleville. Important oil interests leased about 33,000 acres in the sections where discoveries had been made, and one of the largest British companies after taking up holdings attempted to raise capital in England to float a subsidiary company to develop these holdings. The large Canadian and American companies were followed into the new fields by a number of syndicates and private interests.

In the meantime, Mr. Cowain, with his son, W. R. Cowain, had formed a syndicate to take up more leaseholds, in which was included N. C. Shaver, lawyer and mining expert of Toronto. In July of last year this syndicate was incorporated as a company, Central Ontario Oil Fields, Limited, and the holdings of the syndicate turned over to the company in return for a block of the capital stock of the company. A number of prominent business and professional men of Peterborough became interested in the venture. From the start it was the intention of the organizers of the company to keep it a closed corporation. They found, however, that financing such an enterprise themselves was impossible, and they at last, reluctantly, placed a block of stock on the market for public subscription.

In the meantime, the company had commenced drilling on its leaseholds around Kerwood, near Petrolia. This field was chosen to start on because it is so shallow that drilling is much cheaper than in the deeper fields farther east. Two wells have been sunk there and both have been "brought in" successfully. A third well is now being sunk over what is believed to be an 80-foot dome of oil. The scientific manner in which Central Ontario Oil Fields has proceeded at Kerwood and the success that has attended its initial efforts have created a deep impression in that district, and a farmers' co-operative oil company drilling on adjoining holdings with three wells sunk and producing, has offered to turn over its holdings and all assets to Central Ontario Oil Fields in return for a block of the company's stock. The offer is now being considered.

With the money obtained from the sale of stock will be purchased a complete drilling outfit, pumping equipment and storage facilities. Drilling is now being carried on by contractors, but with its own drills the company will be able to save a considerable amount in its preliminary work and to get the Petrolia field into full production much more economically than under the present system. Pumping equipment, pipe lines and storage facilities will enable it to get the wells thus sunk into production and to put the enterprise on a paying basis. When the Petrolia field is in full production and the oil being marketed, drilling will be begun at Mariposa and other points in this district. It is the desire of the directors to accomplish this before the end of the summer in the hope of being able to give the shareholders a Christmas present of a dividend.

It is interesting to note that this company claims to have at its disposal more scientific knowledge regarding oil than any other interests operating in these fields. Its field advisers are using a method of locating oil based on electrical attraction. The old method of locating oil was largely guess' work. When oil-bearing rock or seepages of oil were found on property the formation of the land was studied and a well sunk in accordance with these indications. Often the well would prove not to have been sunk directly over the oil pool and it would be necessary to drill perhaps several times before the pool was located. This entailed great expense and ruined many small oil companies. In fact, it was largely responsible for oil receiving the reputation of being a gamble. But oil has certain electric properties, and on this is based the scientific method being used by the field advisers of this company. This method enables the location of a pool of oil to be mapped with minute exactness. It has been proven conclusively to be a sure method, and is being used by the Standard Oil Company today at Tulsa, Oklahoma.

So sure of the knowledge of oil deposits throughout Canada that this method has given them are the field advisers of Central Ontario Oil Fields that one of them has made a most usual proposition to a prominent financial expert in Toronto. Briefly, he has proposed that if this expert will give him the exact location of any oil well being drilled anywhere in Canada by any company, he will swear out an affidavit as to whether oil will be struck, and if it is in what quantity and of what quality; this affidavit he will seal, to be held until the well is finished for comparison with the result of the drilling. The offer has been accepted and the outcome will be awaited with interest. (Advt.)

BENJAMIN DISRAELI

"If he had not said it, I should have.'

"The reward will be mine, if I succeed?"

"Or if you fail."

"Clarissa! Do you love me, then?"

"I love you."

"Ah! What courage you give me!"

"I shall need courage too! If anything happens to you it will have been my doing!"

"If anything good happens to me, or I do anything good, that will have been your doing!"

"Charles—is that true?"

"You know it is! Haven't you changed me already? You said I had made giant strides. Who but you urged me on?"

"And the stronger you grow the weaker I become."

"No, no!"

As he spoke, Charles clasped her to him. And Clarissa, looking up into his face, with her head on his shoulder, said: "Oh, but I like it!"

Charles with playful reproach, said: "A week ago you didn't love me."

"That wasn't you! That was the man who hated Dizzy."

"Don't—please don't!" Charles winced.

Clarissa looked up at Charles and he bent down and kissed her.

"Time's up!" called Disraeli, striding in.

Charles surrendered Clarissa reluctantly as he said:

"Ready, sir!"

Clarissa brushed the tears from her eyes, and Disraeli continued:

"Here is all you need—money, instructions and a code for telegrams. This green paper is the code. I have the duplicate. Now be off!"

Charles turned to Clarissa, but Disraeli interrupted:

"No, no! Departures should be sudden!"

And taking Charles by the arm, he led him to the door.

"Good luck!" said Disraeli, cheerily.

"Good-bye!"

"Good luck, Charles—"

"Good-bye, Clarissa—"

And he was gone.

Disraeli stood at the door, looking after Charles. He called out a final "Good luck! Good-bye!" and turned to Clarissa. "Now!"

"What am I to do?" asked Clarissa, disconsolately. "What am I to do?"

"Come for a drive," suggested Disraeli with a glum face.

"Oh, you are heartless! How long will it be before we hear from him?"

"Three weeks."

"How am I to wait?"

"How am I to wait?"

"You? You don't love him!"

"No? Then why did I send him? Listen! You shall come to Hughenden and we'll wait together."

"But three weeks! It's impossible!"

"Do as I mean to do."

"What?"

"Come into the country and feed the peacocks!"

"Peacocks?"

"Very noble and intelligent birds, I assure you!"

XXIII.

Disraeli's study at Hughenden was a comparatively small, oak-panelled room, with large windows leading out into his beloved gardens. It was a summer morning. There was color outside, and glaring sunshine. The roses were in bright bloom. Bed upon bed of the fragrant bushes studded the closely cropped lawns and bordered the gravel-strewn walks. But it was cool and almost dark in the study.

Huge bookcases lined its walls. The backs of thousands of volumes, in rows of black, green, red and brown, looked down upon a heavily carved desk that formed the principal piece of furniture in the room. A large easy chair before it, a heap of documents, a dozen quills, the inkstand and sand-shakers—all bore silent witness to the fact that here was a room reserved for the use of a man too busy to take much leisure even in his home. The great fire-place, flanked by two immense candlesticks, told a tale of cozy winter evenings. And a few rare objects and several paintings by great masters bespoke the dignified taste of the occupant.

Disraeli, clad in an old coat, wearing a battered hat and his boots covered with dust, entered his sanctum through one of the casement windows. In one hand he carried a bouquet of flowers. In the other a spade.

The voice of Potter, his gardener, brought him to a stop.

"And where be ye goin' with that 'ere spade, Mr. Disraeli?"

The Prime Minister laughted out loud.

"I didn't know I had kept it," he said. He handed it to the man outside. "These peacocks have completely upset me. Won't eat, won't come when I call them, won't spread—there's something wrong Potter."

From the other side of the room, through the door that led into the interior of Hughenden, came Bascot, Dizzy's faithful butler. He carried a pair of slippers and a comfortable morning coat.

"Bascot," said Disraeli, "did you ever spend a whole day in old boots and a coat so familiar that it has become a friend?"

The butler completed the operation of transforming Dizzy's appearance before he answered. "Not of late years, sir. Ever since I have been old enough to know, sir, I have made it my business to be decently dressed sir. It doesn't pay, sir to let your comfort interfere with your appearance, sir."

Disraeli smiled discreetly.

"Did it ever occur to you, Bascot, that very frequently appearance interfere seriously with your comfort?"

"I have sir. But I know my place."

There was a broad grin on Dizzy's face. "So do I, Bascot. So do I when I am reminded of it. And I am glad to have you here to remind me."

PIMPLES ON FACE

DIDN'T LIKE TO GO OUT

Those nasty little pimples that break out on the face and other parts of the body are simply indications that the blood is out of order and requires purifying.

There is only one way to get rid of this obnoxious skin trouble, and that is by giving the blood a thorough cleansing which can best be done by that old reliable blood medicine, and when the blood is purified the pimples will vanish and you will have a clear, healthy complexion.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Miss Mary E. Flanigan, R. R. No. 3, Stella, Ont., writes: "I have suffered for about two years with pimples and blotches breaking out on my face. The doctor said it was caused by bad blood. My face was so bad I didn't like to go out among a crowd of people. One day I was talking to a friend, and she advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and try it. I took three bottles, and there was not a blotch or pimple of any kind left. Some of my friends asked me what I had used and I said, "Burdock Blood Bitters chased them."

LOANS TO FARMERS.

SYDNEY, N.S., May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Since Saturday, H. D. Cameron, county treasurer, has signed cheques for $9,000 in seed loans to farmers. The county council authorized the expenditure of $15,000 for this purpose and so far about 300 farmers from all parts of the county have taken advantage of the offer.

Operated On For Stone in Kidney

MRS. BROWN USED DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

New Brunswick Lady tells what Relief Sufferers from Chronic Kidney Disease can find in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Anagance, N.B., May 26.—(Special.)— That even chronic sufferers from kidney trouble can find relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills is shown by the experience of Mrs. Harry L. Brown, well known and highly respected here.

"I have had kidney trouble all my life", Mrs. Brown states, "and two years ago this coming June I had to be operated on for stone in the bladder and one in the kidney.

"After that I took a number of boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I believe if I had taken these pills ten years ago I would never have had this trouble.

"They have helped me wonderfully I never have backache now. I hope others will try them."

If you trouble comes from the kidneys asks your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Why 99 per cent Of People Are Constipated

Causes More Sickness In Spring Than Any Other Time Of Year.

You no doubt have taken all sorts of medicine with always the same results, only a temporary relief. The reason you do not get any results is because none of the medicines you have taken acts upon the Liver. There is only one medicine known that acts upon the Liver, and that is Tanated Calomel. Doctors recommend that you take one of these tablets before meals or two at bedtime. This medicine acts upon the Liver, causing it to excrete ile into the intestines, giving a natural, easy movement of the bowels. A few hours after taking you will get almost instant relief from Headaches, Indigestion, Rheumatism, Constipation, Impure Blood, Kidney Pains, etc.

Tanated Calomel is harmless and easy to take. No salts or seidlitz are necessary after taking. It will be worth millions to people who have been sickly for years. It is also the best medicine for spring, when so many people are troubled with that tired, heavy, listless feeling. Get a few of these tablets from your druggist, F. C. Webber, Charlotte street, and you will be surprised how much better you will feel.

S. A. TEMPLE NOTES.

The services over the week-end at the S. A. Temple on Simcoe street will be conducted by Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. Morehen, of Toronto. Colonel Morehen is the Young People's Secretary for Eastern Canada and has charge of all matters pertaining to Salvation Army work among young men and women. He is well known in Peterborough, having had charge of the Eastern Ontario Division a few years ago, and his old friends will be glad to welcome him back to Peterborough and also to listen once again to his interesting talks. Special music will be rendered by the band and songsters, and on Monday night there will be a special musical festival presided over by Colonel and Mrs. Morehen.

At the Brownton Temple there will be the usual Directory in the morning, Sunday school at 2.15 p. m. and a Salvation meeting at 7 tomorrow evening.

To any of these services at either temple the public is cordially invited. Come and bring a friend. Visitors and strangers will be made welcome.

Thief-proof transmission lock reducing insurance rates 15 to 20% for the Light-Six owner

THE owner of a Light-Six never needs to apologize for his car. It rivals the higher priced cars in all the essentials that cause permanent satisfaction.

The Light-Six L-head 40-horsepower motor with its machined crankshaft and connecting rods is remarkable for its smoothness, quietness of operation and freedom from vibration at all speeds.

It is a good looking, responsive car which is easy to drive and remarkably comfortable. Its deep, soft, genuine leather cushions and semi-elliptic springs, front and rear, assure riding ease. Its cowl ventilator and parking lights add to its serviceability and fine appearance.

Insurance rates are reduced 15 to 20 per cent by the thief-proof transmission lock.

Vast resources, elimination of parts makers' profits and large volume, make possible the production of this unusual car at so reasonable a price—$1495, f. o. b. Walkerville, Ontario.

And with that you get the benefit of Studebaker's seventy years' experience building quality vehicles.

GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL DAY IN PROTESTANT CHURCHES

A Dominion-Wide Effort Under the Auspices of the Religious Education Council of Canada to Foster Interest in Sunday Schools.

Tomorrow, May 28th, is "Go to Sunday School Sunday," to be observed probably by several thousand churches in the Dominion. This Dominion-wide Sunday school effort is being made under the auspices of the Religious Education Council of Canada, which is composed of representatives from Denominational Boards of Religious Education, Provincial Religious Education Councils, the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A.

In announcing the "Go to Sunday School Day," the Council points to the great value of religious education in the character-building of the youth of the Dominion, as well as its vital relation to the moral, social and industrial life of the community. In connection with the event, a special feature program for use in Sunday schools on May 28th has been prepared, 300,000 copies of which have been sent to Sunday school superintendents in the Province of Ontario alone. This is in the form of a four-page illustrated leaflet.

Miss Taggart of Toronto, Girls' Work Secretary for the Ontario Religious Education Council, wrote to the local Girls' Work Board in connection with the C.G.I.T. program, recently, asking the support of the Peterborough board for the event, which request met with a hearty response. Miss Taggart outlined the dual object in view as endeavoring to have every member of every Sunday school at Sunday school on that day, with every member of the family enrolled in some one of the different departments of the Sunday school, and to provide a liberal offering for the furtherance of the work of the Religious Eucation Council.

STORY OF MESSAGE OF THE BLUEBIRD.

Opens in Switzerland With Pretty Love Scene.

The story of Mr. Asa Huycke's "Message of the Bluebird," is a pretty one. Opening in Switzerland, with a love scene between Marcel and Marion, there is an effective chorus, with recitative, entitled, "Comrades on This Fair Day," and everything seems to be going along beautifully, when Cleo, the coquette, steps in, and proceeds to enchant the ambitious Marcel.

Mrs. A. A. Perrin, as Marion, the little sweetheart, who later turns the tables on the flirtatious Cleo, is the charming heroine of the opera, with the most prominent feminine role, and does some exceptionally clever, dramatic work in her scenes with Marcel, her wavering lover. Her clear, pretty voice is heard to splendid advantage in the different lovely numbers with her sweetheart.

A chorus by the gallant sailors, led by Mr. Morgan Cottingham, their captain, is rollicking, "She's a Rip of a Ship," and the "America" chorus, portraying the feelings of the arrivals at the Port of New York, is particularly pleasing.

Comedy runs through the entire production, along with the romantic element; a group of saucy maidens have a cunning number with "Dad," in "If I Were a Peppery Old Thing Like You," and there is a fashion show that reproduces styles through the generations, from the languid Cleopatra to the spicy charm of the 1922 maiden. From first to last, the whole thing if "Peterboro" made, lyrics, music and plot, all the work of a local composer, Mr. Asa Huycke.

REPORTS ON WORK EMPIRE DAUGHTERS.

Interesting Subjects at the Annual Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the 57th Regimental Chapter of the I.O.D.E. was held on Thursday afternoon of this week, the feature of which was the report read by Mrs. Joseph Mills, the regent, on her attendance as delegate from the Chapter at the annual meeting of the Provincial Assembly, recently held in Hamilton. Many interesting subjects were considered at the annual meeting, including questions affecting public health and child welfare. A strong resolution was passed at this meeting in favor of a better class of immigration to Canada, British-born immigrants being preferred, one member reporting the situation in some cities, as exemplified in one ward in Toronto, where no less than 34 different dialects are spoken.

Delegates from London reported the work of their Chapter there in the erection of the new Children's Hospital, as a War Memorial, at a cost of approximately $382,000, which is all paid with the exception of about $25,000.

Mrs. Mills had the honor to second the resolution forwarded to the Government at this meeting, in favor of the continuation of the importation and manufacture of oleomargarine in Canada, legislation to prohibit same having been defeated lately by a close vote in the House, after numerous resolutions received from women all over Canada in favor of its continuation.

At the meeting of the 57th Regimental Chapter on this occasion, it was decided to make a donation towards the upkeep of flower-beds at the Shelter during the summer months, as requested by the Peterboro Horticultural Society

IS THE DELIVERY BOY TO BLAME?

A Question For Women to Think Over.

It is a question whether women who exclaim over the cruelty of the delivery boy of the express-wagon driver, when he holds the whip over the horses, and makes them go flying helter-skelter up and down hill, ever stop to think of the lady at the end of the telephone who causes all this apparent haste. If one makes inquiries from grocers and butchers, one finds out the reason for most of it. It is the woman who orders late, or who forgets something until the last minute, and then must have it right away. As one man says who purveys a staple article of food to the housewives of the city; "It's a wonder to me why women, especially with telephones in the house, can't do their planing ahead. They must know ahead of time what they need or want to haev for meals, and yet they leave things to the last minute and the same remarks would apply to any grocer.

Then, also, in these days, there is the universal abhorrence to carrying parcels, however small, one of the luxurious signs of the times. If a driver has hundreds of things, large and small to deliver in the course of a day's route how can he help but keep the whip over the back of the dumb brute whose four legs will get things quickly to their impatient buyers. 'Cheresz la femme" or, as the irreverent Yankee puts it, "look for the skirt," applies to many things.

INTEREST GROWING IN HORTICULTURE.

Local Society Has Membership of 490.

The Peterboro Horticultural Society is making good progress. Up to date, 490 members' names appear on its rolls, a great number of whom are women. An activity of the Society that is worthy of commendations is the enlisting of the help of various local organizations in 'flower' needs for the city. Different churches in the city have been approached and have promised to put in flower beds in their church grounds; the 57th Regimental Chapter of the I.O.D.E. is establishing a flower bed at the Children's Aid Shelter, and the Rotarian and Kiwanis Clubs have promised to supply flowers for the public wards of both city hospitals during the months of May, June and July.

Household Suggestions

Floor Length.

In Paris the evening gowns are floor length. Gold or silver cloth is quite apt to be the foundation material. Black, of course, continues in popularity.

Bead Girdles.

Bead girdles are very fashionable now. They come in crystal or pearl beads for light frocks, and in delightfully colored wooden beads for daytime frocks.

Gold and Enamel.

The small clock of gold and enamel, so small that it is never obstrusive, and so beautiful that it is an addition to the most elaborate boudoir, is a gift for the bride.

Beauty's Aid.

A gift any bride will appreciate is one of the new fitted leather cases, completely equipped with all the cosmetics she will need on her honeymoon trip.

Millinery.

Wreaths of highly varnished leaves trim many of the new hats of coarse straw.

For a Change.

Though the low waistline is decidedly the most popular mode, a few basques and short-waisted frocks are now making their appearance.

Draperies.

Draperies that float from the front of the frock rather than from the sides are a novelty, but it is doubtful if they will become popular.

To Have the Sweet

"To enjoy the excitement of pleasure, but to be free from its vices and ill-effects—to have the sweet, and leave the bitter untasted—that has been my study. The preachers tell us that this is impossible. It seems to me that hitherto I have succeeded fairly well. I will not say that I have never scorched a finger—but I carry no ugly wounds.

"For what remains to me of life I trust for my happiness still chiefly to my work—hoping that when the power of work is over with me, God may be pleased to take me from a world in which, according to my view, there can be no joy; secondly, to the love of those who love me; and then to my books. That I can read and be happy while I am reading, is a great blessing. Could I remember, as some men do, what I read, I should have been able to call myself an educated man."
—Anthony Trollope, His Autobiography.

RECIPES

DINNER salads of sliced tomato on lettuce with French dressing is always acceptable no matter what the meat course may be.

And luncheon salads of stuffed tomatoes are legion. Never serve tomatoes without peeling them. The skin is really indigestible besides being most unpleasant to try to eat. For stuffed tomatoes pare and remove a thin slice from the stem end. Take out the seeds and some of the pulp. Sprinkle with salt inside, invert and let stand half an hour. This removes most of the juice and leaves the tomatoe shell firm. Chill thoroughly before serving. The pulp can be used in a meat sauce or to moisten a bread dressing for meat.

Tomatoes Stuffed with Pineapple

Prepare tomatoes for stuffing. Fill with shredded pineapple, chopped nuts and neufchatel cheese. To four tablespoons pineapple use one tablespoon cheese and two tablespoons nuts. Mask the whole with mayonnaise and serve on a bed of lettuce.

Tomatoes Stuffed with Cucumbers

Prepare tomatoes for stuffing. Fil with cucumbers cut in tiny cubes, one-half teaspoon minced onion to enough cucumber to fill four medium sized tomatoes and mayonnaise. Mask the whole with mayonnaise and serve on a bed of lettuce.

Surprise Tomato Salad

Prepare four tomatoes for stuffing. Put seeds and pulp in a strainer to drain. Save juice. Mix four tablespoons diced cucumbers, three tablespoons cooked asparagus heads, two tablespoons minced celery, one-half teaspoon minced onion, four tablespoons tomato juice, salt an pepper. Add three tablespoons minced lean veal and three tablespoons minced lean pork. Cold roast meats are best Make moist with mayonnaise and fill tomatoes with mixture. Pile any stuffing above the top of tomatoes to build up the salad.

Stuffed Tomato Salad

Prepare tomatoes for stuffing. Fill with a mixture of cream cheese, nuts and minced green pepper. Mask with mayonnaise and serve on a bed of lettuce.

Tomatoes Stuffed with Ham and Spinach

Prepare tomatoes for stuffing. Fill with a mixture of chopped cooked spinach and finely chopped cooked ham Use half as much ham as spinach and moisten with lemon juice or vinegar Mask the whole with mayonnaise and serve on a bed of lettuce.

Mayonnaise Salad Dressing

One teaspoon powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, scant ½ teaspoon mustard. ¼ teaspoon onion juice, few grains pepper, 1 egg yolk, ¾ cup oil, lemon juice or vinegar.

Put dry ingredients in a bowl and mix smooth. Have all ingredients and utensils thoroughly chilled. Add yolks of egg to dry ingredients and mix smooth. Beat in about one-half teaspoon vinegar. Add oil drop by drop, beating constantly. As the dressing thickens add a little lemon juice or vinegar.

After half the oil is used it may be added more rapidly than at first. But if the oil is put in too fast the dressing will curdle.

Nature Study

It will be of interest to many devotees of Nature Study to learn that at the recent meeting of the Ontario Library Association a very able paper on subject was read by Mr. F. J. A. Morris of the Collegiate Institute staff of this city.

In it he presented a very complete scheme of study for the beginner in Natural Science to follow The paper was so highly commended by those who were privileged to hear it that Mr. Morris has been requested to have it published in the pages of the Ontario Library Review. As the Review is only accessible to a limited number of readers, some typewritten copies of the scheme have been made and the Librarian will be very glad to give a copy to anyone desirous of obtaining it.

The idea is that the lover of Nature and Science is an ever-growing interest that has its first beginning (on the literary side) in Fables and Fairy tales, Stories of Adventure (especially in foreign countries) and animal stories; from this juvenile literature one passes to books on the romance of Science, books of Hunting, Travel and exploration, or books of Nature study—Flora and Fauna—and so, with the mind's passion to unify, we finally reach a scientific survey of the Universe, the Heavens (Astronomy) the earth (Geology), Life (Zoology and Biology) and Man (Anthropology), including theories and speculations about Matter and Motion, the evolution of Bodily Forms, Feeling and Sense, Thought, Imagination and Spirit.

There are many occasions when people are desirous of taking up a definite course of study and are handicapped at outset by the lack of a well-ordered scheme to follow.

With regard to the subject of Nature Study at least, readers will know they can be guided through a course, which they wil find satisfactory in every respect, and one which will be rendered doubly valuable by the addition of a copious bibliography.

Now Needs But One More to Tie Williams. Baltimore Meets Defeat at Hands of Jersey City.

NATIONAL.

St. Louis 6, Pittsburgh 2.

ST. LOUIS, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Doak, of the Cardinals, won his seventh victory of the season yesterday from Pittsburgh, by 6 to 2, breaking a losing streak of the locals. Hornsby in the fifth inning, knocked one of Cooper's slow ones over the left field fence, marking his eleventh circuit drive. He needs one more to tie Kenneth Williams of the St. Louis Americans. Score:

Pittsburgh	010 010 000	2	6 0
St. Louis	300 120 00x	6	11 0

Cooper, Zinn and Gooch; Doak and Clemons.

Chicago 5, Cincinnati 2.

CINCINNATI, May 27.— (Canadian Press.)— The Reds and Cubs broke even in the local double-header yesterday. Chicago won the first game easily, Cheeves outpitching Rixey by a wide margin. In the second game, Keck, a recruit from the Western Asscciation, held the visitors to four hits and beat them 2 to 1. Maisel was hit in the head by a thrown ball and forced to retire from the first game, but was not seriously injured. Scores:

Jersey City 13, Baltimore 2.

BALTIMORE, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Heavy hitting by the Jersey City Club featured the game with Baltimore yesterday afternoon, the Skeeters winning, 13 to 2, with Hanson for the victors itpching invincible ball. Lucey made two home runs and Jacobs a similar number. Maisel was the lone Oriole to hit for the circuit. Score:

Jersey City	414 100 300	13	12 1
Baltimore	001 000 010	2	5 3

Hanson and Freitag; Groves, Thomas and Owens, Styles.

Reading 5, Newark 2.

READING, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Reading took the last game of the series with Newark here yesterday by the score of 5 to 2. Some sensational catches by Gilhooley in centre field helped to cut down a number of runs which the losers threatened to score. Score:

Newark	200 000 000	2	8 1
Reading	000 020 21x	5	7 1

Baldwin and Walker; Karpp and Johnson.

Rochester 6, Buffalo 4.

BUFFALO, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)— Rochester closed the Buffalo series with a 6 to 4 victory over the Bisons. Reddy was driven from the box in the sixth, while Tomlin, who succeeded him, was walloped in the ninth, Bob. Fothgerill hitting a homer with one. Buffalo made a ninth inning rally against Wisner and put over two runs. Score:

Rochester	000 003 003	6	15 3
Buffalo	100 010 002	4	11 1

Wisner and Lake; Reddy, Tomlin and Bengough.

AMERICAN.

Chicago 2, St. Louis 1.

CHICAGO, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Chicago defeated St. Louis 2 to 1 in a pitcher's duel between Schupp and Bayne. Schupp, although wild, pitched well in the pinches, striking out the hard-hitting Williams twice. Schupp drove in the winning run with a single in the seventh. Score:

St. Louis	000 001 000	1	6 0
Chicago	100 000 10x	2	8 1

Bayne and Severeid; Schupp and Schalk.

Cleveland 8, Detroit 3.

DETROIT, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Cleveland bunched hits off Olsen and Stoner yesterday and defeated Detroit, 8 to 3. Stephenson, who succeeded Gardner at third, for the Indians, drove a home run over the left field fence with two on bases. Score:

Cleveland	312 020 000	8	10 0
Detroit	000 010 011	3	12 3

Morton and O'Neil; Stoner, Olsen, Cole and Bassler, Woodall.

Boston 7, Philadelphia 6.

BOSTON, May 27.— (Canadian Press.)—Foster's triple to right centre off Bryan Harris' first pitched ball in the tenth inning, followed by Ruel's single over shortstop on the next pitch, gave Boston a 7 to 6 victory over Philadelphia yesterday. The hitting of Pratt and Menosky was timely. Walker tied the score in the seventh by knocking a homer over the clock in left centre. Score:

Philadelphia	005 000 100	6	8 1
Boston	210 003 000	1—7	13 2

WHERE LID THESE 2 GET CERTIFICATES?

Port Hope Wants to Know Where Evans and Twigg Obtaintd Credentials.

Although we have no details of how Evans and Twigg of Oshawa came in possession of Central League certificates, still we feel safe in stating that it was a high handed piece of business eith.r on the part of the Oshawa team or certain officials of the League. One thing certain, these certificates could not be issued without the knowledge of either the President or Secretary, and no doubt an explanation from these officials will be submitted to the Executive officers. At the meeting of the Executive Committee held here two weeks ago, Secretary Nott reported that Evans could not qualify under the residence rule and that he positively refused to issue him a certificate. Mr. Nott also intimated that another Oshawa player who had applied for a certificate was in exactly the same positon. The matter was discussed at some length by the executive and the action of Mr. Nott fully endorsed. Without any further notice to the Executive the certificates have been passed. The question naturally arises, who is running the affairs of the league, the Oshawa Club or the Executive Committee. If the Executive oficers are to be mere figure heads in the transaction of the league's business, then the sooner they resign the better. No matter what representations were made by the Oshawa Club regarding these two players, neither the President nor the Secretary should have accepted the responsibility of issuing the certificates. The executive had passed on the question, and if any change were to be made it was plainly the duty of the executive to deal with it. — Port Hope Guide.

HAVELOCK WON FROM NORWOOD

Score Was 8 to 3 With Norwood Putting Up Good Battle.

HAVELOCK, May 27.—An interesting game of baseball was played here yesterday with Norwood and Havelock, as the contending teams, representing the inter-county series. Havelock annexed the long end of an 8 to 3 score in spite of the effective work of the Norwood battery. The teams lined up as follows:

Havelock—G. Hooper, p.; J. McGill, c.; L. Hagerman, 1b.; B. Quinn, 2b.; B. Tolle, 3b.; B. Copp, s.s.; B. Brinkman, r.f.; G. Wright, l.f.; A. Armstrong, c.f.

Norwood—Livingston, p.; K. ters, c.; Robinson, 1b.; Ruttan, 2b.; Greenbank, 3b.; Munroe, s.s.; Andrews, r.f.; St. Clair, l.f.; Humphreys, c.f.

ROSENEATH WINS FROM BRIGHTON.

Opening Game Northumberland Baseball League.

ROSENEATH, May 27.— On Wednesday, May 24th the Northumberland baseball league games started with Brighton playing at Roseneath.

The game was called for 3 o'clock but the Brighton team did not arrive till about 3.30 p.m.

The visitors were allowed about half an hour to practice on the strange grounds, so it was not until 4 o'clock that the game started.

Mr. G. A. Dawe, the past president pitched the first ball with Mr. Roley Thackeray as catcher. He had an excellent curve which split the plate in the very centre.

Clifford Leach, star pitcher for Roseneath, then took the mound. In the first inning he was hit frequently, and the visitors scored three runs.

Donald Shannon the star slab artist for Brighton, pitched good for three innings, and not a single Roseneath player reached first base. During this time he did not fan a man, but the excellent fielding of the visitors saved the day.

In the fourth inning the home team made a break and three runs were scored. In the next inning Brighton made their last counter. During the next two innings the Brighton team went to pieces and at the end of the sixth the Brighton boys judged the Roseneath team invincible, and so decided not to finish the game. They used four different pitchers but they were all the same to Roseneath's heavy hitters. Three catchers were also called on.

The score at the end of the inning stood 17 to 4 in favour of the home team.

FAIRVIEW WINS

The Fairview team defeated the Lakefield River Road line up 13 to 0 in the first game of the season last Wednesday. The game was played on T. Millburn's farm and although both teams showed a lack of practice they put up a very good exhibition. Gill officiated on the mound for the River Road and Brown for the Fairviews.

GIRLS' GAMES.

Two games are scheduled for Monday in the Girls' Playground Ball League. They are: King Edwards vs. Jolly Juniors at 5.30 and Bonner-Worth vs. C.G.E. at 6.30.

STRATHCONAS DEFEAT CRESCENTS BY 4-1 IN FAST LACROSSE GAME

North Ward Team Trotted Out Strong Defence and Were Also Good in the Field — Crescents Had Chances But Threw Them Away.

The north-end Strathcona team won the opening game in the City Lacrosse League last night, defeating the south-ward Crescents by 4 goals to 1, at King Edward Park. Several hundred spectators saw a peppery game, in which good and bad lacrosse was dished up in a manner that might be expected after its long eclipse in Peterborough. It was close enough, Strathconas getting two in the first, one in the second and another in the third period, while they were holding the Crescents a blank. The south-end boys were going strong in the second half and got their only goal in the last period and actually rolled in another, but it was scored after the whistle had blown for a penalty.

Strathconas trotted out a stone-wall defense with Johnny Ward and Fred. Goodfellow of last year's Intermediates and "Bill" Harcourt, who as a new resident of the north ward was enlisted by the Strathconas a few days after he arrived here. Alf. Johnston and Elmer Brown were the main works of the home, and Jack Porteous and Curtis did very well considering their lack of experience. Hay and Miller also gave a good account of themselves, and the team as a whole looked good all the way. They miss Lionel Brown, who started the season with them, but has been cautioned to go easy in athletics for a while.

Crescents presented a line-up that was probably less experienced than the boys from the north. Their defense was very weak in the first half, but improved toward the end. Most of the field work fell to Creighton, Ranger, Killoran and Donovan, with O'Toole helping out. Doug. Miller on the defense spent most of the evening watching Alf. Johnston, and he had his hands full. Ranger worked like a Trojan, but his efforts were dissipated by a too ready use of the stick. Killoran appeared the most effective for his team, and Donovan was also good. Lou Lebarr had the more stops to his credit, but that was partly due to the fact the Strathconas usually got their shots on the net, while the Crescent marksmen would probably have failed to run up a string if they had been aiming at the football goal behind the nets.

Both teams have much to learn in the snappy passing game. Little Margaret Goodfellow, daughter of Fred. Goodfellow, donor of the City League trohpy, placed the ball for the face-off.

The teams faced off as follows:

Crescents—Goal, Lou Lebarr, Jr.; points, D. Miller and A. Briou; defense, Jack McDonagh, Jr., and M. Neary, Jr.; centre, Creighton; home, O'Toole and Ranger; outside, Killoran; inside, Gene Donovan. Substitutes—Joe Jones and Fred. Jones.

Strathconas—Goal, Stan. Stacey; points, Harcourt and Goodfellow; defense, Warde and Hay; centre, A. Miller; home, Alf. Johnston and Jack Porteous; outside, Elmer Brown; inside, F. Curtis.

Referee—Walter Smaill. Judge of play—Dr. Sutton.

Alf. Johnston scored both the Strathcona goals in the first period. He was uncovered each time and had lots of room to work, making it all the harder for Lebarr. The north-end crowd had all the best of the opening, but Crescents started the second warmly. Donovan had a couple of chances, but shot wild. Curtis scored the only goal during this quarter. Johnny Warde made it four on a penalty throw from Elmer Brown. Killoran bounced a long shot into the Strathcona locker and duplicated it a few minutes later, but this goal was disallowed. It was scored after the whistle had blown to banish Ranger.

Although clearly outplayed during the first period, and, in fact, for most of the first half, Crescents came back in the second, and on their share of the play were entitled to more than one goal. But they were ineffective around the nets. The home sections of both teams apparently have as yet gained but little knowledge of their positions and how to play them. Both of them bunched in front of the nets, and occasionally got in the way of their own shots. That is one flagrant fault that must be corrected if the City League games are to be made as interesting as they might be. If some of the boys handled their sticks as well as they wielded them in their eagerness they would have been stars. Another glaring fault was the tendency to play the man and not the ball, or rather the game. That, too, must be stamped out, or it will become a habit that will mar not only local schedule, but other fixtures as well. And as for sporting spirit, it might be remarked that at the close of the game Strathconas gave three cheers for the Crescents, but there was no concerted response from the losers. Little felicities of that kind when observed in the traditional manner leave a pleasant taste.

The next match at the Oval, Monday, at 6.15 p.m., will introduce Riversides and Athletics.

First Perfect Pitcher

Speaking of perfect pitching, George Washington Bradley was the first man who ever did such a thing in the whole history of major baseball.

"BRAD"

"Brad" was with St. Louis then and it was Hartford he was opposed to.

His great feat came as a climax to a series of four straight shutouts on four straight days. It occurred on July 15, 1876, and long ago as it was, it gave a name to "Brad" that can never die in the memory of baseball fandom.

Today Bradley, aged 67, is a member of the Philadelphia police department.

RUTH IN TROUBLE.

Babe is again in trouble. His great popularity seems to have gone to his head and apparently the penalty recently imposed by Judge Landis did not have the desired effect. The idol of fandom for the last two years. Ruth has still to learn that popularity carries more duties than privileges. If he continues to disregard the rules that govern not only baseball but the actions of a gentlemen he will find himself before long an outcast from the ranks of baseball. His action in throwing dust in the face of Umpire Hildebrand last Thursday was inexcusable and when he followed this up by becoming incensed at the booing of the fans and climbing into the stands in an effort to stop them his actions were injudicious to say the least.

PRINCE OF WALES AND THE C.G.E. ARE WINNERS.

In the Girls' Playground League last evening the Prince of Wales team trimmed the Queen Alexandria aggregation 21 to 10. The Jolly Juniors have withdrawn from the league and the Queen Alexandria team will take their place on the schedule from now on.

In the second game last night the C.G.E. team was victorious over the Quaker Oats girls 22 to 9. Both games were played on the Armoury grounds.

BRING YOUR OWN UMP

In the future teams in the girls' Playground Ball League will be requested to bring their own officials The home team to supply the chief umpire and the visitors the umpire for the bases. This will obviate the difficulty which has been experienced heretofore in getting an umpire.

BABE RUTH GETS HEAVY SENTENCE

Loses Captaincy of His Team and is Fined $200 By President Johnson.

CHICAGO, May 27 (Canadian Press). — Babe Ruth was fined $200.00, and removed from the captaincy of the New York Club by Ben Johnson, president of the American League, yesterday afternoon.

President Johnson gave his ruling after considering the reports of the umpires officiating in Thursday's game at New York between New York and Washington, when Ruth disputed a decision of Umpire Hildebrand and later climbed into the stand after a fan had made a remark to which he took exception.

President Johnson's finding automatically removes the ruling that Ruth was ineligible to play, which was promulgated by the American League head pending an investigation.

"The Ruth incident in New York on Thursday is much to be regretted," President Johnson's ruling said. "The player's conduct was highly reprehensible, but when all the facts are weighed, there is a measure of consideration for him. Ruth had just finished a sentence of unprecedented severity, running through a period of 39 days of suspension, which disqualified him from practice with his team prior to the commencement of the game. Without this necessary work, the player lost his batting eye, and returned to the game in a great degree unequipped to match the skill of the pitchers who have about reached the high-water mark of proficiency.

"As a natural sequence, he failed uterly in his prowess as a batter, much to the disappointment of an exacting and none too indulgent public. The hero of a year ago was ridden by the fans, and at times was sharply abused.

"Ruth plainly did not possess the mental strength and stability to brave this sudden reversal of public adoration. It served to warp his playing ability, and for days he has been nervous and irritable.

"In his nine years connection with the American League, his conduct on the field has been faultless, with a single exception. He did toss dirt on to the clothing of the umpire, but not into his face. An incident of that sort happens many times in a season, when a player slides to his base and is keenly disappointed with the decision. His suspension is terminated.

"We cannot condone his entry into the grand stand to combat an insulting spectator. The club owners of the American League are pledged to protect the player from such abuse, and in the main it is my belief they discharged their duty in that particular.

"For this offence Ruth is fined $200.00, and removed from the captaincy of the club. It is my judgment his present mental temperament disqualifies him for the position. He can better convert his mind to an improvement of his fielding and batting requirements."

"THE QUEEN OF SHEBA."

One of the most discussed moving pictures of the day will be seen at Capitol Theatre starting Monday. It is a gorgeous, beautiful story of ancient civilization which strikes a note at once spectacular and attractive, to students, to the general public and critics. Discussion is a very good thing for people mentally and spiritually—it sharpens peoples intellects, opens the way for broadening the mind and receiving new impressions—there is so much to be learned from 'The Queen of Sheba' that no one in Peterboro can afford to miss it. The Bibical version of the visit of the famous and beautiful ruler of a far country to King Solomon, is handled skillfully and with due regard to the properties; but no better actress than Miss Blythe could be found to portray the woman who was intellectually as well as materialy a force to reckon with, even when women were not fighting for their privileges. In a recent interview in Toronto, where the beautiful star appeared in person, she stated that 'Sheba" was her best part—she never expects to do anything better—and shortly after she the city's well known artists to sit arrived she was requested by one of for a portrait, so much had he admired her both from a physical standpoint and from the fact that she possessed such a rare and perfect understanding of the ancient Queen. If modern life [illegible] comfortable and easy, a glance at the luxurious existence at King Solomon's court, would quickly disillusion them the comfort of his life and that of his immediate followers was something which one could scarcely imagine. Even so-called modern conveniences were there—[illegible] were only available for the few; one must remember that hordes of people used to just exist—they never drew a free breath from morning till night, and more than fifty percent of the ancients were actually slaves—beauty baths in milk, massages in rare oils and perfumes were easily accessible to "The Queen of Sheba" but any sort of bath, was absolutely impossible for thousands of her subjects. During the showing of the picture in Peterboro, it will be necessary to make special arrangements to make sure of seats —the presentation is one which causes unusual and extraordinary interest everywhere.

AT THE ROYAL.

Keep your eye on Monday's programme for it is the class of picture entertainment only shown in the larger cities at high admission prices. It is a First National selection of special productions of exceeding interest. Richard Barthelmess stars as David Kinemon in "Tol'able David," a romance staged and filmed in the Blue Ridged Mountains of Virginia. David is the baby of the Kinemon family, sterling and sturdy mountaineers. Into the quiet community come the three Hatburns, fugitives from justice, and stupid, in brutality. They start by killing David's pet dog, and in the mountains a man's dog is dear to him as a relative. Then they attack and make a cripple for life of David's brother. The interlopers eject the Kinemon family from their farm. David, then a stripling of twenty, undertakes and succeeds in avenging his family on the outlaws and, incidentally, captures the belle of the mountains. Constance Talmadge, noted as most successful comedienne in the movies, appears in the First National feature called "Good References." This is a charming six reel comedy, through which course many compelling scenes of romance and pathos. It is the story of a girl in New York who gets a position as private secretary in a rich family through forged references belonging to another girl. When she used the references she did not know they were forged, but she did know that the heir of the family she worked for bought an engagement ring. There is a Mack Sennett two-reel comedy with Bill Bevan as chief fun maker and, take it from us, he does make fun and lots of it!!! This comedy is called "The Duck Hunter."

AT THE REGENT.

CHARMING DRAMA IS NEW HART PICTURE, "THE WHISTLE"

Touches of great charm and whimsical character relieve the serious nature of "The Whistle," William S. Hart's latest production for Paramount, which will be the feature at the Regent Theatre for days beginning Monday next.

For example, a factory whistle, shown in a close-up, symbolizes the story and sets the title.

Bill Hart, as Robert Evans, factory foreman, is awakened by his small son in the gray hours of morning, by being pummeled and pounded with a pillow wielded by the youngster

A beautiful scene of a great dam, the interior of a big factory, lovely grounds of a palatial home, a thrilling fight between Mr. Hart and a burly opponent; a plunge of a limousine through the open drawbridge into a river—these incidents keep the spectators keyed up to a point of intensity.

After having a job thrown at him, the hero's task in Will Rogers' latest Goldwyn picture, "An Unwilling Hero," is to avoid work. In this story by the famous short story writer, O. Henry, Will Rogers is a delightful tramp who is anything but heroic. But chance makes a hero of him. Nevertheless, he surmounts the honor in his own way, to the delight of all who are fortunate enough to see him in this latest hobo characterization.

Those who remember Mr. Rogers' characterizations in "Jubilo," "Honest Hutch," and "Jes' Call me Jim," know that this actor's impersonations are far removed from acting. They are real: and only because Will Rogers knows the types he portrays. His early days spent on Western ranches gave him sufficient opportunity to become acquainted with many a knight of the road. And this is the knowledge that he vivifies in his various soft-collar roles.

An excellent cast, including the charming Molly Malone, will be seen in Mr. Roger's support when "An Unwilling Hero" comes to the Regent Theatre, for three days, beginning Monday.

FOR GOLF CHAMPION.

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 27 (Canadian Press). — E. W. Holderness, of Walton Heath, and John Caven, of Cochran Castle, Scotland, will play to-day over the St. Nicholas Links here to determine who is to be the British amateur golf champion for the coming year.

Holderness put William Hunter, of Troon, the present champion, out of the running in the semi-final, two up and one to play, while Caven eliminated Robert Scott, of Glasgow, by one up.

EUCHRE SOCIAL

The Young Ladies' Sodality of the Sacred Heart Church held a Euchre Social in the basement of the church last evening, with a good attendance. Prizes for cards were won by Miss Ada O'Keefe, (an Irish rosary) by Mr. Jerome Doris (a brass crucifix), and consolation prize by Miss Amelia Flood.

AT KNOX CHURCH

Services at Knox Church to-morrow will be conducted by the minister. The musical services will be under the direction of Mr. W. H. Smith, Doctor of Music, of Cambridge, who is in Peterboro for to-morrow. At the close of the evening service, Dr. Smith will give a short organ recital.

OFF ON A HIKE

Summer's coming, the fish are waiting,
Come along fellers the hook needs baiting;
Off to the waters and banish your sorrow,

TRINITY SERVICES.

The services at Trinity Church on Sunday will be of special interest. "Go to Sunday School and Church" will be the rule for young and old. The various classes of the Sunday School will assemble at 10.45 a.m. in the basement of the Church to march in order into their places. The speaker for the day will be Rev. W. H. Barraclough, B.A. of Lindsay, a man eveyone will want to hear. Mr. Barraclough has had a very successful career, having filled some of the leading pulpits in Eastern and Western Canada. There will be special music. Visitors welcome.

"MARCEL AND MARION."

The financial committee in charge of "The Message of the Bluebird," reports a splendid advance sale, with fine rehearsals last night. Two very beautiful numbers that will be outstanding features of this production are "The Legend of the Bluebird," and "Sweetheart, I Have Come to Tell You," sung by Mrs. A. A. Perrin and Mr. Huycke, as Marcel and Marion." Mrs. Perrin, who plays the title role opposite Mr. Huycke, has, in addition to this difficult part, done really wonderful work in the supervision of the staging and dancing. This work, requiring a great deal of natural ability to stage an offering of such magnitude, is a tremendous task. 1d-124-3502.

PETERBORO MINISTER HEARS CONAN DOYLE

Tomorrow evening at Murray Street Baptist Church, Rev. J. R. Webb will speak on the subject, "What I learned in hearing Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

Mr. Webb was present when Sir Arthur lectured last week in Toronto on the subject "The Proof of Immortality" and will give his impressions of the man who showed that night photographs taken by himself of spirits with whom he had conversed.

When asked about these pictures the pastor of Murray Street said he preferred to speak of this subject when discussing the message of the man whose name is so well known and who is so highly respected as a medical doctor and artist in literature.

At the Sunday School session on this particular day Murray Street is in line with the schools throughout Ontario in the effort to have present every person in the city who has ever been a pupil of the school. It is known as "Everybody go to Sunday School Day". There will be an open session with special music, addresses and full orchestra.

GILCHRIST STREET HOME WAS GUTTED

Fifteen Hundred Dollars Damage—Two Fires Today.

A fire, caused from an overheated coal oil stove, gutted the home of Mrs. Thompson, 50 Gilchrist Street, owned by Mrs. Minnie Gray, at 11.45 to-day.

Damage to the building was estimated at $1,000 by Chief George Gimblett, and to the contents, $500. Insurance was held on the building to the extent of $1,500, but the contents were uninsured.

Mrs. Thompon stated that the fire was caused from the stove setting fire to the window curtains. The house was of frame construction, with sawdust-packed walls, that provided a hotbed for the blaze.

The Fire Department squelched the fire after over an hour's battle with two lines of hose that Chief Gimblett ordered taken right into the heart of the blaze.

Set Fire to Roof.

While fighting one fire, the sparks started a blaze on the roof of 516 Park Street, an empty dwelling owned by J. T. O'Connell.

The reserve apparatus was called out, and another line of hose and chemicals put out the fire after damage estimated at $50.00 was done to the roof. This fire occurred at 12.36.

Another Fire.

At 1.28 a call for help to fight a country fire near the Rifle Ranges came in. The firemen were unable to communicate with the Mayor or Ald. Joseph Crowe to get permission to answer the appeal, and without delay Chief Gimblett started the apparatus for the fire, and followed in the small truck.

When they were about a mile out the Norwood Road, a man on a bicycle stopped the Department.

"There's no use of you going on, boys," he said. "The house is burned down."

The Chief ordered the face about, and the Department returned to the Hall.

The house was owned by Percy Price, and was situated about two miles from Peterborough on the Norwood Road.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 27. Canadian Press. — The week end covering of short contracts evidently accounted in a large measure for a generally higher range of prices at the opening of to-day's brief stock market session. Republic Iron was the most prominent feature on an initial gain of 2 points. Studebaker advanced 1 1-4 points and Summatra Tobacco rose 1 point. An advance in the prices of textiles imparted further strength to American Woollen. Domesti and foreign oils hardened and secondary rails, especially New Haven and Lake Erie and Western, were again in demand. Preliminary foreign exchange rates were in no way disturbed by terms imposed upon Germany by the Reparations Commission.

MONTREAL STOCK MARKETS.

MONTREAL, May 27. Canadian Press. — Trading during the first half hour this orning on the local stock exchange was very quiet and with the exception of a few fractional changes nothing worth mentioning occurred. The few leaders which did put in an appearance were steady.

Social Calendar

Mr. W. W. W. Dean manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Martintown, Glengarry County, is visiting his mother and sister here.

Mrs. T. W. Fife of Keene, and infant son, returned home yesterday after a fortnight's visit in the city.

Miss Eleanor Garden, who is attending the Toronto University, is home for the holidays.

The Womens Guild of All Saints' church opened their sale of fancy and useful articles, with tea-room yesterday afternoon, at the Sanitary Ice Supply Company's store on George street, to continue this afternoon and evening. The ladies have a large supply of pretty articles, including hand-made accesories of all sorts, embroidered linens, daintily-colored porch and house dresses, aprons, infants' and children's wear. The sale of fancy and useful articles is supervised by Mesdames Sabin, Henderson, Dillon and Haskill; home-made cooking and candy is in charge of Mesdames J. Black and Strickland, and the tea-room, arranged with bright red carnations and long pendant steamers, is managed by Mesdames Detcher and P. Fitzgerald. Mrs. Jos. Crowe, president of the Guild, acts as convenor.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, of Toronto, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Hopwood over the week end at Chemong Park.

In their final tea for the season, held in the reading room of the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian Association had a very successful and well-attended affair. The decorations, arranged by Mrs. G. H. Roper, were particularly effective. The room was garnished with cherry blossoms, white lilacs and ferns in spring-like effect, and the tea-table was charmingly arranged with pink carnations and lily of the valley, the large central basket connected with four smaller holders by dainty pink and cream ribbon streamers. Mrs. E. H. Mann and Mrs. J. J. Howden received the guests; Mrs. Thomas Brown poured tea, and Mrs. F. L. Robinson cut the ices. Assistants in the tea-room were: Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle, Mrs. G. L. Stevens, Mrs. J. J. Turner, Mrs. F. Gray, Mrs. J. Garbutt, Mrs. C. A. White and Mrs. D. A. Loomis.

EMPIRE NAVAL DEFENCE ENGAGING ATTENTION OF SOUTH AFRICAN PARTIES

LONDON, May 27.—(Canadian Press). — Reuter despatch from Capetown says, question of empire naval defence is engaging much public attention in South Africa with possibilty of issue being raised in House of Assembly on first opportunty.

Meantime Cape Argus points out that Lord Lee, First Lord of Admiralty has already hoisted S.O.S. signal and dominions must face certainty that they cannot longer rely upon maintenance of an effective seapower virtually at sole expense of British tax payers. It remarks that laying up of ships by Canada is move in wrong direction and plainly suggests that development of local navics will be far too slow to offer any prospect of solution of naval defence problem on those lines.

BLACK'S BUSY STORE.

The "busy corner store" of P. Black's is keeping up its good business record for steady business this season as they report a steady weekly trade. In order to procure special inducements for their patrons, regular trips are made to the wholesalers for bargain attractions. The firm appears to be able to bring pressure to bear on the people they buy from, so as to be able to quote "Specials" frequently. Some fortunate purchases were recently secured in Toronto at a clearing price, which have been drawing cards this week.

NORTH CITY GROCETERIA
CORNER ANTRIM AND GEORGE STS.
Opening Saturday, May 27, 1922

The last thing in an up-to-date grocery is presented to the north city residents. Nothing has been spared in making this store a sanitary, clean, and above all, a convenient place to shop. It is so simple a child can do the buying as well as an adult.

On entering the store one can see and select the goods, hand them to the cashier, who totals up the amount on an electric register and wraps up the receipt with the goods. A supervisor will inform customers about merchandise they want.

On the Opening Day a Present will be given every child or young person making purchases or assisting parents to select requirements.

FORTIFY YOURSELF

against ill-health and all the evils which follow in its train. Build up your body so that it has the strength and vitality to resist disease. If you possess a strong and healthy body you are in a position to enjoy life to the greatest possible extent. Why not try to prepare yourself for this enjoyment?

Chiropractic is Your Safeguard against disease, because Chiropractic removes the cause of troubles which would undermine your health. At first it is hard for a person to understand how disease in remote parts of the body is caused by abnormalities in the spine; but when one stops to consider that every action and function in the body is the result of messages sent from the brain through the spinal cord and nervous system, it can readily be seen that any condition of the spine which serves to produce pressure upon nerve fibres will effectivcly cut off a part of these messages, and as a consequence disease will appear in whatever parts are supplied by those impinged fibres.

HAVE THAT PRESSURE REMOVED

and health will again return. It is the work of the Chiropractor to adjust the misaligned segments of the spine so that these messages may be transmitted, without interruption, from the brain to all parts of the body and result there in normal, healthy expression.

TO GUARD AGAINST ILL-HEALTH TAKE CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENTS.

DEAD BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN THE LOCKS

Floating Upright, Remains of Elderly Person Discovered This Morning by Lockmaster.

NOT IDENTIFIED

While cleaning out the scum, weeds and driftwood that gathers between the Peterborough lock gates and the wall, at 7.30 this morning, Lockmaster W. D. Edwards made the gruesome discovery of a woman's body floating upright in the water, the white head barely protruding above the surface. Lockmaster Edwards thought at first the white object was the body of a dead white hen, for it is common to find poultry floating in the water thereabouts. He gave it a tap with the pike pole to disengage it from the scum and struck something hard. He caught the pole in the woman's clothes and discovered that it was a woman's white hair that he had noticed and a human body standing straight up in the water.

He dragged the body out of the scum farther up into clear water, and called to his son Jack, 15 years old, who was the only person around. He ordered the boy to support the body in the water by the pike-pole while he summoned the police. He told the Examiner he had difficulty in getting a call through, but after about 15 minutes got the police. Within a few minutes Sergeant John Deannard and P. C. Carey arrived in the police car and the officers removed the body from the water. They ordered it removed to the undertakers, and during the morning it was viewed by a number of persons who the detectives thought might recognize the woman.

Opinions Differ.

Before the police arrived on the scene the government dredge had come into the locks and the body was viewed by the men on the dredge. None of them recognized the woman, nor did Bridgetender John Howden, who was one of the first to view it. Various opinions were expressed as to how long the woman had been in the water. From the lockmaster's description of finding the body upright in the water, Detective William Meagher was strongly of the opinion that she had only been in a few minutes, and that life was possibly not extinct when she was first noticed. Had she been in the water for longer than a half hour, he declared, the body would have been on the botton.

Lockmaster Edwards believed the body had been in the water for several days, and the bridge-tender said nine days. There was no support for this conclusion, however, except that is supposed to take this period of time to bring the body to the surface. The general appearance of the woman tended to show that at the most death had taken place within 24 hours.

The woman was respectably dressed, fairly tall and well-built. The fact that gold-rimmed spectacles she was wearing were not dislodged, was taken as evidence that the body had not been in the water long. She wore a black skirt, white waist and black long coat. Around her neck was a black tie and in her waist was a gold brooch. She wore grey gloves.

The body was not discoloured as from long submersion. Her left forehead was cut by the jagged point of the pole where the lockmaster had first struck the body, and the blood had streaked down over the ear and cheek.

Reported Missing.

At a late hour this morning the mystery surrounding the identity of the woman whose body was found at the Locks this morning had not been cleared up. Several clues followed by detectives working on the case proved to be misleading, and until the discovery of the body has been given wide publicity the officers are not hopeful of it being identified. Coroner Dr. T. N. Greer stated that an inquest could not be held until the identity of the woman had been established.

The police state that twenty women were reported missing to-day after it became known that a woman's body was found. No women were reported missing yesterday. The reports to-day were the result of alarm in households over the whereabouts of elderly members of the family.

The remains had not been identified up to the hour of going to press.

LURED INTO AN ELOPEMENT AT THE AGE OF THIRTEEN

Child Wife Soon Found Her Romance Shattered by Her Nineteen-Year-Old Husband's Penchant For Playing the Races—Gets Divorce

DETROIT, May 29.—Lured into elopement at the age of 13 by the glamour of a three-day courtship, Mrs. Thelma Haynes, 971 Rowena street, soon found her romance shattered by her 19-year-old husband's penchant for "playing the horses," she told Judge Harry J. Dingeman. Judge Dingeman granted her a divorce.

The marriage took place Sept. 3, 1919, at Dayton, and a second ceremony was performed in Detroit a few days later at the instance of the bride's mother, Mrs. Maude Strickland, 3145 Second boulevard. They lived together until Nov. 10, 1920, Mrs. Haynes testified, but she was never happy because Harold, her husband, would not give up gambling and drinking. Her objections only brought her beatings, she said. For a time she worked as a machinist, she declared, hoping to buy the household necessaries her husband would not. The money was taken from her and squandered, according to her story. Her mother corroborated the story.

The husband is now living in Kansas City.

ACTION AFTER LIQUOR RAID

Somerville Township Resident Institutes Action for Alleged Wrongful Arrest.

LINDSAY, May 29, (Special).—Customs and Excise Officer J. J. Glass has received notice from I. E. Weldon, acting for resident of Somerville Township that action for wrongful seizure and arrest will be taken against that officer. This has to do with visit of Inland Revenue Office Buller and License Inspector Stewart, Peterboro, to Somerville, about fortnght ago when number of Utensils alleged to be used in manufacture of illicit spirits was seized and owner at property placed under arrest and afterwards liberated. Articles seized are still at Customs House here, local officer refusing to have them moved to Peterboro. Notice was merely served on Officer Glass, because he was resident officer.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—Cut in railroad wages announced overnight by United States Railroad Labor Board and firmness of foreign exchanges evidently were regarded as bullish arguments by traders judging from strength of general list at opening of todays session. Several of the junior rails made one point gains, while investments recorded large fractional advances Independent steels again were sustained by revival of merger reports. Foreign oils continued to strengthen, Mexican Petroleum gaining two points.

Broader and more active dealings marked mornings operations. Rails and oils continued to lead advance with steels and equipments next in favor. International Harvester, American Car, Pullman, Coppers, Textiles and Utilities gained one to two points with sugars and food specialties among less prominent issues gain of 5 5-8 points for National Enamelling and six points for Willis Overland preferred were conspicuous features. Call loans extending over to-morrow's, holiday opened at 4 per cent.

Speculative oerations for the advance continued to be conducted with renewed confidence. New high records for the year were established by many of the usual leaders as well as number of the minor issues which have recently become prominent in the dealings. These include Mexican Petroleum, Studebaker, Coco Cola, California Petroleum, American Lineseed and Marland Oil

STERLING EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, May 29.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling Exchange steady demand rates: Great Britain 4.44 3-4. Canadian dollar one per cent discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 29.—(Canadian Press). — Opening wheat prices which ranged from 1-4 off to 1c advance with May 1.25 to 1.25 1-4 and July 1.22 1-4 to 1.22 3-4 was followed by rise all around which carried May to 1.20 and July to 1.23 7-8. Corn and Oats strengthened with wheat. After opening unchanged to 3-8 lower, July 62 3-4 to 63 Corn market scored quite general gains.

Oats started 3-8c lower to 1-4c advance, July 38 1-8 to 38 1-4 and afterwards ascended a little all around.

MONTREAL STOCK MARKET

MONTREAL, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—Local stock exchange was dull during first half hour this morning. Few fractional changes however, were recorded. Abitibi appeared quarter stronger at 53. Brazilian was down three eights at 48 1-8 while Consolidated Smelters sagged to 23. Riordon displayed more strength and advanced half to 84. Other leaders did not appear in early trading.

TORONTO CATTLE MARKETS

TORONTO, May 29.—(Canadian Press.) — Cattle Market receipts, 2,376; trade active. Quotations heavy beef steers $8.50 to $9.00. Butchers steers, choice, $8.75. Butchers cows, medium, $5 to $6. Calves $10 to $11.50. Lambs $5 to $14. Hogs, selects $14 to $14.25.

Business as Usual On Sundays Soon?

VICTORIA, B. C., May 29.—(Canadian Press).—A concerted move against rigid enforcement of the Lord's Day Act was apparent here yesterday, when forty storekeepers kept open and hung out "Business as Usual" sign.

It is understood that the Anti-Blue Sunday League will give financial assistance to merchants who are prosecuted.

NEW TOBACCO TAX HITS CIGARETTES

Popular Brands Are All Dearer, But Cigar Prices Not Yet Changed.

The new scale of cigarette prices which has been in effect since the increased tax was announced on Thursday last were confirmed by the bulletins from the manufacturers this morning. Up to noon no schedule applying to cigars had reached the retailer, but it was expected that the day would bring some announcement.

The incidence of the tax on cigarettes has advanced the retail price of Players from 18c to 23c for a package of ten, and the price of two packages for 35c is now two for forty-five cents. The wholesale price on 500 lots was $7.10 plus a sales tax of 1 -12 per cent. and for the same quantity is now $8.68 plus the sales tax of 2 1-4 per cent. Mill now 20c and Rex one of the cheapest Imperial brands has been moved up to 18c but is the cheapest of the Imperial Virginia smokes. Murads were 25c for a package of ten and are now 35c and Moguls have been moved up to the same level. Pall Mall corks that sold for 30c are now 40c. Smokers at this rate will help materially in paying the interest on the country's debt. Those who regard smoking as some sort of a heinous sin will probably find a special pleasure in the fact that their virtue yields them a profit that might otherwise be paid the Government.

Young Ladies' Sodality Took Part in the Service Last Evening.

A very pretty ceremony took place last evening at St. Peter's Cathedral, when a large congregation assembled to witness the Crowning of the Statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary by the Young Ladies' Sodality of the church. In procession, in white dresses and veils, and bearing lighted tapers, nearly one hundred of the members bore the banner of their patroness up to the altar, and placed their large wreath of lilies of the valley and white lilac at the feet of Our Lady, singing softly as they walked. Miss Frances Carveth was standard-bearer, with four small attendants; Rosaleen Clancy, Ann Donoghue, Margaret Finn and Marion Fitzpatrick. During the progress of the procession, Miss Ernestine McManus gave a very sweet vocal solo.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, a sermon to the Sodality was delivered by Rev. Dr. O'Reilley, of the staff of St. Augustine's Seminary, in Toronto. In an eloquent and inspiring discourse, the reverend speaker enlarged on the two cardinal virtues of members of this society, those of modesty and humility, the latter characterized by Father O'Reilley as the basis of all true religion.

Competition is Nearly Closed

The debating competition in which the district Young Peoples' U.F.O. Clubs have been engaged for some time past, is nearly completed. Two more debates will finish the schedule, one to take place to-morrow evening between Rush Point and Zion clubs, at Rush Point, on the resolution whether agricultural colleges are of more importance in the development of agriculture than exhibits, and the second and last on Thursday of this week, June 1st, between Lakefield and Norwood, at Lakefield.

COIN IN POCKET OF DEAD MAN REMOVES DOUBT

Believed to Identify Body of Man Found Beneath the Croft Barn as That of Noel.

CROF'S RECORD

CHATHAM, May 29 (Special to The Examiner). — A coin in the pocket of the man whose remains were found under the Croft barn at Charing Cross may be the deciding factor in identifying the deceased as Gus Noel, for whose murder Clayton croft is now awaiting trial in the jail here.

This coin, and a corncob pipe, which were found on the murdered man, are believed to remove all the doubt as to the identity of the victim, which at one time was disputed.

Efforts to connect Clayton Croft with the crime have been unceasing since the body was first discovered on his premises, and High Constable Peters has bent every effort toward accumulating evidence against the prisoner.

The police believe that Croft, who was released on parole from prison recently, after serving part of a term for burglary, has friends among the "Billy Rhodes" gang of criminals at Windsor, and they are taking precautions against any attempt at jail delivery by appointing special guards.

High Constable Peters' investigations over the week-end have revealed that Gus. Noel went to the home of William Reaume on the 14th of May, and that Mrs. Reaume returned to Noel a coin which he had lost while visiting there some time previously. This coin was found in the pocket of the murdered man.

Mrs. Reaume had also given a corncob pipe to Noel, and this is believed by the constable to be the one which was found on the body.

Croft is said to have claimed that he saw Noel alive on the 20th of May, when talking to the police. The latter packed his clothes the same day, and said he was going to the Plains and then on to his home in France.

BRONZE MEMORIAL TO HEROES OF WAR

Commemorate Names of Bank of Commerce Fallen.

On Saturday next, June 3rd, at 2.30 p.m., an interesting ceremony will take place at the offices of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, when a bronze memorial tablet commemorating the names of those employees of the bank in Peterborough and the district who took part in the Great War will be unveiled.

The tablet is of heavy dark bronze, in handsome and striking design, a large circle with a slightly raised rim, on the left the "Caduceus" or emblem of the bank, an upright standard surmounted by folded wings and encircled by two twining serpents, while embossed on the lower right-hand edge is a single spray of laurel. Inscribed are the names of Peterborough's quota from the bank staff, of the city and district, with four stars marking the boys who made the supreme sacrifice in the great struggle. Each branch of the bank in Canada has been presented with one of these memorial tablets, which bears the caption: "In Memory of 1701 men of the Canadian Bank of Commerce who served in the Great War, 1914-1918."

The ceremony will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Blagrave, with unveiling address delivered by Judge E. C. S. Huycke.

DISMEMBERMENT OF CHURCH A SCANDAL

Dr. Richard Roberts Declares That He is Tired of Sectarian Priggishness.

MONTREAL, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—Discussing his reasons for being willing to accept Anglican ordination, Dr. Richard Roberts at the American Presbyterian Church said the time had come when the need of removing the unutterable shame and scandal of the dismemberment of the church of God overstopped everything else.

"Putting it bluntly," he said, "I am tired of sectarian priggishness and weary of endless delicate negotiations about technical points of policy. I want to be a minister of the whole church of God, and I am ready to be ordained, not twice, but twenty and two hundred times."

CHANGES IN THE PLATOON SYSTEM

The Two Platoon System Started in the Local Fire Department—Drills Each Week.

Commencing yesterday morning, Chief George Gimblett instituted a two-platoon system at the Fire Hall, the same as in Hamilton, in order to give the men every other Sunday free. The men will now work 10 and 14 hours instead of 11 and 13 as formerly.

At 8 a.m. Sunday, one platoon gets 24 hours off, and the other platoon works 24 hours. The men have a holiday every other week, while under the former system they only secured part of a day.

The change has met with general approval by the men.

To avoid any wild-goose chases after fires, the Chief has issued instructions to the men to require every person bringing in verbal alarms to accompany the apparatus to the fire.

These strict instructions have followed an incident in connection with a fire last week, in which the Department travelled out of their way as a result of a confusion over the alarm brought into the Hall.

Fire drills with ladder and hose are being held three times a week—Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons, from 2.30 until 3.30.

This afternoon the Chief had both platoons out, and hereafter, at least once a week, both platoons will work together.

ANNUAL TOUR WORKS BOARD

City Council Party on Street Inspection Trip Today.

The Board of Works held its annual inspection tour of the city today. The cars started out from the City Hall at 9 a.m. and got over a large part of the city by noon. The inspecting party lunched at the White House, and started out again about 2 p.m. for diverse sections of the city, where the Board is considering effecting improvements. At 8 p.m. to-night while the impressions gained are fresh in their minds, they will discuss possible improvements. Some of those in the party were: Mayor W. H. Taylor, Ald. Water Stocker, Ald. Malcolm McIntyre, City Engineer R. H. Parsons, Street Commissioner H. Evans, S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk.

GERFANY REPLIES

THE WAGERS TAX

TORONTO, May 29.—(Canadian Press). —When the motion of the Provincial Treasurer for payment out of court of $183,070.45, paid in by the Ontario Jockey Club as proceeds of the new five per cent wager tax was before Justice Riddell this morning, W. N. Tilley, K.C., for the Club stated that he had been instructed that Justice Riddell had expressed strong views with regard to the Legislation, and declared that in his opinion Lordship should not hear the motion. Mr. Tilley offered the suggestion that the case should go to appellate division and Justice Riddell agreed.

CHURCHILL DELAYS

MILLIONS IN LIQUOR

MONTREAL, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—Charged with forging and uttering a permit for the removal of liquor said to be valued at $4,000,000, with intent to defraud the United States, Harry A. Grossberg of Cleveland, Ohio, is under arrest here.

VETS HAD GOOD TIME

KINGSTON, May 29.—(Canadian Press). — Gen. "Macdonald's army" of veteran's reached here last night, and were given a good time at the army and navy headquarters, following which they were addressed by General A. E. Ross, M. P. and W. F. Nickle, M.L.A. The former told them he would do all he could for them at Ottawa.

They left this morning for Gananoque, and took twenty-five Kingston recruits with them.

RAILWAY STRIKE VOTE

DETROIT, Mich., May 29—(Canadian Press).—Belief that a strike vote would be ordered by the Executive Council of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Railway employes and Railway Shop Laborers was expressed to-day by E. F. Crable, Grand President of the organization.

LUCKY WINNER OF PEACOCK CUSHION

The drawing for the peacock cushion, which has been on view in the window of Grafton Company's store for some time past, and for which Mr. G. N. Curtiss, a returned veteran and its maker, has been selling tickets for the benefit of the relief work of the G.W.V.A., was made on the stage of the Capitol Theatre on Saturday evening, the drawing actually done by a member of the audience, with Mr. S. A. Hodgson supervising the procedure. The lucky number was 208, held by a returned soldier's wife, Mrs. McIlvride, 209 Rubidge street.

Mr. Curtiss sold 701 tickets for the cushion, and this morning, after paying incidental expenses in connection with its exhibit and the sale of tickets, handed over a handsome sum to the Secretary of the G.W.V.A. Mr. Curtiss is desirous of expressing his thanks to all purchasers of tickets, especially to the staffs of the Prudential and the Metropolitan Insurance Companies, the nurses of Nicholls Hospital, the Grafton Company, Limited, The Evening Examiner and to Mr. Abbey, manager of the Capitol, for showing slides announcing the drawing.

STATEMENT NOT OFFICIAL.

A few days ago it was stated that certain oficials of the local branch of the G.W.V.A. regarded with disfavour the march to Ottawa of "General" McDonald's workless army. This statement does not represent the official view of the G.W.V.A., but was given as the private opinion of one of the members.

Sounds Death Knell Of Feminine Vanities

MONTREAL, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—Addressing the Girl Guides in St. Andrew's and St. Paul's Church yesterday, Rev. George Duncan declared the spirit of Girl Guides would help to abolish "affectation, eyebrow pencil, lip-stick, the powder puff and rouge pad."

The average girl, he said, pouts and sulks when told to do anything by her parents. It was not so with Girl Guides.

A WARM WELCOME JUDGE O'CONNELL

Bench and Bar Unite in Goodwill to New Judge.

TORONTO, May29.—With Judge Coatsworth on his right and Judge Morson on his left, the newly appointed Judge O'Connell took his seat at the Court of General Sessions and was welcomed by bench and bar. On behalf of the law officers of the Crown, Crown Attorney Eric Armour, K.C., stated to his Honor that his appointment has been received with sincere approval of all. His Honor said the Crown, was heartily welcomed a d the law officers of the Crown wished him long life in the position to which he had been raised.

J. W. Seymour Corley, K.C., as the oldest member of the bar, present, welcomed his Honor on behalf of the senior bar. He thought the profession and the public both were to be congratulated upon His Honor's promotion. "As the one who is bringing the real piece of business before this court and before seeking mercy at you Honor's feet" said R. H. Greer, K.C., "I also wish to congraguiate your Honor. When I realize that a man I can call my contemporary has been raised to the bench, I feel how time is creeping on us all.

Frank Hughes, for the juior bar added his voice to the chorus of congragulation. "The Court of the County of York is a great court", said Mr. Hughes, "with wise and kindly judges. Though they may give you fits while the case is on, at the end of it their judgment is always wise and kind.

Judge Coatsworth, senior judge, also welcomed his Honor, the members of bench and bar all standing. The new judge, said His Honor, had already made good, in the very difficult court usually presided over by Judge Morson.

In reply Judge O'Connell expressed himself overwhelmed at his welcome. He asked for consideration from all members of the bar, as a new judge, not accustomed to his work.

SALE OF FARM BEFORE COURTS

Methodist Minister at Apsley Involved in Case

On Thursday and Friday last the trial took place in the Supreme Court of Ontario before Mr. Justice Middleton of Robson versus Hall. The defendant, William Hall, Methodist Minister at Apsley was sued by Robson for the cancellation of an agreement to purchase a farm near Pontypool, on the ground that Hall did not have a good title. The farm was formerly owned by Hugh Byers now of Peterboro. Judgment was reserved. Mr. Joseph Wearing acted for Hall and Mr. J. MacBeth of Toronto, for Robson.

Mr. Wearing was present in court when Judge Morson and Judge Coatsworth introduced Judge D. O'Connell to his duties as County Judge of the County of York.

OPERATED STILL ASSESSED $200

Caught With the Goods County Man Fined

Operating a still, which, according to County Constable A. R. Moore, was the finest he ever saw, cost a county resident $200.00 in the Police Court to-day.

He was arrested on Saturday afternoon by W. H. Buller, Inland Revenue agent, Constable Moore, and Inspector Joseph Stewart.

The apparatus was of a superior nature, and was going full blast when the officers walked in.

Thirty gallons of mash were seized and a few quarts of prime moonshine.

A waggon was needed to bring the distilling outfit into town.

FINDING BODY ADDS MYSTERY LITTLE GIRLS

A Strange Resemblance Provides a Baffling Mystery for French Police—Gruesome Find.

ONE GIRL SLAIN

PARIS, May 29.— A baffling mystery is exciting the inhabitants of the small Brittany village of Goas Al Ludu, near Chateaulin, in the Brest district. Early in April a little girl, Pauline Picard, disappeared from her parents' farm, not the slighest clue existing as to what had become of the child and all searches proving fruitless. Finally, it was though she must have been carried off by gipsies, although none had been observed in the neighborhood at the time of her disappearance.

Just when the parents had given up hope of finding their daughter, it was reported from Cherbourg that a small girl had been found wandering there, whose age and appearance corresponded to that of the missing Pauline. The Picards immediately hurried to Cherbourg and declared the child theirs.

A curious fact, however, was that the child did not seem to recognize the parents and remained mute when addressed in Breton, although Pauline had been used to speak that language. Taken home, the child was recognized by neighbors, and the police officer who accompanied her from Cherbourg, was satisfied that she really was Pauline Picard, although there was no indication as to how she had reached Cherbourg.

The adventure thus appeared to have reached a happy ending, until yesterday a startling discovery was made which makes the whole affair more mysterious than ever. A farmer crossing a field about a mile from Goas Al Ludu discovered the horribly mutilated body of a small girl, entirely naked and the head cut off. Close by, carefully folded, lay the clothes. The farmer hurried to the village and returned with gendarmes, followed by the inhabitants, among them the Picards who recognized the clothes as those worn by Pauline the day she disappeared. The body could not be identified, the face having been partly devoured by foxes.

Although it would seem almost incredible that the parents should make a mistake, the Picards are now uncertain whether the child they have been nursing for more than a month is really their own, and the police are faced by a threefold task—to discover the murderer identify the murdered child, and, if she is proved to be Pauline Picard, discover the identity of the little girl from Cherbourg.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT SUNDAY BAND CONCERT

One of the biggest crowds that ever attended a band concert in Peterborough, listened to the first of the 57th Rangers' summer programmes in Victoria Park on Sunday night. It was a special concert arranged by Mr. Gliddon, including "Morning, Noon, and Night in Vienna" overture, the selections from the "Chimes of Normandy," a novelette entitled "Secrets," cornet solo, 'The Holy City,' by Bandsman Layfield, an dseveral new marches.

More than forty instruments were assembled under Mr. Gliddon's baton affording a body of tone that greatly pleased musicians who heard the concert.

TILLSONBURG, May 29 (Canadian Press). — George Downham, aged 16, an employee of the Tillsonburg Shoe Factory, was drowned in Lake Lisgar on Saturday evening while in swimming with companions. Getting into about ten feet of water, he sank, and went down the third time before his companions could reach him.

THE POND.

Down in thy cool and limpid depth,
Tall trees are mirrored there,
Grasses and dandelions and flowers
Make beauty doubly fair.

I'd like my life to be as still,
That mirrored men may trace
God's matchless grace, His patience,
The love upon his face.

INVITATION FOR HAGUE PARLEYS HAVE BEEN SENT

All Except Russian and German Governments Are Asked to Participate

WILL MEET JUNE 26.

THE HAGUE, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—Invitations have been issued by the Presidents of the Genoa Conference in agreement with the Dutch Government for the coming parleys at The Hague. It is intended that two commissions shall meet here June 26, one to comprise experts from the States represented at Genoa, excluding Russia and Germany, and the other commission to consist only of Russian economists.

A preliminary meeting will be held on June 15, and will be attended by not more than two delegates from all States represented at Genoa, except Germany and Russia. They, with a limited number of specialists, are expected to determine who will participate in a non-Russian commission. By June 26, at the latest, it is expected that the name of the nations and their representatives will be communicated to the Secretariat General, which is under the general jurisdiction of a Holland delegate. The commissions will study the differences that exist between the nations, particularly matters relating to debts, private property and credits to Russia, and endeavor to formulate recommendations for submission to their respective Governments.

The Foreign Office has entrusted to Dr. Vande Sande Bakhuysen, a consular officer and member of the Holland delegation at Genoa, the task of preparing and organizing data for The Hague Conference.

FUTURE OF THE LINDSAY ARSENAL.

LINDSAY, May 29.— The question of the disposal of the Domision Arsenal at Lindsay, and the advisability of the government using the buildings in connection with some line of government work was one of the matters touched upon by Mr. Kylie at a Board of Trade meeting. He pointed out that these buildings, erected at a cost of several millions of dollars, were standing idle and should be put to some use by the Government. Hon. Mr. Kennedy, Minister of Railways, and Hon. Mr. Graham, Minister of Militia, should visit Lindsay and look over the plant.

MEN REFUSE TO ACCEPT AWARD OF WAGE BOARD

Majority Report of Conciliation Board Does Not Meet With Approval of Employees.

SHORTER HOURS.

OTTAWA, May 29.— (Canadian Press.)—The employees of the Ottawa Electric Railway Company have deferred acceptance of the majority award of the Board of Conciliation until the results of the conferences with the company regarding the hours of work and rates of wages are known. The men held a mass meeting in Ste. Anne's Hall on Saturday night and after four hours' discussion, refused to agree to signing a contract with the Ottawa Electric Railway, based on the majority award, which allows no changes in working conditions and a reduction of 12 1-2 per cent. in wages.

The award reduced the wage rate from 49, 51, 53 and 55 cents an hour to 43, 45, 46 and 48 cents an hour. While the employees complained that under the nine hour day many of them were compelled to devote from ten to thirteen hours to put in a day's work, the majority report made no changes in the working conditions.

GARRISON CHURCH PARADE YESTERDAY.

TORONTO, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)— Annual Toronto garrison church parade was held yestreday with 3,594 of all ranks, including 268 officers taking part. The occasion was interesting, in that it was graced by the presence of Field Marshal Earl French, also introducing to the citizens Major General H. A. Panet, recently appointed commanding officer of Military District No. 2.

Earl French attended the service in Massey Hall and afterwards viewed troops from saluting base on University Avenue. He was greatly pleased with the appearance of the men.

Famous soldier arrived in the city yesterday morning and will address the Empire Club to-day after a public reception at City Hall.

REMARRIES WIFE HE PAID $100,000 CASH

Michigan Millionaire Returns to First of Two Divorcees.

KALAMAZOO, May 29. — William M. Loveland, millionaire paper manufacturer, who was divorced by two women in 14 months, obtained a license yesterday to remarry the first Mrs. Loveland, who divorced him March 21, 1921, and collected $100,000 in cash alimony.

Shortly after his divorce from Mrs. Adah Loveland, the manufacturer was secretly married in Chicago to Mrs. Frank Mills, widow of the widely known Shakespearean actor. They are said to have quarreled on their honeymoon in Paris and returned to the United States on separate steamers.

Two weeks ago the second Mrs. Loveland obtained a divorce on the charge of non-support. She alleged that her husband ceased to support her two weeks after their marriage. She was granted $50,000 in cash alimony.

Loveland is 54 years old and president of the Watervliet Paper Co. of Watervliet.

ELECTION COSTS WERE VERY LOW.

SASKATOON, May 29 (Canadian Press). — It cost the Progressives of Saskatoon constituency $2,059 to elect John Evans to Parliament, according to a statement made public by his agent on Saturday.

The nominating convention cost $561.62, and the general campaign expenses were $493.48.

Money collected from the Progressives of the constituency totalled $2,041, leaving a deficit of $18.28.

Possibly no candidate for Parliament, except those elected by acclamation, spent less money in the campaign than the Saskatoon member and his committee.

BLACK WATCH FLAG HONORED IN CHURCH

MONTREAL, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—Military ceremonies unique in the history of Canada were conducted yesterday afternoon when the war colors of the 13th, 42nd and 73rd Battalions of the Royal Highlanders were consecrated and deposited for safeguard in perpetuity in the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul. The consecration ceremony was carried out at a drumhead altar at the Armory when the five colors of the three battalions were consecrated with the full army ceremonial, after which they were escorted to the church. In addition to the parade of about a thousand men in kilts, there were five cadets from the Royal Military College, Kingston, and a party of officers from H.M.S. Valerian, under Commander England, with a detachment of thirty sailors.

FRANCE WILL NOT ABANDON ALLIES.

Clemenceau Says France Wants Justice But Will Stick By War Allies.

PARIS, May 29. — (Canadian Press.)— "France does not wish to abandon her allies, but she will not permit the vanquished to become more powerful than the victors," M. Clemenceau, France's war premier, declared in an impromptu speech delivered last night at a banquet after the unveiling of a monument at Nantes to the teachers and students who fell in the war.

"We will not abandon our allies; on the contrary we desire to remain with them," M. Clemenceau continued. "However, we demand a little justice in our behalf.

"They must not sacrifice our interests for the interests of others. We want to do all that is possible to make peace, but there is a limit beyond which we will not go. We did not wish the war, but we did wish peace. However, we are capable of making war. Nations are like their people. For the moment we are friendly, but unfortunately we have not ended wars.

"We seek no additions to-day, but neither do we desire a dishonorable peace. I prefer to see my country in an honorable position, even though that honor be very dearly bought."

Clemenceau asserted that the very people tha were accusing France of a desire to begin war had said in 1914 that France was inot able to fight and win a war.

MERCHANT MUST PAY CITY LICENSE.

Important Decision Was Handed Down in the Superior Court at Sherbrooke.

SHERBROOKE, Que., May 29 (Canadian Press). — An important judgment was rendered in the Superior Court here on Saturday in the case of the City of Sherbrooke vs. J. A. Ainsley, in which it was sought to recover $200.00 tax imposed on the latter for a license as a wholesale liquor merchant.

Ainsley contested the issue, on the ground that he had obtained a license from the Provincial Government, and that the city had no right to impose any further tax.

Justice White, in his judgment, condemned Ainsley to pay the $200.00 —with interest and costs.

GERMANY WILL PAY BUT WANTS AN ALLIED LOAN

Results of Genoa Conference Will Be Subject of Debate in Reichstag To-Day.

REPARATIONS.

BERLIN, May 29.—(Canadian Press)The Tageblatt says the note to be handed to the Reparations Commission today by Germany will indicate acceptance of the Commission's demands on the express condition that acceptance shall be followed by an international loan on tolerable conditions.

To-day's debate in the Reichstag, the Vossische Zeitung declares will be devoted almost exclusively to the Genoa Conference.

It adds that Chancellor Wirth and the party leaders have decided that it still would be premature to discuss publicly a solution of the reparations question.

The Pan-German press yesterday sharply attacked the Government's reparations policy, but says it would appear that there will be an adequate majority in its favor in the Reichstag.

PRISONER CHARGED WITH AIDING ESCAPE

OTTAWA, May 29 (Canadian Press). — Robert Nicholson, convicted over a year ago, and sentenced to a term of one year in the Hull Jail for obtaining money by fraud, was re-arrested in the Hull Jail on Saturday, when his term expired, and today will appear before Magistrate Millar on a charge of having aided William Katchuck to escape from the Hull Jail on the night of 3rd May or the morning of 4th May.

The new charge brought against Nicholson arises out of the investigation which was brought by the Quebec Attorney-General's Department into the escape of William Katchuck, who is still at large.

During the hearing of evidence submitted at the investigation, which was held in camera, prisoners testified that Nicholson had a key to the cells of the Hull Jail.

LAST REMNANT OF HANGING PASSES.

Steps That Led to Gallows at Cobourg Jail Removed.

Cobourg Sentinel-Star: Last week the last remnant of the only hanging in this county passed out of existence. This hanging took place on 9th June, 1859, when Dr. King, of Brighton, was hanged in the old gaol yard, where the Counties House of Refuge now is, for poisoning his wife.

The steps that led to the gallows have been used since the new gaol was built in 1907 for steps leading to the gaol gardens. These had rotted out, and had to be replaced. The old gallows had rotted out years ago, an it is hoped none will ever be needed again.

Old-timers here recall that on the morning of 9th June, 1859, there was a heavy frost, which destroyed crops that year.

FATHER ASKS FOR CUSTODY OF GIRL.

Benjamin Steacy Asks Court to Return His Daughter to Him. Held By Her Aunt.

OTTAWA, May 29 (Canadian Press). — Judgment in the habeas corpus proceedings brought by Benjamin Steady, twice married, for the custody of his eight-year-old daughter, Julia Agnes Steady, who by the deathbed request of her mother, was given into the custody of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, of Lanark County, was reserved by Justice Latchford in the weekly Court at the Courthouse on Saturday.

The child, whose custody is in dispute, is to remain under the charge and control of its aunt and uncle until the Court has rendered its decision.

COUNTESS ZELLEKI AN ALPS VICTIM.

Refused the Rope, and Fell Over a Precipice.

GENEVA, May 29. — While attempting to reach the summit of Brenner Pass by a short cut, Countess Zelleki of Hungary was killed by a fall of 500 feet over a precipice.

A guide led the way, but the Countess refused to accept the rope, as she was an expert Alpine climber.

Suddenly the guide heard a shriek, and saw the Countess disappear in the abyss. Her mangled body was recovered.

The Countess, who was but 29 years old, and reported to be wealthy, had recently returned to Innsbruck from America.

WORLD FLYERS DELAYED BY A BAD ACCIDENT

Forced Landing on Rough Ground Does Considerable Damage to Plane.

NO ONE HURT.

MARSEILLES, May 29.—(Canadian Press)—Major W. T. Blake was compelled to make a forced landing at Borely Park, just outside Marseilles this evening, while on a flight from Lyons to Turin Italy, in the continuation of his attempt to fly around the world. The machine struck rough ground, damaging the running gear and smashing the propeller. It is being towed to the Miramis aviation field for repairs and the flight probably will be delayed for several days. Neither Major Blake nor his companions Brome and MacMillan, were injured.

MEDICAL MEN IN SESSION TO-NIGHT.

TORONTO, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Forty-second annual meeting of the Ontario Medical Association opens here this evening with an address by Dr. MacFie Campbell, of Boston, on "modern conception of mental disease." Convention will deal with relations of profession to Workmen's Compensation Act.

WAGES REDUCED TO THE 1920 STANDARD.

CHICAGO, May 27.— (Canadian Press.)—United States' Labor Board announced last night that wages of railroad employes would be reduced to the standard of 1920. Decision is expected to reduce present payrolls about forty-eight million dollars a year and to reduce pay of majority of maintenance of way men five cents per hour.

HALF MILLION TAX FROM THE WOODBINE

TORONTO, May 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer, has already been figuring his income under the new five per cent. on wagerings from the Woodbins spring meeting which closed Saturday, and he is counting on drawing down a sum of close to half a million dollars. About four and a half million dollars are said to have been wagered at the meeting.

GREAT DAMAGE BY FIRE AT BORDEAUX.

BORDEAUX, France, May 29.—(Canadian Press)—Fire broke out yesterday morning on one of the piers in the harbor and spread quickly to various other structures. A high wind was blowing at the time. Thousands of barrels and hogs heads of wine on one of the wharves were destroyed. Although not under control early in the afternoon, the losses were already computed at many million francs.

SACRIFICE CROSS IN TOWN OF MONS.

LONDON, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—In the presence of the Belgian Minister of Justice, the British and French Consuls, a representative of Canada and many British, French and Belgian officers and local civil authorities, Major Ingpen of the Imperial War Graves Commission, on behalf of the British Government, on Saturday handed over to the town of Mons the memorial known as the Sacrifice Cross. After Protestant and Catholic clergy had blessed the cross the Belgian Minister of Justice in a stirring speech glorified the soldiers who came from all corners of the world to help Belgium in the great war.

Bands played allied anthems and numerous wreaths were laid on the monument.

CATTLE EMBARGO HARD TO DEFEND.

English Weekly Review Advances Strong Points in Favor of Raising the Restrictions.

LONDON, May 29.— (Canadian Press.)—"It is all very well for Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Northcliffe to call for the ending of the embargo against Canadian store cattle," declares The Nation, the weekly review of the "highbrow" Democrats. "The embargo certainly is hard to defend but hardest of all on the assumption that Canadian cattle are always either diseased or going to be. Certainly too we cannot rest our agriculture on high prices secured by left-handed protection but do these gentlemen realize what the lifting of the ban means at this hour to the British farmer? For the moment his main—his only hope is milk and store cattle. The distributors' combine has almost ruined his trade in the first article. The Canadian exporters are able to land and sell store cattle here at between £6 and £7 apiece, it is hard to see where the British farmer will turn.

"There are no bounds, as Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Northcliffe well know, to the capacity of Canadains for the rearing of cattle. Where millions of buffalo fed, millions of tame herds can breed and develop. There are fortunes here for enterprising capitalists and ruin for British agriculturists."

BODY OF MAN WILL LIKELY BE EXHUMED

CHATHAM, May 227.—(Canadian Press.)—Body of the man found under a barn on Charing Cross farm will likely be exhumed for the purpose of having the skull examined by experts, the police stated yesterday. Nothing new in the case developed during the week end, but some of the investigators are of the opinion that information is being withheld.

200 PERSONS ARE BELIEVED MISSING.

VIENNA, May 27. — (Canadian Press.)— Two hundred persons are missing and almost two hundred in hospital as a result of an explosion at an ammunition factory at Blumau, near Vienna, Thursday, according to reliable reports.

EUROPEAN CRISIS MAY ARISE FROM ATTITUDE OF HUN

Hope of Settling Reparations Question is Dwindling Rapidly in Paris.

POINCARE'S VISIT.

PARIS, May 29. — (Canadian Press):—The hope of a settlement of the reparations crisis without the necessity of action by the Allies together or by France separately, raised by the auspicious opening of the bankers' conferences, diminished Saturday on receipt of news from Berlin indicating that, though a German Cabinet crisis has been avoided, agreement is not complete on the understanding between Finance Minister Hermes and the Reparations Commission.

The optimism of the past few days is not shared in official circles here and the impression still prevails that the Germans will do only what is necessary and prolong the negotiations. The climax will come only after the deliberations of the Reparations Commission which, in case of final default by Germany, will probably require a fortnight or longer, until just about the time of Premier Poincare's visit to London for the Verdun commemoration.

This trip was arranged some time ago without reference to politics, but it is regarded as unlikely that the French Premier will return from London without seeing Mr. Lloyd George and exchanging views on the situation. Diplomatic negotiations between the Allies, whether opened in this way or otherwise, would take several weeks; so that action, if any, probably would be deferred until some time in July.

SEVERE FIGHTING IN PROGRESS IN CHINA.

LONDON, May 29.—(Canadian Press)—Severe fighting has been in progress on the Kianga front, according to Hong Kong reports to the Times. Sun Yat Sen's army is said to have captured Mei Ling pass which the Kiangsi troops had heavily fortified.

The right wing of the army has captured Singfeng and is pursuing the nemy towards Nagkenhaien, while the left wing has defeated the enemy towards Nagkemalen, is marching toward Chung-Yi.

SOME CHANGES IN MANITOBA POLITICS.

WINNIPEG, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—A local paper featured Saturday night a statement from James H. Ashdown, prominent Winnipeg merchant and a Liberal in politics, that he has identified himself with the Progressive party "in the present Provincial election campaign." A similar stand is credited to R. W. Craig, K.C., who has been "for years connected with the Conservative party," according to the news story, which adds that Albert Prefontaine, at one time Conservative Provincial leader, has accepted the nomination of the United Farmers in Carillon constituency.

YOUNG WOMAN IS KILLED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Miss Emma M. Compass, of London, is Killed and Four Companions Are Injured.

CAR OVERTURNED.

LONDON, May 29.— (Canadian Press.)— One Londoner was killed and four others badly bruised and shaken up when a front tire on the motor car in which they were homeward bound after a Saturday afternoon trip west of the city, blew out at the foot of the hill leading on to the Killworth bridge, causing the car to swerve sideways and overturn, throwing the occupants into the road.

The killed: Miss Emma M. Compass, 189 Elmwood Ave., bookkeeper, Helen Costume Company.

Injured: Miss Mina Compass, 189 Elmwood Ave., badly bruised and suffering from shock.

Fred Reynolds, 509 Maitland St., traveller Wm. Wrad and Sons, head and arm cut, requiring stitches.

Mrs. Fred Reynolds, bruised and suffering from shock.

Baby Reynolds, slightly cut.

SEVERAL ENCOUNTERS WITH IRISH MILITIA.

BELFAST, May 27. — (Canadian Press).—An encounter lasting several hours occurred yesterday between members of the Irish Republican Army and special Ulster constabulary, near Newry, on the Louth-Armagh border. Captain Murphy and four of the special police were wounded. The Republican casualties are not known. It is believed they planned to capture Jonesboro Barracks.

FIRE THREATENED LINDSAY BUILDINGS.

A fire which at first threatened to assume serious proportions broke out late yesterday afternoon in the dump near the Fair Grounds in Lindsay. Fortunately the fire was discovered soon after it started and the firemen were able to control it with comparative ease. The scene of the conflagration was near the cattle buildings on the grounds and if the fire had gained any headway it is almost certain that these buildings would have suffered.

THE MARCHING VETERANS.

Because the Examiner has questioned the wisdom of the march of a number of Toronto and Hamilton veterans to Ottawa to wait upon the Government, we have been accused of being unfavorable to the cause of the returned men. This charge surely does not need a reply from the Examiner, certainly not in the case of the many Peterboro veterans who know how this paper has always endeavored to do what it could to further the welfare of ex-service men generally. In any comments we have made on the "hike" of General McDonald's men, there has been no criticism of what the marchers want, although they themselves do not seem to be quite certain on that point—but merely of the methods by which the attempt to secure better conditions for the men who fought, is being made. The whole question of re-establishment is being taken up by a special committee of the House of Commons. Proper representation before that committee of plans for the betterment of the veterans appeals to us as a more common sense, practicable, way of reaching the desired goal. The march to Ottawa of several hundred men is a spectacular demonstration that will not do the marchers any particular harm, but that does not seem likely to bring much benefit to veterans generally.

REGARDING IMMIGRATION.

The petition of the Canadian Jewish Congress that Canada should adopt a broader immigration policy because "our burden of debt and taxation is becoming unbearable, and we want a much larger population to help us carry it," would under other conditions be worthy of support. Undoubtedly Canada needs a bigger population, not only to help raise the revenue that the country requires and to increase the earning powers of the National Railways, but to assist in the development of the resources of the Dominion. But just now it is necessary to be careful. There is no use in taking in more new citizens until they can be digested, and with industrial conditions as they are at present it would be folly to open wide the doors and invite the world to enter. With workers in many lines unable to find employment, what sense would there be in permitting other workers to come into Canada, and augment the ranks of the unemployed? Farm laborers and farmers wishing to take up land are in a different catgory. They are needed and should be made welcome; but for the present care must be exercised to prevent an influx of other classes that cannot be assimilated. The United States finds it necessary to limit the amount of immigration for three years. Canada needs to be equally careful.

DR. HASTINGS' ADVICE.

Dr. Hastings, Medical Officer of Health for Toronto is an official who rightly regards his duties as most important, and who by his enthusiastic and efficient management of his department, has made the Queen City one of the healthiest communities on the continent. He is not content, moreover, with looking after the health of the citizens of Toronto when they are at home but considers it part of his duty to protect them when they are enjoying their summer vacation. Accordingly he each year issues instructions as to the simple rules of health they should follow while they are away from home. In this year's bulletin, Dr. Hastings gives some advice as to how to get the most from a health standpoint out of holidays, advice that should be heeded not only by the people of Toronto, but by Canadians generally. Toronto's Medical Officer of Health hits the nail squarely on the head when he declares that people cannot dance half the night, or remain indoors over a game of cards while on their vacation, and expect to return home invigorated and built up in health and strength. Unfortunately a lot of Canadians need that advice. The lake and river resorts of Ontario offer such magnificent scenery such fine fishing and such unrivalled opportunities for boating that summer visitors might be expected to spend every moment possible in the open air. Many of them, however, get little benefit from their sojourn. They regard the nightly dance as the chief event in the programme, and they sleep half the day and dance half the next night, with the result that the end of the vacation finds them not the least benefitted physically by their holiday. Dr. Hastings does well to call attention to the folly of such conduct.

STILL THEY GO.

Three Englishmen left London on Wednesday in a small airplane in which they hope to do a thirty thousand mile flight around the world, saying they were doing it with a view to demonstrating the possibilities of civil aviation, says the Ottawa Journal. Drake and Frobisher and Raleigh and Hudson and Cecil Rhodes, and other past explorers of England, had equally ready explanations of the expeditions they undertook. They all offered excuses for their foolhardiness. It was to find new sea routes or to claim new colonies or something as plausible. But from Drake to Major W. T. Blake and his companions who flew out of London on Victoria Day the reason for their going has been the same. It is the Englishman's love of adventure, the call of his blood to unknown lands and seas. He wants to go where no other has gone, to do what no other has done, to face the dangers of unexpored paths, and know their first thrills. The English adventurer plants the flag on unclaimed shores, discloses the richness of new lands, marks new highways and seaways. Perhaps he has a crusader's urge to the furtherance of civilization. No doubt he knows and desires that some good will come out of his adventuring. But it is the adventure itself that calls him. Blake and his companions may circle the globe but they know that if they do they will have come through such perils as no other traveller has yet experienced. For the sake of such experience they are quite content to risk their lives. If they succeed in the flight they will have given them a great demonstration, but the chances are many against success. The only certainty in the venture is that, succeeding or failing, they will go through experiences no others have had.

LLOYD GEORGE ON RUSSIA.

There is one passage in the address by Mr. Lloyd George on Genoa which we especially commend to the downright and dogmatic fraternity of petrified intellects which imagines that all you have to do to solve the Russian problem is to hurl hard enough adjectives at the unspeakable Boilsheviki. Mr. Lloyd George said:

"Revolutions on a great scale always carry in their trail the confiscation of property, and, I am sorry to say, confiscation without compensation. That is our experience in the English religious revolution which is the source of so many titles, and in the French revolution, which was accompanied by a wholesale confiscation of the land of France without compensation; in fact, the conservatism of France to-day is rooted in confiscation.

The reason why this statement is so refreshing is that we have long been compelled to listen to a lot of frothy vituperation from men who seem to know no history and to have become aware of Europe for the first time in 1914, the general effect of which was that no set of men were ever so wicked, stupid or revolutionary as the men who have seized control of unhappy Russia. One would think that they had invented Communism, confiscation and repudiation of debts. Yet the Apostles autedated them in Communism by about eighteen centuries; and—as Mr. Lloyd George points out—some of the noblest titles in England and the great Republic of France are founded on confiscation.

We will be able to get a much clearer vew of the Russian enigma and to approach its solution much less befogged with the haze that super-heat always causes, if we get rid of the idea once for all, that the Russian Communists are an absolutely unheard of economic and financial monstrosity with which it is utterly impossible for such sane peoples as the confiscatory aristocracy of Britain and the confiscatory Republic of France and the confiscatory abolitionists of the United States to have any dealings or patience.

The French were able to persist in their revolutionary policy because, so far from begging the world to feed them, they fought and conquered a fairly large part of the world, and established an Imperialism at home which sanctified confiscation and effectively outlawed all moral claims — supposing the claims to have been "moral." But any student of English literature written during the Revolutionary and Napoleonic periods, will know that we were just as savagely hostile then to French conduct as we are now to Russian conduct—that indeed, we wept far more bitterly over the wrongs of the French "emigres" than we do now over the sufferings of the Russian exiles.

We do not say these things to suggest that the Russians are right. On the contrary, we think them lamentably, logically, economically and suicidally wrong. The clear-sighted French very soon rid themselves of any such nonsense as a Commune. They fortified their confiscations behind the impregnable ramparts of a new private ownership. The Russians, on the other hand, present a thesis on repudiation as security for a new loan. Folly could hardly go further. Moreover the Russian adventure looks like failing. The French adventure succeeded. There was a German adventure about the middle of last century which also failed, it will be remembered. It was far less open to the criticism of the theorist than was the French; but we never hear its praises sung because it had the biggest of all faults, failure.—Montreal Star.

MILITARISM

(Hamilton Herald.)

McMaster of the Brome, speaking on the subject of the militia estimates, said that militarism is "belief in military force." That's a strange definition. Who doesn't believe in military force? That is a fact that compels belief whether one wants to believe or no. Militarism is the subordination of the civil to the military power. There's no danger of such a thing in this country.

A HINT TO THE PACIFISTS

THE REAL CAUSE OF WAR

Chicago Journal of Commerce: It is the desire for power which is behind greed. Peoples are greedy, just as individuals. The people of Germany, when the imperial authority decreed war, fell into enthusiastic approval of the Kaiser's plans when they were given to understand that it was to be a war of conquest which was to add enormously to the power and wealth of the German Empire and people. Revenge on France and England sank into insignificance beside the desire for plunder.

A LOW TRICK TO PLAY

The Australian: Discussing constitutional issues in Australia, a writer in the February number of the Nineteenth Century says: "The whole tendency in Australia has been fissiparous." It's a new one on me, as an American might observe, and after recovering from the shock I made naturally for Webster's Dictionary, which assured me that it was "reproducing by spontaneous fission—see fission." I know something of sea fishing, but have never spelled it that way. Following up the blazed trail, however, and having seen fission, I find it to be "a method of a sexual reproduction among the lowest unicellular organisms." The dirty dog, to make a charge like that against a highly educated and advanced community, any unit of which is capable of picking a winner in three tries.

ATENTION FAIR BOARD

Gentlemen:—Could you arrange a Dog Show at the Local Exhibition this year. There are a large number of good dogs in the city and it would be something new. If this can be done kindly publish as soon as possible and give owners a chance to get their dogs in shape.

Your Truly,
DOG LOVER.

The following letter in the Evening Post of Lindsay, will be found of interest to Peterborough city and county residents:—

To the Editor of the Evening Post.—

An item with a big heading in large display type appeared recently in The Evening Post about Pigeon River floating bridge, setting out that Mr. Thurston M.P. for this county, and Mr. Geo. N. Gordon, M.P. for West Peterboro, and Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, proposed to have the bridge rebuilt in first-class style apparently at the expense of the Dominion treasury.

On the face of it, that looks from a local point of view like a laudable and patriotic proposition. What is more laudible and patriotic than a good big Dominion appropriation for a public work that ought to be paid for by the counties concerned.

The Pigeon Creek floating bridge has been out of repair and has not been used for some eight or nine years.

Its construction, now would, I am informed on good authority, cost from $150,000 to $200,000.

The dam at Buckhorn in the Trent Canal system raises the water in the section up to Bobcaygeon and Pigeon Creek and naturally increases the length and expense of the floating bridge, and other changed conditions have resulted in its abandonment.

It is odd that Mr. Thurston, the member for this county, should take an active interest in this particular rebuilding problem. He has forgotten the ancient maxim: "Timeo Danaos et dona ferentes," which, being freely translated, may be read as a warning to beware of the Peterburghers with county boundary bridge, and country boundary road appropriation schemes. They want to get this done at the expense of their neighbors or at the expense of somebody else. This has been the experience of this county for the last fifty or sixty years. And when they are not trying to get ahead of their neighbors, the town or city of Peterboro, having been separated always from the County, is trying to get ahead of the county, and the county comes back with blood in its eye seeking revenge in double quantity. In Victoria County there has never been any serious difficulty between the County and the town of Lindsay. But when it comes to Peterboro, I recall a famous rhyming despatch from Geo. Canning, I think, to the British Ambassador at the Hague:

"In matters of commerce, the fault of the Dutch,
Is giving too little and asking too much.
So we'll clap on Dutch bottoms just twenty per cent.,
Nous frapperons, Falk, and Twenty per cent."

So far as this country is concerned, the genial Mr. Gordon's floating bridge scheme across Pigeon Creek would be a convenience to J. T. Leary and two or three neighbors on the Emily side. It would enable them to attend mass at Ennismore, instead of going perhaps a mile further to Downeyville. It is rather steep to ask the Dominion for a big grant, but Peterborough has a great deal more up its sleeve, like the "Heathen Chinee.

"Which I wish to remark
And my language is plain,
That for ways that are dark
And for tricks that are vain—

I don't know Mr. Gordon, but I am sorry to see him engaged in any undertakings of this kind. He is able, genial, popular and has before him a promising political future. He has already acquired a Provincial political and professional standing, and is strong enough to tell his fellow townsmen, who wish to involve him in a petty local scheme of the kind herein criticized, to "go to blazes" or a hotter place with a shorter name. He could simply follow the illustrous example of Lord Melbourne and the Duke of Wellington.

There is, however, one very serious obstacle in the way. It is not likely that a big Dominion grant will be made for a county boundary floating bridge anywhere. The "Grey Watch-dog of the Treasury" will in all probability object to a hasty grant from the Dominion. It can be postponed for a couple of years. Some further surveys can be made. A parliamentary return the other day set out in some detail that about twenty-one millions of dollars had so far been expended on the Trent Canal. What is another million for this new floating bridge across Pigeon Creek when the Finance Minister can raise $100,000,000 in New York in a day and a half?

It would be very interesting and might help the floating bridge scheme, if some one in the House of Commons would move for a return of the quantities of wheat, oats and other farm products passing through the Trent Canal from the Western harbors on Georgian Bay to Trenton and the St. Lawrence, and if possible the quantities milled into flour and oatmeal at Peterboro with its unsurpassed water power. It is surprising this has never been done.

Of course, Pigeon Creek—it is not yet a river—could at the cost of two or three millions be cleaned out, deepened and straightened, up to Omemee. This no doubt would have the warm support of Mr. Thurston. It would make his election next time a sure thing. The floating bridge scheme will not help him very much. Omemee and Emily might give a big vote to "Billy King." Perhaps the grim "Watch-dog of the Treasury" might relax a little. I wouldn't bet on that, however.

But there is a bright side to the shield and it is only fair to have a look at it. Peterboro is a city of many attractions. One of the most interesting is a fine, though limited golf links. A nerve racking problem at the south-west corner was to pitch a ball across a deep and wide ravine reaching the green in one and making the hole in the putt—for a 2. It often takes 7 or 9. Still more interesting and attractive was the "19th" hole or green. For years, Lindsayans and Peterburghers played home and return matches, until the Great War occurred. In the winter the curlers of the two towns competed for the honors with broom and stane, with varying results. If the "Gay Gordons" come up this way at either or at both, the Lindsayans will see that they are properly taken care of. Floating bridge or boundary road problems need not constitute the whole scheme of life.

Yours truly,
C. D. BARR.

DURABILITY MAIN FEATURE OF THE NICKEL-IRON BATTERY

BY R. L. DUNCAN
Director, Radio Institute of America

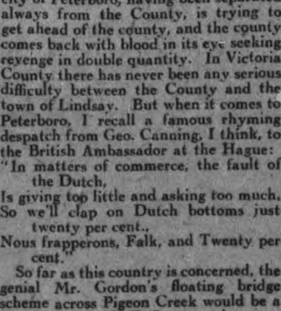
They consist of nickle-plated steel grids. The positive plates have round tubes which contain a nickel oxide as the active material. The negative plates have thin rectangular pockets, hydraulically pressed, perforated and corrugated, containing iron in a very finely divided state.

The electrolyte for these batteries is a 21 per cent. solution of potassium hydrate mixed with a small amount of lithium hydrate. The cells are contained in a steel can, which is electrically welded together. They are connected to form a battery by means of copper connectors.



CONSTRUCTION OF A NICKEL-IRON BATTERY

How It Works

During the charge of the battery the oxygen is transferred from the iron to the nickel electrodes. During the discharge the oxygen is returned.

In the case of the lead cell one uses a hydrometer to measure the specific gravity of the fluid. But the specific gravity of the electrolyte in the nickel-iron cell never changes. Therefore the only way to measure its state of change is by using an ampere-hour meter.

This type of battery is very durable and will stand a considerable strain. The full charge of such a battery is usually 1.2 volts per cell. It should be recharged when the voltage drops below .9 per cell.

The charge voltage of a lead cell is 2.08 volts. It should never be discharged below 1.8 volts.

Care of Battery

A well kept battery will last for years if given the proper care. The best way to treat it is to keep it working. Discharge and recharge it often, for if it is kept idle its strength and durability will become weakened.

But never charge or discharge it too rapidly. Abour the worst thing that one can do to a battery is to have a wire on each terminal and then touch, or almost touch, the ends together to see the spark. Some dealers do this to show the purchaser that the battery is O.K. But it is a poor practice.

Always keep the level of the electrolyte ½ an inch above the plates. Keep flames of all kinds, at all times, away from the battery. Keep all terminals and connections tight and free from corrosion. Keep the battery clean and dry and do not allow any impurities to get into it.

EVERYWHERE, the wave of admiration first inspired by the beauty of the good Maxwell has widened steadily as its sterling qualities have proved themselves.

The World is Working For You

THE manufacturer who makes your shoes is working for you. So is the store that sells you shoes, your grocer, your clothier and every concern or person who makes or sells anything you buy.

Often these people have messages for you. They want to tell you about new goods, new styles, new prices or other new things they think you should know about.

They can't speak to you personally because they have so many customers to serve. So they put their messages in the newspaper in the form of advertisements.

It is to your interest to read the advertisements. They are published for your benefit. They keep you informed as to what these folks are doing for you. They help you buy the right goods at the right time and to make the most of your money.

Moreover, you'll find that business concerns that tell you frankly what they are doing are the most dependable. Stores that advertise are progressive stores that have something real to say to you. Manufacturers who advertise their products have confidence in them, because it does not pay to advertise anything that is not good.

Reading advertisements is both interesting and profitable.

THE DAY'S DOINGS AS RECORDED BY THE EXAMINER'S STAFF OF CORRESPONDENTS

Parliament From the Cross Benches

By G. A. Brethen, M.P. Peterborough East

Ottawa, May 19, 1922.

Dear Mr. Editor,—

In writing this letter the questions that have come before Parliament in the last few weeks have been so varied and of such great importance that I find it very difficult to confine myself to space in your paper that I feel you would be justified in granting.

One of the first proceedings after the close of the debate on the Speech from the Throne is for Parliament to resolve itself into committees for performing the different works that will come before it. Reports of the sub-committees on agriculture, railways, mining, banking, etc., are given to a committee of the whole, which really comprises all the members. This committee is presided over by a chairman, who is given the title of Deputy Speaker.

In this Parliament the appointment of such an officer is of peculiar interest to the citizens of the county of Peterborough, because of the selection of Mr. Gordon, member for West Peterborough. While handicapped by a lack of Parliamentary experience, Mr. Gordon has succeeded very nicely and at present gives one the impression that he has been an occupant of the position for many years.

The main business of the House for some time has been the passing of the different estimates as brought down by the Ministers of the various departments. The first of these to come before us was that of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment.

The discussion of these estimates was noteworthy in that it brought forth a "maiden" speech from Miss MacPhail, the first lady Commoner in the Dominion Parliament. Miss MacPhail was given a good hearing by the members of this occasion and, while her address was a criticism upon the work of this particular department, the Minister in charge, the Hon. Dr. Beland, seemed overjoyed that a discussion of his estimates had drawn forth the first speech from the lady member.

While no very serious criticisms of these particular estimates were offered by Parliament, they provided an opportunity for the official Opposition to crystallize into the form of a want-of-confidence motion the assaults so frequently made upon the Government for the tactics they employed in winning the election.

Supported the Government.

The attack, which was ably led by Mr. Meighen and many of his outstanding supporters, was hotly resented by the Prime Minister, Mr. King, the Hon. Mr. Fielding, Sir Lomer Gouin and others on the Government side of the House, who attempted to show that the members of the official Opposition were equally guilty of the offences charged. While this discussion was very interesting to the Progressives, they were not convinced that the authors of the motion had shown sufficient reason to warrant the Progressives in flying to their support and forcing the Government to an appeal to the country. In fact, to a neutral onlooker it seemed very much like "the pot calling the kettle black," and, consequently, the party led by Mr. Meighen found themselves quite alone in their support of the motion.

If, as it was quite generally intimated, this motion was introduced in order to compel the Progressive party to vote with the Government and thereby give credence to the suggestion that the two groups were more or less affiliated, the result of the vote could be called a success from the point of view of the Opposition, but whatever satisfaction came to anybody as a result of this particular incident has more or less disappeared as a result of happenings on later dates when division after division saw the very unusual proceeding of the two old parties voting in unison against some resolution supported largely by the Progressives.

The McMaster Resolution.

One of the most outstanding divisions so far of the session resulted from the resolution introduced by Mr. McMaster, the Liberal member for Brome. This resolution, which was introduced in the session of last year, called for the discontinuing of the practice of Cabinet Ministers holding directorships in banks or other big institutions or corporations. The principle of the resolution was to prevent such corporations bringing undue influence to bear upon the Government on matters in which they are directly interested.

Mr. McMaster made out a strong case in support of his resolution and created a favorable impression upon the House for his courageous and conscientious stand on this question. He was ably supported by several of the Progressives, who were heartily in accord with the principle of the resolution that the Government should be as far as possible removed from the influence of the big interests.

Although strongly supported by his fellow Liberal members when he introduced his resolution a year ago, Mr. McMaster found that evidently the responsibilities of Government made a very considerable difference in the viewpoint of his friends with the result that he got absolutely no support from the Government side of the House.

This vote, while no doubt considered a Government victory in that the party Whip was able to successfully line up its members, had the effect of creating apparently a feeling of resentment to the practice of interfering with the right of the individual member to vote as he pleased with the result that upon the following day, when the Militia estimates were under discussion, a spirit of independence among the Government members was displayed, which was something new in the history of the Federal Government, and several times during the past few weeks the Government has been placed in a very embarrassing position more from the attitude assumed by its own members than by the attacks of the Opposition.

Signs of Independence.

We believe the entrance of the Progressive party has had much to do with the arousing of a more independent spirit in Parliament and, while so far the effect has not been so noticeable among the members of the party led by Mr. Meighen we believe the time is not far distant when the spirit of supporting each question on its merits, aside from any party advantage, will pervade this Parliament.

The Agricultural Committee, of which I am a member, has spent several weeks in the discussion of the re-establishment of the Wheat Board. This is a matter of gravest importance, especially to the people of Western Canada, who have every confidence in its ability to solve the problem of marketing their wheat. The question of its legality at the present time has been raised, and it has been found necessary to make some alteration in order that it may be able to operate under present conditions. The measure is being asked for as a temporary one until such time as the abnormal conditions prevailing in the West can be overcome. The measure has reached the stage where it has been passed in committee and will now be submitted to Parliament.

The whole question now has resolved itself into an argument as to whether or not such a board shall be "compulsory" or "voluntary," with the Western grower very firm in his position that nothing but a compulsory Wheat Board would be of any service. It is being somewhat strongly opposed by many members, largely on the principle that, in theory, the practice of compulsion is wrong.

At a later date, I hope to be able to deal with this question at length, presenting the arguments for and against this measure.

Prominent Visitors.

In concluding, I would like to refer to two very happy events in my experience of the past few days. One of these was the meeting with Lord Byng for, a short chat in his office here, preceded a few days earlier by attendance at a luncheon given by him at Rideau Hall. From the impressions I have received from these visits, I believe he is a real man, and sincerely interested in doing something of service to the people of Canada in his sojourn here.

Yesterday was a noteworthy day in the House, because of the presence of Lady Astor, the first woman M.P. in the British Parliament. At the invitation of the Speaker, we had the pleasure of making her acquaintance, and in the evening of hearing her address an immense gathering in the Russell Theatre.

The Ottawa papers describe this meeting as one of the biggest things Ottawa has seen for a generation. Her great and loving service to the wounded Canadian boys who enjoyed the hospitality of her home, placed her in a position of loving regard by every Canadian mother. Her brightness, ability and saneness appealed to everyone in the audience, and all felt that she had performed a great service in her mission to America. Yours truly,

G. A. BRETHEN,
M.P., East Peterborough.

QUIET HOLIDAY AT HASTINGS

Keen Interest in Baseball and Lacrosse—Hastings News.

HASTINGS, May 29. — The holiday passed off quietly in the village, the majority of the citizens spending the afternoon at the ball grounds where the games of ball and lacrosse were much appreciated.

Some of our people spent the 24th in Campbellford.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Samuel Scott was held on Friday afternoon from her late residence to the Norwood cemetery. Deceased, who had reached the advanced age of 76 years, had been ailing for some time. Mrs. Fred Dodd, of town, is a daughter and to her much sympathy is extended.

Ladies' Aid Met.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Geo. Richardson. After one business session, lunch was served and a good time socially enjoyed.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. McCormack of Toronto is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Sid Spooner.

Miss Pauline Burns of Lindsay, has been visiting Hastings friends.

Mrs. Doughty of Toronto, is spending a holiday in town.

Mr. E. J. Laing of Norwood spent Tuesday in town.

Miss Hazel Barry of Peterboro has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawkins.

BORN IN OTONABEE DIED IN TRAIL, B. C.

George F. Weir Climbed to Distinction in the West.

By the rather sudden death Tuesday, May 9, of George F. Weir, Trail, British Columbia, loses another old timer.

The late George F. Weir was born in Otonabee township, and after his father died he lived for a time with his uncle, J. Graham Weir, now resident in Peterborough city. He went to Trail in 1895, and had been associated with the smelter ever since. In the old days he was employed by the company as boss of the outside gang, and when the new company, the Consolidated, acquired the property, he was put in charge of the crusher and sampling works and has been foreman for the past 20 years.

Duroing his long residence he had been an active and public-spirited citizen and devoted much time to the service of the community.

Mayor of Trail for four consecutive years, from 1909 to 1921, some of the most important and permanent improvemnts to the city date back to his administration, the filling in of the waterfront on what is now the main street of Trail, Bay avenue, the building of the new reservoir and improvements of the water supply, the construction of the first section of the high school were public utilities inaugurated during his term of office as chief executive of the city.

He was very active in the Trail Fruit Fair association and was at one time president, while at the time of his demise he was its treasurer.

The late George S. Weir was a member of the Masonic order and the Oddfellows and was an active worker in both, and was also a member of the Presbyterian church.

He is survived by his wife and daughter and two sons, who saw service overseas, the third son having been killed in the air service during the war.

Repeat Performance.

The operetta, "Princess of Poppyland," was repeated for the third time to a large audience on Friday evening in the Opera House, following which an informal dance was held. Each presentation seemed, if it were possible, to eclipse the previous one, all those taking part seeming to most unconsciously and gracefully fill his or her part.

The piano for the occasion was most kindly loaned by Mr. A. L. Riendeau.

The "Princess of Poppyland" has been a decided success—very largely due to the untiring efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Cowell in directing and staging the entire play, and to whom the Agricultural Society feel deeply indebted.

Supreme as a Gift—
A compliment to any bride

HOLMES & Edwards Silverware is a gift which combines rare, enduring beauty with years of faithful service; it is a superb compliment to any bride.

The veritable glitter of precious gems—radiance of unusual beauty—that is the charm the exclusive Holmes & Edwards hand-burnished lustre will bring to her table.

And Holmes & Edwards yields the lasting satisfaction which comes only from the generous use of sterling silver. It is sterling silver's only competitor for wear.

In SILVER-INLAID, solid blocks of pure silver are set in on the back of the bowl and handle before plating, and in SUPER-PLATE, a heavy extra plating of silver is given to protect these points against wear.

High-class jewellers will show you the beautiful Jamestown Pattern, strikingly simple and artistic—as well as table appointments such as flower baskets, casseroles, pie plates, cake and bread trays—of the same high quality.

Winnipeg Man Was in Misery Day and Night From Rheumatism Before He Began Taking Tanlac. Hasn't a Twinge Left.

"When I started taking Tanlac I was almost down and out but now I'm strong enough to do any kind of work," said Joseph A. Hughes, 1518 Magnus Ave., Winnipeg.

"Sometime ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism and for ten days I could hardly move, much less get out of bed. When I got up I was so weak and in such pain I just could hobble around. My back hurt continually and my arms and feet ached all the time. I had headaches so bad I could hardly see could get but little sleep and was in misery day and night.

"But today I am well and strong and it's all due to Tanlac. I haven't an ache or pain in my body, feel fine all the time and have picked up several pounds in weight. I prize Tanlac above all other medicines."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

CHAPTER XLVIII
MIDNIGHT ARGUMENT

A terribdle shock, one of a practical and disagreeable nature, awaited us after that rehearsal. Those dishes!

To be confronted by kitchen confusion after a romantic night in Norseland! To have to wash dishes while planning to keep Bonny from eloping! To let Jack, for the twentieth time, take over my part of the business of home-making.

"This night has been a queer mixture of the prosaic and the esthetic! But how could I have cleared up this kitchen before I went to rehearsal?"

"You're so tired, Peggins! You go to bed. Let me clear up the kitchen," Jack coaxed.

But I was in a frame of mind to object to any proposition my husband might make.

"I'll do those dishes now! If they stand we'll have roaches! But they're not your work. I'll do them alone."

Jack calmly continued to rinse the plates under the hot water faucet.

"All right! Help if you want to! Even if it is midnight, they've got to be done," I went on. "There's another reason. You'll have to get your own breakfast in the morning, Jack!"

"Why—what did you say?" Jack was so astonished that he dropped his dish towel. It occurred to me that he never had got his breakfast in his life.

I'm going to the station at 7 in the morning," I announced as casually as if I were accustomed to meet an early train daily.

"Why—what for, Peggins"

"I'd rather not tell you, Jack. It's not my secret!"

Now there was no reason on earth why I should not explain everything to Jack. But I did not.

I excused myself to myself by saying that the rehearsal had been too much for me and washing dishes at midnight was irritating. But in my heart I knew that the reason I refused to say where I was going alone early in the morning— was Mrs. Herrods letter!

In that little matter my husband was living right up to our pre-nuptial agreement. He assumed I had no right to know that another woman was writing to him regularly. Well, then, if I had business at an early train I could attend to it without his assistance.

But next morning when I crawled out of bed and left poor dear Jack to make his own coffee, something seemed to be very much wrong with life.

Its raining, Peggins! Better let me do your errand for you," Jack suggested. "Or let me go along and carry your umbrella—"

"Impossible, Jack! It's not my affair. I told you that!"

I would not be reasonable, nevertheless I adored Jack because he wanted to take care of me. To be taken care of by Jack was fast becoming the most precious part of matrimony.

(To be Continued)

SOLDIERS GIVE A BIG PROGRAMME.

MONTREAL, May 29.—(Canadian Press).—There was a fine splash of color at the Mount Royal Arena here Saturday night on the occasion of the military tournament held under the auspices of the Royal Highlanders of Canada. The Royal Canadian Dragoons in full dress uniform with scarlet jackets, brass helmets with flowing horse hair, and yellow striped breechers; the Gentlemen Cadets of the Royal Military College, Kingston; the pipe band of the Highlanders in the kilt and feather bonnets, and infantrymen in scarlet jackets and white striking picture.

A very fine exhibitton of physical pith helmets, made up altogether a training exercise drill and a Balaclava Melee by the Dragoons constituted the programme.

They Want what they read about

The Merchant re-orders by Long Distance

The standards of living for the average family in Canada grow higher each year. The luxuries of yesterday are the necessities of to-day. People in the smaller towns and on farms want the newer things they read about.

Dry Goods Stores, Grocers, Shoe, Hardware and Paint Stores, in the smaller towns, all find they can show the newest things by carrying small stocks of them and re-ordering by Long Distance. The jobber or manufacturer's warehouse is at their elbow — their order departments are alert for telephone trade!

Shipments are often made the same day. Up-to-dateness of merchandise is no longer confined to the big city stores—and large sums are not locked up in stock.

Try it. Have a big store in a small town. "Use the Bell to Sell" — and to Buy. Most of your calls can probably be made at the lower Station-to-Station rate.
